Pay $5 Million Or We Block Roads--Farmers

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP) — Farmers in the Saguenay and Lake St. John region are blasting their lines today, ready to put up roadblocks if the federal and Quebec governments decline to pay them $5,000,000 for crop damage and losses from bad weather.

Joseph Bouchard, regional president of the Catholic Farmers' Union, which has some 3,300 members, said Tuesday night he received a telegram from F. C. Barry, deputy minister of agriculture in Ottawa, promising that the federal government will "participate in a program of aid to the farmers of the lower Lake St. John area depending on how the harvest turns out."

Mr. Bouchard said the executive of the union will seek "details from the federal and provincial governments concerning their respective positions." The farmers want preelse statements, he said, not "vague promises to go on."

In Quebec City, Premier Lesage said earlier that his government will not bow to threats of blackmail. If the farmers want him to understand their claims, they should come up with authentic figures as proof of their monetary losses, he said.

WILL BLOCK, UNLESS—

Last week, the farmers said that, unless they received a favorable reply to their demands by today, they would start blocking roads in the area with their trucks and tractors. They would also refuse to repay agricultural loans.

Alcide Courcy, Quebec minister of agriculture, recently announced provincial subsidies of $1,000,000 for farmers in the Saguenay and Lake St. John region as well as in the Abitibi area.

Raoul-Emile Dore, assistant secretary of the local farmers' union, said Tuesday that $400,000 of this amount would go to Abitibi. The farmers in the Saguenay and Lake St. John region also were promised and acted up that nobody can reason with them, he said.

Mr. Bouchard, speaking to members of the union executive, said that, in view of the telegram from Mr. Barry in Ottawa, there will be a meeting Thursday night to inform local section leaders of the situation. Any offer of $1,000,000 was not enough and would not be acceptable, he said.

Airman Killed When Car Strikes Tree

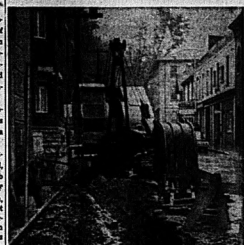
CAR WRECK on Highway 2 west of Belleville early today took life of airman and injured two others when automobile skidded on rain-slicked highway and hit tree.

An RCAF corporal — father of five children — died today when the automobile driven by a fellow airman crashed out of control west of Belleville and was wrecked against a tree.

Cpl. Norman Patrick Betts, 34, was dead on arrival at hospital after the accident in heavy rain on Highway 2 near Belleville cemetery.

Admitted to Belleville General Hospital was the driver of the car, Airman Frank Edson Porter, 7 Olive Street, Belleville. He was treated for concussion and scalp cuts and was under observation for other possible injuries.



The dead man's brother-in-law, William McLeod, 31, was released after treatment for a neck whiplash injury.

The accident occurred shortly before 4 a.m. as, police said, the men were driving home to Betts residence at the RCAF Middleton Park subdivision, after spending the evening at Porter's Belleville home. McLeod, currently stationed at Peterborough where he was employed by a plumbing company, was leisurely staying with his brother-in-law.

Police said the car apparently dropped off the edge of the road, skidded around on the rain-slicked highway and slammed against the tree. The passenger side took the force of the impact.

Betts was born in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia and joined the RCAF in his home province in 1953. His five children range in age from four to 12 years.

Rainfall Drowns Sewer Jobs

RAIN HALTS WORK ON CAMPBELL STREET

Belleville's big excavation and street-repair project was immobilized today as Quinte district residents slopped around in one of the year's heaviest rainfalls.

Up to noon almost an inch of rainfall had been recorded at the city's filtration plant after a persistent fallout that started in yesterday afternoon.

Ironically, the rains came as the city was in the midst of an ambitious storm-sewer project.

Trenches on Pinnacle and Campbell streets and road repairs on North Front street were temporarily abandoned.

"Rain this heavy pretty well stops work," said a public works official at city hall. Earth can't be removed in this weather and the holes fill up faster than they can be pumped out."

Elsewhere, business went on as usual — if a little soggier.

However, hope was in sight. Before noon the weatherman predicted clearing skies with a "sunny and warm" outlook for Thursday.

For what comfort it may bring, it wasn't the heaviest rainfall this summer. July 7 still holds the record with 1.28 inches.

Cabinet To Talk Election

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson was to meet his cabinet today for the first time since his election-inspiring western tour and the question of a fall vote was expected to dominate the discussions.

But sources doubted whether any announcement would be made after the meeting, set for 10 a.m. EDT. The prime minister is expected to devote some additional time to gathering the views of members of Parliament, party officials and organizers.

The views were reported to be flowing in freely following Mr. Pearson's nine-day western trip during which he appeared to bring a fall election to the brink of an announcement. He left little doubt in the minds of reporters and western party workers that an election campaign would begin shortly.

An announcement "one way or the other" could be expected within two weeks, he said last Thursday.

A qualified source said Tuesday that while the prime minister appears definite on a November election, no particular date has yet been picked. Nov. 8 has been the most-talked-about date. But this source said that if and when a fall election is definitely decided on, other dates will b considered.

Richard Thrasher, national organizer of the Progressive Conservative party, has said he was informed that Mr. Pearson

No Sign Canada Plans To Join American States

OTTAWA (CP) — Despite recent statements by Prime Minister Pearson, there is no indication Canada is seriously considering any move by him to join the Organization of American States.

Mr. Pearson, who has said for several years he favors the move, in principle, raised the subject anew during last week's western trip and used the words "before long" and "soon" to describe the timing he had in mind for Canada's entry into OAS.

Checks with knowledgeable external affairs department officials, however, indicate the prime minister was employing a historian's—if not a politician's—sense of timing in discussing the subject.

"You have to take these statements at their face value," said one external source, "but you shouldn't read anything imminent in them. There's no secrecy of developments lying under the water."

In fact, less than 24 hours before the prime minister addressed his Banff, Alta., audience, another member of the government publicly committed to Canadian membership in the hemispheric organization was throwing some cold water on the idea of early action.

External Affairs Minister Martin, speaking in Kitchener, Ont., said membership in OAS itself is not "all-important." He noted Canada already has joined five auxiliary organizations, implying that this step-by-step stroll into hemispheric affairs is a fast enough pace for the time being.

Mr. Martin a year ago described Canada's membership in OAS as "part of the ultimate destiny of Canada as a country of this hemisphere."

All in all, these statements seem to some observers to amount to little more than another round in what has become one of the busiest cheerleaders in Canadian foreign affairs!

The idea of this country joining OAS has been kicked about since the 1920s. In recent years, in particular, it has built to periodic peaks under both Mr. Martin and his pro-OAS predecessor, Howard Green, only to recede each time in the face of some new doubt-provoking Latin American crisis.

Under Mr. Green and the Conservative government, OAS membership was jarred by the Cuban crisis and fears that Canada would be confronted with a drive to isolate Premier Fidel Castro with which it did not wholly agree.

For the present administration, the main scare came with recent troubles in the Dominican Republic. In some Canadian eyes, these events showed, at the same time, both the ineffectiveness of the OAS and the constant pressure within it between U.S. and Latin American viewpoints.

"There was no encouragement for us in the Dominican situation," said one external source.

With actual OAS membership still caught in that apparently endless web of "active consideration," the likelihood appears to be more gradual links for Canada with South America, centred on subsidiary organizations, trade and possibly more personal contact at the ministerial level.

This country now belongs to five regional groups covering such subjects as statistics, geography and postal affairs, regularly sends observers to other hemispheric gatherings and has begun to participate indirectly in economic development through the Inter - American Development Bank.

Kashmir Forces Cross Truce Line

From AP-Reuters

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (CP) — Azad (Free) Kashmir forces have crossed the Pakistan truce line and captured two Indian posts, Devra and Chamb, six to eight miles inside the Indian-held territory of Kashmir, it was officially announced today.

(In New Delhi, an Indian defence ministry spokesman said Pakistan infantry supported by U.S. - made Patton tanks attacked Indian positions in the Chamb sector. The spokesman claimed three of the tanks were badly damaged.)

A spokesman for the Pakistan government in Rawalpindi said the had been close to breaking any further Indian aggression.

He said this situation had been forced upon Pakistan by continued Indian aggression across the truce line. "This has left us with no choice except to forestall their further aggressive moves," the spokesman said.

He added: "From today onward, we are in the fighting."

Crossing of the ceasefire line took place today "for the first time" and is a defensive action, the spokesman said.

The Pakistan government spokesman also said: "After a heroic fight, the Azad Kashmir forces have evacuated the Hajl Pir Pass and conceded it to the invading Indian troops because they had pushed into bat-

Schweitzer Seriously Ill

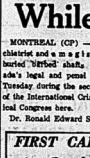
LAMBARENE, Gabon Reuters — Dr. Albert Schweitzer, world-famous doctor - philosopher, is seriously ill in his jungle hospital here, according to a friend who visited him.

The 90-year-old humanitarian, who gave up careers as a philosopher and musician to work in Equatorial Africa for the last half-century, had been described as "very tired" in the last week.

And Tuesday doctors at the hospital he established here said his condition was giving cause for alarm.

Mrs. Erika Mrs. Eckert Daurick, was at his bedside. Doctors said Dr. Schweitzer was in a comatose condition that he had only moments of consciousness left.

The Nobel Prize-winning Dr. Schweitzer celebrated his 90th birthday Jan. 14. He announced then he planned to retire in Africa for the rest of his life.



A year earlier he told his hospital associates: " I feel at times that I am ready to go, you until my dying breath."

Potential Killers Walk Streets While Far Too Many in Jails

MONTREAL (CP) — A psychiatrist and a magistrate buried verbal shafts at Canada's legal and penal systems Tuesday during the second day of the International Criminological Congress here.

Dr. Ronald Edward Stokes, a

FIRST CALL with Bonjella

"Furthermore. We proposed that everyone against whom sent company excluded, naturally."

Toronto psychiatrist, delivered a paper in which he said certain potential killers are free to walk the country's streets. Magistrate E. W. Kenrick of Haileybury, Ont., classed the prison system as a failure.

Magistrate Kenrick said in an interview that it is "obvious that our whole prison system has failed and that there are far too many people in our jails."

Dr. Stokes, assistant director of the forensic clinic of the Toronto Psychiatric Hospital, said borderline homocidal cases can roam about free as there are: no institutions to put them in, and no legal methods to force them to accept extended treatment if there were.

Magistrate Kenrick said present-day sentencing and clinical reports on accused persons were unrealistic "because one fast decision, like that of a surgeon holding a scalpel, can actually mean a person's life."

Dr. Stokes recommended that special centres for the border-line insane be set up to protect both the patient and society.

"During the four-year period that I have been giving psychiatric testimony in courts in Ontario," he said, "the psychotic murderer has been far less common that the murderer who falls within the borderline classification and fails to meet the requirements of legal insanity as defined in the Criminal Code.

"During a recent 12-month period at the forensic clinic, we have encountered 26 patients who, in the community whom we consider dangerous.

"If submitted to a mental hospital their stay would be brief . . . as the psychiatrist is loath to become involved in the custodial care and supervision of such an offender because the intractable nature of their condition suggests a long hospital stay."

Because of their belligerent nature, Dr. Stokes said, the borderline cases cannot mix with those who are fully insane without causing turmoil which prevents therapy to either group.

"Their involvement with the court would not provide for an appropriate sentence to detain them longer than six months in most cases."

Potentially delinquent children can be identified at the age of five or six when they first enter the school system, said a professor from the Harvard law school, Sheldon Glueck.

He said there are several factors which distinguish the delinquent.

Physically, delinquents are essentially mesomorphic in constitution", that is, solid, closely-knit and muscular.

Temperamentally, they are energetic, restless, impulsive, extroverted, aggressive and defiant and their attitude was not submissive to authority.

Psychologically they tended toward the direct and concrete rather than the symbolic and intellectual expression.

The major sociological factor is that they have been reared in homes of little understanding, affection, stability or parental moral fibre.

These conclusions, he said, are based on a study of 500 delinquent and 500 non-delinquent youths.

OAS Wins Full Agreement On Dominican Settlement

SANTO DOMINGO (AP)—The Organization of American States won a full agreement today terminating the four-month Dominican crisis.

The peace formula ensured the installation of a provisional government Friday as a first step toward general elections in nine months.

Rebel leaders cheered the peace plan. Heads of the armed forces, taking over after the rival civilian-military junta stepped aside, pledged full support of the provisional government.

The peace proposal was signed first by the insurgent regime behind rebel Jose Tom-day night. Then Dominican armed forces leaders, meeting at the headquarters of the junta, issued declarations of support for the peace plan and the provisional government.

The agreement followed nearly three months of peace efforts by the three-man OAS political committee of Ambassadors Ellsworth Bunker of the United States, Ramon de Clairmont Duenes of El Salvador and Ilmar Penna Marinho of Brazil.

The formula calls for a 44-year-old lawyer-diplomat, Hector Garcia-Godoy, to become president of the interim regime. He will be installed Friday.

Lawyers Divided on Proposal To Make Drinkers Take Tests

TORONTO (CP)—Lawyers of the Canadian Bar Association split Tuesday over the first reading of a breath-analysis machine should render a drinking driver guilty of a Criminal Code offence.

The association's annual convention heard considerable dissent from the official stand that a reading of 80 per cent of alcohol per 1,000 of blood be made unlawful under the federal legislation.

Discussed during a panel discussion, it could crop up at a business meeting later in the convention's session. The British Columbia section of the association opposes the governing council's policy.

Under the council proposal submitted to the Justice department last April, it would not only be an offence for a driver to have a red reading but it would also be an offence to refuse to take the breath test.

Breath tests are voluntary in most parts of the country, though Saskatchewan and New Brunswick make them compulsory. Here, there is no enabling level for automatic conviction.

John T. Weir, a Toronto lawyer who is vice-president of the CBA, upheld the council recommendation. He said that the CBA recommended last April to the justice minister to make it a federal crime for a 180-pound motorist to drive after consuming four average drinks of liquor.

Patrick Hartt, a Toronto criminal lawyer, led the dissenters. He said it would be a basic mistake to create crimes out of acts that most people think have no moral stigma attached to them.

Of the idea of making it an offence not to take the test, he commented:

"It would be a ludicrous situation if we prepared to send a man to jail because he won't blow into a balloon."

Caouette Ready For Campaign, Scandal Issue

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Creditiste Leader Real Caouette said Tuesday a November federal election would be ill-timed, but his party was ready for an all-out campaign on scandal and economic issues.

"The people of Quebec don't want any more scandals or scandalous persons in politics," he said in a telephone interview from Val d'Or, Que., where he was launching a three-week fence-mending tour of his Villeneuve constituency.

Mr. Caouette said his party will have a lot to say during the next campaign about the Lucien Rivard-Raymond Denis affair; the corruption charges against former cabinet minister portfolio Yvon Dupuis; and the Rosa Hal Bank; the resignation of Guy Rouleau as a Liberal MP and other "Liberal scandals."

Voters were "fed up" with both old parties and he was confident his Ralliement Creditiste would elect between 35 and 50 MPs, up from the present 13.

COMMENTS ON TIMING

Mr. Caouette said Prime Minister Pearson would demonstrate "pure political opportunism" if he called an election before redistribution of seats can be completed next year.

But his comments indicated he is raring to hit the campaign trail, after recovering from a bout with illness.

LONDON (CP)—The choir of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, Ont., filled the long nave and towering dome of St. Paul's Cathedral with sounds of praise in a stirring finale Tuesday to almost three weeks of singing regular services in London's chief church.

Prominent Church of England musicians, among a congregation of about 300 at the farewell evensong service in the cathedral, called on the Cambridge for five days of recitals by Kings College Chapel.

Choirmaster George Mayhew led the 32 boy and 24 men in Handel's exuberant Coronation Cantata, The King Shall Rejoice, as a climax to the singing of psalms and responses.

Dr. Gerald Knight, director of the Royal School of Church Music and London composer Herbert Howells were among musicians who congratulated Mayhew after the choir at the close of its visit here.

Dean William R. Matthews of St. Paul's, in his sermon at the Cathedral, and St. Paul's-previdies special inspiration.

"This choir sang the psalms in a way that made us realize they are poetry, often very dramatic poetry," he said, later.

"It has been splendid to have such a body of singers to enthusiastic about the music and the worship it is intended to express.

"The remarkable thing is that this choir consists of amateurs who perform on a professional level, on a high catholic level."

Dr. John Bower, organist and master choirster of St. Paul's, wrote to Dr. Mayhew praising his choir's "fine, full tone, the excellent ensemble, their sureness of pitch and indeed the whole feeling and musicality of style."

Several members of the choir remarked that the atmosphere of the places where they have been singing about a revival has Aug. 7—York Minster for five days, one service each at Westminster Abbey and Southwark Cathedral, and St. Paul's—pro-

15,000 Final Exam Papers Under Appeal

TORONTO (CP)—About 15,000 examiners are re-reading 16,000 final examination papers under appeal by disappointed Ontario Grade 13 students.

The deadline for appeals by students is today. It will take until mid-October to tabulate the results of all the appeals.

But Alfred W. Bishop, registrar of the Ontario education department, said Tuesday the re-examination won't make that much difference.

"We are convinced that when the appeals are all taken care of, the over-all picture will be about the same as in other years," said Bishop. Only 3 per cent of the Grade 13 students who write final examinations pass them, he said. Students pay $2 to have a paper re-read.

Re-examination marks came under more scrutiny than usual this year from students, parents and teachers. The Ontario Secondary School Headmasters Council appealed to the education department to explain a disparity in English marks, indicated by the fact that many students received higher marks on one English paper than on another.

PERCENTAGE IS TROUBLE

Mr. Bishop said he didn't know what percentage of the 15,000 appeals were for English. "The phrase 'low marks' has been used in reports referring to complaints about the English paper. This is not the complaint. The complaint is in connection with the percentage of failures. The high marks are still there, just as in former years," Mr. Bishop said.

He said the number of appeals has risen with the school population. There were only 2,977 appeals by students in 1955, but 12,813 last year.

Computers are used to compile the marks. After the papers are read, the mark is fed into a computer, along with the student's term marks. The combined mark is then compared to the special revising board, a permanent 14-man body composed of university and department representatives.

It examines each mark, and has the power to adjust where they think necessary. After the board's review, certificates are printed and mailed to the students.

Mr. Bishop said the same procedure is used on appeals.

Synod Seeks Revision Of Canons on Marriage

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP) — The strict canons against remarriage of divorced Anglicans are changed tonight by the church's reform - bent general synod.

This 32nd council of bishops, clergy and leading laymen has already taken a step toward union with the United Church and slimmed down its executive bodies for faster action and better planning.

A commission of the church proposes a new version and enlargement of ecclesiastical canons on marriage, not only making possible the remarriage of a person divorced, but making provision for marriage counseling and for services for new marriages in danger of failure.

The Diocese of Toronto, believing these proposals are too cumbersome, sets out a much simpler system. It gives to bishop or ecclesiastical court discretion to declare that a previous marriage had no serious marital validity in the church's eyes.

This declaration would permit remarriage.

A third proposal comes from church lawyers, who would make the decision of civil courts the basis of the church's decision on remarriage. A person found guilty of adultery in the court's ruling would not be allowed to remarry.

The church's deep division on remarriage is seen in the membership of the commission that formulated the canonical revisions. Their statement of disagreement puts it succinctly.

The majority of members believe the bible and the teaching of Christian doctrine of lifelong marriage is to carefully define exceptions to the rule prohibiting remarriage during the lifetime of a former partner.

He said the number of appeals has risen with the school population. There were only 2,977 appeals by students in 1955, but 12,813 last year.

Computers are used to compile the marks. After the papers are read, the mark is fed into a computer, along with the student's term marks. The combined mark is then compared to the special revising board, a permanent 14-man body composed of university and department representatives.

It examines each mark, and has the power to adjust where they think necessary. After the board's review, certificates are printed and mailed to the students.

Mr. Bishop said the same procedure is used on appeals.

TRENTON — In weekly police court yesterday Arthur Ellis of Trenton, insisted on paying a stiff fine for driving a car without insurance and failing to notify the Department of Transport the change of ownership.

On the other hand Magistrate T. V. Wills insisted that the 20-year-old town workman reconsider and seek legal assistance "I'm not happy at all about you pleading guilty for somebody else's offences, the police officer pointed out, and he accused to "think this over" before making a decision. There is a good chance the charges against you will be dropped if you can substantiate the story of your business, His Worship observed. "If I did I'd just get somebody else "in trouble" Ellis replied, showing willingness to take the blame.

Solicitant to entertain Ellis' application Magistrate Wills reserved him to pay $97 into court within a month. The alternative he was told is jail.

COSTLY TO PRACTICE

Downtown Trenton is an expensive place to practice drag racing and endeavor to impress people in the street with one's ability to "wheel" a powerful hot-rod car like a big time operator.

John Arthur Horsley, 17, of R.R. 2 Hilton Beach road was yesterday when he was fined $35, including costs, for a careless driving offence.

The youth with a friend as passenger was picked up in the municipal parking lot on Front Street after a policeman on foot patrol near the town bridge noticed an unusual driving display on the main thoroughfare about late night August 7. The oval being used by the pair lies between Albert Street and the government dock. Constable Douglas Bradshaw testified screeching tires he heard from a point by the old post office first attracted his attention and then he observed a car slew to the right and begin to turn into the wharf area. He called to patrolmen in the cruiser after the car had lapped the circle once and was into its second time around, he told the court.

Early Frost Destroys Third of Tobacco Crop

MONTREAL (CP) — Early frost has destroyed about one-third of Canada's tobacco crop, Quebec, the Imperial Tobacco Co. said Tuesday.

The company spokesman said the loss, confined to the Joliette region 85 miles north of Montreal, will amount to 20 pounds of Jobacco valued at more than $1,000,000.

The spokesman said earlv morning temperatures dropped to 28 degrees Tuesday. Since Sept. 16, 2,000,000 pounds of tobacco had been harvested. The frost destroyed half of the remaining 4,000,000 pounds, the fortnight's good weather would be needed to bring in the rest of the crop.

About 120 growers, each with an average of 35 acres, were affected, the spokesman said. They were not covered by a crop insurance plan.

The total annual crop for Canada was 180,000,000 pounds. The spokesman said he believed there had been a slight frost in the Ontario growing region Saturday, but that damage had been slight.

AYLMER, Ont. (CP)—Frost damage to tobacco in the Burgessville area Monday was estimated at between 1,000,000 to 1,200,000 pounds by J. S. Robertson, assistant manager of Imperial Leaf Tobacco.

"It's a pretty fair loss for this time of year," he said.

At last year's average price of 56 cents per pound the loss ranges up to $700,000.

Mr. Robertson said the area hit was centred north of Windham Centre, covering Burford, Harley, Princeton and Scotland, west and south of Brantford.

J. F. Sanderson, Former CP Staff Member, Dies

TORONTO (CP)—J. F. Sanderson, public relations adviser of the Canadian Bankers' Association and before that one of Canada's best - known newspaper men, died Tuesday after a long illness. He was 67.

His death from cancer came at a time when he was working for the association on its studies of revisions of the Bank Act, to replace this year. More than 20 years ago when he was with the association one of his first jobs was on the 1944 Bank Act revision proceedings.

Born at St. Marys, Ont., Mr. Sanderson was the son of E. G. Sanderson, Liberal member of Parliament for Huron - Perth, later Perth, from 1925 to 1940 and deputy Speaker of the Commons from 1935 to 1940.

He was educated at Ridley College, St. Catharines, Ont., and worked for three years in the printing and advertising business in Toronto before becoming his newspaper career at London, Ont., with the old Advertiser in 1926.

After three years as a reporter at London, Mr. Sanderson joined the Canadian Press news agency in Toronto. He joined Reuters in 1935 as Queen's correspondent, was parliamentary correspondent at Ottawa for eight years, a member of CP's overseas staff at London through the crisis years of 1938-41 period, foreign affairs writer at New York for six months, then Washington correspondent until 1943.

LEFT NEWSPAPERS

He left the newspaper profession in 1943 to join the Canadian Bankers' Association and was appointed public relations adviser in 1945. He was credited with him into close touch with editors of Canada's daily and weekly newspapers and was also a familiar and well-liked figure at their national conventions across the country.

As a reporter, Mr. Sanderson covered some of the major Canadian and international stories on the pre-war and early-war years. He spent up to nine months at a time reporting activities of the Aberhart government in Alberta in 1936 and was an authority on Social Credit theories and practices.

He arrived in England at the height of the upsurge of Nazi Germany and his early assignments included the entrance of Berchtesgaden and Munich conferences. He was parliamentary correspondent in London when Winston Churchill succeeded Neville Chamberlain as prime minister and director of one of the British wartime leader's most famous speeches.

Mr. Sanderson arrived in Washington shortly before the 1941 Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and wrote from the United States capital during the early part of United States participation in the Second World War.

An outdoors man, Mr. Sanderson fished most of the best-known streams and lakes in Canada from Nova Scotia to the Vancouver island. Books were his other major hobby and his collection of Canadiana was one of the finest private collections in Canada.

Married in 1929 to Doris Hodgins of Mooseomin, Sask., he is survived by his wife, a son Colin of Toronto and two daughters, Mrs. Norman (Ann) Creighton of Montreal and Joan of Vancouver.

A private funeral service will be held Friday.

C. M. Feltman of North Bay, president of the Canadian Managing Editors' Conference, paying tribute to Mr. Sanderson said he exemplified "the understanding which we who have the job of presenting the news and those in the business and industry are striving to create in our joint efforts to bring about a well-informed public."

"We news people will always accord him a special place in our memory," he said.

William Teller of Toronto, managing director of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association, said that "while his business responsibilities necessitated his close interest in the medium, he went far beyond the requirements of his office."

"He was as ready to assist a publisher as to quietly criticize inaccuracies in reporting or editorial comment."

Deficit Below Estimate

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's 1964 - 65 deficit, originally forecast nearly 18 months ago as running to $455,000,000, has finally been reported at exactly $7,964,765.

Finance Minister Gordon reported Tuesday night that another $50,000,000 swelled the government's coffers at the end of the fiscal year, just before the books closed March 31.

He made his original $455,000,000 deficit forecast in his budget speech to the Commons on March 16, 1964, and when he presented this year's budget on April 20 he said revenues were running ahead of all expectations because of the economy's buoyancy. He then forecast the deficit at $80,000,000.

Mr. Gordon's treasury statement Tuesday with final figures for the 1964-65 fiscal year, showed revenues of $5,360,787 and expenditures amounting to $7,218,374,552. This left a net deficit of $1,857,013,765 compared with the previous year's deficit of $619,197,480.

Mr. Gordon also made public a statement of the government's assets and liabilities as of March 31, showing a net debt of $15,504,472,544. This compared with $15,070,149,452 at the end of the previous fiscal year.

Principal tax revenues in 1964-65 (with 1963-64 amounts in brackets) were: Personal income tax, $2,132,281,917 ($1,865,073,635); corporation profits tax, $1,523,814,601 ($1,258,957,-); sales tax, $1,204,609,304 ($946,054,797).

Principal expenditures were: Defence, $1,048,616; defence production and industry, $1,585,-642,748 ($1,726,031,712); interest on the public debt, $1,031,007,-143 ($954,543,790); national health and welfare, $1,297,586,-229 ($1,203,854,597); transport department, including air services and Canadian National Railways deficit $466,947,594 ($423,257,874).

Newspaper Excellent Guide To Teaching Says Visitor

Sister Mary Fleurette shows the diploma she received from the University of Waterloo for attending the two-week Workshop sponsored by the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association for the purpose of studying the use of the newspaper as a classroom aid in teaching.

"There isn't one subject taught in our schools that couldn't benefit from the use of the newspaper as a teaching guide."

This was the opinion of Sister Mary Fleurette, Belleville, who has just arrived home from a two-week Newspaper-Classroom Workshop at the University of Waterloo. She was sponsored by the Intelligencer.

The aim of the Workshop, which was sponsored by the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association, was to acquaint teachers and school officials with the role of newspapers in a free society, to teach how to use newspapers in the classrooms more effectively and to prepare local leaders capable of increasing co-operation between schools and newspapers in the development of a better informed citizenry.

"Newspapers have taken on a new significance in our time now," Sister Fleurette said. "Those men from the newspapers were not thinking purely of the economics of promoting newspaper reading, but most of them are parents, have children of their own at school, and they're truly interested in improving the standard of education in Canada."

Sister Fleurette teaches Grade 11 and 12 English, Grade 13 history, some religion in Construction classes, and she is responsible for the year book and the school paper at Loyalist College. She has taken six courses in Journalism at the Marquette School of Journalism, Milwaukee.

"I always have used newspapers in my classroom," she said, "but after attending the workshop I've found so many more ways to use them."

Forty-nine teachers from every province except Prince Edward Island and Quebec attended the seminar. They were addressed by prominent newspaper publishers, editors and writers, who discussed the paper and its functions with the teachers.

WORKED HARD

Denis Grayburn of the Kitchener - Waterloo Record said, "There was a tremendous load on the part of the newspapers. School children who use newspapers in the classroom have much more likely to become knowledgeable and permanent newspaper readers in later life.

"But there was no attempt to tell teachers how to use the newspapers in the classroom. That was done by fellow teachers already using newspapers in their classes.

Sister Fleurette said, "We worked very hard at the seminar. There wasn't one lecture I didn't profit from. We also gained valuable information by informal discussions among ourselves.

"Ray Heed, from the English Department at the Toronto District High School, gave an excellent talk on the uses of the newspaper in the classroom.

"He suggested such things as comparing the same story in two different newspapers to learn the difference in word usage and comprehension of facts. He also said he likes to have his students write resume sheets answering want ads in newspapers. These sheets were for classroom use only, but it helped the students realize what employers are looking for and what opportunities are available in the want ads."

Sister Fleurette said that other speakers suggested various ways to use the newspaper in the classrooms. "Reviews of movies and live theatre can be used to advantage to compare the play being studied in class," she said. "Pieces of humor, such as the morning sickness can be cut out and used to start the day off on the right foot.

MANY USES OUTLINED

"One speaker suggested having the students examine news papers for a particular kind of vocabulary, such as war words or political words, and after collecting them for two weeks, the students could write an essay using the words. This way, they are not only learning the words, but they are also learning the history behind the words.

"There are so many uses for the newspaper. Students can discuss the validity of the content of the comics, they can give their reactions to different pictures and see the story behind the pictures. Newspapers are invaluable for composition ideas and precise writing.

"Students can choose their favorite sports figure from the newspaper, or chose the one they dislike the most, and write a poem or a composition on it.

"They can also predict the outcome of a certain event which entails a long series of articles, such as the Vietnam conflict. By doing this, they will keep informed with the world and be more aware of things going on around them."

The seminar officials advocated the use of the newspaper in the classrooms beginning at the grade seven or eight level.

"One of the most inspirational uses of the newspaper," Sister Fleurette said, "was outlined by the teacher of an all - girl slow learners class. She used newspapers to teach her girls health lessons. She had them compare price lists in various ads to help teach them how to budget properly. She cut out two pictures, one of a well-dressed girl, the other of a sloppily dressed one, and pasted them up on the board with the simple caption, "Which one would you prefer to dress like?"

MANY SOCIAL EVENTS

"Another teacher who started a Business and Commerce course in his high school did not have a text and he used the newspaper exclusively to teach his subject."

The seminar was not all work. The teachers were treated to a visit to the Stratford Theatre to view Chekov's "Cherry Orchard." They visited Niagara Falls, St. Catharines, Adam Beck's Power Plant and Niagara-on-the-Lake.

The teachers were taken on a tour of the Toronto Telegram building, they enjoyed a luncheon at the Royal York, they were taken through the Toronto Stock Exchange — "I really had my eyes opened up there," said Sister Fleurette said. "It was a whole new education for me. Now I can pass along to my students — and they were guests at the grandstand show at the Canadian National Exhibition.

"The whole seminar was invaluable to me," Sister Fleurette said. "I think the newspaper is a definite asset to any teacher and I plan to make much greater use of it than I did before."

Sister Fleurette and the other teachers at the Workshop were presented with a diploma from the University of Waterloo recognizing their attendance there.

Negro Youth Jailed Month For Assault on Constable

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A month's jail term was given Dennis Harris, a 17-year-old Negro from Amherstburg, Ont., Tuesday, following an assault on a police constable.

The constable testified that when he started to the raceway, the owner—Alfred Pare—had a bleeding nose. Mr. Pare told him he had been in a fight with Larry Hurst, 18, also a Negro from Amherstburg.

Constable Dalpee said he was about to speak to Hurst when a melee started and he was struck on the head by a belt wielded by Harris.

Mr. Pare said a number of white and colored youths were at the raceway at the time of the incident. He agreed with a suggestion by Harris that Mr. Pare's decision to bar some of the customers was aimed at Negroes only.

WASN'T RACIAL

Magistrate Gordon R. Stewart, in passing sentence, said the incident did not arise as the result of racial discrimination.

A charge that Hurst also assaulted the constable was dismissed.

The scuffle at the raceway was blamed by Negro community leaders on the two 25 miles south of Windsor for a week of disturbances that followed the arrest of the two youths.

A gasoline-soaked cross was burned at a second intersection, anti-Negro telephone calls were received by a number of the town's 300 Negroes, and racially antagonistic slogans were written on walls.

Police have blamed the incidents on "punks."

A committee was formed recently to investigate the incidents.

U.N.'s Decline

A gradual weakening of the influence of the United Nations has been evident in recent months. One example is its impotence over the war in Vietnam, where the conflict continues unabated and the only peace feelers being made stem not from the U.N. but from Washington.

The United States is partly to blame for the undermining of the U.N. One Washington correspondent, Jan Moffitt, has gone so far as to say President Johnson and his aides are displaying open contempt for the United Nations and privately criticizing Secretary-General U Thant.

Moffitt believes the rivalry of the world's big nations "once again is becoming the basis of international law and government, with power (not peace) the operative word."

He cited three appeals in less than a week by U Thant, urging the big powers to cease bypassing and undermining the United Nations. In one, the Burmese U.N. leader said: "For various reasons the role of the United Nations has been ignored or avoided in the settlement of some recent disputes, a definite reversal of the slow progress the United Nations has made toward world stability and world peace."

To a large extent U Thant's hands are tied by the terms of the U.N. Charter, drawn up 20 years ago when the two big powers reigned supreme and now ineffective at a time when a third world of small Afro-Asians nations has come into being and is exerting considerable influence on power politics.

Overhaul of the U.N. Charter is regarded as essential if the world organization is to maintain its influence. Meanwhile U Thant is said to be feeling the strain of these pressures and may well step down when his term expires next year. Whoever may succeed him will be heir to a thankless task.

Canada Ignored

A Canadian professor long domiciled in the United States recently expounded an interesting political theory to writer Bruce Hutchinson. "Just suppose, said this gentleman after his long experience in the United States, that anti-Canadianism was as strong there as anti-Americanism is here.

"In that case," Hutchison went on, "the American government would be constantly lecturing the government of Canada on its foreign policy, deploring its shameful failure to foreign aid and denouncing its mistreatment of Quebec, the Indians, the Eskimos, the Doukhobors and the poor . . . Sermons on international morality would pour out of Washington as they now pour out of Ottawa . . . Agitated professors would hold seminars and students would demonstrate violently on the Canadian problem.

"But as my visitor remarked, the process would not end with talk and gestures. If the American political system were as hostile as ours seems to be these days, sermons would be followed by sanctions.

"Without violating a single treaty, without even violating the American executive and legislature would bankrupt Canada tomorrow. They need only stop, or diminish, the flow of American capital northwards to pay our grocery bills and we would be broke."

And here is the crux of this startling professorial theory, as interpreted by writer Hutchison, who is one of Canada's most distinguished commentators: "Fortunately, the Americans never hear of their neighbors' resentment. We complain and they don't take us seriously. We are granted but it is lucky they do. For if they could hear the squeaking and gibbering from the higher intelligentsia north of the border the reaction would be instantaneous and devastating.

"Instead, the poor, ignorant Americans go about their business, wisely or unwisely, imagining that they must concern themselves with troublesome nations all over the earth but need not bother about the solid, friendly, sensible Canadians," Hutchison concludes.

To which there is really nothing we can add, except perhaps the apt heading on the Hutchison article, which appeared in The Vancouver Sun. It read: "We Are Ignored—Thank Heaven."

"I'm fed up with all the begging letters, the proposals of marriage and all the friends I've suddenly found. All I want is a little peace and quiet, and the only way I shall get it is to leave the country."—Mabel Phillips, small boy collector in her 70s who won $260,000 in a football pool.

---

This is the true joy in life, the being used for a purpose recognized by yourself as a mighty one; the being thoroughly worn out before you are thrown on the scrap heap; the being a force of Nature instead of a feverish selfish little clod of ailments and grievances complaining that the world will not devote itself to making you happy. —George Bernard Shaw.

A Look at the Civil Service

Montreal Gazette

The strike of the postal workers and the subsequent raising of pay for them, and elsewhere in the civil service, should lead to some serious rethinking about the Canadian civil service itself. It is time to look at the civil service in a modern way. Of course, some degree of modernization has taken place over the years. But the old concepts and practices of the civil service die hard. Some of them have not begun to die.

For generations "a government job," at least at certain levels, was regarded as offering incomparable security. This was its unrivalled attraction for those by whom security was rated above all other considerations. Once in the civil service, you would never be out. Standard of performance would not matter too much. For would the supervisors have too much power of supervision. It would be possible to job along, till pension day.

This unrivalled security was not to be had without a price. And the price, generally admitted, was relatively poor pay. It was not that the civil servant was particularly harried with his pay. But he admitted, readily enough, that the almost absolute security was worth much. You couldn't have it both ways.

And there were other kinds of security in the civil service. At a time when such benefits as pensions and sick leave with pay were rare in private employment, they were part of the civil service's regular advantages. And big advantages they were.

But the old concepts of the civil service have become more and more outdated. The element of security, as well as pensions and sickness insurance and other such matters are concerned, is no longer the distinctive characteristic of the civil service; it is a feature of private employment also. But some of the other aspects of security, especially practical immunity from dismissal, have become increasingly indefensible.

Today the government has come to do more and more things. It has become necessary that it should do them more and more efficiently. The traditional way of looking at a "government job" — a sort of haven, poorly paid, but sheltered, is no longer admissible.

As the Royal Commission on Government Organization — the Glassco Commission — said in its report in 1962, some of the bad old features of the civil service remain. Freedom from dismissal is so great as almost to provide protection for inefficiency. As the Glassco Commission said: "Dismissal for misconduct or incompetence is so rare in the public service today as to constitute evidence that the power is insufficiently employed. The obstacles to exercising it, even in clearly justified cases, are great."

There is little provision for the payment of salaries in relation to the quality of their performances, and therefore little incentive to excel. The supervisors, even the senior supervisors, are accorded little scope for the exercise of authority or independent judgment. "At every point," said the report, "zealous restrictive legislative prescription and the generally-held philosophy that supervisory discretion is evil to be guarded against, have inhibited proper supervisory performance within departments and agencies."

And so for the regulations that such have, experience tends to show that "too many employees view the present plan as creating entitlement to additional annual leaves without too close a link to the justification of labour."

Relatively poor pay and an almost fatalistic degree of security was the old pattern of the past. But it was, even in the past a poor concept. Under today's conditions it is an anachronism. With rising pay the security of the affluent should be in no way impaired. But the inefficient should have to earn their rising pay by a rising standard of performance, and in no other way. The obstacles to weeding out the inefficient should no longer be such that they could be described as "great," and "even in clearly justified cases."

The civil service cannot be brought up to date in one way and not in another. It has to be modernized throughout. If the employees are not to wait for too long, or if the public is not to pay too much for the performance it gets.

Cartier was convinced that gold mines were to be found in the kingdom of the Saguenay and spent all his time, when not exploring or recruiting settlers, looking for them. His took mineral specimens back to France but contributed to coal politics also. But some of the other aspects of security, especially practical immunity from dismissal, have become increasingly indefensible.

Severity No Deterrent To Crime

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

One of the constant delusions of mankind — despite all historical proof to the contrary — is the belief that the way to decrease crime is to increase the severity of punishment.

A newspaper which has for years been indefatigable in more stringent treatment of criminals, ran a plaintive and puzzled story the other day — to the effect that even though our judges had a record year in disposing of cases and handing out prison sentences, the crime rate had rocketed alarmingly.

"A credulous public," the judges on robbery, the most prevalent crime," the story said, "along with a virtually total end of probation or leniency for armed robbery, failed to slacken the increase in cases on the docket."

Armed robbery alone increased 30 percent this year, while at the same time the courts cut probation in half. And, even though the judges disposed of more cases than ever before, the new cases ran about twice as many impending indictments as a year ago.

Nothing like myself have been saying for years that more severe punishments do not deter or diminish crime.

In the middle ages, when it was a capital crime to steal a horse, just as many horses were stolen — and the horsekeepers were murdered to boot. You can only hang once.

What the hardheaded "practical" men fail to realize is that the inclination to commit crime affects the general level of public morality, and that crime, like revolution, is not cured by punishing the offenders as much as by relieving the causes. Harsh laws make more resentful criminals, just as harsh governments breed dangerous revolutionaries.

England, for instance, has a far criminal rate, not because the punishment is strict, but because it is swift, certain and impartial. British courts do not have a split-level of behavior.

America, on the other hand, is notoriously the land of the fix and the drag, a sliding scale of punishment (depending on your acquaintance with a good con hire), and often crass political interference in the administration of justice.

Moreover, we secretly or cravenly admire the man who can "pull a fast one"; the British despise him as a bounder who is worse in their eyes than by the rules of the game. Our standards or conduct are measured more by success than by the method of arriving there.

Our criminals, beginning with the very young, are not afraid about the word "justice," because they can play slickly see how often it is thwarted and perverted in the so-called "respectable" world. When people become better, they will become fewer.

Beauty Contest

Buffalo Evening News

The city of Naples, Fla., is not exhilarated by the everyday facts of life. It advertises a beauty contest for women of 40 — no more, no less. Don't the promoters know that there is no such thing? Women on the approach to 40 never cross 39 until they are ready to admit passing 45. As usual, the contest is supposed to promote tourism. What will Naples do if nobody shows up for the title?

Flu Epidemics Compared To Unpredictable Tornadoes

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Flu outbreaks, in a way, are like tornadoes. We can't tell positively when they will strike, but we can, by dint of a lot of study, figure out when they might occur.

The U.S. Public Health Service issued a warning recently that the coming winter may bring quite a bit of flu. By quite a bit, I mean, and so does the U.S.P.H.S., that an epidemic is likely. But conditions are right for flu.

However, they are not the same each everywhere. In places which had a lot of flu last winter, there is no expectation of more this year. Flu runs in cycles. It hits. People get it, and then develop temporary immunity. As the immunity wears off, we have to look for a new outbreak.

Flu isn't like smallpox. It is not that deadly. Neither does it build such long-lasting immunity among those who have it but recover. Instead, flu doesn't strike as dangerously, but it strikes oftener. In the long run, flu claims many-lives. It has more chances to attack each of us.

So we have good reason to do what we can to avoid it.

What to do about it? Have a vaccination. Or have two, depending on whether you had one last year.

Those who especially should have flu shots are those who are in rather feeble health already, the older folks, or those with chronic ailments, particularly heart, lung or respiratory, since an attack of flu is more dangerous for them. Pregnant women should have them. So should those whose professions are important to society — nurses, policemen, doctors, key executives, and others whose temporary absence because of flu might be costly to the community.

If you have not had a flu vaccination for more than last year or so (since July, 1963 the Health Service suggests), you should have a new shot of flu vaccine.

Have the first one in this month and the second one about 60 days later.

Those who did have shots last year, or have had the vaccine once a year for two or more years, should be adequately protected by having a booster shot this fall.

But even if you haven't had flu vaccine within the last year or thereabouts, and especially if you are in one of the groups who should take precautions to avoid flu, right now is the time to get vaccinations for your first shot, to be followed by a second.

If you have kept up yearly shots, now is a good time to have a booster.

The shots won't prevent all your colds, grippe, sniffles and so on, but they will prevent or modify the "hard cases" of flu, the ones that put you to bed, or threaten your life.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been taking six brewer's yeast tablets a day. Lately I have been noticing superfluous hair on my face. I am 60. Could the yeast cause this? — Mrs. A. M.

It's not the yeast; it's being 60, plus yeast, naturally.

Dear Dr. Molner: Are all boils caused by staph infection? How can one get rid of staph? — Mrs. F. F.

Probably not all boils are from that kind of germ, but most of them are. To "get rid of staph" (this is a staphylococcus infection) isn't too difficult most of the time. The first rule is to prevent secondary (and germs) from the boil from getting onto other parts of the skin and starting new infections.

Your doctor can prescribe antibiotics, but you can keep boils covered, can avoid touching them and then with your fingers perhaps carrying germs to a new area.

Helping Kids Wax Part of the Job

Editor,

The Intelligencer

In Friday's issue of The Intelligencer on the front page is a report from the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation, Algonquin Park.

It is entitled "Teacher thinks galoshes' polling beneath dignity." Mrs. H. H. Outram of Stanley Creek, president of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation, has this to say: "I believe the status of a professional person is judged by the attack of flu he is prepared to do." If you do up galoshes, you are not adding much to your status."

He goes on to say that the board of governors (I guess he means, of the Men Teachers' Federation) will vote today on a resolution calling on the Provincial Education Department to provide extra adult supervision of school children before 8.30 a.m. and during lunch and after school.

If that is the attitude of the Men Teachers' Federation, they should step out of a dedicated profession, and go into the realms of mechanical business, where no regard for the needs of small children would be required to lower their stature.

Since when has education attained a status that is lowered by putting on galoshes for a child in Grades I or II?

I was a teacher in a rural school where one teacher took care of Grades I to VIII. It was just part of the day's work to unwrap and wrap up the small ones. Not only galoshes, but mating them up, also mittens, coats and scarves. I never considered it beneath my education, and I'm willing, and I cannot believe the Men Teachers' Federation would get any support from the Women Teachers' Federation. It was a thing I should do to bridge the gap between the shelter of home and the rough house of school for a little child of Grades I and II.

The extra expense involved to put galoshes on could be put to better advantage in some other provincial field. Education in Ontario is plenty expensive to the average taxpayer as it is.

A Teacher Who Loved Her Job.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 1st, 1945

Apparently running into a snag in their efforts to install the site originally selected, the site committee of the Belleville Chronic and Convalescent Hospital at a special meeting decided to request the Ontario Department of Health authorities in an effort to secure a suitable location for the new institution.

It was decided to forward an invitation to the Ontario Minister of Health, and members of the department hospitals supervisory staff, to come here at some future date. Here the Minister and his staff will be joined by the site committee, executive members of the Women's Christian Association and the Belleville General Hospital Board with a view to inspecting potential sites for the new hospital. It is hoped that this arrangement will result in something of a concrete nature insofar as the selection of a site is concerned.

30 YEARS AGO

September 1st, 1935

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Campbell, West Bridge Street, have returned from a pleasant cruise from Montreal to Quebec and New York and return on the steamer Duchess of Atholl.

Officers and committees have been elected by the newly organized Belleville Rugby Football Club: president, J. C. St. Laurin; vice president, Dr. W. C. Morgan; executive committee, Dr. Ross Thompson, Jr., Ross Thompson, Frank Dominico, Charles Dolan, Newton Thompson, J. Ryan; coach, Lawrence Fry; manager, Fry states that the O.R.F.U. has promised Belleville an adequate grouping in a new league. Lake Shore Group embracing Big Bam and thus with your fingers perhaps carrying germs to a new area. Belleville as positive starters along with Lindsay and an amalgamated team from Port Hope and Cobourg if possible. Dr. E. G. Kennedy, late attached physician to McMaster University has kindly agreed to act as coach.

40 YEARS AGO

September 1st, 1925

Mrs. Grisette and daughter Daisy, have left for their home in Santiago, California, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ling, Ivanhoe Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Ridley entertained at a corn roast last evening at their cottage on Moira Creek and about 70 persons assembled around the fire. The entertainment in the evening were Messrs. Dolan, Doolittle and White and the community singing led by Mrs. Hodgson, Belleville Market Prices:

Corn 10-15 cents per dozen; carrots 5c per bunch; peas 5c per bushel; onions, beets, radishes, carrots and other vegetables 5c per bunch; lettuce 5c per bunch; eggs 32-35 cents per dozen; butter 40 cents per pound; Crawford peaches 50 cents a basket for seconds and $1 to $1.20 per basket for first grade.

50 YEARS AGO

September 1st, 1915

A number of local orchards in this district are preparing to give another day's make of apples to the Belleville and District Campbellford, Stirling and Trenton Agricultural Society. The show has fallen into line with other branches of the society.

Mr. C. H. Ketchenon of Sidney Township was a successful competitor in the field crop contest at the Canadian National Exhibition. He took first prize for barley in division two, and second for sheaf of oats in division two.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Cole of Cape Vincent are visiting friends here.

Mrs. Herbert Vandervoort and daughters of Trenton are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Moxam.

Quick Pole?

Vancouver Sun

What possible excuse Mr. Pearson can invent for an election before the nation's obsolete and preposterous electoral boundaries are overhauled remains to be seen. In practical politics such considerations don't weigh heavily. No government has ever allowed them to stand in the way of its convenience. And every application of convenience points to a quick poll without waiting for an issue requiring the voters' judgment or not. Actually there is no specific issue at the moment and constitutionally no election need be called until 1968.

Gunnar Mining's climb of 11 cents to $2.02 was the feature of a slow market Tuesday.

Gunnar traded as high as $2.06 and as low as $1.75. After the close of trading the company said its construction division, McNamara Corp., had lost $8,700,000 in the seven months ended July 31, but that it hoped "present difficulties will be resolved."

It added that the 20-cent dividend payable Oct. 1 will be made.

The statement was issued on the urging of the Toronto Stock Exchange after Gunnar stock fell from $4.75 to less than $2 about 10 days ago.

Meanwhile, another company with financial problems of a different kind took a small loss. United New Fortune fell 3½ to 16½ cents. In a statement to the exchange, the company said:

"...Substantial funds appear to have been improperly removed from the company's treasury, and efforts are being made to trace down the funds and recover their return."

Speculative mining issues were almost all lower.

Letter Produced Said Apology From States

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew today produced a letter which he described as an apology from U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk for improper American activities in Singapore.

Lee said the letter, dated April 15, 1961, referred to an incident in 1960 when the Singapore government allegedly caught a U.S. Central Intelligence Agency man trying to bribe a local intelligence officer.

The prime minister first made reference to the incident Monday in a special broadcast in which he was quoted as saying he would not allow U.S. bases in Singapore because the Americans "lack depth and judgment."

The alleged bribe attempt was denied Tuesday by U.S. authorities here and today Lee showed correspondence in the matter. It read:

"Dear Mr. Prime Minister: I am deeply distressed to learn that certain officials of the United States government have been found by your government to have been engaged in improper activities in Singapore.

"I want you to know that I regret very much that this unfortunate incident has occurred to mar the friendly relations that exist between our governments. The new administration takes a very serious view of this matter and intends to review the activities of these officials for disciplinary action."

WOULD SELL SILENCE

Lee said that at the time he had told the U.S. government he would keep quiet about the incident and let the man go if they paid $100,000,000 Malaysian —about $33,000,000 —to Singapore for economic development.

The Americans, he said, offered in return about $5,000,000 which the Singapore prime minister said was "an insult."

Lee said today if the American loans continued to deny the bribe incident, he would disclose the intermediary through whom the U.S. administration made the $5,000,000 offer.

Producing a file marked "top secret," he said he had all the documents, "interrogations, tape recordings, and the whole works."

He warned the Americans: "You are not dealing with Ngo Dinh Diem or Syngman Rhee (former presidents of South Viet Nam and South Korea, respectively). You don't buy and sell this government."

PRODUCE MARKET

At the 'Ex' on a Cold Summer Day

By BARRY McCULLAGH

They say that "getting there is half the fun." Well it is not so — not if you should be attempting to get to the Canadian National Exhibition on time on Saturday.

Admittedly, I had started rather late last Saturday and wasted further time at a service centre where the head man convinced me I needed four new tires.

By the time I parked on Toronto's Queen Street several blocks from the "Ex" (after a futile attempt to get closer) the Mardi dancers and the national band of Bermuda had done their early afternoon stint and were thawing out somewhere removed from the cold and blustery heath that was the exhibition ground.

In their place was the band of the 48th Highlanders of Canada who marched up and down in front of the bandshell. The strains of the bagpipes became a wild thing caught up and wafted away on the wind. It was a heroic performance in the circumstances and the bandsmen in their bushies and uniforms were probably warmer than most.

Cold or not, it was the biggest day of the exhibition to - date with 340,000 admissions.

PRETTY GIRLS

The Ontario Government Building was one of the most interesting areas in which to browse. The provincial authorities have done a fine job in displaying their manifold activities through the eyes of the various departments. At times it was like a fashion show with regiments of pretty girl's in different uniforms according to their department, explaining just what was going on.

In other buildings there were fabrics and furniture and articles and glassware from Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia, and cars from Japan and Sweden. And there was the flower show.

Some people thought it was some kind of jobs that a Volvo car from Sweden had a "Made in Canada" and maple leaf emblem stamped on the engine, as well as the firm's place of origin, Goteborg, stamped on the engine.

Volvo of course has a plant in Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

The smart Japanese cars included a sleek sports model that looked like a certain British model, and a formidable Jeep-style vehicle.

Out in the grounds again there were exhibitions of jenling and karate.

FLORIDA BECKONS

But it was warmer indoors at the St. Petersburg, Florida, stand, for example, where an Air Canada stewardess answered queries along with officials from the sunny south. And it was warmer in the building where the flowers were. An "exhibition special" was a display of massive dahlias, and you could buy three of them for under $2. There was also a display of plants and an alpine garden.

On my way out I stopped for a glass of chocolate milk — a warmer brew than might be suspected on such a day. The bespectacled lass in her windswept stall said cheerfully: "I'm wearing four sweaters and I'm still freezing". It was 5 o'clock and she had been there since 10 a.m.

Yes, it is a hardy breed that braves the "Ex" on a cold day in August.

Coldest Aug. In 31 Years Says Report

The month of August just passed marked the lowest temperatures in the Belleville area in the past 31 years, according to records kept at the city water filtration plant.

Low temperatures for the month was a chilly 39 degrees — the lowest for the month of August since 1934 — while the high reading was 88 degrees for a mean temperature of 64.1.

Rainfall for the month was 3.55 inches, down only slightly from the 3.77 inches received in August 1964. High temperature for August last year was 92 degrees and the low 44 degrees for a mean reading of 64.3.

The average rainfall for August in the past 44 years is 2.72 inches and the average temperature for August in the same period has been 66 degrees.

Search Efforts Stopped by Heavy Fog

SAAS FEE (AP)—Search efforts stopped today for victims of the Matterhorn avalanche as fog shrouded the Alpine valley where they lay under tons of ice.

Rescue chief Andre Schmidt said operations will be resumed only in perfect visibility to permit a clear view of the giant Allalin Glacier threatening a new fall.

Schmidt said at the latest count 85 workmen of the Matterhorn like a fashion show with mark hydroelectric project were missing — eight of them dead.

Five bodies have been recovered.

"Even if the search resumes it will be a search for corpses only," the rescue official said.

If cold weather sets in, it will be virtually impossible to pry from the ice covering the men, rescuers said.

RECRUITS FEWER

Benefits of Laser Light Outlined to Kiwanis Club

PICTON (Staff) — "Laser light — a light beam that can transmit voice, business data and television programs — promises to make today's science fiction not only true, but even obsolete, within a few decades," P. H. Lavallee, of Montreal, Bell Telephone lecturer, said here yesterday while speaking to Picton's Kiwanis Club at noon luncheon.

"Since the idea of the Laser was first described, about five years ago, this discovery has influenced every major area of science," Mr. Lavallee said.

He pointed out that the telephone industry is interested in Laser because the tremendous growth of communications needs indicates we will soon be running out of radio and microwave frequencies. Scientists are looking for ways to use light waves for communications instead of radio waves.

Using a diagram of the spectrum of light frequencies, Mr. Lavallee explained the higher the frequency of light waves, the more messages they can carry. He said the Laser section of the spectrum, although relatively narrow, has room for about a million times more messages than the wide range of frequencies we now use for communications purposes, because of its high frequency.

Comparing Laser light with ordinary light, Mr. Lavallee said light given off by a light bulb is disorganized or incoherent, while Laser light is organized. "This special kind of light comes marching out of the end of the tube like a regiment of soldiers—in the form of a beam — all in exact step and in a narrow column," he said.

DISCUSSES USE

Discussing the use of the Laser, Mr. Lavallee said, at the moment it is only a laboratory tool, because it's all so new scientists and engineers have to catch up with their own achievement.

In the field of medicine, Laser has already found some uses. "Eye surgeons have used it to weld detached retinas in the human eye," said Mr. Lavallee.

"It has also been used to perform delicate brain surgery. Surgeons claim its precision-controlled beam can be used much more effectively than the finest surgical knife. It has been used as an instant cauterizer, stopping profuse bleeding instantly," he said.

Mr. Lavallee used a demonstration set-up to show how Laser could carry a voice between points. "When I am talking into the telephone, which is connected to the Laser, the sound waves are converted into light waves, travel through space to this receiver, where they are changed back to sound waves again, and built up by an amplifier," he explained.

He said the possible uses of Laser in industry are endless. "The beam can blast a pinpoint hole through a razor blade in a thousandth of a second, heating the steel to 10,000 degrees farenheit.

"This intense beam could be used to drill even the toughest materials known to man, and for the first time, permit us to weld dissimilar metals, such as aluminum to brass or aluminum to steel," said Mr. Lavallee.

"Alexander Graham Bell once said that belief in 'the possibility' was the key to making ideas work. We have the idea — the Laser — and, let me assure you, we believe in its possibilities," concluded Mr. Lavallee.

Horticultural Societies to Hold Meeting

PICTON (Staff) — Horticultural societies in district 3 will hold their annual district meeting in Picton on Saturday, September 25, it was announced today by district director Phil Dodds.

This is the final day of the County Fair at Picton and is expected to be an added attraction for members of societies in Brockville, Gananoque, Collins Bay, Kingston, Napanee, Belleville, Stirling and Picton.

It is planned to hold a meeting at the fair grounds in the morning with luncheon there at noon. All members who indicate their interest in attending the fair will be given free admission tickets by their society president or secretary.

One of the features of the fair at Picton is a huge flower show, which attracts hundreds of special visitors each year. The convention at the same time will offer horticultural society members an opportunity to see the show as well as hearing speakers discuss plans for centennial year. Details of the convention are being sent to all societies, Mr. Dodds stated.

Apple Growers To Tour County In October

PICTON (Staff) — Prince Edward County and other points in the district will be visited on an Ontario apple growers tour Oct. 4 and 5.

They will visit apple orchards, juice and other processed apple plants as well as packing and storage plants.

Present plans are for the tour to leave Toronto in the morning by bus, and dinner in Belleville. Among the places to be visited are Edgewater canning factory at Northport, where apple juice is canned, apple orchards in various parts of Prince Edward, the Kellner and Crews orchards in the Trenton and Brighton area, and apple processing plants in Colborne.

The tour will bring together apple growers and others interested in the industry — women's editors, commentators and other nutritionists who influence the public's food habits. Representatives of the apple industry and food store managers will also attend.

Duane Foshay Of Trenton New Fire Chief

PICTON (staff) — Picton has a new Fire Chief. He is Duane Foshay, who will be moving into the office after several years experience as fireman with the Trenton fire department.

The exact date he will take over is not yet known but it is expected to be sometime before Oct. 1st.

Mr. Foshay will replace Nelson Bell, fire chief here for the past two years. Mr. Bell resigned to go into business for himself.

Since Mr. Bell's resignation is effective as of the end of this month, Lawrence Burford, a veteran member of the volunteer fire-fighting force will be acting chief until Mr. Foshay takes over.

Ted Rea, 62, Former PC Member, Dies

TORONTO (CP)—Charles E. (Ted) Rea, 62, former Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Toronto Spadina, died Tuesday in hospital after a long illness.

Mr. Rea first entered federal politics in 1955 when he won a byelection in Spadina, long regarded as a Liberal stronghold and currently held by a Liberal. Re-elected in the 1957 election, he suffered a stroke in 1961, which forced him to retire from public life.

Born in Brandon, Man., he came to Eastern Canada as a small boy, and was educated at Grimsby, 15 miles east of Hamilton.

From 1932 to 1938, he served on the town council at New Liskeard, about 65 miles north of North Bay, where he operated an insurance business. He moved to Toronto in 1935.

He was in the Commons, Mr. Rea acted as deputy speaker, and chairman of the private bills committee. He also was a member of the Canadian delegation to the United Nations.

House Approves Integration Of Auto-parts Industries

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—A bill to authorize integration of the Canada-United States auto-and-parts industry passed easily through the House of Representatives Tuesday.

It now goes to the Senate for passage concurrent with the time table not yet fixed.

Fears of go-it-alone Canadian alternatives — harmful to the U.S. — were cited as primary reasons for approval by major speakers from both Democratic and Republican parties. They cited Canada's initial scheme to boost her auto industry exports, launched in 1962, which gave qualifying exporters tariff cuts and which drew hot opposition from certain American parts makers.

The U.S. government held the view it would have to raise tariffs on Canadian exports and the situation produced a new agreement signed Jan. 16 by Prime Minister Pearson and President Johnson.

The House voted 260 to 115—a membership is 435—to pass the enabling legislation putting the American side of the agreement into effect.

The January agreement, which Canada implemented in a cabinet decree, abolishes North American tariffs on most motor vehicles and their new parts for the industry itself. Consumers, it is hoped, will get the benefit of lower prices later when production patterns have been reshaped in the two countries to produce savings.

Two Spectacular Revolutionists Vanish Behind Mystery Curtains

Opposition Parties On Spot

OTTAWA (CP)—One effect of weeks of fall election talk is an anti-election attitude in some Opposition parties which may cramp their style in Parliament if Prime Minister Pearson decides not to call a general election.

Since Mr. Pearson's return Sunday from a western tour, there are even a few whispers that this really was the whole object in the prime minister lending apparent support to speculation of a federal election this fall.

The argument goes that the Opposition parties, which have strongly condemned Mr. Pearson for even thinking of an election now, may find it difficult to take any action in Parliament which would defeat the minority Liberal government and thus risk an election.

That there was real danger of a government defeat in Parliament after its scheduled resumption Sept. 27 is borne out by the statements of at least three Opposition party leaders — John Diefenbaker, T. C. Douglas and Robert Thompson.

Both Mr. Douglas of the New Democrats and Mr. Thompson of Social Credit talked sternly of the need for the government to clean up in the wake of the Dorion inquiry, the Dupuis affair and the furniture deals.

THREATENED ACTION

Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker made it plain his party would move formally in Parliament with a motion critical of the government and based on the Dorion inquiry report.

It seemed to be accepted as a foregone conclusion that the Opposition parties which outnumber government supporters would line up solidly against the administration on the morality-in-government issue.

Some of the Machiavellian types are said to have started from this premise then tried to figure out how to block a defeat without going to the polls.

A suggested solution was to stir up much talk about an election, wait for a wave of anti - election reaction from the press, public and less-confident Opposition MPs and then bow as gracefully as possible to the pressure.

SEES TWO STANDARDS

As Mr. Pearson remarked at one early press conference centering on a possible fall election:

"Apparently, it is immoral for the government of the day to exercise its prerogative and appeal to the people for a vote of confidence, but not immoral for the Opposition to defeat the government and force an election."

Mr. Thompson tried to harpoon this line of thought by remarking that defeat of the government in Parliament does not necessarily mean a general election. The government could take action which would satisfy the Opposition criticisms.

After almost 48 days of widespread open election speculation, Mr. Pearson on arrival here Sunday seemed suddenly reluctant to discuss the subject further.

And Mr. Thompson issued a statement from his office here Tuesday saying, in effect, that Mr. Pearson wouldn't have to wait another two years for an election if he passed up a vote this fall.

Election - minded Conservatives saw this as a cautious pledge to the prime minister to push his minority government too hard if no fall election takes place and Parliament assembles as scheduled.

Miss Pat Evans of Belleville spent a few days last week with Mrs. Fred Garrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pound spent last Friday and Saturday at the C.N.E. in Toronto and in Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs Clayton Ritz attended the Fox — Farrell wedding on Saturday.

Misses Kathy and Janet Ritz spent last week with Mrs. W. A. Jeffrey of Bayside.

Two of the most spectacular revolutionists of their time have vanished behind curtains of impenetrable revolutionary intrigue.

What happened to Msj. Ernesto (Che) Guevara, strategist of Fidel Castro's rise to power and hero to Latin America's violent young rebels?

What happened to Ahemd Ben Bella, architect of revolution in Algeria and idol of the African left?

A tantalizing but tenuous link exists between the two mysteries. The Guevara puzzle seems to have grown out of the backwash of world communism's split. The Ben Bella disappearance has thrust itself into that quarrel.

Castro has been vague about Guevara. The new Algerian regime indicates Ben Bella is awaiting trial. But you can pick your own rumor. According to some of them:

—Guevara was killed in the Dominican Republic revolution; has died of his ailments (he suffered from asthma); has gone to North Viet Nam to train foreign recruits in guerrilla war tactics; has gone to another Latin American country to promote revolution; has been demoted and pushed into oblivion by Castro in a clash over Moscow and Peking viewpoint.

—Ben Bella has been executed secretly by the new regime; been detained in an army camp near Algiers; been imprisoned in a remote Sahara Desert area, or has been given asylum in some other country.

Whatever happened to the two, the twin mysteries now are involved in world communism's internal cold war. Communist Fidel Castro is important to both Moscow and Peking for his potential influence in Latin America. Ben Bella, no Communist but a self-styled "anti-Imperialist" leaning far to the left, was important for his influence on emerging Africa. Both continents are areas of Moscow-Peking struggle for supremacy in revolutionary movements.

Pressure Exerted On Steel Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—Emergency steel talks, under heavy presidential and congressional pressure, enter the third day today with union negotiators reported saying that White House wage guidelines are too low.

President Johnson, continuing to urge a non-inflationary settlement, was joined by House of Representatives and Senate Democratic leaders in warning that a strike would hurt the U.S. economy and security.

A strike deadline scheduled at 12:01 a.m. today was postponed until 12:01 a.m. Sept. 9 at Johnson's request.

A strike would make idle some 450,000 steelworkers and shut down about 80 per cent of the U.S. steel industry.

Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz and Commerce Secretary John T. Connor continued efforts to find a compromise between the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers' demand for a wage and fringe benefits increase of 53 cents an hour during three years and the industry's last offer of 40.6 cents.

DENY REPORTS

Unverified reports that the 10 major steel companies had offered to raise the ante for a settlement were denied by a high administration source.

However, another reliable source said the industry was ready to boost its offer slightly at the time the talks were moved here from Pittsburgh Monday. The union also was reported prepared to make concessions, dropping its demand to six weeks.

Johnson has strongly hinted he will stick to his insistence that the industry grant a settlement in the 3.2-per-cent range without a steel price hike.

A 3.2 - per - cent increase would amount to a three-year package of 42 cents on top of steelworkers' present wage and fringe benefits of $4.40 an hour.

Cabinet

selected Nov. 8 some time ago. And Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan has been quoted as saying Nov. 8 is the day.

An announcement for a Nov. 8 election would have to come by Sept. 11, in the middle of the Inter - Parliamentary Conference to be held in the Commons chamber Sept. 6-8. Dissolution of Parliament would mean that Canada's representatives at the conference would cease to be MPs. They would also be under some pressure to leave Ottawa in favor of campaigning.

Fifty-eight days would be required between an announcement and voting.

COULD WAIT LONGER

The prime minister could hold off an announcement until the conclusion of the conference and still have an election Nov. 15. Or he could even wait until Parliament meets again Sept. 27 and announce a Nov. 29 election.

But this is considered unlikely. Mr. Pearson said in Edmonton that a fall election—he wasn't particularly referring at the time to the fall of 1965—would have to be called at the beginning of September in order to avoid the cold weather of late November.

The prime minister is said to be under a great deal of pressure in connection with his apparent choice of a fall vote. Apart from the difficulties of the timing, there are some members of his cabinet — although a minority — who are opposed to an early election, and there are similar divisions among MPs.

Editorial opinion is also stacked heavily against a fall election, while party organizers are said to be heavily in favor of one.

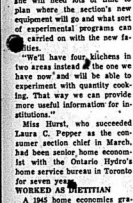
Department Section Head Prepares for Big Move

By BRENDA LARGE

OTTAWA (CP) — The new chief of the consumer section of the agriculture department has been in her job only five months and already is planning a move.

Lois Hurst isn't thinking of leaving the department, however. She's plotting a move from the section's present cramped quarters on midtown Sparks Street to the new agriculture department building on Carling Avenue near Dow's Lake in south Ottawa.

The change won't take place until the building is completed next year but Miss Hurst says she will need lots of time to plan where the section's new equipment will go and what sort of experimental programs can be carried on with the new facilities.



"We'll have four kitchens in two areas instead of the one we have now" and will be able to experiment with quantity cooking. That way we can provide more useful information for institutions."

Miss Hurst, who succeeded Laura C. Pepper as consumer section chief in March, had been senior home economist with the Ontario Hydro's home service bureau in Toronto for seven years.

WORKED AS DIETITIAN

A 1945 home economics graduate of the University of Toronto, she was a dietitian on the staff of the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto for 10 years before she went to Hydro.

The tall, dark-haired Toronto native, brisk and vivacious, led an interviewer down a hallway stacked with filing cabinets to the section's sunny testing kitchen.

PLANNING A MOVE — Lois Hurst is the new chief of the consumer section of the agriculture department in Ottawa. She's planning the move that will take her section from the cramped quarters now occupied to a new agriculture department building which is scheduled for completion next year. Miss Hurst, who took over the section in March, had been senior home economist with the Ontario Hydro's home service bureau in Toronto for seven years. (CP Photo).

"It's very much like an ordinary kitchen except that it has a number of stoves and refrigerators instead of just one of each."

A row of white-coated home economists busily tested custard. Without speaking, they delicately spooned up small samples of the custard and made detailed notes about the taste.

"We're trying to find out how long frozen eggs can be used, what sort of cooking they can be used for, and what additives should be put in when the eggs are unfrozen."

Two common additives are salt and sugar. The home economists are experimenting with others but so far they won't say what the substances are.

"This testing won't be completed until next April. The economists have been experimenting with white cake and scrambled eggs as well as other foods."

COULD SAVE MONEY

The tests, when completed, could show institutions and individuals how to save money by freezing eggs for bulk storage when prices are low.

Hospitals and other large institutions have been doing this for years but the full potential has not yet been determined.

Miss Hurst said the project is only one of several. "Of course, we'll be able to do much more when we move to our new quarters."

The consumer section provides a national service to advise Canadian consumers on buying and using of Canadian agricultural foods.

As a unit of the production and marketing branch of the agriculture department, it works closely with the dairy products, fruit and vegetable, livestock, poultry and health-of-animals divisions of the branch.

Miss Hurst said the main claims of her section are to further the development of the domestic market for foods produced in Canada and to tell consumers about Canadian food products.

Papers Protest Woman Judge Being Called 'Your Lordship'

By PETER BUCKLEY

LONDON (CP) — The aught majesty of the law is having a tussle in England these days with the world of emancipated womanhood, and the law is losing.

The problem arises because Lord Gardiner, the lord chancellor who is in charge of appointments to the judiciary, has just named Judge Elizabeth Lane, 60, as the first woman high court judge in England's history.

When the announcement was made, officials in the lord chancellor's office put it about that the new member of Britain's highest court would be known as Mr. Justice Lane.

Since high court judges are always given a knighthood, the same officials said, she would also be Dame Elizabeth Lane. And in court she would be addressed as "Your Lordship."

Now the protests are coming in.

"Why should she not be called Mrs. Justice Lane and addressed as 'Your Ladyship'?" asks the Solicitors' Journal, a professional publication. "There will undoubtedly be more female judges as time goes on and it would be a good idea to start logically."

ECHOES COMPLAINT

The Times echoes the complaint in an editorial entitled "Call her madam."

"Having summoned up the courage to seat a woman on the bench of the high court . . . the legal profession is now being made to appear, by what it calls its prejudices, to be shrinking from the full implications of what has happened," the influential daily newspaper remarked.

"To admit women to one of the last remaining preserves of manservs, and then to suggest that they are not really women at all, is an ingenious contrivance to lay in-the path of victorious feminism. . . .

"The English have been ruled by queens without finding it necessary to address them as if they were kings. Even the House of Lords has accustomed itself to peeresses without pretending that they are peers. It is left to the left to the law to misrepresent the sex of its own dignitaries!"

"The protests have caused a mild stir among the lord chancellor's functionaries.

"I don't think the last word has necessarily been said about the form of address," one official said defensively. "We haven't closed our mind on this."

WILL CONSIDER PROBLEM

Lord Gardiner himself is away on tour, and is not expected to give the problem some new consideration on his return.

Other Commonwealth governments, including Canada's, might well think it over now too. As far as is known, there are no other women judges of high court status in the Commonwealth, since the British style of address is generally followed. But the question is bound to arise before long with the increasing number of women sitting in lower courts.

Judge Lane, who has been in county court for seven years, has made no public statements on the issue and could not be reached for comment. She was previously been addressed as "My Lord" in court and those who know her say she is not likely to be concerned about forms of address.

There are few precedents to guide the lord chancellor.

The precisian statutes call their justices "Your Honor," regardless of sex, and the Russians use "Comrade Judge" with guiltarian contempt for distinctions of sex.

In France, on the other hand, women judges are called "Madame la Presidente." Oddly enough for the chivalrous French, an unmarried woman judge is not called "Madamoiselle la Presidente."

"A question of dignity, I suppose," said an official at the French embassy here.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Go, go, go. Wonderful day when baby takes up creeping. But once he starts this new adventure, there are pertinent things to do:

• Floors should be scanned for pins or any small objects baby might sight and swallow. Iron and toaster cords or drooping plants should not be left within reach.

• Stairs should be sealed off with a folding gate . . . baby confined to an area within your eye's reach.

• Overalls are in order to protect baby from scrapes and skinned knees during floor time. Both should have plenty of room at torso and toes can move freely.

Fruit-fed lidsers for creepers, lapsiders, or toddlers. Gerber Strained and Junior Fruits are great favorites with babies of all ages. And for good reason. They're flash-cooked in a matter of seconds to preserve the true-to-nature colours and orchard-good flavours that make them so appetizing. Flash-cooking also helps preserve the nutritive values so important to your baby.

Two Gerber Fruit delectables: Bananas with Pineapple, Applesauce-and-Apricots. Both are brimming with the kind of sun-kissed goodness Fruit fanciers "favour. Strained or junior.

Overall coverups. Corduroy overalls make good creeper outfits because the fabric is reversible and washable. Upkeep is easy. After washing, if you brush corduroy while it's still damp, nap will fluff up nicely. (2) If you buy overalls with patch pockets, you can sew extra patches when knees wear through.

Talk about teething. Teething time can be troublesome for you or no one. Here's a relief measure that will stand him (or her) in good stead: Gerber Teething Biscuits. Extra-hard and waffle-surfaced, Gerber Teething Biscuits give baby the biting exercise he needs and wants. Their scalloped edges make them easy for little hands to hold. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

GROUP OF GRAPE RECIPES

My children were born in Burlington, Ontario, where we lived in an architect's prize-winning cottage on half an acre of land. This was planted with strawberries, blackberries, apple and pear trees, and, on the boundary fence, grape vines. The variety of grape was called Gardner and they were ripe and ready to eat about September 15th. Because I know the name and ripening date of this early variety I've been among about grapes ever since.

A tall cool drink that doubles as nourishment is Purple Cow — a royal combination of grape juice, milk and ice cream — ideal for late afternoon drinks in the garden on Labor Day.

WEDNESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Roast Lamb Shoulder, Mint Jelly; Parsley - buttered Whole Potatoes; Creamed Brussels Sprouts; Tossed Greens with Bleu Cheese Dressing; Lemon Jelly Roll topped with Raspberry Sherbet; Tea.

PURPLE COW (fills 4 tall 16-oz. glasses or 8 7-oz. glasses):

1 pint (2½ cups) cold whole milk, 1½ cups cold bottled grape juice, half of a 1-pint brick vanilla ice cream, 4 or 8 teaspoons sugar.

...into a large cold bowl; measure the milk, then add the grape juice. (It does not curdle.) Add the sugar and ice cream, break up the ice cream a little with a spoon, then with rotary beater, beat until very foamy. It will increase to twice the volume. Pour into 4 16-oz. glasses or the foam will nearly brim over — or into 8 7 or 8-oz. glasses. Serve at once with a straw in each glass.

SPICED GRAPE JELLY (use slightly underripe Concords):

Five lbs. slightly underripe Concord grapes, 1 cup unfiltered grape juice, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, ½ stick cinnamon, broken, 1 cup vinegar, sugar (see below). Wash and stem grapes and drain. Turn them into a large preserving kettle, pour grape juice over, add whole spices tied in a cloth bag with long string, and vinegar. Cook until grapes are mushy and tender. Remove spice bag and strain through jelly bag or cheesecloth-lined colander overnight. Discard grape pulp. Return the juice to kettle and boil gently for 20 minutes. Now measure the juice and add 1 cup sugar for each cup juice. Boil rapidly to the jelly stage. Test by dipping up a spoonful of hot syrup, tipping it above kettle to run off side of spoon. When runoff stream separates into 2 drops which finally flow together jelly stage has been reached. Remove from heat, pour into sterile jelly glasses, and seal with new melted paraffin, adding a second coat, tipping glasses to wax sides.

Ann Landers

Convalescent Teenager Has New Respect for Health

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a teen-ager who spent a good part of the last year in the hospital. I am not writing for sympathy. I am writing to let other teen-agers know how lucky they are just to be able to stand on their own two feet and walk from one room to another.

Believe me, Ann, I never appreciated being able to go where I wanted to and do what I wanted to until I was flat on my back for seven months.

It would be crazy to say I am glad I got sick, but in a way it was the best thing that ever happened to me. It gave me new respect for ordinary things that I used to take for granted. I guess I was just like the man who didn't know how important water was until the well ran dry.

Good health is a great blessing. Without it life doesn't mean a thing. With it, you can accomplish almost anything—SUNNY SKIES.

DEAR SUNNY: Your letter is one which adults, as well as teen-agers, should clip out and keep handy as a daily reminder. And I hope you will keep it, too, when you are fully recovered, because it's easy to forget how precious good health is when you have it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently a letter appeared in your column which made me see red. A wife, referring to her husband's third cousin, wrote: "If she has any of her looks left after all these years, and if she behaves like most divorcees, it could mean trouble."

I'm a divorcee who deeply resents this generalization. We divorced women have enough trouble making a living, raising well-adjusted children, maintaining our sanity, and combating loneliness, without taking insults like that from the peanut gallery.

I know many divorcees who are far more respectable than some married women. Often the divorcee is the victim of a too early marriage or inadequate parental guidance. Some of us lost our husbands to the Other Woman. Others preferred life alone to putting up with a lying, cheating pet.

"Trouble" is created in individuals, married, single, divorced and widowed. Please make this clear in your column.— A DIVORCEE.

DEAR DIVORCEE: For ten years I've been making it plenty clear. And I'm grateful for letters like yours because they have helped.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you come up with a solution to this problem I will be very appreciative and so will my husband.

His sister is a swell person. Estelle and I are the same age and we get along fine. She and her husband live down the street from us, which may be part of the problem. About twice a week they show up at our front door with their company. Sometimes we know the people and sometimes we don't. Usually it's a Friday or Saturday night or Sunday afternoon. They never call to ask if we have plans. They just come over.

The following morning Estelle usually calls and says, "You sure saved our lives. Those Smiths are such bores Bernie and I would have died if we couldn't have brought them to your place."

My husband and I would like to put a stop to this practice. Is there a way out?—MR. AND MRS. PIGEON.

DEAR MR. AND MRS.: The way out is right through the front door — like this: The next time Estelle and Bernie appear with guests, say, "So sorry we were just leaving." Then get your coats and leave — even if it's only to the corner to pick up another newspaper.

If you do this twice, you won't have to do it a third time.

American Girl First Tourist in Yemen

SAN'A, Yemen (AP) — This sun-baked land on the Arabian Red Sea has finally crashed the tourist trade, and the government has just issued its first statistics on the number of tourists to visit the country: one.

The first genuine, camera-carrying, guidebook-toting tourist to get onto the official records—at least since the revolution of 1962—arrived this summer. She is Lois Doyle of Leominster, Mass.

"I was going to tour Angola with some other Americans, but the rains began while I was in Ethiopia, so I flew here instead of just sitting and staring out a hotel room window," said Miss Doyle.

Her arrival caused a minor upheaval in San'a. Children and donkey drivers followed her in the streets. Yemini women pulled down their veils for a better look at the barefaced foreigner, and the ramshackle government guest house prepared to eject a band of tribesmen to make room for the first woman customer ever to cross its portals. Miss Doyle stayed in an American's residence instead.

"Nobody has ever heard of a tourist here before," said Yahya Sanhoub, director of the guest house.

Yemen isn't set up for the tourist trade. There is not a restaurant in the entire country, and until a crumbling palace with shell holes in the roof was transformed into living quarters by the United Nations two years ago, there had never been a hotel.

"Thank God I came here. There aren't many places like this left in the world, and I'll never forget it," said Miss Doyle, looking out the window at a typical San'a street scene —felled women balancing pots on their heads, turbaned tribesmen in sarongs with knives in their belts, lattice-work houses of mud brick like miniature skyscrapers.

Susanna's Family Fare

BOTTLE BOUTS

Dear Susanna: With the water in the lakes so low this year, many folks vacationing at resorts, camps and cottages will find themselves in the predicament of having to wade through stoney or rocky stretches in order to reach a sandy bathing area.

At the lodge where we are staying we are experiencing this situation, but the ingenious proprietor has provided everyone with a pair of large, white plastic bleach bottles with the lids securely in place. Each one has a piece of cord dangling from the neck. We all wear old beat-up running shoes or shoulder seam of the dress or blouse, slightly toward the armthongs to cross the shallow stoney part, then we tie our shoes to the bottles while we swim. Naturally, the bottles float like buoys and indicate just where our shoes are at all times. — Buoyy

Wait until our naval intelligence hears about this new type of tracking equipment! I tell you, with all these bright ideas souring in, there's going to be no end to the fame of some of Susanna's readers!—SUSANNA

STOP SLIPPING STRAPS

Dear Susanna: To keep lingerie shoulder straps in place at all times, make a tiny strap 2½" long by ½" wide of your dress fabric, or use a strip of cotton tape or seam binding the same size.

Sew one end firmly to the hole on the side. Sew the stud part of a dome fastener to the shoulder seam just clear of the neck facing and the other section of the dome fastener to the free end of the little strap or tape.

We do this not only with the clothes we make for ourselves, but always put these straps to purchased garments as well. — B. B.

CBC Expert Gives Tips on Makeup

By LINDA CRAWFORD

MONTREAL (CP)—If you'd like to trade age for youth or youth for age, Julia Grundy could help you make the transition. She could also turn you into a bear, a horse or a lion.

Julia is not a witch. She is TV's makeup expert with the CBC here and her talents are reserved for those under the critical eye of the television cameras.

"When I go to a party, I'm asked questions like 'What should I do with my eyes?' as soon as people find out what I do," the English-born blonde laughed. "Makeup seems to interest most women."

How does she answer such questions? Miss Grundy said it's difficult to generalize, but there are certain ground rules women should follow.

"The main thing is careful cleansing of the skin. Every woman should use a good cleansing cream and a skin tonic. If her skin is dry, she should not use soap, but a product made especially for dry skin. And every woman should use some kind of skin food on her face at night."

Moisture cream under foundation, she says, is another necessity.

"And no woman should be without some mascara and a little eyeliner. Even a teenager should use some mascara.

"I think the average woman should stick to black and brown for eye makeup. But colors are nice for evening if they are used discreetly and not blaringly.

"If the eye is almond-shaped the eyeliner should follow the line of the eye. But if the eye turns down at the corner, you would lift the line to give the eye a wider look. If a woman has small eyes, she should draw a line on top and one on the bottom, with a space between, to enlarge her eyes."

SUBJECT WORTH STUDY

Lipstick depends upon a woman's coloring, Julia said.

"Personally, I like the paler shades, but they don't look good on a woman with a deep tan. But everybody's different and I think it's important for each woman to learn something about makeup."

Badly applied makeup was worse than wearing none.

"I used to give talks to women's groups on glamor makeup but I haven't the time any more," said Julia.

"I applied to the BBC in London, but there was a list two miles long. I came to Montreal one June and started work here the following September. That was 10 years ago and I've been here ever since."

Julia now does the makeup for La Boîte a Surprises, a French - language children's show that runs five days a week on CBFT. It has five different themes, she explained.

"One day it's pirates, the next day clowns, and then there's a doll, and so on. It's all character makeup — rabbits, wolves, roosters," she said, pointing to the various human animals in her photo file. Each creation is photographed when completed, and the picture is filed for reference.

"The children's program is more of a challenge than straight makeup. We make pieces and sometimes whole heads. I spend a lot of my time away from work thinking out ideas. When we did the Beauty and the Beast I pinned pieces of fur material over the actor's face to create the beast."

Julia held up the head of a rooster, and explained that such a piece would take about 30 hours of work. About half that time would be put in by the makeup artist.

How can those interested in becoming makeup artists get into the field "There's really nowhere in Canada where you can train for it," Julia said, "but someone with imagination and some experience—in amateur theatre makeup, for instance—could apply " Anatomy courses are an asset, she said, and sketching ability also helps.

COSMETICS FOR MEN — Bubba Marriott, quarterback with Toronto Rifles football club, gives lipstick for men a try. "I don't think it's quite for me," he said as he fumbled the lipstick. "Everything smells like lemon." Despite Bubba's reluctance he tried it strictly for the laughs — one large company has introduced a full line of men's cosmetics and another will market a facial mask and men's hair coloring next year. Men can get pale yellow lip pomade to protect and heal lips that are roughened or chapped. Or there's face cream, a Velva cream mask and invisible veil powder — pale green — for that shiny nose. # Former Beaux Lost at Sea Over Old Ship That Sank

DEAR DORIS: A boy with whom I used to go out has just been married. I have not seen him for four or five years, but between the ages of about nine and seventeen we had an innocent affection for each other, each other.

When I met my present husband at university, however, I realized that he was the man I preferred above all others. As a result I refused invitations from my former friend, and gradually we lost contact.

Now I'd like to send a very small wedding gift or even a "congratulations" card to my friend and his bride, but I'm afraid that such a gesture might be misinterpreted. After all, a married woman does not usually send cards to her former "beaux"! And yet he was a very kind friend to me when I was growing up—AT SEA.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR AT SEA: How about a card saying: "Just wanted you to know I'm delighted to hear of your coming marriage, and that I wish you and your bride great happiness — as much happiness indeed, as I am now finding in my own marriage!"

A small gift would be o.k. but not necessary. It's the good will that counts.

DEAR DORIS: I have been asked to be second bridesmaid for one of my close friends.

(1) Would you think $10 is suitable for me to present at the Ukrainian wedding?

(2) If I am buying my own formal, which I could wear later, should I buy a big wedding present?

(3) Who should plan the shower and what should I be expected to do?—A BRIDESMAID.

DEAR BRIDESMAID: (1) Yes — $10 or $15.

(2) The money would take the place of a wedding present; but a gift is given at the shower.

(3) If it is to be a large shower, it is usually given by all the bridesmaids, with the help of the bride's mother. Unlike Canadian showers, the bride's family plays a major role in putting it on, since it is so large — almost like a wedding! The bride's family usually pays the expenses and the bridesmaids help in every way they can.

PRESSED FLOWERS are not a lost art! Take a few moments with daughter today to sort some interesting small flowers or grasses. Place them between paper and lay them between the pages of a large book. When they're dry, in a week or two, she can glue them to note paper—or mount them in decorative designs and frame them for her room. Use glue that dries clear, of course. ## Pinch Hitting

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

Charles Dillon "Casey" Stengel, seventy-five years of the most lovable, laughable and generally vibrant baseball cookies ever to hit the major baseball leagues, has turned in his manager's badge once again.

This time it will likely be for keeps.

A fractured wrist early in the spring and later a fractured hip has hastened an announcement that most baseball experts figured would be coming this fall anyway.

And regardless of all other facts the Mets' "creation" record during their birth four years ago has probably caused the old Professor more pain than the other breaks combined.

Casey was a winner with the Yankees. He has the memory of 10 American League pennants and seven World Series victories to prove it.

It's been a different story with the Mets, of the same ilk but definitely of a different calibre.

No one can blame Stengel for that, at least no one outside Jackie Robinson. The Mets have been, and continue to be, a breed by themselves.

Robinson has been a severe critic of Stengel's dating back to the days when the Yankees used to beat the Brooklyn Dodgers as regularly as clockwork in the World Series.

In a syndicated column a year or so ago, Robinson wrote that "a man who went to sleep in the dugout while a game was in progress was not fit to manage at ball club." He was writing about Stengel.

Casey and Robbie exchanged heated views more than once and while Robinson may have had his own column in which to air his views, Mr. Stengel has always been as popular with the press boys that he had no trouble getting his return shots published.

Stengel says he has accomplished what he hoped to with the Mets.

"I honestly think the club is on its way. I believe I am leaving four or five players who will remain with the club for 10 to 12 years," he said this week.

Stengel will make his final appearance as manager of the Mets at Shea Stadium tomorrow when he will say goodbye to the players. However, he is not severing connections with the club.

He is being retained as a vice-president of the club through the 1967 season, but it won't be the same as when he was in full view of all those fans who troop out to Shea to see the Mets play another one. His retirement, by the way, does not officially go into effect until the end of this season.

The circumstances of this retirement are a bit different from that of October, 1960, when Casey got the boot from his beloved Yankees. They said it was because of his age, 70, at the time.

That move shocked baseball fans from all parts, If not the good cheer to the situation who suspected that the old master was on his way out.

Whatever the reasons, somehow the Mets won't be the same without him.

The Yankees never have been.

As one writer put it: "He's been around since Jello came in two flavors and care had running boards. It's too bad he can't last forever."

A couple of top-notch tag-team bouts will feature the professional wrestling card at Memorial Arena this Friday night.

The second of a series of matches booked here by promotor George Scott, Friday card looks like a dandy. Littlerock is one of the wrestling midgets who is also in the promoting end of the business.

Clashing in the main bout of the evening are the teams of Gorgeous George Jr. and Keith Tompkins vs The Masked Hangmen.

You saw one of the Hangmen last week, against the Gorgeous one, but the action should be twice as hot with a double order of the second one on tap. George Jr. has taken on Tompkins as his partner and Keith is a district boy, from Frankford.

The local wrestling faithful claim that Tompkins has taken a back seat to none in the rough and tumble going so should help make it an interesting night for the villains. The bout is 60 minutes or two of three falls.

In the semi-finals, another pair of roughies, Terry and Ben Garvin tangle with Cousin Bill Williams and Doug Kinslow. This, too, is a two-of-three tag-team battle and could steal the main-bout limelight.

One other bout will round out the card, slated to begin at 8.30 p.m.

Toronto vs. Atlanta

Playoffs Start Friday

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—First round play in the International League's Shaughnessy playoffs should get under way Friday, league president Thomas H. Richardson said Tuesday.

The first four teams in the league's final standings qualify for play. Opening games will be played at Columbus, Ohio, and Atlanta, Ga.

First-round survivors meet in the Governor's Cup finals which are the climax of the Shaughnessy series. The playoffs are decided on a best-of-seven basis.

Richardson said a three-way tie for fourth place among Rochester, Syracuse and Jacksonville could delay the start of the post-season play.

Richardson said that second-place Toronto has waived its right to open at home because Toronto's Maple Leaf stadium will not be available on the opening date.

Cats Whip Riders On Interceptions

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

An airtight pass defence and a last-minute field goal were the keys to victory for Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Edmonton Eskimos Tuesday in two Canadian Football League games.

Hamilton intercepted seven Saskatchewan passes, equalling the CFL record for interceptions in one game, as they downed the Roughriders 30-6 at Regina before 17,350 fans.

In Edmonton, Tommy Joe Coffey kicked a 25-yard field goal with 46 seconds remaining to give the Eskimos their first 1965 victory, a 22-21 triumph over still-winless Toronto Argonauts. A crowd of 12,765 took in the Edmonton game.

Hamilton coach Ralph Sazio said after the Regina game: "Our defence was great. They kept us in the ball game, although we didn't capitalize on all the opportunities we had.

"If we had, we could have had the game on lock at half the end of the third quarter. We have to get better offensively."

Saskatchewan coach Eagle Keys stated the obvious in the understatement of the year: "We whipped us and whipped us good."

Edmonton coach Neill Armstrong started Jerry Keeling at quarterback for the first time this season after cutting Jon Landis, who played in the Eskimos' first five games.

LIKES TO RUN

"I didn't really want Keeling to run with the ball as much as he did," Armstrong said. "But he likes to run and he can handle once he gets moving. When he begins finding open receivers, he'll be more threatening as much and he'll be even more effective."

A highlight of the Edmonton game was a 104-yard touchdown run by Toronto halfback Larry Ferguson, a former Eskimo, which Armstrong said was a perfectly-executed play. Rookie quarterback Pete Liske handed the ball over the line deep in his own territory and Ferguson took it on to the goal-line, whipped through the Edmonton secondary and out - distanced pursuers to score.

The Argos, playing their second game in three days, got touchdowns from Dick Shatto and Marv Luster as well as Ferguson. For a time Eskimo great Jackie Parker kicked two converts for Toronto and Dave Mann booted a first - quarter single.

For Edmonton, Coffey caught a touchdown pass and added two converts to his field goal while Jim Fauver and Butch Pressley got one-point consolation apiece. Edmonton led 6-1 after the first quarter, 13-6 at halftime and 20-8 after the third quarter.

Hamilton's victory moved the Tiger-Cats into sole possession of first place in the Eastern Conference, two points ahead of Ottawa Rough Riders, and left Saskatchewan one point behind the co-leaders in the West as Calgary Stampeders and Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The Tiger-Cats held 9-0 at halftime after the teams played a scoreless first quarter and stayed ahead 13-6 after three quarters.

Hamilton got touchdowns from Art Baker, Ray Willsey, Bethea and quarterback Frank Cosentino. Don Sutherin kicked three field goals, two converts and a single.

Saskatchewan's only score came on a 37-yard off-tackle touchdown run by fullback George Reed. Two touchdowns was not collverted.

Fumbles and interceptions told the story of the Hamilton-Saskatchewan game.

The Tiger-Cat defensive unit added to its seven interceptions by pouncing on two of three Saskatchewan fumbles and knocking down numerous passes. Interceptions set up two Hamilton touchdowns.

Defensive halfback Gerney Hemley set up the other when he took a Saskatchewan punt at his own 35-yard line and ran it back to the Rider three, from where Cosentino carried over the goal-line.

Hamilton rolled up a total of 380 yards, 233 through the air and 137 rushing. Saskatchewan made 235 yards, 135 of them passing. Cosentino was successful on 10 of 22 passes while Saskatchewan quarterbacks Dave Dickenson and Ted Ledyard completed 14 of 28.

In Edmonton, the Argos made a determined attempt to steal a victory on the last play of the game. John Villence attempted a field goal from midfield with Parker outside. The ball went to Coffey who fumbled on the 30-yard line with Parker bearing down on him but Edmonton defensive back John Skopan beat Parker to the ball.

Edmonton managed 34 first downs to 16 for Toronto and Kedell completed 10 of 14 passes for 160 yards compared with 13 of 26 for 204 yards by Liske.

Eskimos' total offence was 344 yards compared with 336 for Toronto.

Brockville Here Thursday

The OASA Junior "A" playdown game, between Brockville Diggers and Belleville Elks, that was washed out here last night and has been rescheduled for Thursday.

Game time for the resumption of the game yesterday afternoon, OASA convener Cliff Ford Belch Jr. said that the game has been set for Thursday night, in the Fairgrounds here, at 8.30 p.m.

This is the second in a two-game total-goals series that Belleville won the opener 1-0 in 23 innings last Saturday.

Monday night's heavy rain completely washed out all outdoor sport activity in the area last night and early in the day was threatening to do the same this evening.

Postponed Monday were playoff games in the Commercial Softball League, between RCAF Cosmos and Point Anne, and in the South Hastings Baseball League, between Read and Latta, as well as minor softball and baseball games.

Tonight, Lindsay is scheduled to play OASA Intermediate "A" champion Bloomfield, in Picton, at eight o'clock, and Foxboro is slated next Monday night, at 8.30, weather permitting.

He did not look hopeful at this writing.

Junior Team Title To Ontario

BRANTFORD (CP) — The four-man Ontario team captured its third inter-provincial golf championship Tuesday by a day, but four golfers who failed to make the team came in 20 strokes lower.

Ontario, led by provincial junior champion Graham Cockerline, fielded the 36-hole competition with an aggregate score of 698, six strokes ahead of second-place Quebec.

Cooke, 18, a Grade 12 student from Cookeville, fired four-over-par 144 and Ontario won the soggy and difficult 6,600-yard Brantford Golf and Country Club course. He had a one-under-par 71 for a two-round total of 141 to finish a field of 104 in the qualifying round.

The 36-hole qualifying round determined the 16 golfers who competed in the match play competition starting today for the individual Canadian junior title.

The golfers who failed to make the Ontario team had a combined score of 669 and chided the regular team members by placing a sign on the scoreboard declaring them honorary winners of the competition.

Peter Turner of Toronto, the individual low scorer at 136, led the non-members with a 168, one stroke behind Cooke. Ken Stone Kirkland Lake, recorded a 161, Peter Knechtel of Kitchener a 163 and Gordon Sollery of Toronto a 167.

John Nugent of Toronto and Ian Thomas of London, both with second-round 78s, and Bob Short of Toronto with an 85 combined with Cooke to resist a rally by Quebec and capture the team crown. Thomas had a 36-hole total of 157, Nugent 161 and Short 164.

Doran Doucet of Windsor Mills fired a one-over-par 73 to lead the Quebec team to an aggregate score of 712 Tuesday, the best 18-hole team score of the tournament.

Quebec took over second spot from Golden Alberta, which trailed Ontario by only two strokes after the first round Monday. Alberta finished third at 703, six strokes behind the winners with 360.

Pierre Rossignol of Bathurst, N.B., had a 36-hole score of 154 to lead the combined New Brunswick - Prince Edward Island team to fourth place with 45. Manitoba, third after the opening round, had a 59th with a 850.

Eleven strokes behind Manitoba was British Columbia with Two of four Canada Geese, owned by George Woodhouse in co - operation with the Belleville Fish and Game Club, are missing.

A third is wounded and was evading capture on the Woodhouse reserve, on Elmwood here, yesterday afternoon.

Two dead geese have been recovered by Department of Lands and Forests officials Bill Bittle and Jim Moore.

A man was sighted in possession of two dead geese and later a man was questioned.

Canada Geese are out of season.

Woodhouse said that the loss was a sickening one, "not only because the birds are out of season but because there are few of them and we (the club) have been trying for several years to obtain some for the reserve here".

Woodhouse said that the bird had not yet been banded. "It took us so long to get a mated pair and now this happens", he added the discouraged and bitter gamekeeper.

"A farm warden spotted a man with two geese Monday afternoon and they came looking for me since they knew I had geese on my property", Woodhouse added, "and sure enough, one of mine were missing".

Woodhouse said that proving the geese belonged to him would have been easier had they already been banded. "We just banded 400 Canada and Black ducks) today and expect to do somewhere around 200 or 300 in all, depending on their return to the reserve", he offered.

The new project, tagged "Operation Greenhead" has been several years ago with ducks but this year has branched out into other species of migratory birds.

Woodhouse intend to press charges wherever possible in connection with say offence", Woodhouse said.

Manitoba's team made up of three 18 - year - olds and the youngest player in the tournament, Peter Sterling, 14, of Grand Falls, competed for the first time in the tournament's one-to-par group.

A score of 108 or better was needed to enter match play. The tournament continues with 36-hole competition Wednesday, two more Friday and a 36-hole final Saturday.

Don Fuell Works Out With Als

MONTREAL (CP) — Don Fuell, dropped by Toronto Argonauts and picked up on waivers by Montreal Alouettes, is the Montreal club's latest import acquisition—at least for workouts.

Before the end of the week some decision is expected to be made whether the 26-year-old Texas will be placed on the roster.

Coach Jim Trimble persuaded Fuell to come to Montreal Monday night to talk things over. Fuell has several ties in Toronto, including acceptance at university and an apartment lease.

Should Fuell be retained by the Als, one import would have to be dropped.

Braves Move Up, Add Slugging Help

Giants Split

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee Braves must have had their smoke signals crossed when they called Frank Thomas back to the reservation. All they really needed was an umbrella.

The Braves made the only headway in the National League pennant race Tuesday night but even then almost eight hours of heavy Cincinnati rain after beating the Reds 5-3 in the rain-prolonged opener of a doubleheader, the Braves weathered another long delay before Cincinnati's 4-1 lead was washed out in the fourth inning of the second game.

The victory ended a six-game losing streak for the Braves and moved them into a third-place tie with Cincinnati, two games behind league - leading Los Angeles. The Dodgers were rained out at Pittsburgh while five other contenders, San Francisco Giants and Philadelphia Phillies, were idle during a doubleheader.

Thomas, meanwhile, cracked two homers and drove in five runs as Houston Astros swept a twi - nighter from New York Mets 6-5 and 3-2, then packed up for a return trip to Milwaukee and another look at the world Series share that has eluded him in seven previous stops in 14 seasons.

The 36-year-old slugger has played for the Pirates, Braves, Reds, Cubs, Mets, Phillies and Astros—but never with a pennant winner.

SOLTER THEIR BENCH

The Braves acquired Thomas, whose two homers against New York lifted his career total to 286, from Houston to bolster their bench. They'll send the Astros a player in return at a later date.

A couple of other former Milwaukee stars, Warren Spahn and Lew Burdette, hooked up in a pitching duel at Philadelphia, with Phillies' Burdette topping his former roommate 3-0 in the night game. The Giants won the night game 3-1 in 11 innings.

St. Louis Cardinals blanked Chicago Cubs 3-0 behind right-hander Bob Gibson in an afternoon game.

Home runs by Eddie Mathews, Hank Aaron and Gene Oliver powered Milwaukee past the Reds in a game delayed 34 minutes at the start and held up for more than two hours in the fifth inning. Mathews' 30th homer of the season off Jim Maloney tied him with Stan Musial for seventh place on the all-time homer list with 475.

Tony Cloninger posted his 19th victory against nine defeats with relief help from Bob Sadowski after the two-hour downpour.

The umpires waited 45 minutes before calling the second game in the fourth. It was rescheduled as part of a twi-night doubleheader tonight.

SPAHN LOSES No. 18

Spahn gave up only three hits in the Giants-Phillies nightcap but two were homers—by Alex Johnson in the seventh and Bobby Wine in the eighth—and they plated loss No. 18 on the 44-year-old southpaw.

Burdette, 38, scattered six hits for his third victory, getting pinch hitter Orlando Cepeda to hit into a game-ending double play after giving up two singles in the ninth.

Willie Mays doubled to the 411th foot in left of the opener, reached third on a passed ball while Willie McCovey was being issued an intentional walk and scored the winning run as Jim Hart tapped into a force play.

Thomas drove in all the Astro runs in the opener at New York with his third and fourth home runs of the year. Rusty Staub homered for Houston in the second game and knocked in the deciding run with an eighth-inning single.

Gibson pitched a three-hitter for his 18th victory in 26 decisions and slammed his fourth homer of the season. Bill White's second - inning homer and Curt Flood's RBI single in the eighth completed the St. Louis scoring.

Marlies Seek Coach

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs announced Tuesday night that Jim Gregory, 30-year-old former rink boy with St. Michael's College in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League, has been appointed manager of Toronto Marlboros and director of the clubs' amateur teams.

Gregory, coach of the Marlboros the last two seasons in the Junior A OHA, will direct the Marlboros' minor affiliates in Toronto and two sponsored OHA Junior B clubs, Markham and West Clair.

Gregory said he is seeking a coach for the Marlies and has five candidates so far. He has interviewed Gus Mortson, who was with Galt Hornets of the senior OHA last season; Gus Bodnar, who coached Lindsay in the OHA Junior C last season; Cal Gardner, Jim Cherry, coach of Oshawa Generals in the OHA Junior A last season, and Frank Bonello, scout and coach of Marlboro minor teams the last three years.

East Germans Claim Two World Records

BERLIN (AP) — East German relay teams set two world swimming records Tuesday in a meet at Liepzig, according to a report by the news agency, ADN.

ADN said the 400-yard relay team burned in a time of 3 minutes, 38.1 seconds and the 800-yard medley team was clocked in 8:06.4.

The listed world records are held in the 400 freestyle, by Australia in 1962, and 4:08.8 by medley, by Russia in 1964.

Three-Time Champ

Somerville Cops Senior Title

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville won his third Canadian seniors golf championship in six years Tuesday by coasting to a 36-hole total of 147, five strokes ahead of his nearest rivals.

Somerville, six - time Canadian amateur champ who became the only Canadian to take the United States Amateur when he captured it in 1962, shot a 72 in the rain Tuesday. He fired a 72 Monday.

A hot putter carried Somerville to a four-stroke lead Monday and he finished Tuesday's round by sinking a sizzling 10-footer on the 18th green for his third birdie of the day.

While many of the competitors were heading home, a band of comedokers in the over 50 age division held plans for a two-ball competition today.

Second is Somerville was Bill Taylor of Montreal Kanawaki with a 76 for 152. Former Canadian amateur king Gordon Taylor, Bill's brother, tied for third with Fred Lyon of Toronto Lambton. Both had 153.

Bob Murvin of Sudbury competing in the 60 — 64 age class, shot an 82 after a hot cogging-round 76. He finished second to his division to Somerville.

Bill Gets Voice Vote Approval

WASHINGTON (AP)—Legislation to grant professional U.S. baseball, football, basketball and hockey limited 'anti-trust trust law exemptions received a Senate voice vote approval Tuesday.

The legislation faces a questionable future in the House of Representatives, which may not act on it until next year.

Baseball alone among the big - time professional team sports holds a top - to - bottom anti-trust exemption under a 1922 U.S. Supreme Court decision. The bill would exempt only baseball's sports aspects from anti-trust and grant the same exemptions to the other three.

Business operations of all four sports would be subject to anti-trust challenge.

On Canadian Team

EXPERT SHOT — Ralph Grant, 18, of Dartmouth, N.S., stands in front of some of the dozens of prizes he has won in rifle-shooting competition in the few years he has been shooting seriously. This year he won six of the seven major matches in the Dominion championships at Ottawa and qualified for a spot on the Canadian team that will seek the Commonwealth title at Bisley, England, next June. ## Youth Carries A Mean Rifle

By CAL HOLLOWAY

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—At 18 Ralph Grant stands head and shoulders above other rifle marksmen his age — in more ways than one.

The towering six-foot, three-inch Dartmouth student will be the youngest member of a team representing Canada at the Commonwealth rifle champion-ship at Bisley, England, next June.

Grant was selected for the team in August after he won the grand aggregate at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association championships at Connaught Ranges, Ont. He also won six other major events there, missing only the Governor-General's match.

It was his fourth straight year at Connaught.

He recalls he first began shooting at the age of six or seven when his father supervised his firing of a .22 in the basement of their home at Shubenacadie, N.S.

It was at that small community along the banks of the river of the same name that young Ralph later practised with a BB air rifle.

His family moved here in 1959 and four years later, when his scout troop started a rifle club he began to take shooting seriously. He won "a few trinkets" in competition after the once-a-week practices.

When the Dartmouth Marksmen Association—now the Atlantic Marksmen Association—was revived, he started shooting six nights a week.

WON MAJOR AWARDS

Ralph graduated to full-bore shooting—.303 and .308—in the fall of 1961 at nearby Bedford Rifle Range. The following year he was good enough to make it to the 24-member Nova Scotia team chosen for the Connaught title shoot.

Ralph remembers 1963 as the year he shot the Maritime circuit.

That year he won the Merchant's Cup, the prestige prize, at the Nova Scotia championships. He took his .303 to Prince Edward Island and won the grand aggregate and then did the same thing at New Brunswick.

At 16 and still a cadet, he was competing against the Maritimes' best seniors. It was the first time it had ever been done.

In competition, the 30-inch bullseye 1,000 yards away appears a mere dot behind the sights. "The prime requirements of a marksman are good hands, eyes, nerves and the ability to read wind," says Grant.

Ralph likes to try his eye on deer and small game but he says a good marksman on the rifle range is not necessarily a good hunter. "A deer has to be stalked before it can be shot."

It would be a gross understatement to say Ralph loves guns. He goes to sleep looking at them. His bedroom walls are slung with more than 25, including rifles, shotguns and handguns.

Ralph—grandson of the late Alfred E. Reid of Milford, N.S., provincial legislator and member from 1954 to 1955—hopes to enter university this year.

He says he doesn't feel his skill with a rifle will be of any advantage in a career. He works with a construction company during the summer months.

Ralph E. Myers, a veteran member of the Nova Scotia Rifle Association, says Grant has done extremely well after shooting only a few years.

"We have some darn good rifle shooters down here and there wo-" t be more like Ralph Grant if we had more facilities for shooting."

Pitching —Sam McDowell, Cleveland, allowed only one hit —Dick Green's leadoff single in the fourth inning—as the Indians whipped Kansas City Athletics 8-1 in the first game of a doubleheader.

Batting — Bill Freehan, Detroit, collected four hits, including a two-out, two-run homer in the 9th inning that gave the Tigers a 7-6 triumph over Minnesota Twins.

The Trots

McFadden won behind Adio Reta, owned by Jack Grass of Dresden in the fourth race; Tommy Direct, owned by the J. and W. Hutchinson stable of Hamilton, in the sixth; and Noble Dale, owned by Peter McCormick of London, Ont., in the eighth.

McFadden now has 11 victories in 61 starts at Greenwood. Meadow Wave, owned by Clarence Skelly of Ogdensburg, N.Y., won the first race, and Honey Dares, owned by Dr. M. Elizabeth and J. R. Forbes of London, Ont., won the second for a $12.60 daily double.

Ron Feagan of Goderich, Ont., Canada's top driver, scored his 132nd victory of the season behind Peak Pick in the third race. He drove Brother Bob to the sixth race but was beaten by a head by Tommy Direct. The two horses returned a $81.20 quinella.

Triple Shift, owned by the Mehlenbacher Stables of Hagersville, Ont., and driven by Jack Mehlenbacher Jr., won the third race, a conditioned pace for $800 with a time of 2:09 3-5.

FORT ERIE (CP)—Noel Turcotte, 22 - year - old younger brother of Ron, one of North America's top riders, rode four winners on the eight-race card at Fort Erie Tuesday and topped into a tie for third place in the national rankings. Turcotte, from Grand Falls, N.B., now has riders 82 winners this season and is just five behind the leading rider, Hugo Pittfach of Calgary. His four visits to the winner's circle also gave Noel 80 victories at Fort Erie's summer meeting, 16 more than runner-up Avelino Gomez.

Turcotte won the first two races for trainer Larry Moorhead, completing a $29.80 daily double, then won the third race with Nayno. He completed his victory run aboard Wearctic Heir in the featured seventh race.

TORONTO (CP) — George Royal, one of Canada's most celebrated handicap horses, will have here by air tonight from Vancouver to a campaign in Woodbine Race Track's 40-day fall meeting.

The horse, winner of the $100,000 added San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita early last spring, is being flown by Air Canada to avoid breaking his training schedule.

Co-owner Robert Hall of Vancouver had considered a number of methods of transporting the horse and before Air Canada agreed to transport George Royal, Hall faced the prospect of flying to Seattle, Vancouver, across the country to Buffalo and bringing the horse by van to Toronto.

George Royal, a grass specialist, is expected to operate in the $15,000-added Seagram Stakes Sept. 25, the $15,000 Jockey Club Gold Cup Oct. 11 and the $50,000 Canadian Championship Oct. 23, but says much his debut opening day, Sept. 6, in a seven-furlong allowance race.

Western Scoring Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Saskatchewan Roughrider fullback George Reed scored all his team's points with one touchdown Tuesday night as the Roughriders lost 20-6 to Hamilton Tiger-Cats to move into a four-way tie for fourth place in the Western Football Conference scoring race.

Reed's touchdown gave him 26 points in six games. He shares fourth spot with British Columbia's Bob Swift—who has a game in hand — teammate Hugh Campbell and Edmonton's Jim Thomas.

Outstanding Sportsman Is Dead

SUDBURY (CP) — Charles Langlois, 70, professional hockey star and outstanding sportsman of the Sudbury area, died in hospital Tuesday after a brief illness.

Charley, as he was known by his fans, was famed for his ability to carry the puck the length of the ice, stickhandling through the opposition and score a goal.

He started his hockey career playing defence with Sudbury Wolves in 1910. In 1920, he turned professional and joined Hamilton Tigers.

Later, he played with New York Americans and was one of the first players to step on the ice when the Americans moved into Madison Square Garden in New York.

Charley played outstanding hockey with the Americans and became popular with fans. When he stepped on the ice spectators would cheer, "clap hands, here comes Charley."

PLAYED FOR CANADIENS

He was traded to Pittsburgh Pirates in 1925 and moved to Montreal Canadiens in 1927. He finished his hockey career by playing a year each with Providence Reds, Duluth and Tulsa.

In 1932, he retired from hockey and turned his interest to golf. His golf prizes was matched by his skill on the greens.

Charley was born in Lotbinière, Que., and moved to Ottawa at the age of six. He received his early education in Ottawa and later graduated from the University of Ottawa.

After his career in professional hockey, he returned here and managed a cement products firm until his retirement in 1953.

Fischer Victory Rated As 'Masterpiece'

NEW YORK (AP) — U. S. Chess Champion Bobby Fischer won his third long - distance game of the Manhattan Memorial Tournament Tuesday night in a game that one expert said "will go down in chess history."

Fischer is cabling his moves from the club to the tournament headquarters in Havana. The U.S. state department refused to grant him a visa to visit Cuba.

Outstanding Sportsman Is Dead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Don't believe those reports that CBS bought New York Yankees last winter. The guy who really owns them is Dean Chance.

Los Angeles Angels' southpaw blanked the down - all - best American League champions 1-0 Tuesday night, running up his seventh victory over them in two years without a setback. In the three times he has beaten the sixth-place Yankees this season he has completed a 1.26 earned-run average.

Chance, whose mediocre 12-9 record offers him little hope of recapturing the Cy Young Award he won last year as the outstanding pitcher in the major, was even more brutal to the Bronx Bombers in 1964, permitting them only one run in 33 innings for a 0.00 mark.

The Yankees' chances for respectability are constantly diminishing. With just 29 games remaining, the perennial champions are 7½ games from fifth place Chicago White Sox and 8½ games from Washington Senators 4-0 and 8-4 in ten.

PEARSON GETS 38TH

Team-mate Abbie Pearson got in on Chance's act against New York, hitting a first-inning home run off Bill Stafford for the only run. The homer was the 38th of Pearson's career, nine of them against the Yankees.

Bill Freehan's fourth hit, a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth, boosted Detroit past first-place Minnesota.

Brooks Robinson hit a homer and drove across two runs in each game against Chicago. John Miller and Stu Miller combined for the first-game shutout while Steve Barber scattered eight hits in the nightcap.

Cleveland's Sam McDowell 14-10, allowed only one hit in the first game — Dick Green's leadoff single — in the opener and struck out 11 while Leon Wagner, collected a homer, a double and two singles. Kansas City won the nightcap on Ed Charles' run-scoring single in the 11th inning.

Dave Morehead and Dick Radatz stopped Washington on seven hits in the opener as Don Horton singled in two runs and scored a third. Horton won the second game with a three-run homer in the fourth.

Chiefs Go Game Up On Wings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jacksonville Sons, who had fatal hopes of making the International League playoffs with two days to go, had those hopes well and truly blasted Tuesday night.

The blasting was done by the lowly Toledo Mud Hens, who pounded Jacksonville pitching for 32 hits as they swept a doubleheader against last Year's champions' 11-4 and 3-1.

That left Syracuse Chiefs and Rochester Red Wings in the hunt for the fourth and last playoff berth and the Chiefs moved into the final day of the schedule with a one-game edge by edging Toronto Maple Leafs 4-3 while the Wings bowed to Buffalo Bisons 6-5.

The defeat dropped the Leafs half a game behind Atlanta Crackers, who were rained out at Columbus, to their contest here tonight. But the Toronto club has waived its right to open its semi-final series at home, regardless of the final standings.

WOULD MEAN CLASH

League president Thomas H. Richardson said the Leafs would be unable to open at home because a Centennial Football League game Saturday would disrupt the schedule. As a result, they will open their best-of-seven semi-final at Atlanta Friday while the first-place Jets entertain the survivor of the Rochester-Syracuse battle.

Bill Roman was a one-man wrecking crew against the Suns Tuesday, going five for five in the opener and doubling home a Toledo run in the nightcap.

Relief pitcher Guido Grilli walked in the winning run in the eighth inning as the Chiefs managed only two hits against the Toronto pitching. Dave Campbell's two-run homer and a two-base error by Leaf second-baseman Bill Millnis did the rest of the damage.

Armbro Flight Second Choice At 3-1

DU QUOIN ILL. (AP)—Rain pelted Du Quoin's clay mile oval Tuesday, preventing 11 highly - tuned three - year - old trotters entered in today's $122,245 Hambletonian from taking their final workouts.

This threw a burden on the grooms in keeping the 10 colts and the big filly, Armbro Horse of 1964, content in their stalls as tension rose for the start of harness racing's spectacular.

flight, voted Canada's Harness

The weatherman predicted clearing skies, leaving today an unblemished day. The sun would be needed to dry out the sticky, slippery track by the time the first mile heat goes off at 2:35 p.m. EDT. The entire Grand Circuit card was washed out Tuesday.

A crowd of excess of 35,000 is expected through the gates of the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds. The stands will hold nearly 25,000. There is no pari-mutuel wagering.

Unofficial odds remained a strong 1-to-2 for Noble Victory driven to 20 straight triumphs by Stanley Dancer, who will be aiming for his first Hambletonian win after five misses.

$5 RICHEST

The winner's share is $50,000 and Noble Victory, purchased two years ago for $33,000 by K. D. Owen of Houston, Tex., already has earned $280,586, to be the richest horse ever entered in the Hambletonian. He is in a favorable No. 8 post position. Armbro Flight, driven and trained by Joe O'Brien, a native of Alberton, P.E.I., twice a Hambletonian winner, is second choice at 3-to-1 although drawing the opening heat's outside No. 10 post position.

O'Brien, a 48 - year - old harness racing veteran who now lives in Shafter, Calif., won the Hambletonian in 1955 with Scott Frost and in 1960 with Blaze Hanover.

Perfect Freight, a 6 - to - 1 choice in th No. 9 position, will be driven by Clint Hodgins, a native of Chadsdowye, Ont. Toronto native John Chapman will drive the 15-to-1 longshot, Poplar Jamie, starting out of the No 11 position.

Put Your Best 'You' Forward

The "what to wear" test for your wardrobe: Is your basic wardrobe ready to cover every occasion that's likely to arise?

If you can answer one complete outfit for each — repaired and accessorized — you get a perfect score. Your clothes still have a chance to pass, though, if you can freshen them up with some special effects.

The "spot" test for your complexion: Is your complexion ready to compliment your clothes by looking clearly fresh for all occasions? Unless you're one of the blessed few whose skin can be relied upon always to reflect a radiantly smooth and untroubled surface, here's a method to help keep the spots on your skin in check:

Working on the assumption that it takes less time to prevent breakouts than it does to heal them, wash your face twice a day with a medicated cleansing gel. This will help keep your complexion spotlessly clean by clearing pore openings, while leaving soft surface bacteria. Then, after each washing, check your skin for blemished areas and wherever necessary treat them with a thin film of your gel for extra medicated protection. This treatment won't interfere with your social security, either, because the gel is greaseless and odorless, and can't be detected.

Privacy, Space in Shared Room

Achieving privacy can be a problem when children share a bedroom, especially once school time has started.

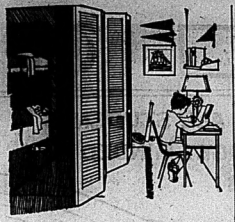
What can you do when the older child is still doing homework at his desk — and it's time for the younger one to go to sleep?

One easy and inexpensive solution is a portable screen that will divide the room and give you a bonus of more usable living space.

An attractive and practical dividing screen can be made from four accordion-fold louvered doors or shutters of ponderosa pine in any desired height. They can be obtained in many sizes, ready for finishing and hinging, from your lumber dealer, and are easy to paint or stain.

Hinges should be placed at the top, middle and bottom of each in a way that will permit the finished screen to be folded like an accordion.

Ponderosa pine is a lightweight wood and louvered doors are lighter than regular doors, moving in an problem. Added that together with less than 10 pounds that be moved easily by children. In addition, the louvers will filter out light so it doesn't disturb the youngster in bed at the same time it allows air to circulate freely.



Besides creating a private study area quickly, the screen will separate the children in their different activities, such as hobbies, so that each can have a feeling of privacy, even in a shared room.

The louver screen can also be used as a permanent room divider, or can come in handy for other uses in the house, such as screening off a dining area. The louvers have a three-dimensional effect that will add texture to any room decor.

When not in use, the screen can be folded flat for storage in a closet.

MORE DOWN UNDER

The population of Australia increased by 257,907 in 1964 to a total of 11,380,708.

Screen out a problem . . . Do study time and bedtime cause problems in your household? Creating a study area for school children who share a bedroom is easy and inexpensive. Just hinge together four narrow ponderosa pine louver doors or shutters and you've created a lightweight and decorative portable screen. It will eliminate friction at homework time, and you'll also find many other uses for this practical divider.

INDIANS PRAY FOR PEACE

STURGIS, S.D. (AP) — The Viet Nam war will turn out favorably for the United States, say four Cheyenne Indians who prayed and fasted four days as a peace gesture. But the Indians say they don't expect to arrive at a full interpretation of their dreams until they've returned to their homes in Montana and Oklahoma. Their vigil ended Sunday.

Swinging Fashions

Leather seems to express perfectly the dash and distinction the natural good looks, of the average college girl. Creamy smooth and handsome grained leathers, glowing lustres and soft suede leathers will enliven wardrobes both in and out of the classroom.

The dominant feeling is one of trim lines stressing freedom of movement. However, campus fashions reflecting every taste may be found within the broad range of textures, colors and silhouettes.

A "must" for the matriculating miss is a man-tailored coat jacket. Full-length smooth and suede leather coats are A-line in silhouette or cut on the straight and narrow. Detailing may include soft buttons, flap or slash pockets, and varying neckline treatment. Full-length and three-quarter coats, and jackets of all lengths, are campus favorites in autumn-ish browns and greens, as well as ruby, plum, blue and neutral shades.

The versatile smooth or suede jacket appears as a Chanel-type cardigan, a shirt, a blazer. It may hang straight, or be belted at the waist. Whatever the style, the jacket teams like a dream with a girl's skirts, shifts and pants.

Come snappy weather, young ladies can snuggle into a coat or jacket with a fluffy shearling lining (cool or sheer). Many conveniently zip out when temperatures rise.

New fall leather suits feature easy A-line or slim leather skirts combined with cropped or long-line jackets. These elegant ensembles move with ease through the semester's direst days.

Ski and apres-ski outfits are the latest fashion favorites of the college crowd — and leather makes ski clothes even more exciting. Snow bunnies can play it cool on or off the ski slopes in shearling-lined parkas or ski jackets in bright or neutral colors, with matching ski pants. Fun to wear during after-ski hours are leather or leather-and-fabric separates — including middies, skirts, overblouses, long and short skirts and pants.

The favored handbag on campus this fall is the one featuring simple lines, softness and lots of room. Whether it's a crushable pouch or a casually styled satchel or tote, the bag that's tops with teens can take careless treatment and still come up fresh-looking — and is spacious enough to carry all her part and pertinent paraphernalia.

The latest handbags span calmed, smooth, waxy, suede, softened and lustre textures. As for color, a co-ed can take her choice — although the deeper shades and the neutrals are fashion favorites.

Back on the style bandwagon is the shoulder-strap bag — so convenient for maids on the move. The newest version sports a shorter strap so that the bag is tucked just under the arm, rather than resting at the waist or on the hip. The strap may also be shortened to hand-carrying length when desired.

Careful, Cinderella! Guard Those Feet

Keep Menus Appetizing

Mothers, if you're getting reports from school that your youngster isn't eating your home-packed lunch the way he or she should, better search your conscience. When meals are "picked-at" at home, too, you can chalk it up to poor eating habits and initiate firmer discipline at the table. But if breakfast and dinner are downright relish, then look to other possible causes for having a nose up at your lunch.

First, it may be that you're in a rut . . . providing the same old fare day after day. Vary the soup you put in the vacuum bottle; the bread you use for sandwiches; vary the filling and cut such as fingers, bite-sized squared and triangles.

Pilotfilm bags are made to order for lunch boxes, for packages of any kind spell "surprise". Use one for carrots, cut the bread into different shapes into easily eaten slivers; for celery, similarly sliced; a wedge of lettuce; or a couple of sprigs of parsley. Pack another bag with a handful of raisins or apricots . . . ideal, chock-full of iron — nibble-food to munch on between mouthfuls of apple, banana, cookies or whatever sweet you provide for the final course.

A second possible cause for lack of mid-day appetite is the state of lunch box. Because it's closed up tight so much of the time, the interior and all its trappings tend to harbor odors.

Get into the habit of opening the lunch box as soon as it reaches home. Let the box air out and wash the vacuum bottle and plastic containers used for salads or puddings with a baking soda solution.

Long before there were glass slippers or red shoes in fairy tales, footwear was a mark of fashion and social distinction to all femininity.

But vanity has not always been fair and the feminine foot has been squeezed, pinched, poked and pushed, to name just a few of fashion's prods.

One very important foot-note often overlooked is fit. This is especially important with young people who literally "live in" certain favored shoes from dawn to dusk.

For those who will heed their advice, experts on feet and footwear have set forth the following guide:

1. Don't marry a size! It's the fit that counts, not the numbers written inside a shoe. So many different lasts are in vogue, that length and width needs vary from style to style. Heel heights can also affect size. Since high heels thrust the foot forward, more length is needed than when the foot is more equally balanced on a low heel.

2. Buy shoes at the end of the day, if possible. Feet expand during the day's normal amount of walking, sitting, and standing. Hence a shoe that feels comfortable when tried on in a shoe salon in the morning or early afternoon, might feel painfully tight at home that evening.

3. Have your feet measured every time you buy shoes to see whether there has been any change in your foot contour. The foot's muscles change, and may broaden or lengthen long after one has technically stopped growing. Since large feet are no longer a social disgrace — with 9½ the average size of high-fashion models today — a woman really need no longer pinch her feet to prove her femininity.

4. Be sure that the salesman gets an accurate take on the heel-to-ball length, as well as heel to toe. This is to make sure that he'll bring out shoes with lasts that place the foot's ball joint — the big bone at the great toe's base — in the shoe's widest part, which is called the "ball-line."

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Work started in Vatican City Monday on the installation of what will be the fourth bronze door to St. Peter's Basilica, the largest church in Christendom. The 11,000-pound first half of the door, to be known as the Porta Dell'-Angelo—Door of the Angel—is being put up. The second half is due from Milan in two or three days.

Kitchen 'Labs' Help in Schooling for Adulthood

One way to help your daughter and son achieve independence is to show them how to be at home on the range.

Can your teenage boy make himself a hot breakfast on Sunday morning if he gets up before everyone else? Or does he go hungry 'till you awaken, or, worse yet, does he nibble the first (usually inappropriate) food he sees?

If you're delayed in returning home some afternoon, can your teenage girl get the family's dinner started? Or is she helpless in the kitchen?

Now, with children going back to school, is the perfect time to start your own kitchen course in your teenagers' "schooling for adulthood!" program. Encouraging them to help in the kitchen and teaching them the rudiments of cooking is important. It is knowledge they will soon put to use when at college or in homes of their own.

Frying eggs, making a melt-ed cheese sandwich, heating canned soup, putting the potatoes on to bake . . . all will result in the range of ability of even 13 years old. So are preparing simple meals such as hamburgers and lamb chops for the frying pan and warming canned vegetable in a saucepan. With today's electric ranges, this beginners' cooking is easy, safe and satisfying.

Soon, too, will appreciate the tenderizing controls that keep even inexpensive cuts of meat tender, horizontal broilers that do both sides of the meat at the same time for sealed-in juiciness, and a meat probe that goes into the roast's centre and registers arrival at the degree of "doneness" the cook has indicated.

The "last word" in cooking is thermostatic action. Available on many new electric ranges, it maintains food at serving-warm level after the cooking is done. For both back-to-schoolers and you, this thermostatic control means the food you've lovingly prepared is always just right for enjoying.

Plan Early To Finance College Years

Food, clothing and shelter are being replaced as the largest items in many family budgets by a new trio — books, board and tuition.

On average, it costs $2,000 to keep a boy or girl in college for a year, and costs are going up.

Planning to meet this need should begin as early as possible according to a panel of Life Insurance agents.

Insurance traditionally has played an important role in family planning to meet college costs. Insurance on the breadwinner is a key element in college planning, these top insurance men say. If it's a choice between a traditional college endowment policy on the child and adequate life insurance on the father, insurance for Dad is a wiser buy.

Here's the reason: If the breadwinner dies, his life insurance benefits can be used to put his son or daughter through school; if he lives, the children will be going to school during what is probably his peak earning period when more money is available. Further, his life insurance can be cashed in, or used to secure a low-cost loan.

On the other hand, the endowment policy offers a good savings plan for families with better - than - average incomes, where the breadwinner already has adequate life insurance protection. Endowments are also popular with grandparents who want to make a contribution to children's college educations.

Here are some other factors to be considered in planning how to raise dollars for diploma:

— Part-time jobs are available on nearly all campuses, although opportunities differ from school to school. You'll find more jobs near colleges located in a major metropolitan area. A full-time job and courses don't mix.

— Loans for college costs are available from the federal government at low interest rates.

Smiling Tuna Bun . . . Charlie, the tuna bun, will bring a smile to the eyes and a lift to the appetite of back-to-schoolers. A creamy tuna filling is decked out with green pepper and carrot hat, olive eyes, and radish eyebrows, nose and mouth.

Old Friend Tuna Helps Keep Mother Smiling

A new school year means renewal of studies — and renewal of friendships estranged by a whole summer. In the spirit of happy reunion, radio-like visitations are often blurted out. Back-to-school experts therefore suggest that mother be prepared for an unexpected influx of hungry hordes.

An imaginative impromptu luncheon comes from putting such a face on a tuna bun. Make it up with pimiento-stuffed-olive eyes; radish eyebrows, nose and mouth; and give it a ratish air by adding a saucily-cocked hat of green pepper and carrot.

To make the meal nutritious as well as delicious, and a side serving of creamed peas, promptly prepared from frozen peas and an envelope of creamy onion sauce mix. Fill out the meal with a glass of milk and the crunchy goodness of Orange - Chocolate Drop Cookies.

These cookies do not require fresh oranges to be on hand — just a jar of the concentrated ready-to-use grated orange peel. Its moist, moisture-keeping qualities (in the unlikely event that there should be any left-overs) make it a useful friend to have in the larder.

Recipes for the buns, cream-ed peas, and drop cookies are listed.

"HAPPY-FACE" TUNA BUN

1 large can (13-oz.) tuna
½ cup chopped celery
½ cup mayonnaise
¼ cup chopped sweet pickles
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 tablespoon vinegar from pickles
1 teaspoon Prepared Yellow Mustard
½ teaspoon salt
3 hamburger buns, split-toasted
Garnish—stuffed olives, choice of vegetables.

Flake tuna. Add celery, mayonnaise, pickle, onion, pickle vinegar, mustard, and salt. Mix well. Toast bun halves. Spoon filling over buns. Make a happy face as you wish. Picture above a green pepper hat — stuffed olive and radish eyes for eyes —radish slices for nose and mouth. Makes 6 bun faces.

ORANGE-CHOCOLATE DROP COOKIES

1½ cups sifted flour
¼ cup Instant Mashed Potato granules
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
¾ cup vegetable shortening
1¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
2 eggs
2 teaspoons prepared grated orange peel
¼ cup water
1½ cups rolled oats (quick cook type)
1 package (6-oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
½ cup nut meats Chocolate Flavor Cake Decorations

Sift together flour, potato granules, salt, baking powder, and soda. Set aside. Cream together shortening and sugar. Add eggs. Beat thoroughly. Add orange peel to the warm water. Add flour and warm water alternately, stirring just enough to keep smooth. Fold in, the rolled oats, chocolate pieces, and nut meats. Chill dough several hours. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet. Sprinkle each with chocolate cake decorations. Bake in a 375 degree oven 12 to 15 minutes, or until done. Makes about 3½ dozen cookies.

Young Styles Have "Zing"!

The silhouette for young fashionables, Fall '65, is free and easy . . . the new Smock Look predominating. Hemlines high at the yoke, and is gathered, pleated or straight. Cluny collars, pockets, stripes and ruffles add a charming note to many of these "little swing-ers." But to give you an idea of the variety of new fall looks, waistlines are also defined from the hips with a flare of low pleats.

The adult enthusiasm for Op Art fashions is reflected in young designs too, as wiggly stripes, dizzy dots and wild checks run rampant on the back-to-school scene. Everything goes, with patterns literally out on a spree, vibrating, reverberating, oscillating and Op-erating in a crazy mixed-up way that youngsters will love. Plaids are creating their own excitement too, they're bigger, brighter and better than ever.

Young coats on new shape this season with weft-seaming that gives them a really grown-up look. Fabrics are grown-up too . . . Shetlands, bulkier tweeds, worsteds, fleecy mohairs and fuzzy, faky furs, plus little touches such as French-cuffing, corduroy trim or leather binding, all add up to that conjure look. Quilting originally used exclusively for skiwear, is now emerging as an important fabric in coats, as well as suits.

All in all, the young fabric picture for fall is as varied as an Op Art showing . . . with suits taking a goody share of the spotlight. They're in polyester wool, and cotton . . . some bonded and unbonded. Permanent-press fabrics play an important part in the plaid boom, while stretch fabrics are more popular than ever for sports-wear.

Sports clothes go in for pairing as usual but tops are anything but wool . . . embroidered sweaters and fringed pullovers are some of the new tops livening plain pants. And the exciting new pantsuit has been borrowed from the grown-ups for after-school and Saturday outings. The jumpsuit is lively as ever, and tights are still a must-play favorites, with the Op Art influence showing up these sports clothes a fresh new look.

The big new sports favorite is the big scoop . . . straps that scoop way down to the waistline. Or the old-and-reliable suspenders. Topped with 4-cornered shirt, tied at the chin, the Courreges look is the most avant one going for the school garde.

"Sweatering" is a new forward look, too — skinny knit dresses that look for all the world like sweaters that didn't know when to stop . . . great fun to wear and talk about!

Checks abound for fall, in dresses ruffled with contrast-ing color, military coat buttoned in brass and nifty knit shirts.

The Total Look is an important one too, and one that's fun. Coats are lined to match jumpers and dresses, outfits feature matching kerchiefs for a completely coordinated look, and skirts & sweaters don't mix, they match.

In dresses, the curved, high waistline attracts much interest, as does the rajah dress . . . this time around, it wears a sash. Of course, the Mods are still very much in evidence, with high-waisted dresses and little cut-away jackets, ruffles, long skinny sleeves and dog-ear collars keeping pace with the Liverpool beat.

Good Grooming Can Be Painless, Even Rewarding

If you'd like to shape up for the school year, try a little planning.

With your own bathroom, you'd have a space advantage. If you share the family bath, take over one drawer or shelf. All your grooming tools go there. Shampoos, comb, brush, your favorite hair grooming product, nail scissors and a box of cotton swabs are basics.

Since dozens of new grooming supplies are now on the market, fill in with whatever looks most interesting.

Maybe your skin gives you trouble. For a severe case of acne, see a skin doctor. Dis-coverage since blemishes be frequent, thorough face washing. In buying a blemish remedy, pick a colorless one that won't be noticed. Dabbed on twice a day with a sterile cotton swab, it will discourage spread of the infection.

Another frequent problem is dandruff. If you like, add a special dandruff remedy to your grooming shelf. To prevent spread of the scalp trouble, use fresh cotton swabs regularly to cleanse the entire ear area.

According to some malcontents, teens have the world's scruffiest nails. To eliminate this problem, keep a stiff brush handy at the sink. With a cotton swab dipped in hydrogen peroxide, you can rub away most stubborn stains. Use a good nail file and emery board once a week for a straight-edged, neat look.

If you like the neo-Beatle longhair look, enjoy it now. Next year, a fall Eyraser type may be the style leader.

See if you don't like your eye-cue from these tips from (who else?) Q-Tips.

Handknits Win Honors

Coming up soon, a new season of reading, writing and arithmetic, but mothers with school-age youngsters can do home-work now. Back-to-school sweaters are a classroom staple and women who knit can put their children on the fashion beam or roll with the custom look of handknit sweaters.

This year's choice for the schoolroom set is the "great-look" sweater — bulky, sporty styles set for action. A special collection of crew-necks, pull-overs and cardigans for both boys and girls.

Good Lighting Encourages Good Study Habits

To young people all over the nation, September means the end of a long and pleasant vacation. Time for a change, so they are eagerly looking forward to returning to school and to classmates they haven't seen all summer.

To get them off to good start and to encourage good study habits parents can help by providing well equipped, properly lighted and cheerful facilities.

Providing good study conditions need not be difficult or expensive and often may involve simply the rearrangement of a student's room. Any area selected must invite concentration and be conducive to the development of proper study habits.

Educators recommend that the basic equipment for studying include a desk, drawer space, a portable lighted reading lamp, a straight back chair and adequate lighting.

Lighting experts suggest a study of wall lamps or a single study lamp, which provides a full level of light uniformly distributed over the study area.

To take advantage of maximum reflected light, the desk should be located against a wall that is plain and light in color. Avoid dark walls covered with busy distracting wall paper or dark finishes.

The desk and chair should be high enough so that the student can sit erect with both feet squarely on the floor. A straight backed, upholstered chair is recommended.

An important study aid is a portable typewriter. Typewritten term papers, reports, etc. are now required by most high school and college teachers. Students find that typewritten study notes facilitate more accurate and speedier studying for examinations. Examination scores are recognizing that typing skills are important in a child's further education, and 8 and 9 year old youngsters are learning to type.

Educational experiments conducted by experts have shown that typing encourages clear thinking, neatness and reduces nervous strain. Spelling can improve too.

Manual dexterity may also be developed, giving the child additional confidence he can use all his fits.

New Term, New Coif

How about a new hairdo to start the new school year?

Hairdos can be a hassle unless you have the right accessories to make setting easy. If you set with rollers decide right now to get enough of the right size to do the job properly.

Have at least two combs: one with large teeth spaced wide apart for combing wet hair without damage and a smaller, fine tooth comb for smoothing. The small one should have a long handle for parting and sectioning. If you have long hair, keep a supply of end-paper tissues with help the ends smooth.

Whether you're an old pro or new to setting your own hair, you'll enjoy a new clear gel for use on either wet or dry hair. To use, just dip your fingers in the gel and stroke it on the hair. The gel disappears instantly as it spreads evenly from scalp to end, thus making the hair "hug" the roller.

Canned music, soft drinks and musicians are the perfect trio for a discotheque party. You dance to the first, drink to the second, then make the third one of the "vampires." An intriguing and inexpensive way to keep your guests entertained for hours! Just add a bit of ribbon, construction, crepe or adhesive paper, scraps of material you have around the house, and some fun-loving imagination.

Canned Music, Canned Musicians Make Fun!

Are you and your school crowd members of the discotheque set?

The discotheque originated in France, swam the English Channel and then crossed the Atlantic before anyone could say "yeh yeh."

Discotheque actually means "record collection" but usually refers to the numerous little cabarets where dancers gyrate to phonograph records. This activity is called the Frug which was spawned by the Twist. The Frug, in turn has sired variations known as the Monkey, the Hitchhiker, the Holly Golly, the Fish and the Watusi.

Other than a record player, discotheque recommend s all only for lighting an the din side and dressing a la mode. A discotheque dress is keyed to black, often crepe and has a lower neckline. The skirt has something going on at the hemline — flounces, flaring, ruching, petals or embroidery. The dresses are a mite shorter too — right to the middle of the kneecap.

While the mechanical orchestra blares away, hostly your guests with finger foods, like pizzas, attractive but h e a r t y nibblers. They're easy to handle on the fringes of mayhem.

For this kind of soiree y o u also need a supply of canned soft drinks. Get the drinks in a variety of flavors — including low-calorie — so you'll be sure to please everyone. Cans chill quickly so you can put them in the refrigerator at the last minute.

And during a refreshment break, cans won't break even if subjected to the frenzy of an enthusiastic Watusi Waggler.

If you'd rather have punch, you can get delicious varieties by combining the flavors of lemon with cola, ginger ale or with ginger ale, etc.

Another advantage of canned soft drinks is that you can turn the empties into perfect table decorations for your discotheque party. In no time at all you can have your favorite "canned singers." All you need are f o u r empty soft-drink cans; p i n k, white and black construction paper and cellophane tape.

Cover 1/3 of each can w i t h pink paper for faces and draw in the features.

Cover 1/3 of each can with black paper to form the jacket, then draw in the tie and buttons.

To make the legs, cut t w o pieces of blue paper 2"x4", roll each into a tube 4" long and secure with Scotchtape and fasten them to the bottom of the can.

Cut a strip of black paper, ½"x3" for hair and cut o n e side into fine fringe. Tape across the front of the head for bangs. Fringe another strip 2"x8" and tape around back of the head. Cut a circle of paper to fit the can, fringe and attach to the top of the head.

Adorn the walls with records cut from black construction paper and labeled with the titles of the most popular discotheque lines.

Well-chosen Fun-projects Stir Curiosity

Lucky is the youngster w h o learns easily. A family can help in many ways with books, games, and puzzles that make learning a pleasure. Most of these items are low in cost and so widely available at variety stores that choice is wide.

"Keeping a child's curiosity alive is the secret of learning," reminds Dorothy Rase, an editor with Whitman Publishing Company. "A youngster wants to make discoveries. Family interest, outings and books a l l help."

A book about sea creatures could prompt a trip to the aquarium. A child's book on astronomy could inspire a planetarium visit. A book about animals of long ago could lead to a day at the natural history museum. Aunts and uncles or older brothers and sisters are often

1. Add pedicuring to regular beauty routines. Quick a n d easy, weekly pedicures a r e worth their weight in walking comfort. Plan to pedicure after a bath, when tootsies are moist-ones are soft. To prevent i n g rown toenails, cut the n a i l s straight across and not shorter than the flesh. Polish is not a requirement, but it does add a pretty touch.

2. Watch for trouble s i g n s. From sandal wearing, s t r a p burns, and tiny calluses may be developing. These roughened areas need attention, lest they turn into real problems. Forget about bathroom surgery. Instead, offer your aching ball, massage a little petroleum jelly over both feet. Ad an extra dab to the rough spots. Although not a cosmetic, petroleum jelly effectively soothes and smooths the skin.

Keep Plenty of Foods Handy In the 'Refrig'

Homework and studying always seem to require research — in the kitchen refrigerator-freezer.

If your youngsters seem to be eating their way to education, perhaps it's time to assure them of a n a d e q u a t e, never-ending supply — and save yourself those extra trips to market, too — with an electric refrigerator-freezer large enough to meet your family's needs.

According to the N a t i o n a l Electrical Manufacturers Association, the basic size requirement for your family includes eight cubic feet of interior space for two adults, two cubic feet for extras, and two cubic feet for each additional member of the family.

Storing a refrigerator-freezer with nutritious snack-time treats takes some imagination. Here are some good suggestions:

If you're making hamburgers for supper, make a few extra. Wrap and put them in the refrigerator, unwrapped. Add lettuce and tomato on the n e x t shelf. The convenience of these delicious sandwich makings can appeal to a hungry school child more than but a box of Shirts, fully approved by boys and their mothers, too. Colorful, full-cut — tailored of a new Permanent Press cotton by Dan River that's crease-proof, needs absolutely no ironing.

Colorful Shirts Brighten School Scene

Come fall, come football and fractions — and though some boys may admit it only grudgingly, the start of the new school year has a special excitement. Along with facts and figures, there is swapping summer adventures with old friends and a new wardrobe to replace the one outgrown. Though they grumble about dressing up, boys do enjoy new clothes.

Replenishing a boy's wardrobe usually starts with shirts and in a crisp, clean shirt any boy can pass muster — even if he did forget to wash behind his ears.

A new group of colorful, comfortable, well-cut sports shirts just out are sure to get every boy's resounding approval. And busy mothers will appreciate their carefree qualities for they are made of a 100-percent cotton cloth with a new Permanent Press Process that is crease-proof and needs absolutely no ironing. The shirts are machine washable and even when tumble-dried, still emerge without a wrinkle. According to the Textile Dyn. Institute quality colorfast fabrics can be washed along with other white and colored clothes with no fear of color change.

Checked and plaided with the precision of the new math, the convertible-collared shirts are available in a range of favorite boy colors. Older brother's checked shirt comes in red, blue, green and black with white; his younger side-kick's in red, blue or green plaid. And the vat-dyed colors will stay bright for the life of the shirt.

Free Handyman Plan . . . Build Desk-workbench

A desk that converts into a workbench is just the thing for a busy student-craftsman. An available free plan shows how to build such a unit that is designed to provide many years of service.

When the kid is down, the big 30"x48" top is a perfect place to spread out books and other materials during hom ework sessions. To transform the unit into a workbench, just lift the top and snap a hook into place. A deep trough f or tools and supplies is located behind the workbench.

This desk-workbench is designed to present a neat appearance, as well as withstand hard wear. The unit is covered with plastic-finished Marlite paneling, which can be damp-wiped clean. Stains, grease, paint and crayons will not mar this plastic-finished hardboard.

To obtain a free copy of this desk-workbench plan, send a post card to Handyman Plans, P. O. Box 220, Dover, Ohio 44622. Ask for Plan No. 103C

Packing Tips For Students

In addition to the extra credits of light weight, looks and status, leather luggage is stronger and more pliable than ever. Thanks to new tanning methods, leather absorbs scuffs, bumps and rough handling without a puncture, tear or dent.

A leather two-suiter, with accompanying soft leather carry-on-case or duffel bag, should see the college through. The canny co-ed can do with a pullman case (from 26" to 30" long), a 21" weekender, and a fitted cosmetic case. The flexibility of the leather sides allows for maximum packing space.

When packing, pad each fold in jackets, dresses, etc., with loosely gathered tissue paper to avoid wrinkles.

Each garment should be fitted as nearly as possible to the size of the suitcase to get the least number of folds.

Be sure that lapels and collars lie smooth. Fold garments with sleeves smoothed back against the front.

If any skirts or dresses are to be folded, do so near the waistline rather than the hem.

In a man's two-suiter, drape pants and jackets carefully across the frames provided, according to the manufacturer's directions. Shoes, shirts and the rest should fit snugly into the opposite compartment.

Shoes should be covered. Tuck socks, hankies and other small items inside as a spacesaver.

A Watch Is So Welcome!

Wondering what to give that certain young man heading to college? A handsome modern watch will bring a warm glow of pride to any young man. Today's watches are as practical as they are smart and will bring their wearer years of precision performance and pleasure.

The new watches feature rectangular and square shapes that reflect a masculine simplicity and boldness and they are attractively banded.

If the young man in question already has a watch, a jewelry gift, is still ideal. Cuff links, tie liners, identification bracelets and key chains in gold or silver are also welcome, as is an attractive ring.

USES MILES OF CABLE

The world's largest nuclear power station, now under construction at Wylfa, Wales, uses 1,500 miles of four-inch-thick wire cable to support the concrete vessels containing the reactors.

Easy Does It In Hair Care

First of all, give yourself a back-to-school treat of having your hair cut by a professional hairstylist.

After the cut, you can help bring back the lustre to your hair by nightly brushings. Even if you've heard the "one hundred strokes" line so often that you're bored with it, brushing your hair is still the best way to achieve those healthy highlights. Be thorough — but do be gentle. Bend from the waist and brush from the nape of the neck to the floor, being careful not to snap the brush at the end of each stroke.

Hair cut to chin-level has two-fold benefits for the busy schoolgirl. It is short enough to be neat and attractive, yet long enough to be worn up when desired. And with the added body from a home permanent, such as Lilt, you'll be able to eliminate some of those tiring nightly settings.

EASY-TO-CARE-FOR HAIR-DO plays up your face charm. A permanent will help to give your hair the "body" it needs.

This versatile desk-workbench will do "double duty". With the lid down, it provides an excellent spot to do homework. With the top up, the student can use the workbench area for hobby work. Washable paneling provides an easy-to-maintain surface.

'Pressing' Engagements? Here, Tips!

Wash-and-wear fabrics often need light touch-ups. Always follow special label instructions for laundering and ironing. Acetates (taffeta, satin, etc.) should be ironed when damp on the wrong side to prevent shine. To avoid water-spotting do not sprinkle these fabrics. Acrylics should be laundered and dried carefully for quick touch-up ironing. Polyesters, nylons and triacetates sometimes need light touch-up pressing on the wrong side of the fabric. Use a thin, dry press cloth to prevent shine on hard finish worsted.

Wash and wear cotto ns can be steam-ironed according to your instruction booklet.

Overtime at the Library is well spent . . . in view of the company kept and the young man's handsome cardigan sweater with distinctive brushed texture. In handsome masculine colors accented with contrasting stripe-effects.

Hints on Making Start In School Easy

The story goes that a neighbor told an apprehensive young mother whose daughter was entering the first grade, "Don't worry dear, you're not losing your child; you're gaining a PTA."

Be that it may, starting to school can be a trying experience for mother and child. But experts advise that by following certain rules the transition for both can be made easier, and even enjoyable.

The burden of preparing for school and helping the first-grader over unfamiliar hurdles naturally falls on mother. To help make her task easier, here is a compilation of helpful hints.

Long before school starts, take your daughter (or son) shopping for new clothes, school bag and other supplies. Let her help in the choices — it will give her confidence in making decisions. If she is not familiar with the school, take her there for a visit before opening day. Refer to it by name and in every way possible, build excitement and anticipation in the child.

If you accompany her the first day, be casual and confident. Any display of nerves, apprehension, or tears on your part will almost certainly frighten the beginning student.

If you are tired, or your headaches, take two aspirin tablets. By the time your little darling comes home, you'll be refreshed for the next round of activity.

Mother's home routine will be drastically altered when daughter starts to school. What used to be a free-and-easy schedule must now be planned to accommodate school hours, possible car pool services, and other duties. Afterschool activities for the first grader, either at school or home, must be planned so the student explores new worlds and relationships.

Emphasize Individual

It's a fond farewell to the little red school house, which is fast disappearing from the North American scene.

In its place stands a modern center of learning, which unlike its archaic counterpart which treated students as a group, places its emphasis on the individual student.

According to Dave Chapman, one of the country's foremost industrial designers, "Flexibility is the theme. Everything about the school must be flexible — from the furniture, to the walls, and even to the building itself".

The philosophy of education calls for school architecture somewhat like a hollow box, Chapman said. "The steel walls are adjustable partitions, which are tailored to the load of education. Even the community is unaware of how big the load will be. The interior walls may be moved as frequently as four times a day. This is something that cannot be done with concrete, only steel."

The furniture is not fixed to the floor as in the days when the red school house flourished, but must be movable and versatile. For instance, the children may form a circle of their desks during oral readings; or desks may be butted to form tables during art period.

THIEF NEEDS PRAYER

FOLKESTONE, England (CP) Prayers were said at St. Paul's Church in this Kent coastal town for the thief who broke a £250 stained glass window to break into the belfry. Said the vicar, Rev. A. H. Gibson, "I feel pity as well as indignation. The offertory box the thief forced open was empty."

NAME STREET AFTER MAO

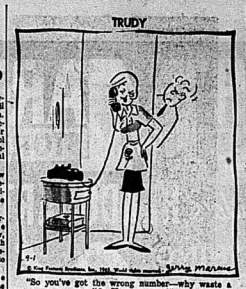
TOKYO (AP) — A boulevard in Phnom Penh, capital of Cambodia, was named after Communist Chinese party chairman Mao Tse-tung today, the New China news agency reported. A broadcast heard here said the boulevard was named at a ceremony presided over by the Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk.

Pens, Pencils, Paper... and A Green Thumb

Youngsters who bring classpotted plants to teacher this fall are not just polishing the apple. They are contributing attractive and useful materials for the thousands of grade school and high school teachers engaged in teaching the biological sciences.

First hand instruction on how and why plants grow gives elementary school pupils in particular a dramatic insight into the mysteries of nature.

Children find it easy to understand nature's reproductive cycle as they see plants grow, mature, flower and put forth seed. Those in turn are frequently collected and used to grow new classroom plants.



More advanced lessons are taught as the children note the effects of various plant foods that contribute to the plants' growth. Clay potted plants also provide valuable insights into plant life.

Clay pots, since they are porous, behave in much the same way as natural garden soil. They drain off excess water, leach out excess harmful salts, and allow the passage of air to the roots.

Local florists and garden supply centres can offer the best advice on what plant will be best for your youngster to take to school. Best idea is to get those that have good keeping qualities and will survive over weekends and long school holidays.

MANY LIVE IN COMFORT

About 2,500,000 homes in the United States now are completely air-conditioned.

"So you've got the wrong number—why waste a call?—How are you?"

FORMER PREMIER BURIED

BEIRUT (AP)—A state funeral was held in Baghdad Monday for former Iraqi premier Rashid Ali Al Gailani, the nationalist leader who staged a pro-Nazi revolt against the British in Iraq in 1941. Gilani, 72, died Saturday.

Let Nutrition Experts Help Plan Menus

With children back in school mealtime scenes of delight are once again a familiar sound as youngsters open their lunchboxes as if they were presents under a Christmas tree.

Boys and girls love to find delicious surprises to show their friends. Sometimes they even swap with pals for an A-ple, or a piece of cake for a slice of pie.

To help busy h-m emakers plan the midday school meal, professional nutritionists suggest protein - rich meat, or cheese sandwiches on whole wheat bread, raw carrot and an oatmeal cookie. The big surprise that will bring the squeals of delight in this lunch can be found in the vacuum bottle. It is creamy Banana Milk Shake made with fresh ripe bananas and reinvented evaporated milk. The smooth rich drink is perfect nourishment for growing boys and girls. And you can be sure it is one lunchbox treat they won't trade away.

To make four servings of Banana Milk Shake combine:

2 cups evaporated milk
2 cups water
4 med. ripe bananas, mashed ¼ cup sugar

Mix evaporated milk and water; slowly add mixture to bananas. Shake in jar or beat well before serving.

Watch Your Figure . . . Others Do!

Today's teens are so busy they barely have time to hold hands. Constantly on the go, they rush from classes to extra-curricular activities, football games, dates and part-time jobs.

For many of today's teens are notorious "junk" eaters. Skipping meals, they nibble on empty calories of potato chips, French fries and drinks, etc. Such fare may be responsible for the fact that at least 1 percent of all teenagers are overweight — and almost one-third of the high school co-eds are trying to do something about it.

This fact is disturbing, and frequently lead teen-agers to pass up essential foods. What's the answer? It's not in skipping meals. Instead of running off to school on an empty stomach, a wise teen should try using a breakfast. It's also a good substitute for those potato chips and candy bar lunches.

But for social reasons, most teens snack. In fact, one-quarter of the daily food most teenagers eat is at snack time and many of these typical snacks are heavily loaded with calories: 10 French fries count 155 calories; 10 potato chips, 110; one doughnut, 135; and a chocolate milkshake, 320.

No teen will want to eliminate snacks entirely — it stifles the social life. Down at the corner drug store or snack shop, a diet-ite soft drink may be the answer. At a study break at home, fresh fruit or celery and carrot sticks will provide healthful but low-caloried snacks.

Let Student's Room Cater to Individual

Studying in the living room is better than not studying at all, but it won't hold a candle to a room with privacy, study aid and conditions that encourage a youngster.

"Face the facts that a child is a human being with emotions and senses that rebel at the thought of serious study in a noisy living room," suggests Miss John Concord, home planning consultant. "Could you do homework amid confusion?"

In the average home, the logical place for a study is the bedroom, the consultant points out. The door can be closed to shut out the noise. But there are other considerations for parents.

"A youngster needs curtain aids," Concord continues. "They help create a cozy atmosphere. Quiet can be established by curtains at the door. Finished desk, chair, light, heat, ventilation, equipment such as typewriter, pencils and pencils are right, but they are by no means everything.

"Is there a rug? It's needed to help establish an "atmosphere" which is helpful to most effective study. Are the walls and ceiling attractively finished and decorated with suitable pictures, maps and the like? Are the windows draped or curtained to please the boy or girl?"

Room heating is important, for no student can concentrate on his books when shivering. In hot, humid areas, parents might consider air conditioning as well.

Concord comments that "little things like these have an important psychological effect on the youngster's attitude toward his room and its function as a study place."

Some can work with music in the background; others can't. One likes a counter-type desk and another a conventional one. One type of chair is good for one and uncomfortable for another.

He suggests that the boy or girl help plan the room and participate in making it an ideal "home within the home."

"Where two boys or two girls occupy the same room, beds may be separated by means of filigree hardboard or Peg-Board dividers. Separate desks and study facilities are a must, too, in this situation.

He says woodgrained hardboard wall panels help establish a "homey" comfortable atmosphere in the dual bedroom-study. The boy or girl can help Dad install the panels right over old plaster or furred walls. This exercise will be helpful in giving the child a sense of ownership and responsibility.

Woodgrained walls — for example, have a rich appearance plus dent and wear-resistance. They make an excellent background for photos, school exhibits, artwork, charts and maps. Besides, Concord points out, they are easily maintained by occasional wiping with a damp cloth.

Are these room improvements "just for a kid" important? The home planning consultant feels they are. He says that the cost in dollars is minor compared with the benefits reaped by the student and his parents in the long run.

Keys to Being a Good Guest

When you go to a party, you want to be sure your behavior is such that you'll be invited back. Here are a few tips:

Don't let your feeling free and sway-from-the-hand keep you from being your better, responsible self.

Be sure to make-your hostess feel at home. Remember who invited you — not Sue or Johnny, really, but Sue's or Johnny's mother who made the invitation possible.

No need to jump up every time she enters the room, or to strew her path with roses, but do show you're considerately aware of her. Include her in the goings-on (if she's interested), make her feel welcome in her own house.

Don't eat too much at home, yourself. Feel relaxed and happy, of course, but don't sling your leg over the arm of a "good" chair, don't put your feet on the coffee table.

Keep in mind, too, that a delicate balance should be maintained . . . if your host is on the sloppy side and leaves a trail of punch on the table, wipe it up unobtrusively. If you happen by — don't risk his or her disapproval by "showing him up."

If circumstances warrant it, offer to help, but don't run around being obvious about it. If the party "don't just sit there . . . help your friend and host with conversation, with things to do, something the whole crowd would enjoy, and not entail any problem or inconvenience to your hostess and friend.

Most of all, remember you can learn a lot by mingling with other people's patterns. Fit into them, yet remain your own interesting, interested and well-mannered self.

The debonair look is achieved by wearing a suit with a narrow British accent enhanced by a vest in Tattersall check. A case in point for the casual "country" look favored by urbane, style-leading U.S. college men.

Back to School Casual 'Country' Look

This fall marks a big change in men's college wear. Campus togs are more comfortable than ever with the new Casual Country Look. British-inspired, the highly masculine fashions include herringbone suits, vests and hopsacking jackets, reminiscent of Oxford and Cambridge.

Sensationet is a new dress shirt design that is smashing with tweedy suits and jackets. Available in stripes or solid colors, it features a long-point collar that either takes a pin or goes it alone.

Thick brushed sweaters, in Hudson Bay stripes or heather-blend solid colors go well with these dashing clothes. Most college men will choose button-front cardigans with smart saddle-shoulder styling.

Even dress shoes will follow the Casual Country Look. Fashionable young men will be wearing beefy wing-tips and brogues . . . all with grainy textures . . . and will welcome their heavy emphasis on comfort.

The last word in sports shirts is Madras. Exciting new woven Madras patterns have the look and feel of linen. These shirts can be worn either tucked in (trousers or just hanging loosely).

As usual, blazers are a blast! Students find that the traditional blazer can go any place that the sport coat can . . . and then some.

Develop Children's Fashion-wise I.Q.

How do the junior members of your family rate on the fashion I.Q. scale? Give them a test and you'll probably learn that they have a genius score! Children have a natural affinity for fashion. Encouraging them to develop this innate gift sense can save a busy mother wear and tear, hurry at the tearing board and frazzled nerves. Furthermore, she'll give the pencil box and jump rope set confidence by teaching them the ABC's of good grooming and young chic. All it takes is a drop of psychology and a dollop of imagination. Here are some how-to tips:

— Put good grooming aids in the children's rooms. A little girl will be delighted with a hair ribbon rack, a closet rack that's just her height, her own clothes brush, a fashion bulletin board to pin pictures of her favorite styles, a bubble bath set. For a boy, a grown-up belt and tie rack, a clothes brush, a small "valet" chair and shoe shining kit will go a long way toward encouraging him to be neat . . .

— When selecting children's clothes, keep an eye on the fabrics with the "magic" touch that children love and busy mothers demand — drip-dry, synthetics and plaids. They offer special ease-of-care and guaranteed-fast-color freedom. Look for clothes that are ready-treated with a stain repellent finishes to defy spills and stains. When milk or any other juice is the culprit, no — spill on a fabric treated with repellent, it will bead on the surface and can be blotted away in an instant. Also, this fall for the first time, it is available in a do-it-yourself spray can so that the housewife can apply it herself to washable or dry-cleanable attire — dresses, slacks, snow-suits, raincoats and hundreds of other items.

Other "magic" helpers to watch for: wrinkle proof fibres, the new permanent press features that keep Junior's pants crisply-creased and Suzie's pleated! Don't forget to tell the children about the "magic" finishes — they'll be as delighted with their care-free clothes as you are.

— Keep color in mind when buying children's clothes. Coordination is the keynote of any smart and well-kept wardrobe. Sometimes there's a tendency to buy appealing clothes for children that don't match. Bright colors are children's favorites. Why not let your child pick his favorite color and plan a school wardrobe around it? Children are likely to treat things that they select with loving care.

— Encourage children to keep drawers neat and clothes accessible by making labels a part of the bedroom decor. Paint child's dresser a bright color. On the outside, label with block letters: Socks, Pajamas, Slips, Gloves. Or let children cut letters from magazines, and shellac on. Make the bottom drawer a child's private property with the label: "Secret Treasures."

WAGES RISE HIGH

Average weekly wages in Canadian industry rose from $75.44 in 1939 to $42.96 in 1949 and $81.59 in late 1962.

Plan Room For Proper Rest

No doubt about it, going to school is hard work.

The day-in-day-out schedule of classes, extra-curricular activities, and nightime home work can be demanding for a youngster.

When back-to-school time nears, it is a good idea for the parents to check the child's room, to make sure he will benefit from the best combination of study and rest environment.

Here are a few check points:

1. Work space should be adequate for reading and writing assignments. Set aside a study corner in student's room, including perhaps a desk or other suitable equipment.

2. Pay careful attention to lighting. Try reading in the room yourself, and if the light seems inadequate to you, protect the youngster's eyes — and increase his study efficiency — by adding to or rearranging the available light for best results.

Experts suggest you examine the mattress for bumps, dips, depressions, uneven borders, and broken springs. It should be firm and resilient, requiring considerable pressure to force a depression. Check the box springs, too, for broken coils, lumps and sagging.

You'll want to have the bedding provide ample space as youngsters are bigger these days, and extra length might be in order. Sealy, the bedding maker, suggests you take to your studies sleeper to the store and have him test a mattress for both size and comfort by lying down on it.

How to Cure Dog's Back-to-School Blues

Back-to-school days can be lonely ones for your dog. He wakes up, ready for a romp, but everyone is busy getting ready for school. During the day, the house is quiet, the yard deserted. Poor Rover begins to think nobody loves him.

Though it sounds far-fetched, an abrupt change in the family routine often affects a dog's personality. Your pet may suddenly start running away, barking a lot, chewing things up and generally acting like a "dog-linquent."

What he really wants is more attention. You can cure his back-to-school blues by spending a little extra time with him. Use those moments to good advantage, making improvements in his appearance, health and manners.

For instance, now is an excellent time to spruce up his coat. With the change of seasons, he will be shedding a great deal. Brush him several times a week to remove loose, dead hair and bring back a healthy gloss to his fur. With regular brushing, he'll need fewer baths, and you'll not be bothered by "doggy" odor.

Ask your veterinarian or home economist for tips on how to help you locate a training class.

Home Hair Dryer a Boon

With much less time for wearing rollers than you usually have in summertime, you'll quickly discover that a home hair dryer can be your most important hairdo helper. A portable model is a wise investment for busy schoolgirls. With it, both hands are free for doing homework or housework once you've put on the perky floral bouffant bonnet.

KING OF DISCOVERY ISLAND — Ernest Godfrey Beaumont of Victoria bought Discovery Island near Victoria in 1918, added a clubhouse, a bunkhouse, canoes and rowboats, and since then has played host to some 20,000 boys from British Columbia youth and church organizations. He believes each boy is born good and only needs the right kind of young life to remain good. Despite his 90 years and a leg that won't bend, he sculls a racing shell around his and neighboring islands several times each week. Descended from royalty, he is gentleman by breeding, a promoter of the Islands by vocation and a captain by popular acclaim. (CP Photo)

Discovery Island King Still Active at 90

By JACK BRAUCKMANN

VICTORIA (CP) — Weather has creased a gentle face and 90 long years have bowed a ramrod back.

One leg won't bend and its mate isn't as steady as it used to be. But at the wheel of a launch breaking through choppy seas the back straightens and the legs can still do their work for Captain Beaumont.

Descended from royalty, he has been undisputed king of Discovery Island near Victoria for nearly half a century.

He is a philanthropist who has donated 400 acres of choice parkland to British Columbia and a sportsman who, despite his 90 years and game leg, sculls a racing shell around his and neighboring islands several times each week.

But he is best known in British Columbia for a role that has given him the most pleasure in his life—playing host over the years to some 20,000 boys from B.C. youth and church organizations. Some who are ushered to his island in bootloads every summer.

He believes each and every boy is born good and only needs the right kind of young life to remain good.

"I think the boys found a part of that 'right kind of life' here on Discovery," he says.

HAPPY ROYSTERERS

The boys have been coming since Captain Beaumont and his wife purchased the island in 1918. He believed the blue waters of the Pacific the sandy clam - filled beaches and the trees, hills and verdant meadows provided a perfect environment for youngsters.

To the natural facilities he added a clubhouse, a bunkhouse, canoes and rowboats—all to help make happy boyhoods for city kids. More recently he has bought an army surplus jeep equipped with a siren.

"The boys get a big thrill roaring around the island with the siren blaring," he says.

Boating, fishing and swimming play a large part in the outdoor life of the boys but Captain Beaumont has never had any serious accident with any of his charges.

"From time to time a lad fell overboard but no one minded the dunking because it was such a spectacle," he says with a twinkle in his eye.

The captain has had long experience teaching youngsters. In his early days in England he tutored and prepared the son of British gentry for university or Sandhurst military college. His pupils included the cousin of Field Marshal Montgomery and the son of Gen. Sir Arthur Paget.

Captain Beaumont's own boyhood was marred by an accident only a few days before his 12th birthday. A football injury nearly cost him his leg. After a series of operations by Sir James Paget the leg was saved although it remains rigid to this day.

TOURED WORLD

The lad's injury ruled out his planned career in the Royal Navy but young Beaumont was not one to be tied down. He toured the world, indulging in such activities as riding camels in the Sahara and shooting rapids in a canoe on Swiss rivers.

He was first urged to see and consider settling in Canada by the Earl of Minto—a family connection and governor-general of Canada from 1898-03.

The captain's family history is sprinkled with titles but the ancestor he likes best is his great-grandmother.

When established with his young bride at Discovery, Captain Beaumont went to Hong Kong and ordered his first yacht —the 45-foot, 30-ton Discovery Isle. The Discovery Isle was wrecked in the Straits of Georgia in 1930.

While he was waiting for the boat to be launched he took a six-month course that won him a certificate to command a 50-ton ship.

His third boat, a small motor launch called Discovery Isle III, now provides transport to and from Victoria, five miles away. Once a year, however, the captain sculls the distance "just to give the youngsters a shock."

GENTLE BACKGROUND

His wife, the former Constance Ida Hay, formerly was a willing partner in the island adventure until her death in 1952.

She lived this rough but nobly although it was far from the life of her youth," he says.

Miss Beaumont had been raised in the gentle upper-class atmosphere of Edwardian England as the daughter of a parson in the distinguished banking firm of Currie, Glyn Mills and Currie.

The Beaumonts had no children of their own. Instead they played step-parents to the thousands of boys who romped on the beaches and in the meadows of Discovery Island.

Having lived the life of a retired gentleman for these many years, the Captain's sole income is from early investments, including some annuities purchased about 35 years ago.

"That was a coup," he says. "My life expectancy when I bought those annuities was 16 years. I've been living free for almost 20 years."

Eric Fleming Not Sorry On Leaving Rawhide Series

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Viewers of the long-run western, Rawhide, will be wondering why star Eric Fleming went thataway. The reason matters to television, it was a question of money.

The ruggedly handsome actor can be found these days at MGM, without the sideburns and shaggy hair he sported in Rawhide. He is well clipped and tailored for his role in the new Doris Day comedy, Glass Bottom Boat.

"You can't imagine how pleasant it is to wash with a washed face and have a cup under your feet," he said. "And with girls. There is something deeply about working for seven years with a male cast."

Don't get the idea that Fleming is complaining. He seems to be one of the best-adjusted actors around. He didn't even mind being dropped from Rawhide, although it meant the loss of a tidy fortune.

DELAY DEPARTURE

Fleming admitted that he entered the series hesitantly. After 10 years of median sarcoom on Broadway, he decided to head for the Pacific lotus he had known during the war. But Hollywood kept delaying his departure with nothing doing. One was in the pilot of a western series.

"I figured nothing would come of it," he recalled. "The first script was aimed at the guest stars, and I was only one of eight regulars. I was astounded to see the final version and find Clint Eastwood and I were the stars.

"Then I never thought it would sell. CBS couldn't give the show away, finally put it on at 6 p.m. in order to help half-sponsorship. Within a month sponsors were in line to sign up."

After 6½ years it looked as if Rawhide had come to the end of its dusty trail. CBS announced the series was being dropped, then a change of management reversed the decision.

"At first I decided I wouldn't continue with the show for a million dollars," said Fleming. "But then they came up with a deal that virtually amounted to a million dollars! I had to reconsider."

Fleming told the network he would be willing to continue, but then the bosses apparently had second thoughts. It was decided to continue Rawhide with Clint as the star.

"That's perfectly understandable," said Eric. "It's the natural progression of a television series to have one star emerge.

"Take Wagon Train. It started out with 24 wagons and long locations. In the second season there were 12 wagons and fewer locations. They kept up with one wagon, half a wagon for process shots and no locations."

Fleming finds himself in the delightful position of never having to work again, his earnings having been spread into future years.

"I'm learning to live again," he said. "I'm getting back to the things that interest me—art, writing, scenerography, fishing. This picture came along, and I might do one in Europe, where Rawhide was even more popular."

"But most of all, I want to get back to those Islands. But when I go this time, I will go to stay."

STARS PLAY TORONTO

Stratford Festival stars Mervyn Blake and Martha Henry will head the Canadian Players cast during the Toronto part of his 1958-59 season.

HAS TWO ON TV

Toronto writer George Robertson has two plays on CBC-TV this fall, Mr. Member and Point of Impact.

Modernized Library Is Town Cultural Centre

DESERONTO — A new entrance to the Deseronto Public Library was constructed recently. The new aluminum doors, canopy, cement steps and wrought iron railing have given a new appearance to the building which has for many years been the library.

The library was established in 1906 and was first located at the corner of St. George and Edmund streets. Mr. A. P. Brown as librarian. In 1909 the library was moved to the upstairs of what was then the Town Hall and which is now the Firehall. On March 20, 1931 a fire destroyed these quarters and a great number of the books were damaged. After this the library was moved to its present location on Main street. During the years from 1931 to 1965 there have been different librarians, Miss Helen Cronk, Miss Flossie Hall and Miss Mary Mitchell.

Mrs. Dorothy McCullough was appointed librarian in September 1933 and it was due to her efforts, with the help of her husband, Mr. Jack McCullough, who wrestled with the old wood heater and similar problems, that the library was able to remain open as a cultural centre in the town.

Four Dressed As Policemen Rob Mail Truck

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Four armed men dressed as provincial police officers robbed a mail truck near here early today, but apparently escaped with little in the way of loot.

Postmaster Tom Tyrrer said that only one bag, containing about 300 pieces of mail, was missing. He said there were seven registered letters in the bag, which would mean the maximum amount of cash would be $700. The law allows a maximum of $100 in each registered letter.

Every available policeman from the Peterborough and Lindsay OPP detachments was pressed into the search for the armed men, but there were few clues. The mail truck driver said he could not get a good look at his assailants.

Allan Correll, a 24-year-old truck driver, said he was on his regular Peterborough-Lindsay run when he was hailed on the highway by three flares.

He said four men in police uniforms shone flashlights in his eyes. One man bopped on the running board on the driver's side and another jumped into the cab of his truck. He was ordered to drive down a sideroad and into a field.

He said he was pulled out and ordered to unlock the back of the truck, which the men broke out the mail, they locked him in.

He managed to break his way through the roof of the truck later and telephoned police.

Mr. Gorrill said all four men were armed and had accents.

POLICE PROBE THEFT

Mr. Gorrill described his experience after the quartet stopped his truck:

"They pulled me from the truck and ordered me to stand with my face to the side of it with my hands up.

"One of them stood guard with his gun and another forced me to unlock the rear of the truck.

"One of them told me not to make any false move or I wouldn't go home tomorrow."

After he was ordered into the back of the truck, he immediately tried to force his way out but a shot was fired.

"I sat down in the corner and heard the wooden fire again. I didn't want to die.

"About 10 minutes later I heard a car and they left."

He waited briefly and then smashed his way free and "ran to the nearest civilization" on Highway 7.

TRAVEL WOULD HELP

TORONTO (CP) — Pierre Dalcourt, Canadian International Railways vice-president, suggested Thursday that travel by Canadians in their own country could contribute to Canadian solidarity. Canadians should get to know each other and when they do "they will not voluntarily aggravate problems which can be solved by a combination of good will, common sense and necessity," he told a luncheon of directors of the Canadian National Exhibition.

Crime Rate Going Up

By CLAUDE HENAULT

MONTREAL (CP) — "Faced with the increase in crime, society is justified in being worried," Claude Wagner, Quebec justice minister, said Thursday.

Mr. Wagner told delegates at the fifth International Criminological Congress here that crime rates were increasing rapidly everywhere in the world.

As an example, he said, "Canada's population increased by 2.9 per cent between 1961 and 1963 and crime increased by 32.3 per cent.

"In the United States, from 1958 to 1962, while the population had increased by seven per cent, the crime rate rose 27 per cent." During the same years in England, based on the number of accusations, crime increased by 43 per cent, the minister said.

This skyrocketing crime rate prompted him to suggest the United Nations set up a study project on "world-wide organized crime."

TRACK DOWN CRIME

The UN should "by its researchers, its surveyors, by using the great resources which it has and the many listening posts at its disposition in almost every country of the world, try to track down world-wide organized crime.

"I think that the UN could be of great service to the administrators of justice in all the member countries by undertaking a study, a great-fact-finding inventory of criminal potential throughout the world . . ."

Mr. Wagner then turned to the existence of, international criminal rings right in his own back yard, the province of Quebec.

Investigations, he said, have disclosed that members of a certain criminal gang "were able to make off with approximately $700,000 in a period of eight to 10 months by resorting arson, false bankruptcies and by borrowing money fraudulently.

Intend No Discrimination Against Canada in Bill

WASHINGTON (CP) — Authors of a bill to replace the U.S. immigration ceiling of 120,000 persons a year on Western Hemisphere countries say no discrimination against Canadians is intended or likely at present.

A spokesman for Democratic Senator Sam Ervin of North Carolina, who successfully moved such an amendment last week in a Senate subcommittee, suggested Thursday that "Canada has not got much to worry about."

However, he said Canadians seeking entry to the United States could face competition if a population explosion in Latin America causes a sharp increase in applications from there or the Caribbean.

Righ now, on the proposed ceilings, first-come basis, Canadian immigration to the United States could rise substantially without bumping into any 120,000-person ceiling.

But Canada is worried, in principle. External Affairs Minister Martin at Ottawa called the Ervin amendment "a regressive factor in our traditional arrangements with the U.S., insofar as the movement of our people is concerned."

Prompt representations were made to the state department. No development on the Ervin amendment are expected until next Wednesday, when it may come before the full Senate judiciary committee.

There has never been any restriction of immigrants from Canada or the rest of the hemisphere, beyond such normal requirements as proven good character and ability to earn a living.

The Ervin amendment, taking the U.S. government by surprise, was tacked on to a bill already passed by the House of Representatives. The bill sets

Pearson Ready To Offer Services For Peace-making Role In Kashmir

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said today he is prepared to offer his immediate services to help bring about a ceasefire in Kashmir.

Mr. Pearson's statement said External Affairs Minister Martin had informed the high commissioners of India and Pakistan Thursday that the prime minister would be ready to mediate in the Kashmir dispute.

The statement said ". . . it would be prepared to offer my immediate services to help bring about a ceasefire in Kashmir and for such other purposes as the two governments might agree would be helpful in improving their relations in this situation."

External Affairs Minister Martin Thursday called in separately for talks Indian High Commissioner Bejoy Krishna Acharya and Pakistan High Commissioner Sultan Mohammed Khan.

Mr. Martin declined all comment except to say that the talks were very important and that they involved the situation in Kashmir.

It was understood, however, that Mr. Martin spoke in support of the appeal of United Nations Secretary-General U Thant for a ceasefire between India and Pakistan in Kashmir. It has been suggested that Canada refrain from becoming involved as a mediator in disputes between India and Pakistan.

FEEL OUT CANADA

In recent years, there have been periodic reports that Canada might be asked to mediate the Kashmir dispute. But nothing came of them, and Canada has not got out to the Canadian government in this regard.

The present situation may be different. In fact Canada, instead of waiting for an invitation from both sides, might be offering its good offices.

Since 1949, Canada has provided nine members of the military observer mission in Kashmir. The Kashmir operation, now supported by an 8,000-man UN observer force of seven, was the UN's first peacekeeping venture.

NEW DELHI (AP) — India claimed its forces shot down Sabre jets in fresh fighting that erupted in southwest Kashmir at dawn today.

A spokesman countered that it had shot down an Indian plane and damaged two others.

The Indians said one Pakistani F-86 Sabre jet was shot down in aerial combat and another was hit by Indian ground fire and crashed in Indian territory.

Official sources in Karachi, Pakistan, said one of its jets was damaged by Indian fire but landed safely on Pakistani territory. They said the Indian plane was shot down 21 miles northeast of Jalhot as six planes attacked a Pakistani army convoy. Two others were damaged, they added.

In Rawalpindi, a Pakistani news agency quoted an official Pakistani spokesman as saying Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin has written President Mohammed Ayub Khan, urging restraint in the Kashmir crisis.

U.S. State Secretary Dean Rusk sent appeals to both sides Thursday night to stop the fighting. UN Secretary-General U Thant has sent similar appeals.

In Ottawa, External Affairs Minister Martin called in the high commissioners of both countries for separate talks on the crisis and indicated Canada sees the possibility of Canada undertaking a mediation role was gaining ground.

An Indian defence ministry spokesman also charged that Pakistani jets strafed a Moslem mosque near the town of Jhalot, which it pretty well destroyed.

Quoting reports from Srinagar, Kashmir's summer capital, he said armed attacks strafed the Moslem house of worship in the Jaurian area and that 30 to 40 civilians were killed when the mosque was destroyed.

There has been no other confirmation by Indian officials of casualties, military or civilian.

The aerial combat was the third air clash since Wednesday in southwest Kashmir, was fought over the Akhnoor-Chamb sector of the border, inside Indian ter-

Canada Proposes Collaboration With Russia on Arctic Jobs

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has made a formal proposal to Russia for a continuing exchange of scientists in the fields of northern construction and transportation.

The announcement, which has been hinted at ever since six Russian construction engineers arrived in this country 18 days ago, was made by Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing at a farewell luncheon for the Soviet delegation here Thursday.

The leader of the Russian group, Andrei I. Shilnyev, said he agreed "such an exchange for scientific observation of problems of common interest" would be very useful to both countries.

He indicated his country would accept the proposals as outlined in a letter from Mr. Laing to the Soviet government.

At a press conference following the luncheon, Mr. Laing elaborated on his earlier announcement. It was the hope of his department that there could be an immediate exchange of one scientist from each nation.

These technical experts, still to be selected, would be specialists in the field of construction of the permafrost lands of the Arctic north of the Arctic circle.

Neither Mr. Laing nor Mr. Shilnsky would comment on the extent of such an exchange but earlier the northern affairs minister had said he was hoping for a permanent arrangement.

The Canadian note, Mr. Laing said, also suggested an exchange in 1966 of three-men delegations. These delegations, too, would be interested in permafrost problems.

Permafrost is frozen earth a few feet below the surface which never thaws. Conventional foundations collapse as the active soil above the permafrost shifts with the change of seasons.

Mr. Silvinsky did not make clear just what the Soviet Union hoped to gain from the exchange. He has said all along that Canada was doing a good job in the north but "you have nothing new to offer."

During their tour of 27 communities in Canada, most of them in the north, the Soviets showed particular interest in the use of light, native materials in construction.

Mr. Silvinsky would not deny a report Wednesday that his country was interested in buying a type of portable home manufactured by a Calgary trailer firm. But he said "we will have to study the plans" before any decision could be made.

Negroes Planning March

PLYMOUTH, N.C. (AP)—Negro leaders planned a civil rights march today to defy a local ordinance and test their right to demonstrate.

Another segment of the Negro leadership in this racially-troubled eastern North Carolina town met with a bi-racial Good Neighbor Council Thursday night and the council chairman said a "great deal of progress" was made.

About 100 law enforcement officers, including about 30 state troopers, remain on duty.

The racial tensions have brought violence in Plymouth twice in the last eight days. Two persons have been injured and seven arrested.

Another demonstration by civil rights workers was scheduled Thursday and a police permit was issued. However, Negroes decided to postpone the demonstration until today and march without a permit.

"If we had marched today it would have been with the white man's permission," Golden Frinks, field secretary of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said Thursday. "We want to exercise our constitutional right by marching Friday."

More U.S. Marines Go Ashore

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnamese troops swept a wooded area near Saigon which was bombed by U.S. Air Force B-52s Thursday but failed to make contact with Communist guerrillas, a U.S. military spokesman reported today.

The government troops turned up a cache of weapons but no Viet Cong bodies, the spokesman said. The area was the Ho Bo wood 20 miles northwest of Saigon.

A generally buoyant and optimistic view of the past and coming years is given by labor leaders on the eve of the Labor Day weekend.

Labor Minister A. J. MacEachen says the last year was one of "real accomplishment." Although some areas and people have not participated fully in the country's progress, government-programs such as the area development scheme and several provincial training programs are mobilized to improve the situation and "will lead to a long way towards our goal of

Bodies of Two Boys Found In Ashes After Barn Fire

BOLTON, Ont. (CP)—Police and firemen Thursday discovered the bodies of two nine-year-old boys in the ashes of a barn destroyed by fire here.

They think Gary Bullock and David Downey had been playing in the Bullock family barn and were caught unawares by the fire.

A search of the area around the farm was begun Thursday when it was thought the boys might have accidentally set the fire and fled to escape punishment.

Howard Bullock, owner of the farm, was away working at the time of the fire, and Mrs. Bullock was in town shopping.

Bolton is 16 miles northwest of Toronto.

Liberal-Labor Coalition Possible in British House

LONDON (CP) — Speculation about an informal coalition between Harold Wilson's Labor government and the small Liberal membership in the House of Commons was revived today after the precarious political balance in Britain was given a new jolt.

Sir Harry Hylton-Foster, a former Conservative who had been the nob-voting Speaker in the Commons for six years, collapsed and died in a London street Thursday.

Wilson must find a replacement from the parliamentary ranks, either from his own side or the Opposition's. And there's the rub.

Conservative circles said Thursday night that Tory leader Edward Heath is likely to balk at any suggestion that the vacancy be filled, either directly or indirectly, by a Conservative.

Most of the small Liberal group lack the necessary experience.

Sir Harry's death leaves two vacancies in the House. The other is created by Sir Harry's death, his majority will be reduced to one.

The right-wing Daily Express calls today for a general election as the only alternative to bringing a "new epoch-ess" into British political life. It cautions that Conservatives against helping the government by accepting a Tory appointment to the vacancy.

From every side comes speculation about the effects of Wilson's decision to call on the Liberals, inducing Jo Grimond's supporters to side with Labor—at least on such crucial issues as votes—by putting aside such favored Labor programs as the nationalization of the steel industry, which the Liberals oppose.

The pro - Liberal Guardian comments, however, that the possibility of a Liberal help "seems remote, though the party does not seem averse to providing it help."

Wilson is expected to meet with Heath and Grimond within a week to discuss the situation

Public School Enrolment Up 150 Over Last Term

When the fall school term opens next Tuesday, enrolment in the city's 14 public school system will be up anywhere between 100 and 150, it was stated today by schools' superintendent L.A. Campbell.

The anticipated enrolment is about 5,220 as compared with the 5,030 enrolled a year ago.

There will be about 800 kindergarten pupils toddling off to school for the first time.

But to take care of the increased enrolment at least seven additional classrooms will be put into service.

These include four rooms at the new Parkdale public school addition, two rooms at the Harry J. Clarke School and one room at Queen Victoria School which was not used last year.

The two unused rooms at the Harry J. Clarke School have been built previously to provide for enrolment expansion.

Getting ready for the Tuesday school opening, an induction class for new teachers at the public schools' staff was held today at the Harry J. Clarke School.

Attending the induction class were 39 teachers new to the public school staff, together with the principals from the city's 14 public schools.

The Ervin amendment would take effect July 1, 1968. The ceiling of 120,000 would not include the families of immigrants. At the same time, there would be a presidential committee to examine Western hemisphere immigration.

MIGHT SUGGEST CHANGES

Rep. Feighan said the modifications in the original Ervin formula, which would have given Canada a limit of only 20,000 immigrants annually. The justification given for the Ervin amendment is to put U.S. immigration on an equitable global basis without discrimination for the Western Hemisphere.

But critics regard it as a device to avoid any big influx from Latin America or the Caribbean.

In the last 145 years, the United States has accepted approximately 40,000,000 immigrants—35,000,000 from Western Europe and less than 5,000,000 from Latin America, and 1,000,000 from Asia.

There were 34,074 Canadian emigrants to the United States last year. There were 32,967 Mexicans, who ranked second in numbers.

Kemptville Area Toured by 4-H Clubs

On Wednesday, September 1, three carloads of 4-H members from Hastings County visited agricultural points of interest in the Kemptville area. Members of the Hastings Corn Club and the Senior 4-H Club first stopped at the farm of Mr. Earl Connell of Spencerville. Mr. Connell presently is growing 285 acres of corn and is harvesting with a picker sheller. It is dried and used mainly to feed his 6,000 turkey flock.

Following lunch, members toured the Eastern Breeders' Incorporated where Dr. McLean, general manager, explained their program. Members also had an opportunity to see one of the bulls now in service. The next stop was at the Kemptville Agricultural School. Mr. John Dalrymple greeted the group and outlined their activities with regards to the school farm, the research projects and teaching facilities.

The last stop of the day was a visit to the Co-operative Feed and Fertilizer Plant in Kemptville. Everyone was prepared concentrates and fertilizers supply the local Co-operatives in the area from Hastings to the Quebec border.

Kalvin Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Sharp, Stirling, R.R. 3, will attend the American Youth Foundation's leadership Training Camp at Stony Lake, Oceana County, Michigan, for a two-week period in August 1966. Kalvin will be the 4-H Agricultural Delegate from Ontario at this camp.

Recently he was the Hastings delegate to 4-H Leadership Week held annually in Guelph, at which each county is eligible to send its outstanding 4-H Club member. During this period, all 4 members are interviewed for different outstanding awards. It was at this time that Kalvin was selected for the American Youth Foundation Leadership Training Camp.

800-seat Auditorium Will Be Placed In New Secondary School, Let Contract

After months of talks and cost paring discussions, members of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board have decided that after all there should be an auditorium in their proposed new West Belleville High School.

At a special meeting last night board members voted to award the school construction contract to E. M. Sullivan & Sons at a figure of $3,385,202.

The contract however, is subject to approvals by the Ontario Department of Education; the Ontario Municipal Board, local councils of the municipalities included in the Bay of Quinte High School District.

The contract provides for the 800-seat auditorium as was originally proposed, but to save costs certain deletions were made including final paving, the cinder track and field preparations and landscaping.

OTHER DELETIONS

The deletions and additions, along with other minor items in the building itself, total $107,297. The M. Sullivan and Sons original tender was reduced by this amount.

The school board official said today that the necessary department and local approvals for the contract would be received within the next few weeks, following which the contractor would commence work.

When tenders were opened some weeks ago, prices were higher than anticipated and

'Centennial' Name Chosen For High School

The much discussed fourth new high school to be built by the Bay of Quinte High School district in West Belleville is to have a name in keeping with Canada's centennial year.

Yesterday at a special meeting of the board called to study, on a construction contract for the new building, board members decided the school name would be "Centennial Secondary School".

The name eventually chosen by the board had been suggested by several students in a school naming contest, but until yesterday had not been seriously considered by the board members.

School board secretary Ray Dulmage said he felt the name was appropriate in that the building would be officially opened in Canada's centennial year.

stimination of the 800-seat auditorium was considered as a means to pare costs. Instead of the separate auditorium a combined cafeteria-auditorium was being considered.

MAY OPEN IN 1966

However, the final outcome was for the separate auditorium to be retained and costs pared by deletion of landscaping and other items.

Despite the summer delay in contract specification discussions, almost all hope had been given up for completion of the school by opening of the 1965 fall school term and there was talk of a limited school opening.

But today there was a glimmer of hope that at least some of the academic classrooms might be ready for September 1966.

The contractor said that he would do everything possible to have some of the classrooms ready by September 1966," said a board official.

But there were no promises.

Believed Govt. Put Pressure On CNR Hotel

By BEN WARD

OTTAWA (CP)—Why did the CNR decide to complete work in its dispute with hotel employees over adoption of the new federal labor code?

Although everybody connected with the situation is tight-mouthed on the subject, most observers here believe some sort of government pressure was involved.

Announcement of the CNR action agreement on Wednesday came as a complete surprise. It arrived just six hours after the wreckup of a lengthy cabinet meeting at which the matter was discussed.

Core of the dispute was the CNR's insistence that its hotels do not come under the new federal Labor Code that establishes the $1.25 hourly minimum.

The labor department had ruled that CNR hotels were under the code, even though all other CNR operations are assigned legal opinions to the contrary.

This conflict came to a head when the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers struck and placed that the CNR adopt the minimum wage for its Chateau Laurier here or face a strike on Labor Day.

Both the CNR and the union have been ready to talk settlement as late as Wednesday noon. At the same time, reports of a conflict between the two cabinet transport ministers were gathering steam.

On Wednesday the two ministers emerged arm-in-arm from the cabinet room only for the benefit of photographers and reporters who were waiting to question them on the reported split. The ministers wouldn't talk about it.

One reliable informant said Thursday there was a compromise reached between the two ministers. But he wouldn't discuss it in detail.

News of the agreement came in a joint statement from the CNR and the union.

OTTAWA (CP) — Strength of the Canadian contingent serving with the United Nations force in Cyprus is being reduced to below 1,000 men for the first time since the force was created in the spring of 1964.

Officials said Thursday the Nicosia zone headquarters of the six-nation force, in which Canada is playing a major role, is being disbanded as a UN economy measure. The Canadians are leaving for home right away.

Another zone headquarters eliminated, the Canadian contingent will number some 980 men: 730 in the 1st Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles; 85 in the Royal Canadian Dragoons Reconnaissance Squadron; 100 in the Canadian contingent headquarters; and 15 with UN headquarters.

Canada's troop strength was extended by the UN Security Council last June for six months to Dec. 26.

Later this month, the 2nd Battalion, Canadian Guards, will replace the Queen's Own, another strength unit will be supplemented by a 130-man artillery unit, also from Camp Petawawa, Ont.

Informants said the UN mandate in Cyprus is likely to be extended again before the Dec. 26 expiry date barring some unforseen flare-up between, unforseen settlement of the problem. Greek- and Turkish Cypriots have been feuding on the island since December, 1963.

Pearson Goes Into Seclusion At Hill Home

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson went into seclusion today until after Labor Day, Sept. 9.

An aide said the prime minister plans to fish and rest at the summer residence of prime ministers on Harrington Lake, north of the capital.

He said it was unlikely Mr. Pearson would have anything to say about a possible fall general election any earlier than next Tuesday, within a day of the deadline Mr. Pearson set himself for clearing up the question.

Governor - General Vanier is expected to return to the capital from summer residence in Quebec Tuesday night.

Prime Minister Pearson would have to make the formal request for the dissolution of Parliament to the Governor-General if he plans a fall general election.

The aide said the prime minister has no meetings scheduled at Harrington Lake with party officers and there is no possibility that Mr. Pearson will meet Gen. Vanier before the Governor-General returns here.

Mr. Pearson said earlier this week he would make up his mind whether there will be a general election by next Wednesday, but hoped to do so earlier if possible.

New Federal Political Party In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Formation of Le Bloc du Quebec, a new federal political party which plans to enter candidates in every Quebec riding in the next federal election, was announced Thursday.

A pamphlet handed to reporters at a news conference announcing formation of the party said the bloc "does not propose separation of Quebec from the rest of Canada, but insists upon respect for the principle of equality between the two nations, by means of a new constitution."

A six-page manifesto, read to reporters by Montreal journalist Andre Lecompte, a spokesman for the group, set out the following aims if the party is elected to Ottawa:

1. Recognition of all sovereign ties Canada has with other countries;

WANT NEW SYSTEM

2. Formation of a new parliamentary system under a president and two chambers, one representing Quebec, Canada and the second French Canada;

3. Creation of five economic regions for the country — the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario, the Prairies and British Columbia;

4. Rewriting of the constitution to give French-Canadians "justice and representation;"

5. Abolition of political ties which are "harmful to the steady deterioration of the country."

Within a few days at least five members of Parliament will join Le Bloc du Quebec," said Mr. Lecompte, who also announced the party's plans to field a full slate of candidates in the province. He declined to name the MP.

FOUGHT LIKE CANNIBALS

HECHINGEN, West Germany (Reuter) — Nazis terrified, but fought each other over the brains of Russian soldiers executed at Dautmergen concentration camp, a Jewish witness told a war crimes court here Wednesday. Szymon Tuchendler, 44, of Haifa, was giving evidence in the trial of four former SS men charged with complicity in the murder of inmates at several concentration camps.

He gave this account:

India had informed the Indian embassy in Peking that Pakistan's use of American military equipment.

India claims American-made tanks spearheaded the Pakistani attack which crossed the international frontier and the United Nations ceasefire line at the Kutch area.

Pakistan has received 48-ton M-47 Patton tanks as well as F-86 Sabrejet and F-104 jet fighters under a military aid program.

India has acknowledged that the Pakistanis struck five miles into Indian territory, but claims the attack was halted after the fall of the towns of Biyawa and Kanjarkot.

A foreign ministry spokesman in Karachi, Pakistan, said Wednesday night Pakistan is studying UN Secretary-General U Thant's appeal for a ceasefire.

He had no comment other than the appeal was received and is being studied.

Money Supply In Hands of Public Rising

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada apparently has established its plenty-of-money-at-high-cost policy.

The yield on new Government of Canada 91-day treasury bills returned to its post-1962 peak of 4.49 per cent at Thursday's regular weekly auction. It has been above the four-per-cent level for six weeks.

But the central bank, through its control of chartered bank cash reserves, has been expanding the supply of money in the hands of the public rapidly since mid-June.

Though there was some cutback three weeks ago, the money supply in the hands of the public rose last week to $18,777,000,000 or $21,000,000. Government of Canada deposits in the chartered banks have been easing off in the same three weeks, dropping by $80,000,000 last week to $717,000,000.

A feature of Thursday's regular weekly statistical report from the Bank of Canada was a burst of $263,000,000 in Government of Canada deposits in the central bank, bringing them to $291,000,000 on Sept. 1. This is believed to stem from the government's recent $450,000,000 bond sale to refund bonds which matured Sept. 1.

Violent Storms Lashing Italy, 36 Known Dead

ROME (AP) — Torrential rains pelting Italy for three days caused floods from the Alps to Sicily today raising the known death toll to 36. Another 25 persons are missing.

Hardly a city or village in all this country of 50,000,000 persons was spared the violent storms, which showed no sign of letting up.

Scores were injured and thousands homeless.

This was the picture across Italy:

The area of Trapani, on Sicily's western coast, was hardest hit. A cloudburst Thursday hiked 21 persons. Twenty others were reported missing.

The city was flooded, without electric power and all but cut off. Authorities declared a state of emergency.

The death toll in the Rome area mounted to nine with six more missing. Thunderstorms continued today, driving hundreds of persons from homes in low-lying areas.

In the Orvieto region, between Rome and Florence, the death toll rose to seven, including five persons killed when a creek suddenly overran a highway.

Bar Association Group Urges Making Some Abortions Legal

TORONTO (CP) — Legalizing of abortions in several circumstances was urged Thursday by the criminal justice section of the Canadian Bar Association.

The section at the association's annual meeting adopted a resolution calling on the federal government to relax the Criminal Code to give power to special provincial boards to authorize now-illegal operations to terminate pregnancy. The boards could be set up or not, as each province would choose. Abortion would be made legal in for the victims of sexual crime, in cases where birth might endanger the physical or mental health of the mother, or where there was substantial risk of a child being born with a grave mental or physical disability. The last point would cover thalidomide babies.

Antonio Lamer of Montreal, chairman of the Quebec criminal justice sub-committee, said it appeared to put the provinces in the position of defining criminal offences, a prerogative reserved to the federal government.

SEE PRECEDENTS

Others thought there were precedents in delegation of powers.

The criminal justice group acted on a recommendation from its British Columbia subsection sponsored by Samuel Freedman. The issue originally came before the bar association two years ago but was tabled for further study. Whether the proposal will get the backing of the full association this time appeared doubtful.

Will Not Lay Any Charges For Bare-breasted Ballet

CALGARY (CP)—The attorney general's department in Edmonton instructed its Calgary agent not to prosecute charges of holding an indecent exhibition that might have been laid against the African ballet, Calgary Police Chief Ken McIver said Thursday.

Chief McIver said he was told by the department's Calgary agent, Edward Adolphe, that Mr. Adolphe had been instructed by Deputy Attorney-General John Hart in Edmonton not to prosecute.

Chief McIver, who had warned that charges could be brought against the ballet's Calgary appearance if female performers appeared with uncovered bosoms, said he was notified of the department's instructions by Mr. Adolphe Thursday morning.

Later, Chief McIver said in a brief announcement that no charges would be laid against either the ballet or its Calgary sponsor.

Women members of the troupe appeared bare-breasted at a show before 2,762 persons at the Southern Alberta Jubilee Auditorium Wednesday night. A second show was scheduled Thursday night, apparently because of interest triggered by controversy surrounding the ballet.

The ballet, organized by the government of Guinea in 1948, has toured some 200 countries. No charges were brought against the troupe at recent appearances in Vancouver and Edmonton.

Hurricane Betsy Whips Past The Bahamas

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Betsy, a tightly-knit but extremely dangerous tropical storm, whipped harmlessly past The Bahamas today with winds up to 150 miles an hour.

Weathermen said its eventual course still is uncertain and residents of the Eastern seaboard probably will have to worry about the storm for another week.

"I wouldn't want to take any bets on what it is going to do," said forecaster Raymond Betsy. "About the only consolation you have is when it gets level with your latitude, the changes are pretty slim it will turn back."

"It could run on for a week," he said. "It's going to be another two or three days before we have any firm idea on whether any part of the East coast is going to be threatened."

CHANGES COURSE

Betsy has changed directions half a dozen times in the last three days as she churned the tropical Atlantic east of The Bahamas.

Late Thursday night, the weather bureau said Betsy would probably maintain a northwesterly track at eight miles an hour that carried it 100 miles east of the Outer Bahamas.

Betsy was centred about 165 miles east of San Salvador. It was about 540 miles east of Miami.

At Cape Kennedy, plans to mate the Gemini 6 spacecraft with its Titan II booster were postponed until next Tuesday because of the uncertainty of Betsy's course. Officials said the postponement would not delay the Oct. 25 launch date.

Farm Unions Plan to Seek Cash Donations

REGINA (CP)—Farm unions in the three Prairie provinces now plan to seek cash donations from the city to help drought-stricken farmers in Eastern Canada buy feed grain, a farm union official said Thursday.

Roy Atkinson, president of both the National Farmers Union and the Saskatchewan Farmers Union, said in a telephone interview from Saskatoon that plans to provide a 3,000,000 bushel gift of feed grain had to be changed because railway box cars are not available for the shipment.

Farm unions in Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan earlier announced the plan to provide the gift on a two-to-one system with Western municipalities and Eastern Townships.

Mr. Atkinson said: "In talks held with the Canadian wheat board we were told the heavy commitments of railway rolling stock to carry grains to seaport terminals for shipment to export markets meant that cars just wouldn't be available to move the feed grain gift."

Farm union officials decided to seek cash subscriptions for the fund which will enable the feed grain to be bought in Eastern Canada.

The collection plan now is to arrange that farmers, when they deliver grain this fall, sign instructions to elevator agents to deduct from their cash tickets the amount of money required for the amount of feed grain the farmer wishes to donate. These contributions will go to the central fund.

"We tested a sample group of farmers with this idea and that is 15 per cent receptable," Mr. Atkinson said.

He said it is hoped the fund will be started by the last week of October.

West Wall Of Building Now Going Up

TRENTON — Almost unnoticed, the west wall to the Weaver building on Dundas St. West is "going up." You could say, "going down," as workmen are putting blocks in place from a scaffolding fastened to the roof of the building and overhanging the Fraser and O'Neil property.

Meanwhile, the Quinte Realty Company, one of whose principals is Gerald A. Weaver, has issued a writ against the town, claiming damages of $15,000 for council's "failure to comply with the town's building by-laws." A general presumption is that the charge has reference to the Weaver building in downtown Trenton, the west wall (or the lack of it) was exposed when the old Century Theatre was torn down by D. R. Fraser and Hugh O'Neil to make way for an office building. Mr. Weaver had "flashed" the roof of his building to the theatre's east wall and had not construct an outside west wall to his building.

Failure to come to any sort of agreement with Fraser and O'Neil was rights to enter upon their property to build a west wall, Mr. Weaver then endeavored to have council pass a permissive by-law by the terms of which he could enter upon the land, backed up by the by-law. Council turned down Mr. Weaver's request.

the fullest use of our manpower resources.

"To me, the most significant thing about many of the new and expanded projects in the labor field is that they are based on co-operation, not only with employers and unions, but with the provinces, where co-operation has long been productive."

Less encouraging, as Canadians prepared to set out on long-weekend travels, was the Canadian Highway Safety Council prediction that 75 persons would die and 2,200 would be injured in traffic accidents during the three-day weekend.

Travel by commercial carriers also appeared to be heavy. In Nova Scotia Air Canada added extra flights to Boston, to Montreal Air Canada, Canadian Pacific Air Lines, Canadian Pacific and Canadian National Railways have all scheduled extra equipment for the weekend.

Hotel and motel owners were also reporting heavy bookings. A spokesman for the Queen Elizabeth Hotel in Montreal said most rooms were booked "months in advance," and in Alberta, resort owners in Jasper and Banff reported they have been booked solid for months.

Usual Papers Were Appealed

TRENTON — High school principal at Trenton, John Garrett, said today that Grade 13 results at the local school were comparable with other years, and that no more than usual papers were appealed. In many communities across the province there has been much dissatisfaction this year with the marks coming out of the June examinations.

Mr. Garrett said a large percentage of students who attended summer school at Queen's University this year, passed supplementary examinations at the end of the course and four of the 40 who attended get their Grade 12 diplomas as a result of trying the "supe." Students from Grade Nine to 12 who failed in one or two examinations in June were given the opportunity of taking the summer course. In some cases, students who had passed took the course and tried the supplementary exams in order to achieve better standing in certain subjects.

PASS MILLION MARK

Trenton's building values have passed the million dollar mark. With August's values standing at $252,713 for the 26 permits issued from the office of building inspector William Anderson, values for the year stand at $1,026,721. Largest item on August's list was a permit for the erection of a medical building in west Trenton, valued at $125,000. Six permits were issued for new home construction; values, $81,000.

Club Thanked For Financing Child's Stay

TRENTON — For the first time in the history of the Trenton Kiwanis Club, a parent has written in to thank the club members for financing his child's stay at the Salvation Army summer camp at Roblin Lake.

For a number of years, Kiwanians have arranged medical examinations for the boys and girls; paid bus fares to and from the camp and supplied spending money and small camp comforts for the underprivileged children who otherwise would not have a holiday away from home.

After last week's Kiwanis meeting, the club members gave some serious thought to putting on a Travel and Adventure series of films at this year's meetings. Professor Roy Shoemberg told the members that the series of five film shows had proved to very popular with Kingston Kiwanis across Canada. At each showing, the person who took the movies is present to explain and narrate.

Kashmir Dispute

Increasing hostilities between India and Pakistan are the outcome of years of bickering over disputed Kashmir.

The reasons for the dispute are obscure, but in the ultimate they involve not only disputed territory, but also that intangible element, prestige.

Most conflicts down through the ages can be traced to questions of prestige and the need to save face. And these are felt most keenly when the parties to the dispute occupy the same land mass and essentially are one people, as in the case of India and Pakistan.

India and Pakistan appear to be equally at fault. Having failed to settle the dispute over Kashmir and the so-called Rann of Kutch (a desolate region in the frontier area) amicably, both have been guilty of infractions of the United Nations cease-fire line.

The fighting is complicated by the indirect involvement of the big powers—China's friendly attitude toward Pakistan, Russia's support of India (now reported to be cooling off somewhat) and the use by India of American military equipment obtained during the period of the border war with China a few years ago.

Kashmir could become the crucible for yet another dangerous eruption in Asia. If it does it will be even more pointless than the one in Vietnam, for it has nothing to do with the overall ideological struggle between east and west.

Now Aden!

Palestine . . . Cyprus . . . The Congo . . . Algeria . . . and now Aden. The pattern of terrorism has preceded independence in these and other parts of the world continues.

Aden, not yet independent, is part of the British-backed South Arabian Federation and site of a big British military base. A U. N. resolution in 1963 preceded independence and self-determination for the federation territories.

Last Sunday, Police Superintendent Harry Barrie, was shot dead by gunmen in Aden. And on Wednesday night, Sir Arthur Charles, Speaker of Aden State Legislative Council, suffered a similar fate.

Neighboring Yemen claims the federation as part of its territory. Presumably, if the British withdraw Yemen would immediately press its claim by force of arms.

This, briefly, is the background to yet another of the world's trouble spots, one where limited warfare has been conducted on and off for years.

Movie Legends

The history of the movies is reflected in the lives of the actors and actresses whose faces are familiar to most of us. Such is the power and influence of the movies that those who were young when Rudolf Valentino was around can still recall the magnetism of his personality.

And there was Greta Garbo, another who became a legend in her own lifetime and who is still very much alive, though living mostly in seclusion.

Movie stars come and go. A few, like James Stewart and Cary Grant, span the generations and seem immune to time, others shine briefly and then fade into oblivion. But now and again a familiar name rises from obscurity — like Brian Donlevy, of the clipped mustache and acid tongue, who has been appearing at the local drive-in far call from his days as a star of the silver age, in a horror film called The Curse of the Fly — a far call from that fine film of a decade ago, an American Romance, in which he played the role of a poor European immigrant who established a business empire in the United States.

Another interesting but seldom-seen performer is Ricardo Montalban, the Mexican actor who starred with Cyd Charisse in a memorable Walt Disney film called Fiesta, some years ago. Now Montalban has a swashbuckling role in a film to be shown at a Belleville cinema in a near future. With him will be that master of the macabre and interpreter of Edgar Alan Poe, Vincent Price. Swords play on the high seas will be a new experience for both. Shades of Douglas Fairbanks and Errol Flynn.

These are the ones who keep going, turning up in a film now and again. What of the others? There is a whole band of movie performers of the recent past who seem to have called it a day.

Does anyone remember Hurd Hatfield (The Picture of Dorian Gray) or Philip Dorn, who appeared with Charlotte Rampling in Concerto, a film based on the life of the composer Rachmaninoff? And what has become of such luminous screen beauties as Madeleine Carroll and Danielle Darrieux, and actors like George Brent, Paul Lukas, Otto Kruger and Henry Wilcoxon?

In the film world, as in other spheres, only the fittest —the James Stewarts and the Cary Grants — survive, and they are few at that.

It is the customary fate of new truths to begin as heresies and to end as superstitions. — Thomas Henry Huxley.

The battle of Worcester, fought 314 years ago today — in 1651 — ended Charles II's hopes of regaining the English throne during Oliver Cromwell's lifetime and confirmed Cromwell as the strongest man in the country. Two years later he dissolved Parliament and was installed as Lord Protector. Cromwell's rule for the remaining 4½ years of his life was characterized by great national successes, such as the conquest of Jamaica and the maintenance of a strong navy, but also by the attempt at a moral crusade which earned him the scorn of the monarchy which returned within three years of his death.

Strictly Personal

Young Best Judge of Character

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

There is a college out West which appointed a new president a few years ago. He was selected from more than 100 candidates, by a board of trustees made up of some of the shrewdest and most successful men in the state.

Six weeks after he took office, not even the most dim-witted student on campus was unaware of the fact that this man was hopelessly inadequate. If a committee of freshmen had interviewed him, he never would have got the job.

This incident confirms my long-held belief that young people are better judges of basic character than their parents. They are more sensitive to phonies, less susceptible to surface charm, and not nearly so corrupted by ambition and prejudice as the older generation.

I have lectured to hundreds of groups, and it is always the student audiences who are most alert and responsive. They don't want corny jokes, flattery, flowery words, pompous philosophizing, or the dear-old-pal approach. They want honesty, frankness and a healthful skepticism. Their approval means more to me than a scroll signed by a surfeit of elder dignitaries.

One reason — and perhaps the chief reason — that so many colleges are ineffectually run is that the men chosen to run them are chosen for the wrong reasons.

They are picked because they can raise money (or it is hoped they can), because they will give offense to no substantial members of the community, and because they com port themselves at cocktail parties with the correct mixture of geniality and austerity.

All of these are wrong reasons. A college president should be a man with a lust for virtue, in the noble sense of the word. He should be indifferent to money, impatient with respectability, impolite to bores, and immune to cocktail parties.

He should be able to strike a spark with the students and the faculty, however much his irreverent behavior might embarrass the trustees. He should know that a prosperous college is not the same as a good one, and that if you have to make a choice between size and quality, you would rather have one student well trained than a thousand mass produced.

Such men are rare. They would not be so rare, I am convinced, if the young people themselves were given a place for a genuine, meaningful voice in the selection of their academic leaders.

Those Cavities

Toronto Star

If the Canadian people were ever gathered in one place for a gigantic Centennial picture, the photographer would be unwise to give the traditional command "Smile please!" The response would show all too clearly the ravages of neglected and diseased teeth — the result, in large measure, of Canada's chronic shortage of dentists.

If School Frightens Child Try to Find Out Reason

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Your column about the child who cried and clung to his mother when he started kindergarten touched me. I had the same problem with my son who was quite healthy.

He was happy if I sat on the side bench but became terrified and cried if I had to leave. A tranquilizer didn't help. As a last resort, I had his eyes checked, and there was the problem. He was aggrasighted and had astigmatism and we hadn't realized it as he seemed perfectly normal around home.

When I left him at school (and he knew that he had to stay until dismissal time), it gave him such a feeling of insecurity that later we had another problem to deal with in his school life. — Mrs. M. S.

Good for you, finding the cause of his insecurity. Once you know that the little fellow was scared because he couldn't see very well, it's easy to understand how he felt.

And yes, that insecure feeling could persist for a time, even after the original cause (faulty eyesight) was corrected.

With an understanding mother like you, I'm confident that the little boy has been getting over that insecurity successfully.

Hyperactivity is a wonderful answer to the basic question: Is a child is panicky, try to find out why. When you know why, then you know what to do.

Dear Dr. Molner: Yes, I'm 45 and in the change of life — vague aches and pains, crying spells, nervousness, irregular menses. Anxiety, forgetfulness! My doctor recommended hormones. After getting a dozen tested three weeks' the let-dow was horrible. What should I do? — E. C. S.

Two words of advice to you.

1—For the rough part of menopause (or "change of life") hormones are extremely helpful. By hypothesis, they are usually administered about once a month, but it may be more or less than that. They can also be taken by mouth, effectively. Your doctor can adjust a schedule that will help.

2—Your let-down isn't worse. It's just a return to the w ay things were before, plus, possibly, the impact of some other jitters or nervousness which may have nothing to do with menopause at all. For a helpful explanation of what the problem is all about, and how to avoid the miseries, I wish you'd read Dr. Hubbard's booklet, "Menopause Easier," which is a boiled-down outline of what you should know about this time of life. To receive a copy, send 25 cents in coin and a stamped self-addressed envelope to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

Dear Dr. Molner: Should a pregnant woman douche? Will it harm the baby? Or result in miscarriage? — Mrs. F. H.

No to all three questions. As I have said frequently, routine douching is unnecessary. Primarily a douche should be used for medical reasons, usually to combat some vaginal infection or irritation.

Asking whether a douche is advisable is about like asking if you are a healthy woman or whether you ought to take some kind of medicine or should use some kind of slave. Consult your doctor.

In other words, don't douche unless there is a specific medical purpose. It is not required for health or hygiene otherwise. Needless douching can, at times, do some moderate harm by upsetting the chemical balance of natural secretions of the vaginal tract.

Elk Target In Manitoba

Winnipeg Free Press

Manitoba elks—the horned variety—will be watching with interest and pardonable concern August 30 when a draw is held at the Norquay building auditorium to decide which Manitoba hunters will be allowed to shoot at them during a special limited hunting season between Sept. 30 and Oct. 10.

Mines and natural resources officials have, it seems, discovered that the elk population in the Duck Mountain forest reserve area has grown too large and a special three-day season will be held to trim the herds down.

For Manitoba hunters it will be the first elk shooting season since 1960.

Today, a little indication that the season on elk will become a regular thing. Manitoba's elk herds are not large and can provide only limited sport for hunters.

Of the many who will probably apply for licences, only 175 will be allowed to proceed to the Duck mountains, guns in hand. It is almost certain that the elk of Duck Mountain, if they know about the government's lottery, are hoping that Lady Luck smiles on all the worst marksmen.

Teachers Mull Over Status

Globe and Mail

Apparently there is something demeaning about helping a child into and out of galoshes—or so it would seem from the protests emanating from the Ontario Teachers Federation. "If you do up galoshes," one teacher complained during the federation's annual meeting last week, "you are not adding very much to your status."

The federation's board of governors turned to galoshes during a discussion of the demands made on a teacher's outside-classroom hours of extra-curricular activities and pupil supervision. The debate prompted a resolution to ask the provincial Department of Education to provide extra adult supervision during lunch hours and before and after school. The board decided, however, to study the subject for one year before taking further action. Defending the resolution, one teacher suggested: "It may well be detrimental to the education of the child, ren, but there are times when we must consider the interests of the teachers."

What a curious statement of principle for a member of the teaching profession. Surely the first interests served by a public education system ought to be those of its students. When the interests of students and teachers conflict, a solution equitable to both should certainly be sought. But to suggest that the teacher's interests should in any circumstances take precedence re-flects, at the very least, a warped sense of professional responsibility.

At the same meeting, the federation agreed to establish a public relations program to improve the image of the profession. The committee in charge might well consider hiring the teacher who commented about the galoshes discussion ."; there's like the concept at all of status, as of having to do a thing with the pupils outside the classroom is beyond the teacher's exalted status. A very valuable contact can exist between pupils and teachers in non-classroom situations."

National Parks Controversy

Globe and Mail

If there is one thing that the battle of the national parks has proved it is that the Government is profoundly right in deciding to establish a Crown corporation to take over the handling of private enterprise within Canada's 17 national parks.

That the battle is real—if largely on mistaken premises —is beyond doubt. Earlier this week articles in The Globe and Mail by Mr. David Scott and Mr. Scott Young enlarged upon both the view of the Government and that of infuriated residents of Banff and Jasper. Curiously, there is not much disparity in aims between the two as one might have imagined from the sound of the artillery. Both generally wish to preserve the parks in as much of their natural state as possible. But it is quite apparent that fear, rumor, prejudice, self-interest and error have so distorted the picture that reason has largely departed.

The focus of the resulting anger has been Mr. Arthur Laing, Minister of Northern Affairs and National Resources. As responsibilities now rest, Mr. Laing must make a personal decision about the granting, transferring or renewing of each lease within the parks. A decision which is ministerial is always suspected, by those who disagree with it, of being political.

Mr. Laing has wisely recommended that these decisions be transferred to a Crown corporation. He has also promised a statement, probably next week, in which he will deal specifically and with broad policy and the complaints of park residents. This is necessary. A large part of the trouble has arisen because the Government has been too slow and too chary to give the public the information it needs.

The methods by which business is to be done in the parks in the future must be explained fully. It must be made clear to alarmed residents and businessmen alike that they are not simply to be thrown out of the parks; that change where it is essential will be gradual, and just compensation for any investment that has been made and human considerations for those who look upon the parks as their home; that where a business lease comes up for renewal, the original lessee will be given a fair chance to bid on it and compensated for his existing investment if he should lose out to a better bid. This policy will put some cost on the public purse, but that is not just the business of any public policy created the problem.

The Great Galoshes Controversy

Ottawa Journal

Ontario teachers have been debating whether supervising lunch hours and putting on children's galoshes is part of their job.

It is a question which never would have occurred to generations of teachers who fussed not only about galoshes but mittens, scarves, hats and rain coats. There are teachers who remember starting fires in one-room schools in a winter's morning and giving as much time to the house-keeping of a classroom as teaching history.

However nostalgic it may be to recall such times, no one would wish them back. The modern school is a much better place to learn and teach-ers are more competent than ever.

But how "professional" should a teacher be?

An argument can be made that it is a waste of trained personnel to use teachers in jobs that require no special educational qualifications. In many schools secretaries are taking over the mere bookkeeping work of attendance registers and report cards.

Yet we would not want to see the day when teachers would function as efficient machines and nothing more. Every calling has its drudgery. In the drudgery of supervising study periods and helping students with their school maga zine or their theatricals, a relationship is often established which achieves results in the classroom.

Striving for professional status can be carried too far. The president of the Ontario Public School Men Teachers Federation, Mr. L. H. Bennett, claims he believes "the status of a profession should be judged by the public by what you have to do. If you do up galoshes you're not adding very much to your status."

Mr. Outram, sir—we think the relationship of the public and students—has more respect for the teacher who will help put on galoshes than the one who walks away and turns the class over to some kind of telephone.

It would also help if parents taught their own children how to manage their galoshes.

A well-known hotel man is reported as saying that the tipping system, must be accepted as an integral part of modern management.

Probably he is right; and it would be unfair to place the whole of the blame on the hotels or their employees. Some people insist on giving tips because they are afraid of being regarded as tightwads; others give because it is the only way they have of showing their appreciation. Many a man who carelessly slips a quarter under a plate in a hotel dining room will plead bankruptcy when his wife wants some small change, or will part from a nickel with reluctance when the collection plate is put under his nose at church on Sunday.

In the celebration of the Holy Communion the vessels used were those which were presented many years ago to the Mohawk Parish by Her Majesty Queen Anne. The vessels are hand made of silver and the Chalice is larger and heavier than the Chalice now used in the Anglican Church.

Encephalitis Outbreak Subsiding

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Health officials agreed Thursday that the current sickness outbreak on the Prairies is subsiding. The disease is spread by mosquitoes and cooler weather has resulted in a decrease in the number of mosquitoes.

A survey Thursday showed there were 124 suspected cases in humans in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Alberta, four suspected deaths of humans and about 400 suspected cases in horses.

Saskatchewan had 96 suspected cases in humans. Alberta 20 and Manitoba eight. Three persons suspected to have had the disease have died in Alberta, one in Manitoba and two in Saskatchewan.

One confirmed case and four suspected cases — all children — of encephalitis have been reported in Northern Ontario. The cases are from the Holtyre, Ramore and Mythieon areas. Two have already recovered and the other three are in the Sick Children's Hospital in Toronto.

Saskatchewan had about 200 suspected cases in horses and Alberta and Manitoba about 100 each.

Robbers Miss $80,000 Cash At Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP) — A robbery Thursday at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at the Hamilton Shopping Centre was missed during the busiest in the city's history.

The four armed bandits wearing handkerchiefs over their faces, black gloves, and brandishing revolvers, missed more than $80,000 in cash bills. The robbers are still being sought.

The money was in bundles sitting in the same drawers from which the thugs took $80,000.

A bank official said the men were in such a hurry they missed the bundles of small bills.

The robbery was staged in the presence of dozens of shoppers who passed the big glass entrance to the bank unaware it was being held up.

One robber stood guard at each of two entrances to the bank while two others jumped behind the counter and grabbed the money.

About 12 customers in the bank at the time were ordered to stand along a wall with their hands in the air.

Montreal-born Comedy Star Dies in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — Montreal-born Pat Harrington Jr., who started his career as a burlesque actor in 1924 and went on to become a Broadway musical comedy star, died in a suburban nursing home Thursday. He was 59.

It is said that he probably had the most fun of his funfilled career when he performed in a small midtown Manhattan night club in the 1930s.

It was there that he entertained the patrons of Jack White's Club 18 with his zany antics. A small man, with an oversized toupee, Harrington played the drums and other instruments. He would top off from his musician's perch and roam about singing Irish ballads in a high tenor voice.

The first big broadway show for Harrington was the Sid Sheds and Charles MacArthur comedy Ladies and Gentlemen in 1939. The next year he was in Panama Hattie with Ethel Merman. He teamed with Miss Merman again, in 1950, in Call Me Madam,

Daniels in the Den

Whenever I think of the Daniels of old being cast, unarmed into the Lions' den—it happens every time I come into work after my favorite team just lost a game the night before. I can't help but ponder over the fate of two gentlemen whom I came to know by chance last week.

I was on my way to Brantford on Saturday morning. There were two fellows, both about 18, standing in the rain hitchhiking.

Because they looked so cold and hungry, and because I like some one to talk to, I picked them up. As it turned out, they too, were on their way to Brantford.

They were high school students who had left Ottawa the morning before and had slept the night in their sleeping bags by the side of the 401 near Gananoque. They were on their way to meet a friend in Brantford who was to take them to Delhi to pick tobacco.

The travellers had no trouble getting from Gananoque to Belleville on the Saturday morning, but I found out later they had waited in Belleville for five hours before I came along.

That happened to be the morning of the Ottawa-Hamilton football game and I should have realized how naive they were right from the start because they attempted to convince me that Ottawa would win the game. However, I just chalked that up to the strain of the five hours they had just spent waiting in the rain for a ride.

When they told me about their plans to pick tobacco, I mentioned to them that I had done it many times and asked if they had ever done it.

"Why no," said one. "I hear it's pretty tough work."

"Yes, it is," I said. "Have you any money?"

"How do you pick it anyway?"

"You'll find out soon enough. You bend over the whole day outside in the blazing sun and you get gooey nicotine all over your hands, arms and legs. The scratches aren't too bad except that you get so much dirt in them while working that they usually fester up quite a bit."

"How much can you earn?"

"Oh, if you are any good at it, you can make $20 or more in a day."

"When do they pay you?" he asked, all the time showing no concern and more that neither boy had a clue what they were in for.

"Usually at the end of every day, though not always."

"How do they know how much you pick?"

"They give you tickets for the number of boats you fill."

"What is a boat?"

"That is the container for the tobacco leaves."

"Well, it would be nice to earn some money. I don't know what it looks like for sure."

"We probably will when we get near Brantford." (As it turned out, we did see some and they had a good look at it.)

"They give you a place to sleep don't they?"

"Yes, they have a big tent for everyone to sleep in. I see you have got your own sleeping bags so you won't have to sleep on the ground."

"Well, it should really be an exciting experience."

"It sure will, to say the least."

I had just about forgotten about those boys until the other day when I read about two transient tobacco workers being picked up for knifing another worker.

The two adventurers in question obviously had never been away from home before and they were in for a rude awakening.

Tobacco picking is hard work, and the gang of people who pick the tobacco is even harder. If my friends make their escape without having at least half their possessions stolen, they should consider themselves lucky.

The gang makes a rough crowd, made up of gypsies and every other kind of vagabond. They live rough. They work hard. And they could not care less about anything but money.

But then, maybe my two friends are lucky. Even if they get out of it with a few scrapes and very little money left, they will probably get some good experience for their troubles.

Doughty Knights of Congress Tackle a Ticklish Question

WASHINGTON (Reuters)— The cause of allegedly overage flight stewardesses who are retired in their 30s was taken up Thursday by some doughty knights of Congress.

The setting was the meeting of a House of Representatives labor subcommittee which, hitherto, has been considering the problems of older workers such as middle-aged salesmen, factory hands and others.

But Thursday Representative James H. Scheuer, of New York, looked over the committee room and called to the dozens or more stewardesses in the committees rooms: "Stand up, so we can see the dimensions of the problem."

Representative Scheuer and his colleagues were told that the airlines have policies calling for stewardesses to resign at 32 in some cases, 35 in others.

"If this isn't discrimination on account of age, what is?" asked Representative Barratt O'Hara, of Illinois, the chairman.

Colleen Boland, a trim 37, was the spokesman for the girls. She is president of the Airline Stewards and Stewardesses Union.

SEX IS KEY

Asked why the airlines put their stewardesses out to pasture in their 30s, Miss Boland read a newspaper article quoting an airline executive as saying: "It's the sex thing. Put a dog on an airplane, and 20 businessmen are sore for a month."

This prompted Representative William Hathaway, of Maine, to remark: "They need to be educated to the fact that they're not operating funny house clubs, but just another means of transportation."

Scheuer advised the airlines to refer in Benjamin Franklin's letter to his son exhorting him to court middle aged women.

"Franklin noted that their feminine allure and sensitivity were enhanced, as in vintage wine," said Scheuer. "Perhaps this letter should be distributed to the airlines.

"I would suppose with my dying breath the notion that a woman is less beautiful, less appealing, less sensitive after 30, and I'm sure my colleagues would agree."

"We had better," commented O'Hara, "if we want to be re-elected."

Ann Landers' Wife Shocked by Husband's Apparent Lack of Faith

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was cleaning the closets yesterday and I ran across an unfamiliar box. I opened it and found an insurance policy on my husband's life. He had named his mother the beneficiary. The policy was in an envelope which had been addressed to a man my husband knows well. Apparently he had the policy sent to his friend's home because he didn't want me to know about it.

I believe I have grounds for a case to sue that hurt that he would sneak around behind my back. Such actions make me lose respect for him.

I'm shocked. I tell him I found the policy and that I wish he had told me about it or would it be best to leave well enough alone? —SALINAS QUANDARY.

DEAR QUANDARY: It is unhealthy to keep resentment buried under several layers of silence. Speak up and clear the air, Mr. Right. Tell him how you feel.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have one of the biggest problems in the world — my sister. She is single and I am 34. I kept hoping the problem would get better, but instead, it's getting worse.

Whenever I have a girl friend over my little sister hangs around, listening to every word we say. The minute my sister grows up the visit is ruined. When I ask her to leave she goes crying to my mother and says I'm picking on to her. My mother brings her back and yells, "Is it so terrible to have your sister in the same room with you? What could you be talking about that is so private?"

I know you are a very busy person but I'd certainly appreciate it if you'd find time to help me. Thank you.—DONNA G.

DEAR DONNA: Your mother is not treating you fairly when she permits your little sister to invade your privacy. Moreover she does your little sister no favor when she allows her to hang around and make a pest of herself. When I receive letters asking for personal answers I grow up to dislike each other I say, "Put them all together and they spell Mother."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was fascinated by the long letter from the girl who was feeling sorry for herself because her parents kept her standing up for dinners which she lovingly prepared in her apartment. She moaned over the burnt steaks, wilted salads and fallen souffles.

Honestly, Ann, that dame must be awfully soft in the head and she must be a lousy cook, to boot. Who in her right mind would put steaks under a broiler or dressing on a salad before the last second when it's all the gal does—the souffle in the oven before she sees the whites of his eyeballs she deserves a fallen souffle.

DEAR NO SYMP: The lady does sound a little out of her tree, now that you mention it. But I do feel sorry for her because she is bound to be the loser, either way.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HEARTBROKEN AND WONDERING WHY: I would say it failed, for two reasons. She was crazy about money and he didn't have any.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts, enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Most Canadian Career Girls Can't Justify Gown Expense

By MARGARET NESS

TORONTO (CP) — The "special-occasion" dress is a comparatively new term to enhance late - day clothes from cool crepes for an informal office party to brocades for the monthly club dance.

These outfits are much more important to most Canadian women than the floor - length "evening" that crowned the gold flavor a couple of seasons ago and still are regarded as the most fashionable length for formals. On an average budget, a career girl or young housewife doesn't feel justified in spending money on an evening gown she may wear only once or twice.

As the turn of the century, life was more arbitrary and formal. All costumes were special occasion ones. There were clothes for shopping at the personal shops, for the obligatory afternoon calls on friends, for church, for traveling. There were dresses for less formal evening parties and gowns for the season's balls. "Little dress" that takes you from the office or shopping to a cocktail party is a recent invention.

These clothes of the Edwardian era and the days prior to the First World War were all floor- or ankle-length. So there was no skirt-length problem in etiquette. Short skirts came in with the Roaring Twenties. So did a whole new concept of culture. The middle class began going to formal events. New fabrics in clothes were coming with a multiple purpose.

NEW TREND SETS IN

Increased travelling, short business trips and the time-consuming journeys between home and office combined to produce in the average girl a short formal that can, for general purposes, be disguised by mere matching jacket or wrap. Cuts down on luggage and changing problems.

But for many people this has become too functional. A wardrobe is intended to give personal enjoyment. Now it hasn't seems to be a trend back to clothes with a definite purpose. At the fall showings in New York of top American designers, arranged by Fashions editor Eleanor Lambert, there were fewer strip-tease costumes that convert from street wear to evening elegance.

Most designers included several theatre or dressmaker costumes in their collections. And late-day suits are becoming increasingly popular. The evening suit isn't a newcomer. It was well established in the mid-30s when was formally floor-length. But mostly, for evening after until the Second World War, the emphasis was on floor-length gowns, topped by handsome velvet evening coats or capes.

Actually there wasn't much theatre in Canada, except in the cities and at the regional playoffs of the Dominion Drama Festival. And Canadians were recently were not much inclined to restaurant dining-out at night.

THEATRE SUIT ARRIVES

After the war came a renewed flurry of entertaining. The cocktail dress was revived. Ankle - length, as opposed to floor - length, became popular for theatre and dressier lunch. However, dressing for the theatre never quite achieved its former fashion significance.

Not by the mid-1950s, the idea of matching jackets or coats with late - day dresses had caught on. There was even mention of theatre suits. For the fall of 1958, Adele Simpson featured theatre costumes in brocade. It might be today. For this fall, Mrs. Simpson is again advocating brocade for theatre. But this time, it's brocade or satin luxury, blouses with dressire suits in various fabrics.

This is a definite trend, Gresham Sturmthorpe, now acknowledged a leader in evening wear, showed several short and long theatre suits. Shorts were a mocha chenille wool with apricot satin blouse, and a black lace suit. Longs included black cut velvet in cobra markings with melon pink satin blouse.

Jane Derby contrasted ruby velvet with a pink satin shell.

CRACKING UP SO SOON?

Note to all young mothers with young children:

If you are just introducing your daughter to their first pair of black patent leather shoes, don't forget to treat them to a good weekly polishing with vaseline, — they will resist cracking and stay new looking much longer — the shoes, that is. — SUSANNA

BARBEROUS BARBS

Dear Susanna: Since fishing is the main main pastime in our family (I'm sure it is in many other they'll take me) it became apparent that something would have to be done to keep the very young anglers in our group from hooking us and each other every time we cast.

So, during the times when they don't have their hooks covered with worms, I insist that they keep those barbs embedded in a small piece of soft laundry soap. I usually plant a bar in their tackle box, from which a piece can be cut whenever it is needed.—Fish Mother

Want to know our favorite protection from young hook swielders? It is a small wad of play dough or modeling clay molded neatly over those tortoise shells. It also seals off neatly by first pushing it back to the large curve in the hook. When not in use, it can be rolled up and dropped into a pocket . . . or anywhere, ready to be used again. Castaway sill — SUSANNS

PROJECT FOR THE PACK

Dear Susanna: The cute clown doll you described sounds like a fun project for our Brownies — may we have the instructions for sewing and assembling as soon as possible, please? Here are my two little household hints:

Rub a very small amount of mineral oil inside the metal caps of bottles when they are first opened. This will prevent them from sticking and rusting later on. You will find it particularly good, for instance, when using and re-using a bottle of cough syrup.

Brush over the bottom crust of fruit pies with slightly beaten egg white to prevent the juices from soaking the pie crust. — Mrs. L. Vickers.

Thanks for Brownies —what could be better; they're on their way! — SUSANNA

Good Listening Ear Means Many Friends in Future

DEAR DORIS: My friend and I have a problem. It seems that all the boys we meet become friendly toward us but not enough to date.

Lots of these boys come to us with their problems. But how can my girl in his advice when we haven't even got the chance to go through that stage yet? We are both 13, look older, try to dress as neat as possible.

We don't smoke, we don't approve of parking. We can't seem to start a conversation with boys we meet. We try to be kind and thoughtful towards others. We try so hard to give them our best advice for their problems. But who is there to listen to ours? — THE DORIS CLARK DESPERATES.

DEAR TWO: Nobody but poor old me. But if nice boys see you as good listeners, I see a rosy future for you in my crystal ball. Don't rush things.

If making conversation with the ones you'd like to date is a problem, send me your right name on a stamped envelope, along with ten cents, for my leaflet, "Tips on Talking".

DEAR DORIS: I plan to enter second year university from grade 12 in the fall. I'd like to become a doctor.

In case my mother goes through with her divorce from my father, which looks likely, would I be cut off from material assistance and literally be on my own?—ANXIOUS STUDENT.

DEAR STUDENT: No parent has a legal obligation to put his son through university,.or to support him, after age 16; but many. parents acknowledge a moral one — besides really caring what happens to their flesh and blood.

You have a right to some understanding about this — and should be asking this question of your father, not me.

DEAR DORIS —

1. How can I manage to meet good looking girls? I get along fine with average looking girls but I take such a joshing from the guys, saying that I can never find a good looking girl friend.

2. I'd like to know more about life.

3. How can we control ourselves?

4. What should you do with a girl who wants you to take advantage of her? — —HELPLESS

DEAR HELPLESS —

1. Spruce up, learn good dating manners, be considerate of al girls, look for those that is more than skin deep, and turn a deaf ear to your joshing pals.

Advocates Taking Juvenile Courts From Municipalities

OTTAWA (CP) — A former deputy judge of Ottawa's juvenile and family court says "juvenile courts across Ontario should be taken from the local municipalities and placed into the hands of the attorney general's department."

Eileen Mitchell Thomas, who resigned from the court Aug. 31 after a year's leave of absence, said in an interview Thursday she felt she had to point out some things to help courts throughout Ontario.

"Not only would this enable the courts to have enough money to do things as they should be done, but it would have courts similar right across the province."

Mrs. Thomas, who graduated from Osgoode Hall in Toronto and later graduated from the school of social service at the University of Toronto, said under the present system there isn't enough money to hire adequate staff.

"Judges should be permitted to appoint a committee who would be made aware of the needs of the court at any particular instance, and could give their help under the situation."

Mrs. Thomas, appointed deputy judge in July, 1961, is working as a lawyer with the National Capital Commission.

"Dinner will be a little late—Mom overphoned!"

Museum Will Display Antique Instruments

Newest gimmick in the museum trade, "sound and light" will be tried on a modest scale in Belleville on September 15. The sound will be provided by the Eastern Ontario String Quartet and spotlight will be on the Hastings County Museum's new musical instrument exhibit, the society announced following an executive meeting last night.

The quartet will present a program of chamber music in the museum's Cauldrey Gallery to open the special display of antique musical instruments arranged for the autumn season. Items forming a background for the musical evening range from a violin dating back to 1800 to an Edison phonograph of 1908 vintage.

Curator Dorothy Sargent, in her report to the executive, said a call was issued by Confederation by a Belleville cabinet-maker will be on display for the first time. The cello was constructed by Benjamin Nutter, who in 1823 built the first organ for Bridge Street Methodist Church.

Mrs. Sargent also reported an attendance of 500 during the July exhibit of the Bledel collection of pioneer ironware.

BUDGET ITEM

J. A. Slater, treasurer, said curators' salaries are the largest item in the budget. With Sunday attendance during the summer averaging 25 to 30, extra curators were necessary. He said government grants covering one-third of staff salaries has kept the museum solvent during the past year.

The society will sponsor a bus trip to Perth for members on September 18. A visit to Perth Museum and a tour of the town has been arranged by E. Clyde Ball, director of the Hastings County Museum and former director of the Perth Museum. Members will have a lunch at Silver Lake and tea at the home of the president of the Perth Historical Society later in the afternoon.

Establishment of Canadian Security Board Approved By the Bar Association

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor

TORONTO (CP)—A committee of the Canadian Bar Association approved a resolution Thursday calling for the establishment of a Canadian securities commission.

The resolution is subject to approval by the association as a whole before it takes effect.

The various provinces now are responsible for regulating securities within their boundaries but there has been growing attention paid recently to the question of obtaining a federal commission with over-all authority.

William Summerville, executive vice-president of the Toronto Stock Exchange, told a panel discussion before the vote on the resolutions that a federal agency is vital to the national interest.

He told the committee Canada's development depends on competing with other countries for capital. So the reputation of Canadian securities had to be safeguarded and improved.

HAVE RESERVATIONS

Although the panel generally favored the idea of a federal body, some reservations were expressed.

Allan H. Ainsworth of Vancouver said a federal agency could create unnecessary expenses and delays for a company seeking registration.

A possible role for a federal commission, however, he suggested, could be in regulating securities by setting up a central registry office so provincial commissions could more easily pool their knowledge.

He also called for more co-operation and communication between the provincial commissions.

John A. Mullin of Toronto said a serious problem with provincial commissions is the different regulations each has. Thus a company seeking registration across the country had to meet as many as 10 different sets of rules and interpretations.

PUBLIC WOULD GAIN

C. Antoine Geoffrion of Montreal said the public would benefit from uniform requirements for registering issues. They also would help promoters who would have a better understanding of what they were required to do.

A panel discussion on revision of the Bankruptcy Act was told it is essential to maintain a balance between protecting both the creditor and the debtor.

Lloyd Holden of Toronto said to ensure this balance is maintained it is necessary the act should be reviewed regularly. The 15 years that had elapsed since the last major overhaul of the act was too long.

The act should be kept under constant surveillance to keep it in line with changing conditions, he said.

Lawrence Marks of Montreal suggested that limiting a corporation's credit to a certain percentage of its total assets would eliminate many bankruptcies.

He also called for an official code of conduct for trustees and inspectors in bankruptcy proceedings.

Sunday School Lesson

A Request for Faith

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Many centuries ago, there lived a man who was faced with the possible loss of everything he possessed. His country was about to be invaded. Soon his freedom might be gone, his nation defeated. His property confiscated, his loved ones slain, and perhaps his own life taken. As he faced this dire prospect, he decided there was one thing the enemy could never take from him, something that would stand him in good stead even if he lost his life. That was his faith in God. As long as he had that, he still had something to cling to. And on this man, whose name was Habakkuk, wrote that even though the enemy stole the flocks and scorched the earth, he would still say, "Yet will I rejoice in the Lord, I will joy in the God of my salvation." (Hab. 3:18 RSV)

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for September 5: "Growing in Faith," Luke 17:5-6; Philippians 3:12-16; Colossians 1:9-14; 21 22; Hebrews 11:1.

The Apostle Paul listed faith, hope and love as life's most important possessions. (I Corinthians 13:13) Without these, life would become extremely hard. But faith in what? Many people have faith in the wrong thing. Communists, for example, have faith in communism, but this can never save the world from hate and strife, or give them any hope of eternal life.

To those who knew Jesus, it was very obvious that faith in God was His most important possession. It shone through everything He said and did. So much so, their own faith seemed weak and shallow by comparison. So one day, they requested, "Increase our faith." (Luke 17:5) They might have said, "Increase our prestige," or "Increase our power," or "Increase our knowledge," or even "Increase our understanding," but they showed real insight by saying "Increase our faith," meaning, of course, "Increase our trust in God."

SOME FAIL TO SEE NEED

Not every one today would make this same request. There are those who seem to think that faith in God is not important. Their only interest is in increasing their holdings. There are others who would like to have faith in God, but find it difficult to do so in the light of their scientific knowledge of the universe. But even scientists have faith. They have faith in the scientific method, and they must ask the question why it works. Only faith can answer the question why. Most people have faith in God, but wish they had more. They are like the man who said to Jesus, "I believe; help thou my unbelief."

(Mark 9:24)

Any look at history shows that faith is important. With enough faith, men can often accomplish the impossible. Without faith, they usually accomplish very little. A world day for our country if its citizens lose faith in the principles of democracy. It will be a sad day for the church if its members lose faith in its message and mission.

FAITH IS CONTAGIOUS

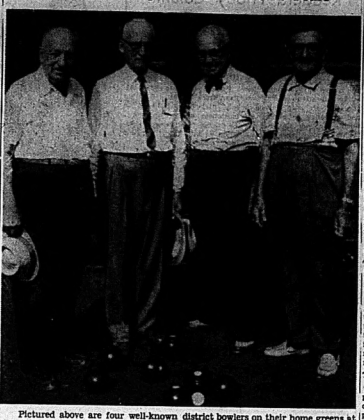
But how do people get more faith — especially faith in God? One answer is to catch it from someone who has it. Faith, like enthusiasm, is contagious. A good teacher does not just pour facts into a pupil's mind; he imparts an interest in his subject. Jesus' prayer life aroused the disciples' interest in prayer and so they asked Him, "Lord, teach us to pray." (Luke 11:1) The thing the disciples noticed most about Jesus was His implicit faith in God. It led them to want more of it for themselves. The faith of others can often lead to the deepening of one's own faith.

Another way to increase faith is through commitment. Paul compared his commitment to a runner straining to win a race. (Philippianus 3:12-14). A seed produces no fruit until it is committed to the soil. A farmer shows his faith in the soil by planting the seed, then he best way to see if a thing works is to try it. And the Christian faith in God has been proved through its comfort, and peace to millions of people.



A person does not learn to swim by reading books on swimming. He must commit himself to the water to learn to swim. The best way to learn about prayer is to pray. The best way to learn about faith is to practise it. Faith is not just sitting around waiting for something to happen. It is going out in confidence that whatever one puts his faith in will support him as he tries to follow it.

The final test of any faith is where it leads. Faith is shown to be valid when it leads to a life worthy of the Lord, fully pleasing to Him, bearing fruit in every good work and increasing in the knowledge of God." (Colossians 1:10 RSV)

TOUR PLANNED

TORONTO (CP) — Mary Meredith, food editor of Woman's World and Women's Weekly magazines in Britain, has arrived here to begin a three-week tour of Ontario farms and processing plants. Mrs. Meredith said today in an interview she also hopes to learn about Canadian food and eating habits. She plans to meet with Canadian food editors and home economists.

Power of United Nations Put On Trial in Kashmir Crisis

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The power of the United Nations is once more on trial over the Kashmir crisis.

The Kashmir crisis, allowed to simmer for years, has erupted into what appears to be the beginning of a full India-Pakistan war that could spread and embroil all Asia if not halted promptly.

Britain, Canada and other Commonwealth countries have hoped that both Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri of India and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan would heed family advice.

Britain has been working behind the scenes to urge both leaders to cool their national pride and move back from the brink of disaster. Attempts towards conciliation have failed.

The United Nations now is grappling with the issue and at the moment there is no indication that U Thant, the secretary-general, can wield more influence over the Asian nationalists than Britain or the Commonwealth.

TAKES GAMBLE

For the first time there appears in the issue the elements of a dangerous gamble on the part of Pakistan. For years Ayub Khan has tried by various means to get India to agree to some final, acceptable solution to the Kashmir issue.

There was some indication that the late Jawaharlal Nehru was edging towards negotiations. The Pakistan president may have believed that Nehru's successor might be even more ready to get a final settlement.

But Shastri has shown he has a backbone of iron. Attempts by Kashmir guerrillas to infiltrate the Indian side of the ceasefire line have been repulsed. There is no doubt among most Western observers that this initial infiltration attempt had the support of Pakistan, which in turn may feel it can turn to China for help if the fight goes against it.

LOOKS TO MOSCOW

India now has moved a step further by invading and seizing strategic areas on the Pakistani side of the ceasefire line, perhaps feeling that in the event of full war, New Delhi could count on help from Moscow.

Pakistan says it won't allow India's "aggression" to go unchallenged. There appears to be no immediate solution in sight.

One hope among British authorities is that Moscow and Peking will make their position clear. Both India and Pakistan might be less eager for a showdown if they were told they could expect no help from Soviet or Chinese quarters. The is some question, however, whether China will attempt to discourage Pakistan. Indeed China may want to encourage Pakistan to settle an old feud with India.

Judge Denies Allegations of Liberal Leader

TORONTO (CP) — A royal commission report on the stock market activities of Windfall Oils and Mines Ltd. is not being delayed for political reasons, the commissioner said Thursday.

"I haven't been away from my desk one day this summer and I have worked nearly every night and taken on extra staff to get the report finished as quickly as possible," said Mr. Justice Arthur Kelly of the Ontario Court of Appeals.

He was replying in an interview to a speech Wednesday night by Liberal Leader Andrew Thompson in Sturgeon Falls, Ont.

Mr. Thompson told a Nipissing campaign meeting on behalf of Liberal candidate Richard Smith the report was being delayed until after the Sept. 13 provincial byelections in the ridings of Nipissing and Toronto Bracondale.

Mr. Justice Kelly inquired into the rise and fall of Windfall shares on the Toronto Stock Exchange in the summer of 1964. Shares rose to $5.60 from 56 cents and tumbled to 80 cents overnight when the company said it had found no ore on its property near Timmins.

Singapore-American Spy Case Regarded as Blunder by CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1961 Singapore - American spy case, now exposed by Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew, is generally regarded in U.S. government circles here as a Central Intelligence Agency blunder in a game that wasn't worth the gamble.

High officials are trying to hush up the whole affair as rapidly as possible, hoping to reduce the damage.

The charges made by the Singapore government chief three days ago, however, seem certain to echo through Asian capitals for a long time, feeding the conviction already held by some once-friendly governments that the United States, through its intelligence agency, meddles dangerously in their affairs.

Efforts to soften the blow have been set back, furthermore, by the U.S. government's own handling of the incident, once Prime Minister Lee had discovered its occurrence, coupling it with a charge that he had been offered a bribe of $3,000,000 to keep the whole thing quiet.

Tuesday the state department after checking with the CIA, issued a denial, which Lee angrily countered by releasing Wednesday a letter of apology from State Secretary Dean Rusk. The state department then acknowledged the accuracy of Lee's allegations in a red-faced statement reversing the denial and admitting the Rusk letter.

As a result of all this, there are new expressions of interest in Congress about having the intelligence agency put under some kind of congressional watchdog committee. Oddly enough, it now is learned, the original incident caused a movement inside the Kennedy administration during its first months in office to lighten White House and state department supervision over CIA operations.

Lee has asserted that a CIA man was caught red - handed trying to buy the information from a Singapore official. It is understood here that at least two American intelligence agents were seized by Singapore police. One was released immediately. The other was held for a few months, according to the best available information.

Washington's official concern in dealing with this secret crisis at the time was, first, to get its agent out of jail and second, to prevent the incident from becoming an anti - U.S. publicity bombshell.

In the end the British, with their close ties with the Singapore administration, are reported to have spent the day for the United States, persuading Lee at that time to drop his threats to make the full story public.

Apparently, the argument that was most effective with Lee was that it was not in the interest to start out on the wrong foot with the new administration of President John F. Kennedy.

The original incident occurred at the end of the Eisenhower administration. It was settled at the outset of the Kennedy administration. An aide of Prime Minister Lee said Wednesday in Singapore that the $3,000,000 bribe offer alleged by Lee had been made in January, 1961, before the Kennedy administration took office. He said Kennedy ruled that no money would be given "under the counter."

Nikita Home After Tests In Hospital

MOSCOW (AP) — Former premier Nikita S. Khrushchev was in hospital for tests last month but now is back at his country home in good health, his daughter said today.

Rada Adzhubei, Khrushchev's daughter and wife of former Izvestia editor Alexei Adzhubei, told a reporter, "he feels well." She said Khrushchev was in a hospital last month for tests normal for a man 71 years old. She declined to elaborate further.

Reliable Communist sources said Khrushchev had been under regular medical observation since he was deposed last October.

Official reasons given for Khrushchev's ouster were advancing age and deteriorating health. But in three public appearances last spring he appeared in good health.

Concern over Khrushchev's health was triggered by a woman doorkeeper at his Moscow apartment who said he had been in a hospital for over a month. She repeated to a reporter today that "he is ill. He is in a hospital."

Farmers Plan Roadblocks to Get Demands

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)— Farmers in the Lake St. John and Saguenay region north of Quebec City have planned roadblocks today to put financial pressure on the Quebec government.

Agriculture Minister Alcide Courcy's telegraphic communications Thursday with leaders of the Catholic Farmers' Union in the region failed to sway 1,000 farmers under orders to keep tractors and trucks at the ready for barricading the roads at noon.

At a late-night meeting, the 1,000 called for Mr. Courcy's resignation. They also voted unanimously to stick to their roadblock plan.

They are among the 2,300-odd members of the union who are asking a total of $5,000,000 in cash compensation for crops washed out by bad weather in the harvest of 1964. Mr. Courcy has offered only $1,000,000, the federal government offering to match the sum.

Emile Dore, union secretary, told reporters following the meeting that the demonstration will be organized and orderly, with farmers at the wheels of their machines proceeding to 15 strategic highway points, where they will stop and cut off traffic.

Judge Anderson Gives Views On Boards of Arbitration

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto lawyer said Thursday it "is disgustingly dishonest" for an arbitration board member paid by the government to accept a fee from one of the disputing parties.

W. F. Williston, a former law professor at Osgoode Hall, told the labor relations section of the Canadian Bar Association many arbitration board members follow the practice.

Asked during a panel discussion whether he thought it unprofessional conduct, he replied:

"The fact that the morality of the bar has gone down does not make the practice more acceptable."

Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville, who recently was appointed as sole arbiter in the recent post office strike, suggested from the floor he did not regard partisan members of an arbitration board as judges but rather as assessors.

"They are familiar with the problem before the board. I have sat as a single arbiter on several railway boards and could have used such help in solving the problem.

"I don't think you have to fear the conclusions expressed by Mr. Williston."

W. Stanley Ross of Edmonton, who with Prof. H. W. Arthurs of Toronto completed the panel discussing the role of biased nominees on arbitration boards, said neutral referees in any dispute often bring in decisions acceptable to neither side.

"Because a board member is biased it does not mean he is unfair or fraudulent. The Supreme Court of Canada was off base when it ruled recently that arbitration board members must be neutral.

"In a recent Alberta Supreme Court case, during which union members supported management, it was found that bias is not a disqualifying factor because it is an acceptable practice.

"It must be remembered that there is an element of bias even among judges in our courts."

Prof. Arthurs said there is a need for a "clear and authoritative statement, either from the parties or from the legislature, of the intended role of partisan board members."

People and Regions Left Behind in Canada's Progress

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister MacEachen says in a Labor Day statement that while the last year has been one of "real accomplishment" there are people and regions left behind in the country's progress.

It was for these people, he said, that the government introduced new programs and extended old ones. He said these programs, including the area development scheme and federal provincial training programs, are among "the most important developments since last Labor Day."

These and others "will bring us a long way towards our goal of the fullest use of our manpower resources."

"Since last Labor Day, the labor force passed the 7,000,000 mark for the first time in our history. The increase in the labor force has been rapid, but employment has more than kept pace. By July there were more than 7,400,000 people at work in this country and the rate of unemployment was the lowest for the month since 1957."

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage used his Labor Day message Thursday to call for "major changes" in federal labor law to make more room for independent Quebec action in the field.

"As Quebec takes over her constitutional responsibilities in the labor and employment fields, major changes will become necessary in federal labor measures and there will have to be the greatest collaboration between future Quebec institutions and existing federal ones," his statement said.

Time Critical To Growers In Quebec

MONTREAL (CP) — Tobacco growers in the Joliette region, 35 miles north of Montreal resumed their harvest under sunny skies Thursday, hopeful they can win their race against time.

Tuesday's loss of more than 2,000,000 pounds of mature tobacco in a sudden frost was followed Wednesday by heavy rain which delayed picking for a full day.

Time is critical to the 120 growers in the region, since a dry summer has delayed maturing of the tobacco crop by a full week.

Good weather is needed to harvest the 2,000,000 pounds undamaged by the frost.

Government inspector Conrad Surprenet, who is preparing a preliminary report on crop damages for the Quebec cabinet, said frost damages across the province totalled about $1,607,000.

Other Quebec tobacco areas hit by frost include Lanoraie, Lavaltrie and Berthier, just downstream from Montreal on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River.

Jean-Paul Corriveau, president of the Young Tobacco Producers Association, has asked Agriculture Minister Alcide Courcy for aid for the farmers.

Pinch Hitting

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

There's a lot of playoff ball to go into the record books yet before Icelana action reaches a serious point—but there is already a buzz of hockey in the street-corner "shop talks" and an eagerness in some quarters to "get the ball rolling."

For this observer, hockey was, and likely always will be, the Number One sport.

During the past dozen years it has brought us many rewarding moments—and the sad ones too.

The thrills of listening to sportscasters hail the Mass, first as Allan Cup champions and later as world champions, will be hard to match. There were the gratifying moments on the way to those crowns when we cowered Ex, "Weaser," "Moe", "Minnie", Gordie, Bart, Floyd and a host of others as they downed the Dunnies and Dutchies, the Bulldogs and Maroons, the Chevies and Prontenacs, to mention a few.

Friends are really made in the sports world, and more really lost, but some friendships, we hope, will last forever. Cesare Maniago, Kenny Gribbons, Denny Boucher, Ron Muir, for a few, were hockey players who spent all too little a time in Belleville colors. I consider myself lucky to have enjoyed their stay.

While often the hockey was "blood and guts," with no quarter asked or given, life had its gay moments over a cool ale, a deck of cards and the replay of yesterday's game.

We will always remember the look on Moe Benoit's face when "Sus" Gagnon called his bluff and really let that full-course chicken dinner loose out of a bus window a few miles this side of Windsor. Moe dared the wrong man that trip. It was Benoit's post-game dinner.

The good nights, when "Minnie" Menard scored five in the week while Moe Deverall was limited to the time of 17-1 or 15-2, just before leaving for the overseas trip; when homebrews like Dave Jones, Gerry Goyer or Keith MacDonald came through with an inspired performance; when the Mace shook the hockey world by ousting the proud Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen on their way to the Allan Cup; the rugwww tires that the flashing line of Menard, Jean-Paul Parenteau and "Bep" Guidolin cut across opposing blue lines and in on a goalie, as only they could, or when J. P. Lamirande or Lionel Boily hit a flying goalie with either a perfect pass or a perfect bodycheck, depending on the color of his sweater, will always stay with us.

So, too, will the all-too-often discussed "disgrace," that landed the need for two more hockey, and crowds to match, at the local ice palace.

Thrills, too, came while watching the many great Stanley Cup battles via TV, while listening to Bobby Hull score his 50th goal of the season on a transistor radio while covering a Sunday night Industrial League game in the Memorial Arena diner's box; while seeing the Belleville junior "B's" oust a rugged Kingston squad and go on to the Ontario semi-finals before bowing to a more rugged Waterloo team three years ago; and more recently while seeing the work as last year's juniors upset Peterborough and the battling young peewees knocked off Kingston.

List us among the ever-sentimental or the too-optimistic, if you will, but we still wait some too patiently, for the day when hockey again packs in crowds of 2,700 at the Memorial or when Belleville senior or junior clubs trek to far fields to bring home the championship bacon.

The 1964-65 Junior "B's" took a step in the right direction with their gallant showing against superior Peterborough and Kitchener clubs. Fans turned out to the tune of 800, 900 and 1,200 for playoff games this winter.

Observers who watched Sherbrooke Beavers sweep through the playoffs undefeated last spring to capture the Allan Cup claim "Senior Hockey is on the way back."

Here's one observer at least, who will be pulling for it all the way!

BEWARE THE FANG'EM

A pair of black-hooded horrors, known professionally as "The Masked Hangmen," will make their tag team debut in tonight's heavyweight wrestling card, at Memorial Arena.

They call themselves Hangman No. One and Hangman No. Two and from all reports one is as good (or bad) as the other. They tangle with a local boy, Keith Tompkins, of Frankford, and blonde-haired Gorgeous George Jr. in a two-of-three falls main event. Tompkins and George will have the fans' support in what should be an action-packed affair.

Another tag team match pits the Garvin Brothers, Ron and Terry, another pair of real roughies, against Doug Kinslow and Cousin Bill Williams, in the semi-final bout. One other match is also on tap in the show slated to start at 8.30.

Lions Top Bombers On Fleming Romp

By WALTER KREVENCHUK

WINNIPEG (CP)—"Lions try that play now and again but once in a while it works," said coach Bud Grant of Winnipeg Blue Bombers after defeat.

It worked Thursday night as Willie Fleming caught the only pass thrown by him and turned it into a 80-yard fourth-quarter touchdown to give British Columbia Lions a 27-20 Western Football Conference win over the Bombers.

Fleming grabbed his chance to disappoint 21,012 partisan fans when his Bomber shadow, Dick Thornton, was left behind in confusion on a B.C. audible play.

The fleet Fleming ran down the right side, cut to centre field past Bomber safety Brian Palmer, made a finger-tip catch of quarterback Joe Kapp's pass at Winnipeg 45 - yard line and flashed out of reach.

Bombers tried for a draw with two minutes remaining but their bid collapsed with an outof-bounds thirty-seven pass into the end zone and they took their second defeat after four consecutive wins.

Fullback Bill Munsey, whose 87 yards in 17 thrusts made up 30 per cent of the ground attack of Lions' 345-yard offence, scored the other touchdown as B.C. grabbed a share of third place with Saskatchewan Roughriders. They trail the co-holders of first place—Winnipeg and Calgary Stampeders — by one point.

Peter Kempf converted both touchdowns.

Bombers had a hero in defeat as flanker Billy Cooper scored their touchdown, caught five passes for 45 yards, returned five points for 42 yards and ratdashed the game's longest ground gain—a dazzling 65yard sprint in the first quarter that was officially listed at 80 yards but actually covered about 100. The touchdown was intercepted by linebacker Jackie Simpson.

There were other sporadic moments of excitement in the match.

Sonny Homer, Lions' linebacker, went into the dirt to intercept a pass and send out a Bomber scoring threat in the first minutes on the B.C. 19-yard line. Thirty minutes later Homer and Neil Beaumont allowed Cooper to sneak behind them and score.

Bomber quarterback Kenny Ploen took free twice when it appeared he would be engulfed by B.C. defenders to scramble and elude them and keep alive Winnipeg's 72 - yard touchdown march in the second quarter.

Leo Lewis, veteran Winnipeg halfback, made a clutch catch of Ploen's pass and ran 32 yards to the B.C. 15 to spark Bombers' comeback effort. And Ken Nielsen caught Ploen's third-down pass moments later, only to discover that he was out of bounds.

Western Scoring Leaders

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

British Columbia Lions' Willie Fleming scored a touchdown on a 80-yard pass and-run play Thursday night as the Lions doubled Winnipeg Blue Bombers 14-7 to grab a share of fourth place in the Western Football Conference scoring race.

Fleming has 24 points, all on touchdowns, and shares fourth spot with four other players.

B.C. placekicker Peter Kempf was two-for-two on converts to increase his hold on third place —he now has 28 points, eight behind first-place Lovell Colman of Calgary Stampeders.

Winnipeg's Billy Cooper moved into the top 10 with a touchdown that gave him 18 points. He is tied with team mate Leo Lewis.

Wininger Early Leader

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Bob Wininger, the amateur golfer who, after the first round of the $65,000 Oklahoma City Open golf tournament, says he didn't have any choice when he carded a three-under-par 69 to take a one-shot advantage.

"When you start out like I did," Wininger, 42, of Las Vegas, Nev., said, "and you're playing with someone who's shooting like Bobby Nichols was, you know it's time to get started.

"Nichols was playing alongside me and he was three under after nine holes. If you want to stay in the thing you just have to get to work when someone is shooting that way."

Brockville Shades Ellis' 4-3

By GARRY ALEXANDER
(Staff Sportswriter)

A pair of home runs, in the sixth and seventh innings, and clutch hurling by Big Roger Hodgkinson provided Brockville Texaco Diggers with a series-tying 4-3 win over Belleville Ellis' here last night.

Third and deciding game in the two-of-three OASA Junior "A" playdown will be played at Brockville Saturday night, at 8.15. Ellis' also lost the flip prior to last night's battle, played before an estimated 600 plus fans at the Fairgrounds.

Brockville broke open a scoreless, and almost lifeless, battle with three runs in the sixth then almost blew it in the bottom of the ninth when errors helped Ellis' score two runs.

Hodgekinson, unhappy with the distant backstop, still threw hard enough to let Belleville down on three hits, all in the final four frames. He struck out 12 but got himself in trouble a couple of times with three walks and a pair of hit batters.

Bob Ethier gave up eight hits in defeat, six of them coming in the sixth and seventh innings. He got nine on third strikes and walked a pair.

There had been only one hit in the game, a pop double by Hodgekinson going into the sixth. Duvall broke the spell with a high triple to left leading off the inning. Patterson reached to right-centre and it was 2-0.

Hunt singled off Ethier's foot but Woods speared Hodgkinson's liner and missed a double play in inches. Ellis' lone error, when Boyle failed to hold Chatland's hard throw, permitted Hunt to score from second with the third Brockville run.

Belleville got one back with two out in the bottom of the 6th. Gardiner was hit by a pitch and Rutherford broke the no-hitter with a single to right field. Hunt overthrew third, allowing the lead man to score and putting Rutherford on third. Hodgekinson fanned Muirhead to end the threat.

Christie singled but Moon picked him off first to start the seventh. The move saved a run when Duvall followed with a lined homer past a diving outfielder in left.

Two walks failed to help Ellis' in their half of the inning and in the eighth, Rutherford lashed his second single but was cut down trying to advance on a passed ball.

With one out in the ninth, Ethier was safe on an infield error and advanced on a passed ball. Chatland also hit a soft one near third base. Stewart's throw hit Hodgekinson on the head and Ethier scored on the misCue. Joyle followed with a single to right, scoring Chatland, but he was cut down trying for second and Woods was whistled to end the game.

Larry Soule's rolling catch on Christie's lifter, Woods' spear on Hodgekinson's bullet and a double play in the first frame by Shorey, off Rutherford's bard shot, were the fielding highlights.

Rick Duvall's homer and triple, Larry Patterson's homer, Steve Ingles by Wayne Christie and solos by Ralph Hunt, Hodgekinson and John Shorey marked affair for Brockville.

Plate umpire J. Dunleavy of Brockville appeared to have trouble judging balls and strikes.

Quick Shuffle Drops Reds To Third

Dodgers Regain Lead

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Juan Marichal, Mike de la Hoz and Jim Lefebvre were the headliners Thursday as the National League pennant race d opened in confusion with the three top teams going through another shuffle.

The main focus was at Philadelphia, where San Francisco lic. first start for San Francisco since his suspension and was both knocked out of the box and dropped a 4-3 decision to the Phillies before the Giants came back to take the nightcap of the doubleheader 5-2.

De la Hoz got the key blow for Milwaukee, lofting a sacrifice fly in the 11th inning that drove in Eddie Mathews with the winning run as the Braves edged Cincinnati and dropped the Reds from first to third place.

Lefebvre supplied the big bat for Los Angeles, driving in four runs with two singles and a double as the Dodgers whipped Pittsburgh 7-2 and 6-1, ended a three-game losing streak and regained the top spot.

The Dodgers' lead over arc one game in front of the Giants, while the Reds are a half game off the pace and one percentage point behind San Francisco. The fourth-place Braves trail by a full game and the fifth-place Pirates 3½ out.

While the leaders were scrambling, Ernie Banks hit the 400th homer of his career in Chicago Cubs' 5-3 victory over St. Louis Cardinals and Houston Astros defeated New York Mets 4-3.

A record crowd of 30,410 turned out to see and boo Marichal, tagged with an eight-day suspension and a record $1,750 fine for hitting Dodger catcher John Roseboro over the head with a bat.

Marichal surrendered seven hits in seven innings, including a homer by light-hitting Bobby Wine, and was charged with all four runs and his 10th loss against 19 victories.

The Giants broke a 2-2 tie in the ninth inning of the nightcap as Ken Henderson walked, reached second when Richie Allen threw wild on Frank Linzy's bunt, and scored as Matty Alou swung and missed a wild pitch third strike fired by Jack Baldschun.

The Reds had pulled into a tie in the seventh on Frank Robinson's homer off Hank Fisher, who had a no-hitter going until the fifth inning. The Braves won it in the 11th when Mathews singled, moved to third as pitcher Ted Davidson threw wide of first baseman Bolling's bunt and scored when De la Hoz, batting for Fisher, bis his sacrifice fly.

Lefebvre singled in two runs in the first inning, finished home another in the fifth and drove across a fourth run with a run-scoring double in the eighth. Banks' homer capped a four-run third inning uprising that proved enough for the Cubs. He became only the 11th player ever to reach the 460-homer plateau.

Rusty Staub collected a homer, double and single, driving in three runs and scored a pair as the Astros defeated the Mets.

Lead Trimmed To 6½

Frustrated Twins Lose; Sox Win Pair

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sam Mele, manager of the American League leading Minnesota Twins, bit the depths of frustration Thursday night as his team had its lead trimmed to 6½ games, left 16 baserunners stranded and lost 5-4 to Detroit Tigers. His leading slugger struck out five times to tie a major league record.

Bob Allison matched the strikeout record and also left five of the 16 runners stranded in his dismal night.

On the other hand, Don Wert drove in four Detroit runs with a single and a home run while team - mate George Thomas hammered out four hits for the winners.

Thomas said after the game he didn't think the loss would damage the Twins' chances of winning the league pennant because he didn't think Chicago White Sox had the momentum to catch up.

But he'd probably have a tough time selling that idea to Al Lopez, the Chicago manager. His team defeated Baltimore Orioles 5-3 and 9-3 to give them a split in their last 20 games heading into a weekend series with the Twins.

DRIVES IN WINNERS

J. C. Martin's two-out double in the ninth inning drove in the winning runs in the opener while home runs by Pete Ward, Floyd Robinson and Ken Berry did the job in the nightcap.

Elsewhere in the league, Washington Senators edged Boston Red Sox 4-3, Cleveland Indians battered Kansas City Athletics 10-6 and New York Yankees ripped Los Angeles Angels 8-1.

Bob Chance's pitch single in the eighth inning delivered the tying and winning runs for the Senators. Don Lock homered for Washington in the first game, Chicago belted his 26th for the Red Sox.

Mickey Mantle drove in four runs and Whitey Ford beat Los Angeles for the ninth straight time as the Yankees romped. Mantle tapped a three-run homer in the first inning giving Ford, who pitched a four-hitter, a quick lead.

Rocky Colavito doubled home the deciding run in the seventh inning and Fred Whitfield followed with a two-run single as the Indians topped Kansas City. Cleveland jumped off to a 6-0 lead but the Athletics rallied in the late innings before the Indians came back for the victory.

Salmonbellies Will Play For Minto Cup

VICTORIA (CP)—With a protest by Victoria Shamrocks dropped, New Westminster Salmonbellies will represent British Columbia in Minto Cup junior lacrosse competition later this season.

New Westminster defeated Victoria 11-7 Wednesday night to take their best-of-five final 3-1, but Victoria said it planned to protest a major penalty.

The result was that the New Westminster victory was left hanging while the protest was filed.

Shamrocks officials decided Thursday night that the referee called the penalty according to one of two rules in the book and said they would not enter any protest.

Upsets Mark Play

Ontario Junior Champ Ousted

By PAT DINEEN

BRANTFORD (CP)—Half of Ontario's championship team was eliminated in match play competition in the Canadian Junior golf tournament Thursday.

Ontario junior champion Graham Cooke of Cookeville, the low scorer in the 36-hole qualifying round and leader of the Ontario foursome in the team competition earlier this week, saw his game fall apart. He was upset in a third-round match by Wayne Wiseman of Kingston, Ont., 2 and 1.

The two were even going onto the 16th hole, where two of Cooke's shots went out of bounds. He conceded the hole.

Wiseman won the 17th and the match when Cooke missed a three-foot putt.

This was Wiseman's second upset in as many days. In Wednesday's first round he eliminated John Souter of Calgary, the top golfer on the Alberta team, 1-up.

LOSES TO MORE

John McDonald of Toronto, another Ontario team member, lost his second-round match Thursday to Terry More of Winnipeg 2 and 1.

Ian Thomas of London, Ont., and Jim Short of Toronto, also on the Ontario team, advanced to the quarter-finals beginning today.

Thomas won the 12th, 18th and 17th holes to eliminate John Ritz of Calgary 2 and 1. Short, who barely qualified with a 164, one under the cutoff pole, has been the most impressive Ontario golfer in the two days. He won five of the first six holes in second-round play against Daniel Pesant of Montreal and ecarted to a 5 and 4 win.

In the third round he chipped in from 45 feet for an eagle three on the first hole, won the next four and went on to eliminate Peter Knechtel of Kitchener 3 and 2.

Wayne McDonald of Milton, Ont., 1964 provincial junior champion, was another upset victim. A 9 and 7 winner in the first round of match play Wednesday, McDonald lost 2-up to leftbander Robert MacFarlane of Edmundston, N.B.

MacFarlane and the other two New Brunswick survivors were ousted in the third round.

WINS 5 NAMES

The only British Columbia competitor remaining, Al Greenstreet of Vancouver, had little trouble disposing of MacFarlane 5 and 4. The New Brunswick junior champion, Grant Forbes of Edmundston, lost by the same score to Gord Stollery of Toronto. Pierre Rosignol of Bathurst fell 4 and 3 to Doran Doucet of Windsor Mills, Que.

More dropped a 20-foot birdie putt on the 14th hole on his way to a 2 and 1 victory over Mike Starko of Edmonton in the third round. The only other Manitoba survivor Thursday, Gordon Falk of Winnipeg, lost to Greenstreet 3 and 1 in the second round.

Peter Turner, who was the second low qualifier, defeated clubmate Jimmy Dysart of Toronto Summit 3 and 2.

Quarter-final winners today advance to the semi-finals with the 36-hole final scheduled Saturday at the Brantford Golf and Country Club.

Brydson Senior Pro Champ

HAMILTON (CP) — Gordie Brydson, 38-year-old veteran of professional golf, won the Ontario Professional Golfers Senior championship Thursday for the third year in a row.

Brydson, pro at the Mississaugs Golf Club in Port Credit, Ont., for 34 years, shot a five-over-par 75 at the Hamilton Golf and Country Club for a 36-hole total of 151.

The first 18 holes were played in London, Ont., in June and Brydson shot a 76.

Big Crowds For Football Exhibitions

NEW YORK (AP)—Practice makes perfect — and lots of money. At least in United States pro football.

Exhibition games are once again proving bonanzas for the two major pro leagues, even though these matches—as lucrative and headline-grabbing as they've become—are in the category of preseason training.

In 23 exhibitions to date, the National Football League has drawn 876,626 paying fans—an average of 38,100. The 46-year-old league has two more weekends to go before its regular season starts, and is certain to surpass its exhibition attendance record of 1,120,000 set last year.

The figures are less impressive for the American Football League but it, too, is headed for a new high. Sixteen AFL games have attracted 208,750 for an average of 16,800 and the final four exhibition games this week are certain to boost the total past the pre-season record of 270,000.

The big one this week is the annual doubleheader at Cleveland Stadium Saturday night which is highlighted by the pairing of Cleveland's league champion Browns against Green Bay's rugged Packers. In the first game, Detroit Lions play New York Giants, who will have ex-Lion Earl Morrall as their new quarterback. A standing room-only crowd of 80,000 is expected.

Carson Rules Suspension For Pitcher

HAMILTON (CP)—Tom Newton, a pitcher for Niagara Falls Weightmans in the Ontario Baseball Association senior A series, Thursday was suspended indefinitely for his part in a brawl during a playoff game between Niagara Falls and Hamilton Red Wings here Monday.

Newton, a central figure in the brawl that followed the Wings' 8-5, 12-inning win, drew the suspension for striking an umpire.

Jack Carson of Belleville, OBA convener, made the decision after reading a report of the incident by Wilf Rogers of Hamilton, the game's chairman.

The brawl started when the Niagara Falls players said Rick Holt had fouled off a Newton pitch in the bottom of the 12th inning. Umpire George Cassius ruled that Holt had missed the pitch. The ball bounced away from catcher Terry Mann and Bill Rowe scored the winning run.

The second game of the best of - three series is slated for Niagara Falls Saturday. If a third game is required, a pre-game toss will decide the site.

HADDIX RETIRES

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Milwaukee Braves announced Thursday that pitcher Harvey Haddix had notified the club he is retiring from baseball and will not join the Braves. The Braves purchased the veteran from Baltimore Orioles Monday for an undisclosed amount. The Braves said the deal with Baltimore has been cancelled.

TAKES CLAY'S SIDE

FREDERICK, Md. (AP)—The new World Boxing Association president said today that Cassius Clay "is the champion in the people of the world." Jim Deakin, speaking at a press conference, said: "The stripping of the recognition of Cassius Clay's heavyweight title was very premature and may have hurt the World Boxing Association and boxing in general more than anything."

Gives Team Good Shot At Cup

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two young golfers on Great Britain's Walker Cup team, Clive Clark and Peter Townsend, remind Joe Carr of a pair of youthful United States amateurs six years ago.

"Their names were Jack Nicklaus and Deane Beman and they didn't hurt the Yanks a bit," recalled Carr, the British team captain.

Carr offered the comparison as one of the reasons he is so optimistic about his team's chance to take the Walker Cup from the Americans in the competition today and Saturday.

Carr praised Clark and Townsend as outstanding golfers and noted they are about the same age as Nicklaus and Beman were in the 1958 cup won 9-3 by the U.S. in Scotland. Clark is 20, Townsend 18 while Nicklaus was 19 and Beman 21.

Demonstrating his confidence in Townsend and Clark, Carr selected them to play both in the team matches and No. 5 in the singles of Friday's opening rounds.

As expected, Mike Bradstock, the British and English amateur champion, and Bill Campbell, the defending U.S. amateur titleholder from Huntington, W.Va., are matched in the No. 1 singles.

Eight single matches of 18 holes will be played each afternoon. The morning rounds match four two-man teams, but the captains may juggle their line-ups for the second time around the 6,810-yard, par-70 Five Farms course.

Casey Bids Farewell To Mets

By JOE REICHLER

Hail To All Is Solid Favorite

SALEM, N.H. (AP)—Hail to All, backed by an imposing record, was made the flash favorite Thursday as he officially joined 10 other three-year-olds for the second running of the New Hampshire Sweepstakes classic at Rockingham Park Saturday.

The track handicapper lost no time quoting Mrs. Ben Cohen's son of Hail to Reason at even money to win the country's richest race for three-year-olds after the owners of the 11 had paid the entry fee of $1,650. Hill rout another $1,500 to get into the post parade for the 1¼-mile, mixed 87 feet, dash around the flowered-bordered oval.

If 11 start, the race will have a gross value of $18,150 with $183,118 going to the winner. Second will be worth $53,344, third $23,172 and fourth $14,000.

The outcome of the race will determine the distribution of prize money in the sweepstakes, inaugurated last year when the sale of sweeps tickets totalled $3,700,000. The sale dropped this year to $2,910,600.

The four holders of tickets on the winner will receive $100,000 each. A ticket on the second place horse will be worth $50,000, third $25,000 and fourth $12,500.

NEW YORK (AP) — Casey Stengel said goodbye again Thursday but this was a special farewell to New York Mets' players in the privacy of their clubhouse at Shea Stadium.

The 75-year-old convalescent, who retired last Monday as manager of the National League cellar-dwellers on doctor's advice, limped into the players' dressing room, perhaps for the last time, after taking part in a ceremony on the pitcher's mound during which his number 37 uniform was retired.

"This is gonna be the shortest speech I have ever made," he promised, as he stood in the centre of the clubhouse, supported by his crooked, black cane. He was surrounded by other but silent players.

"Observe, I want to thark the players who have been here the longest," he said, his voice cracking with emotion. "Those of you who have been here four years, you weathered the storm. Good or bad, you survived."

DOESN'T NEED CANE

Stengel shifted his feet, placed the crook of the cane into his left pocket, and faced the players without support. It was an obvious demonstration that he could stand, unaided, on the hip he had broken while getting out of a car July 25.

"Some of you newer players are correcting things that were wrong with you, physically and mentally," he resumed. "I know, because I've been watching you on TV.

"Now some of these good clubs can't play good in August and September. You fellows might make a great finish."

When Stengel finished, Galen Cisco, the Mets' player representative, told him "on behalf of the players, I want to thank you for all the help you gave us. You've done a terrific job. Your progress was more than overs. It was a pleasure to play for a man of your stature. You got us off the ground and we appreciate it."

Sports Briefs

RECALL REGAN

DETROIT (AP)—Pitcher Phil Regan was recalled by Detroit Tigers Thursday and will report to the American League club Friday. Regan, 5-10 last year, was sent to the Tigers' Syracuse farm club of the International League in June after posting a 0-4 record.

WILL BE MISSING

HAMILTON (CP) — Centre Chet Mikszta of Hamilton Tiger-Cats will be the only player missing from the team's lineup for next Monday's Eastern Football Conference game against Montreal Alouettes here. Mikszta is out indefinitely with a damaged knee.

The Trots

TORONTO (CP)—MacDuff's Lassie, a 10-year-old mare, registered a 1¾-length victory in the featured sixth race at Greenwood Raceway Thursday night.

The victory was the eighth in 21 starts this season for the horse, owned by Viola and Allan Walker of Owen Sound.

Ron Feagan, 23, of Goderich, Ont., Canada's top driver, scored two victories to run his season total to 134. He drove Perfect Host home first in the fifth race and registered again behind Starfire in the eighth. Both horses are owned by James M. Maguire of London, Ont.

WIN RCAF CROWN

GREENWOOD, N.S. (CP)—Greenwood scored a run in the eighth and extra inning to edge Centralia, Ont., 4-3 and capture the annual round-robin RCAF Dominion softball championships here Thursday.

Wilf Homenuik Sets Bursary Records

TORONTO (CP) — Diminutive Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg rode grim determination and a red-hot putter to a pair of records and $1,750 Thursday in winning the Macnaughton-Brooks bursary golf tournament.

Already a seasoned performer in United States and Caribbean tournaments, Homenuik didn't make any mistakes during his three rounds over the 6,387-yard, par-72 Don Valley course, shaving five strokes from par in Wednesday's opener and six in two rounds Thursday.

The 203 total—13 under-par—turned in by the 1965 Canadian Professional Golfers' Association champion erased the mark he had with Adrien Bigras of Ste. Dorothee, Que., following the 1963 event.

They turned in 203s each then as well, but par that year for the 54 holes was 210 while this year it was 216.

His fourth bursary, after sharing it in 1960, 1962 and 1963 as well, equalled the number of times George Knudson of Toronto was among the events top three—in 1958, 1959, 1960 and 1961—while his winning accumulation of $6,750 also is a record.

Winning $1,750 each with Homenuik were Bill Wakeham of Victoria, now playing out of Calgary's Canyon Meadows course, with 212 and Vancouver's Alvie Thompson, who battled back to a 214 to nip Leon Rewers and Gary Fawcett, both of Toronto, by a single stroke.

The prize money is available only to Canadian pros and assistants under 30 to finance their way in winter tournaments in the southwestern United States and the Caribbean.

Fawcett and Decaire will meet in a playoff next week to decide the nominate for the 10-week sponsored tour.

Last year Homenuik placed sixth on the Caribbean leg of the tour and picked up $4,800 in prize money.

CHAMPLAIN'S ASTROLABE—Centennial Commissioner John Fisher sights a replica of Samuel de Champlain's astrolabe. Mr. Fisher is a supporter of efforts to have the original given to Canada by the New York Historical Library. Champlain lost his astrolabe at Muskrat Lake, on the Ottawa River, in 1613. It was found by loggers in 1867 and sold to a United States collector about 1913 for $10. Efforts are being made to get it back by 1967, the centennial of Canadian Confederation. (CP Photo)

Ottawa Firm Repatriating Astrolabe for Centennial

By GERARD McNEIL

OTTAWA (CP)—An electronics firm here is trying to repatriate an old navigation device, the astrolabe Samuel de Champlain used in exploring Canada. It would be the company's gift to the country for the 1967 centennial year.

Computing Devices of Canada Ltd., which makes navigation and other instruments, adopted the Champlain astrolabe as its signature several years ago.

It is one of the 500 items that belong to the Canadian Centennial Council, a private group carrying out a number of projects for 1967.

One of them is an attempt to have the astrolabe returned to Canada by the privately-owned New York Historical Library.

The astrolabe, a crude forerunner of today's sextant, had a circular scale marked off into 360 degrees and a rotating arm. When suspended from a tree or steady object on a ship, the navigator sighted the North Star to determine his latitude, then sighted two or more other known stars along the movable arm to determine his longitude.

REMARKABLY ACCURATE

Sightings had to be made either at dawn or dusk when the horizon was visible. The astrolabe also could be sighted on the sun during the day with readings taken at fixed time intervals but this did not give as accurate figures.

Champlain's astrolabe was made in 1603. After using it to make maps that were incredibly accurate even by today's standards he apparently lost it at Muskrat Lake June 7, 1613, while exploring the Ottawa River.

It was found by a woodsman in 1867, the year of Confederation. About 30 years later it was sold to a private collector in the United States for $10 and eventually wound up in the New York library.

Shortly after Computing Devices was established in 1958, William MacRae, a student and admirer of Champlain, got the firm interested in the explorer. Mr. MacRae now is with the Centennial Council.

The astrolabe was adopted as the firm's symbol. Computing Devices also found itself owner of Champlain's birthplace in Brouage, France. The village turned the site over to the company in 1963 and it has been helping with restoration.

FOUNDED QUEBEC

A coin found there is believed to have been lost by Champlain in 1635, Mr. MacRae says, and has been given to Canada.

It is hoped that the birthplace also can be given to Canada by 1967.

Champlain made 12 voyages to Canada from Brouage. He arrived when he was 42, came within an ace of establishing the first permanent settlement in North America at Port Royal (in what now is Nova Scotia) in 1605 and founded Quebec City in 1608.

He died in Quebec City Dec. 25, 1635, at 68. Archeologists are still trying to establish his burial place, believed near historic Place d'Armes on Cape Diamond.

Computing Devices has made a replica of the scarred astrolabe found at Muskrat Lake and John Fisher, commissioner of the government's Centennial Commission, recently sighted it on the sun at North Bay, Ont., after canoeists headed for Kingston, Ont., on one of Champlain's old routes.

Mr. Fisher is also a supporter of efforts to have the original returned to Canada, perhaps as a trade for two brass cannon from the Battle of Bunker Hill now in a Quebec museum.

Wife Willing To Go to United States

DELHI, Ont. (CP) — Mrs. Russell Keck, an American soldier's wife ordered deported to Germany, said Thursday she will refuse to leave Canada ex cept to go to the United States.

After reading in a newspaper that the immigration appeal board had rejected her appeal against the deportation order, Mrs. Keck said she plans to sit tight.

Immigration Minister Nicholson "can order me a hundred times but I won't go back to Germany," she said.

Whether the deportation order would actually be carried out appeared to be in doubt.

WILL GET VISA

Mrs. Keck, a 20-year-old native of Hungary, has applied successfully for a visa to the U.S. and is awaiting her entry papers. An immigration department spokesman in Ottawa said the appeal board decision is subject to review by the minister and a final decision is not expected for a week or 10 days. The fact that a U.S. visa has been approved would be taken into consideration.

Mrs. Keck came to Canada on a temporary visa and while here married Keck, whom she had met while he was stationed in Germany. The army had refused them permission to marry overseas and Keck was sent back to the U.S.

Mrs. Keck said she has no way of telling her husband the result of the appeal because he is at an army base in Kansas awaiting transportation to South Viet Nam with his division.

DeMILLES 7 CNR FIREMEN 4

DeMille Construction upset the CNR Firemen 7-4 in the first game of the tyke finals played at Park Dale last night.

The losers led for most of the game, but a three run rally in the seventh by DeMilles proved fatal.

Jim Whalen pitched the win. He gave up eight hits, struck out nine and issued four free passes.

John Mulvihill took the loss, allowing eight hits, whiffing 10 and walking one.

DeMilles offensive was led by John Strather, who went three-for-three. Rick Burnette tripled, J. Coughlin doubled and Mike Hayes, Dave Rutherford and Whalen hit safely.

Dick Howes, with three hits, was best for the Firemen. Danny Lopenetie stroked a pair, while singles went to Terry Ray, John Mulvihill, and John Nolan.

The next game in the series will be played at Park Dale at 6.15 on Wednesday.

THEY SCORE BIG

MONTREAL (CP) — Professional pickpockets are emptying the pockets of Montrealers at the rate of $7,000 to $8,000 a day, Crown Prosecutor Andre C. Chaloux said Thursday. "Most of the thieves are foreigners and one might suggest they are getting ready for the 1967 world's fair" the prosecutor said. He spoke at the arraignment of a 32-year-old Colombian, the 20th Colombian to appear in court in connection with pickpocket thefts in the last 16 months.

Firm Offers Made to Noteholders

TORONTO (CP)—Two United States companies have made firm offers to noteholders of Atlantic Acceptance Corp., which went into receivership last June after failing to meet some short-term debts.

Montreal Trust Co., receiver of the bankrupt corporation, reported Thursday in a message to noteholders that the offers were made by General Acceptance Corp. and Walter E. Heller and Co. The noteholders have until Oct. 12 to decide on the offers.

Atlantic's estimated assets, available to creditors, has been established at $103,432,630. The assets are carried at a book value of $145,883,503. This is $3,430,510 short of Atlantic's liabilities to senior noteholders, and $26,619,610 to other creditors.

GAC has offered to pay $16,000,000 by Dec. 31, with a further $13,000,000 to $14,000,000 payment next March 1, for certain of Atlantic's personal loan and sales finance receivables.

The receiver said the essence of the GAC proposal is its intention to use Atlantic's system of offices to broaden its Canadian business, now confined chiefly to the Toronto area.

The Walter E. Heller proposal provides for takeover of the personal loans receivables, valued at $32,875,000, with an initial payment of $3,000,000. The remainder would be paid in 36 equal monthly installments with interests at five per cent.

Montreal Trust said it also received a bid for the Atlantic assets from Laurentide Financial Corp. Meetings to consider this proposal are to be held Sept. 10.

Defer Decision On 2 Charged As Accessories

MONTREAL (CP)—Two men charged as accessories in the jail-break of Lucien Rivard appeared for preliminary hearing Thursday and Judge Marcel Gaboury deferred his decision until Sept. 9. The two men, Armand (Freddy) Cadieux, 48, and Sebastien Boucher, 41, who were picked up with Rivard and Yvard to a multi-force police raid on a cottage in nearby Woodlands in mid-July.

Rivard escaped last March 2 from Montreal's Bordeaux Jail. He has been recaptured and extradited to Texas where he is held pending trial on narcotics charges.

Cadieux, co - accused with Boucher, testified Thursday with protection of the court.

He said Rivard had been a guest at a summer cottage Cadieux had rented at St. Hippolyte for $150 a month. He said he knew Rivard and that Rivard had visited the cottage "once or twice" in May.

Cadieux said he couldn't remember the exact dates or just who was present on the occasion of these visits.

Under questioning, he said he recalled that one Andre Paquette had supper one night with Rivard.

Paquette was identified as a man still sought in connection with the $1,400,000 armed holdup of a mail truck March 31, 1964.

Luise Rainer Is Returning To Lot Left 26 Years Ago

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "The them I seemed like a diamond in the sunshine. Suddenly I started sparkling and walked away."

This was Luise Rainer's reflection upon returning to MGM, from which she departed amicably 26 years ago. During her comet-like three years in films, she collected two Oscars—for The Great Ziegfeld and The Good Earth—and created a harvest of legend.

Yes, my story has become quite a saga," he said with a wry smile on her lovely Viennese face. "I am amazed to some of the stories I hear—but no one enjoys them more than I."

For 10 years Miss Rainer has lived in London with her publisher husband, Robert Knittel, and their daughter, now 19. The Knittels were pursuing their hobby of mountain climbing in the Dolomites when a message came urging her to consider returning to Hollywood to play in ABC's Combat series.

The crisp caught up with her in Venice, she liked it, and the journey fitted into her plans. Only after she arrived did she learn that she was to film the television show on the Io' where she had spent her entire film career.

The return brought forth a flood of memories—and no regrets.

"My life is my life, the heartaches as well as the joys," Miss Rainer declared. "I would have it no different."

Why did she leave MGM? Stories of her reluctance have long been circulated, and she admitted that she was difficult—with a reservation.

"I was very young and headstrong—I was only 22," she commented, "and it is no secret that I was undergoing emotional problems."

GOT DIVORCED

"I was married to Clifford Odets at the time, and he was a wonderful man but he should not have been married. During the time we were undergoing the divorce, I was pregnant and knew I was losing the baby and I was working all the while."

Miss Rainer said her contract called for six months of making two films, then six months for stage work. But during her last six-month period, she was forced to make Toy Wife, Dramatic School and The Great Waltz. Since the latter was almost totally remade, she had worked in the equivalent of four films in six months.

"So I left," she said. "I simply walked out, went to the south of France and helped get 700 orphans out of Spain during the civil war."

Over the years she has been intermittently active on the stage and in television. But she never returned to films.

Great U.S. TV Sweepstakes Will Get Underway Shortly

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —Starting time for the U.S. television program sweepstakes is a little more than a week away, a horse race in every way but one: The results will not be really known until some time in November.

For the first time, the three major networks will line up all their new and returning shows at the schedule post for a simultaneous start. Procedure in other years has been for each network to appropriate one September week as its own premiere period.

How will NBC's The Wackiest Ship in the Army? do against CBS' Candid Camera and What's My Line? which's behind the Sunday night rail position in the Nielsen ratings for several seasons?

Does ABC's Legend of Jesse James have a chance when pitted against such veteran ratings champs as The Lucy Show over CBS and Dr. Kildare on NBC?

VIEWERS DECIDE

Two weeks from tonight, viewers make a blind choice among shows as they make their debuts at the same time. The longest odds, of course, benefit the new entries placed in competition with last year's winners—as the sleeper hit against NBC's Bonanza, CBS' Gomer Pyle and ABC's Bewitched, to mention the three series which last year won, placed and showed in most of the Nielsen results.

Post - position handicapping, however, can be as dangerous as any other method of picking TV winners. Thus, there is always a chance that this year's Gidget can wind up out in front of Beverly Hillbillies, or that Petticoat Wag can overtake Gomer Pyle.

Series actors worry almost as much about the positioning of shows in the network schedule as they do about their lines. One of the season's big threats is ABC's Peyton Place which has recently been expanded to three episodes a week — with every last one listed on the Nielsen top-10 chart.

Steelworkers Pare Demands, Talks Continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Steel negotiators pushed nearer a settlement today after the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers Union reduced its wage demands for the first time since President Johnson brought the talks to the White House.

Johnson pressed for a major breakthrough in negotiations today and he huddled closely - guarded talks said "there's a good chance" he will get it.

But union and industry negotiators, facing a strike deadline at 12:01 a.m. Thursday, were reported still five to six cents apart—a matter of millions of dollars a year in labor costs to the industry.

The union chopped off about 10 cents from its demands, bringing the total down to slightly more than 40 cents an hour in wages and fringe benefits spread over three years, said the source.

The industry earlier had boosted its offer by nearly 2½ cents to a package of about 43 cents, informed sources said.

The approximately 450,000 basic steelworkers now earn $4.40 an hour in wages and fringe benefits.

WAITS FOR REPORT

Johnson, frustrated in his hope to fly to his Texas ranch Thursday night with at least a tentative agreement in hand, remained here awaiting a progress report.

Johnson urged the negotiators to reach a settlement before Labor Day and told them that even a short strike would be more harmful to the U.S. economy than a long recession.

White House Press Secretary Bill D. Moyers declined comment on the extent of progress in the negotiations, but said:

"It is fair to say they have gotten down to the nub of the main issues and are trying to whittle down the differences between them."

Restive and Ambitious Synod Makes Important Reforms

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 32nd General Synod of the Anglican Church of Canada, restive and ambitious gathering with reform on its mind, completed its work Thursday.

The church's primate, Most Rev. Howard H. Clark, said he has never known a more vigilant body to make decisions on so many important matters.

Delegates impatiently put down those among them who seemed to be trying to cling to local issues and upbraided the church relentlessly for failing to put across its doctrines to young people.

The nine-day Synod, in its most important step, approved principles laid down for union of the Anglican and United Churches, a unifying of the church to begin definite planning should the General Council of the United Church give similar approval a year from now. The assembly of 32 bishops and 315 priests and lay delegates also revamped the structure of the Synod itself, and merged its two main executive bodies into a national executive council of 45 members.

The Synod approved a new canon on marriage that will make possible the remarriage of divorced persons in some cases; a significant change in church law. The canon awaits confirmation at the next Synod two years' hence. Meantime the church stands by its existing canon prohibiting a priest from consecrating a marriage involving a divorcee.

RECEIVE WARNINGS

The church was confronted with reports warning that its various lay groups—men, women and teen-agers — are strange kind of evangelism. We here.

The primate said the church's statistics do not tell all the story of the changing patterns of Christianity. The Anglican ing army of people who come church in the world at the same time as the gospel is spreading to the ends of the world," said Archbishop Clark after the final adjournment Thursday.

"Perhaps the Christian church is going into a period of a strange kind of evangelism. We still have at will become Christians but we have come to conceive that in the atmosphere of today what makes a person man can share your beliefs is what he is not.

"There's a spirit of concern and mutual eagerness to share in help. If anything else is to be distinctly Christian we think people will realize it."

Four Former SS Members Given Life for Killing Jews

DUESSELDORF (Reuters)—A West German court today sentenced four former SS (Nazi elite guard) men to hard labor for life for their role in the murder of 700,000 Jews at Treblinka death camp in Poland.

Five other former camp guards were sentenced to hard-labor terms ranging from three to 12 years and a 35th was acquitted.

Sentenced to life was Kurt Hubert Franz, 31, camp commandant, now a cook, known to prisoners as "The Beast."

He was alleged to have shot prisoners as they arrived at the camp, to have shot, hanged and beaten others and said to have set his dog on prisoners to tear them to bits.

He was said to have hanged five prisoners upside down until they died and to have killed about 350 at one time with a machine pistol.

The others sentenced to life: Willi Mentz, 61, former sergeant, now a butcher, known to prisoners as "Frankenstein." Alleged to have shot arriving prisoners and to have helped dispose of bodies.

August Miete, 56, former sergeant, now a businessman. Called by inmates the "Angel of Death." Alleged to have whipped and shot arriving and sick prisoners.

Arthur Mathes, 63, also a former sergeant, now a nurse. Alleged to have run the Upper Camp where the gas chambers and crematoria were situated, to have supervised the "Angel of Death" and whipped arriving prisoners and to have shot 40 prisoners who fell ill with typhus.

Gustav Muenberger, 62-year-old carpenter, a sergeant at Treblinka, was sentenced to 12 years; Otto Stadie, 68, alleged to have allocated duties of guards in charge of gassings, was sentenced to seven years; Franz Suchomel, 37, a Czechoslovak - born tailor, was sentenced to seven years; Hermann Lambertz-Gooyaers, 42-year-old former sergeant, was imprisoned for four years and Albert Rum, now a 75-year-old pensioner, to three years.

Coroners' Inquests Into Ont. Hospital Deaths Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — Coroners' inquests into Ontario hospital deaths were criticized by the Canadian Bar Association convention Thursday as being unfair to doctors and not serving the public interest.

Toronto pathologist Roderick Ross said in a panel discussion that inquests into hospital deaths "create an overlay of fear of misadventure" among hospital patients. It is most essential that fear of a public inquiry should not cause the judgment of an operating surgeon.

"I seriously doubt whether the public is well served by those coroners' inquests where an individual physician or hospital is, in fact, on trial," Dr. Ross said.

He criticized the type of inquest which does not permit the parties involved to have lawyers for cross-examination of witnesses.

In Ontario coroners' inquests into hospital deaths, the right to counsel are only at the discretion of the presiding coroner.

"It is more in keeping that the rights of an individual are best served if the hearing is conducted under circumstances where he has a right to counsel, than at a very public inquest where he does not have such rights," he said.

Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells of the Ontario Appeal Court said that often a coroner's inquest is a one-sided story.

Toronto lawyer W. Glen How said that inquests are criticized as "there are some things that need to be brought to light."

But, he added, any party in an inquest who can indicate serious possible damage resulting from it should be allowed, counsel and the right of cross-examination.

Mr. How charged that in malpractice suits "you have a conspiracy of silence among the medical professions" and said that in 90 years in Ontario there have been only six successful malpractice suits.

He said this would indicate either doctors have been only semi-made mistakes or there is inadequate inquiry into their activities.

Dr. Ross replied that doctors are not permitted to make mistakes.

Ottawa Woman Injured in One-car Crash

PICTON — A one-car accident yesterday afternoon about 4 p.m. sent four persons to Prince Edward County Hospital. In serious condition in hospital is Mrs. Kathleen Butler of Ottawa. Her 17-year-old son is suffering from undetermined injuries.

Also in hospital, reported in fair condition, are Mrs. Marie Lightfoot, driver of the car, and Anthony P. Cook, 10, of Ottawa. Mrs. Lightfoot and Mr. Cook are suffering minor scrapes and bruises.

The car was travelling west on the Sehoherie Road near the Picton Drive - in Theatre when a tire blew and the car left the road crashing into a tree on the opposite side.

An off - duty nurse, Miss D. Dick, was on hand offering assistance to the injured persons when the ambulance arrived. She later accompanied the injured back to the hospital in Rose's Ambulance.

Dr. K. E. McQueen of Bloomfield was also at the scene of the accident. Constable Goodyear of the Picton O.P.P. investigated.

Orillia's Liquor Laws Absurd Says Lawyer

ORILLIA (CP)—Hugh Grant, a retired lawyer, says a charge against him of keeping liquor for sale may open some people's eyes on Orillia's liquor laws.

Mr. Grant—who doesn't drink himself — is secretary-manager of the Orillia Chamber of Commerce, and write - in - vote winner of the town's 1964 citizen of the year award.

He was charged in connection with a ceremony he staged during the annual chamber of commerce headquarters on Highway 11, attended by Premier Robarts, former premier Leslie Frost and Orillia Mayor Isabel Post.

Police said liquor was served at the ceremony and the chamber had neglected to obtain a liquor permit. A summons to appear in court Sept. 21 to answer the charge was served on Mr. Grant.

"This may turn out to be a blessing in disguise," Mr. Grant said. "Maybe many people will decide to do something about the small and vociferous minority that has been running the show as far as Liquor is concerned."

To get beer by the glass, Orillians must make a day-long trip to Atherley, an unincorporated hamlet in Mara Township which has two hotels and taverns; or to Owaissa Point, a short distance north, where there is a licensed lodge.

Liquor by the glass is available at nearby Gravenhurst and Barrie, where there are cocktail bars.

Water Service To 3 Cities Is Proposed

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto company announced Thursday the establishment of a study of a Lake Ontario water commissioner service from Oshawa, Toronto and Hamilton.

The service would involve hydrofoil boats capable of speeds of 90 to 100 miles an hour and able to carry more than 80 passengers at a time. If docking facilities can be arranged the service could start next summer.

Toronto lawyer Jacob Pearlstein, who formed the company with Ontario Transportation Co.—said a prototype of the hydrofoil commuter boat is being built in New Jersey by George Molotsak of Hydro-Jet Inc., Coaldale, Pa. It will be 85 feet long and weigh 12 tons, moving under the thrust of a pair of jets.

Company President Tryi Gilron of Toronto said discussions have begun for docking facilities with the Toronto Harbor Commission.

Canada on Receiving End Of Post-war 'Brain Drain'

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada has been on the receiving end of the post-war "brain drain," according to a research study prepared for the Economic Council of Canada.

The study made public Thursday showed that in the years 1950 to 1963 Canada had an annual average loss of 6,000 professionally - trained immigrants numbering 7,790, while there was an annual outflow of emigrants in the same categories numbering 1,476.

This left Canada with a net immigration of 2,314 professionally-trained people a year.

The study was prepared by Louis Parai of Drumheller, Alta., now a lecturer in the economics department at the University of Western Ontario, London. The council commissioned the work for its first in professional and skilled manpower research.

Mr. Parai's report found that in addition to the movement of professionals, Canada had an average influx of 18,264 skilled workers a year, against an outflow of 6,219, leaving the country with a net immigration of skilled workers numbering 12,074 a year. This was an annual outflow of 2,000 between 1950 and 1963.

The report found that about 9,800 professional and skilled workers were integrated annually from Canada to the United States—giving rise to the much-discussed brain drain or skilled talent from Canada.

But the report also found the loss to the United States was more than offset by an average annual immigration of 26,000 professional and skilled workers from all countries.

Raging Hurricane Stalled Astride Nassau, Bahamas

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Betsy sat astride Nassau today, ripping the famed resort city a terrible beating with 125 - mile - an - hour winds and massive tides.

A shortwave radio report picked up by the Miami weather bureau said winds had risen to the screaming pitch of 135 in Nassau.

Otherwise, a communications blackout caused by widespread power failure hid the fate of Nassau and other Bahamas islands battered by the vicious and abnormal tropical storm.

Although Betsy was stationary, her gale winds were spiralling outward closer to the Florida coast. Gusts reached 60 miles an hour in Miami and were expected to increase gradually.

"Florida is in for a long siege," said Gordon Dunn, chief storm forecaster at Miami.

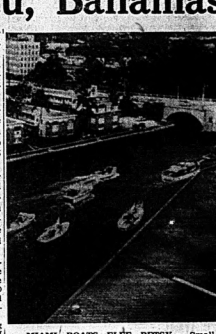
Dunn said latest weather data indicated that the calm centre of the eye did not pass over Nassau, giving the city that brief respite.

TAKES STEADY POUNDING

Instead, he said, the eye evidently passed just off the island and Nassau had been in the wall of the eye where the greatest wind and water turbulence lies in a hurricane structure.

By 12 noon, Nassau's 50,000 residents had reckoned under the brutal hammering of hurricane winds more than 12 hours. And Betsy still stalling over the island, nobody could tell how many more hours of savage punishment the Bahamian capital would have to endure.

Since its birth Aug. 27, Betsy has thrashed about in aimless fashion, making the task of the forecasters tremendously difficult.



Power failure knocked out communications to Nassau at 2 a.m. when the Miami weather bureau received its final word —that winds had risen to an 80-mile-hour pitch and seas around the island were going wild.

If tides were running 10 feet above normal, as reported in some areas of the islands, severe flooding of the low-lying Bahama coasts was likely. And it was feared that the screaming winds had taken a heavy toll of the flimsy homes of the poor.

Silence also hung over Abaco, second largest of the Bahamas Islands, after Monday's pounding by 147-mile-an-hour winds and towering tides, and over the island of Eleuthera.

South Floridians boarded this Monday after Betsy heade this way following her freakish turnabout, and the weather

Russia Is Ready to Stop Underground Atomic Tests

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia said today it is ready to stop all underground nuclear tests "without delay" on the basis of an Egyptian proposal to the 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference here.

The Egyptian proposal was that the present 1963 partial test-ban treaty should be extended to cover underground tests above a seismic magnitude of 4.75, and that the nuclear powers should voluntarily refrain from tests below this magnitude.

The present treaty bans tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water.

Soviet - American differences over the need for international on - site inspection have prevented it being extended to cover underground tests.

Chief Soviet Delegate Semyon Tsarapkin told today's session of the conference:

"The Soviet Union continues to be ready to come to an agreement without delay on the prohibition of all underground tests, on the basis of using national means of detection of nuclear explosions, which are absolutely sufficient for the control of such a ban."

The Egyptian proposal advocated a ban on a fraction of such tests under such conditions, and it also spoke of a moratorium on other tests below the 4.75 threshold, he said.

Therefore, Tsarapkin added, "the Soviet Union is ready to meet the positions of the United Arab Republic (Egypt) and to agree to stop underground tests of nuclear weapons this way."

Khan Accepts Kenyatta As Mediator

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)— Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan has accepted an offer from Kenya's President Jomo Kenyatta to mediate in the India-Pakistan dispute, the Pakistan high commission said here today in a statement.

(Prime Minister Pearson had offered to act as a mediator last Friday but O'Lawa has yet to receive a reply.)

The Pakistani high commissioner here, K. Pazni, delivered a personal retire to Kenyatta today consigning Ayub's "appreciation and acceptance" of the mediation offer.

The statement said Kenyatta was sending urgent messages to Ayub and Indian Prime Minister Shastri urging them to end the armed conflict.

U Thant Flies To Pakistan

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—UN Secretary - General U Thant made plans today to fly to India and Pakistan to seek an end to the fighting there. He was expected to leave tonight.

The Security Council unanimously called Monday night on both governments to cease hostilities and asked Thant "to exert every possible effort" to gain that end. The council acted after India invaded Pakistan proper, extending the conflict previously confined to Kashmir.

The peace mission is Thant's second such trip since he became secretary-general Nov. 3, 1961. His first took him to Havana in October, 1962, during a U.S.-Cuban crisis.

The council's ceasefire resolution was in record in three days. It called on the parties "to cease hostilities in the entire area of conflict, and promptly withdraw all armed personnel back" to the positions held before they took up them fighting started in Kashmir.

The resolution also asked Thant to keep the council and UN military observer group in Kashmir and to keep the council informed of developments. It pledged the council to keep the situation "under urgent and continuing review."

CANADA PARTICIPATES

Canada has nine officers in the UN military observer group in Kashmir.

In the debate before the council voted, Pakistani Ambassador Amjad Ali charged that India last May seized three posts on the Kutch border in Pakistan's side of the Kashmir cease-fire line. He said India now has invaded Pakistan proper and done to Asia what Hitler did in Europe.

Foreign Secretary Chandra S. Jha of India said Pakistan started the trouble by sending infiltrators over the ceasefire line in Kashmir Aug. 5, an allegation Ali denied. Jha also said Pakistani troops followed and "we have got to strike at the base from which this attack is launched."

In the meantime, Pakistan asked the UN Security Council to take "immediate and effective action to halt Indian aggression" against it.

Bhutto said Pakistan had also asked the Central Treaty Organization and all countries which it has bilateral or multilateral pacts to help Pakistan.

Savage Fighting Likely In Bid for Quick Win

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The intensified fighting between India and Pakistan is likely soon to become far more savage as each side seeks desperately for some early, decisive advantage.

Otherwise the sheer burden of a long drawn-out clash, for which neither is prepared in terms of food and equipment, could finally push them into some unhappy deals with outsiders or force them to fall back in exhaustion.

Some hint of the suffering ahead came when Prime Minister Shastri of India called on all Indian adults to sacrifice one meal a day to help ease the food shortage.

The sub-continent is eternally haunted by famine. How long can either India or Pakistan continue to fight if foreign shipments were cut off?

Both countries also rely heavily on foreign arms. Much of this equipment, on both sides, came from the United States, though some also has come from Britain, the Soviet Union and other countries. Over the years, the U.S. wanted to keep these two countries well armed to discourage a Communist invasion. Now these arms are being used in a border slaughter.

Both sides are aware they may find it more difficult to replenish their future armament needs if they continue to repulse ceasefire demands.

The United Nations Security Council has called for a ceasefire and Britain has urged both sides to respond, warning that the antagonists' economic progress is in jeopardy and that the border war could threaten the peace of the world.

Inevitably, India and Pakista much how to these wishes unless they get outside support. Eventually emotionalism and national pride must be cooled by a cold appraisal of the cost of unlimited war. And there is no indication that either side can be knocked out immediately, no matter how much force is deployed.

In the end, the two neighbors may discover that they have caused more damage than they anticipated. The whole force of a united Commonwealth is shattered.

The scars which would be left by this bloodshed will be difficult to erase.

The power of the Commonwealth to influence other countries has been exploded. How can the Commonwealth bring peace to such places as Viet Nam when it cannot bring peace to its own family?

China Sides With Pakistan

PEKING (Reuters) — China today condemned India's armed attack on Pakistan as an "act of naked aggression", the New China news agency reported.

In its first public word on the Indian invasion of Pakistan, a Chinese government statement said it was not only a "crude violation of all principles guiding international relations but also constitutes a grave threat to peace in this part of Asia."

Full-scale War Rages After Indian Invasion

By RALPH SHAW

KARACHI, Pakistan (Reuters) — India and Pakistan escalated their undeclared war today with air raids deep into each other's territory.

Pakistani officials said Indian Air Force bombers and Hawker Hunter fighters attacked many areas in both West and East Pakistan, including Karachi and Rawalpindi, the seat of President Mohammed Ayub Khan's government.

Radio Pakistan said the Pakistan cities of Dacca and Chittagong also were bombed.

The Pakistani Air Force claimed destruction of 46 Indian planes, including 24 today in an air battle over Sargodha, 250 miles south of Rawalpindi.

Official Pakistani sources said the Indian Air Force also attacked early today at Kurmi, Kurmiolsk, Jessore and Latimurhat, all in East Pakistan.

Russia Urges 'Restraint' On Both Sides

MOSCOW (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Kosygin was today reported to have called again for "restraint on both sides" to help end the undeclared India-Pakistan war.

Pakistan's ambassador to the Soviet Union, Iqbal Akhar, said the Soviet premier made his plea during a 20-minute private meeting with him in the Kremlin this morning.

"He said the Soviet Union would continue to counsel restraint on both sides," the ambassador said afterward.

He added that Kosygin said — "in a general way" — that Russia would be "available if it could help in any way."

West Pakistan is separated from East Pakistan by about 1,000 miles of Indian territory.

The fierce fighting between India and Pakistan continued despite a United Nations call to end the hostilities that spread rapidly after India invaded Pakistani territory.

Indian sources claimed that Pakistani paratroopers were dropped in three places in the Punjab, an Indian state, during the night for sabotage purposes.

It was the first report that Pakistani troops were on Indian soil.

India's bombing of Karachi

Britain Will Not Take Sides

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain will turn down any requests from Pakistan for help against India as a member of the Central Treaty Organization, government sources said today.

Pakistan announced early today she would ask the other Cento powers—Britain, Turkey and Iran—to come to her aid in the face of India's attack. But the sources said no formal request had been received in London.

The sources stressed that Prime Minister Wilson was determined that Britain should not take sides in the dispute between the two Commonwealth countries.

In Britain's view, the Cento defence alliance did not apply in any way to the India-Pakistan conflict, they said.

The sources said the British view was based on these factors:

1. The spirit of the Cento pact, although loosely worded, was clearly aimed at resisting Communist aggression.

Cento — originally the 1955 Baghdad Pact—was designed to meet any aggression against the "northern tier" Middle East countries by Russia.

2. The pact itself called for discussion and advice as well as defensive aid.

In British view on this count alone spirit of the pact had been broken because advice was not sought, and when given, was ignored.

Pearson May Announce Election Date in National TV Broadcast

OTTAWA (CP)— Prime Minister Pearson has arranged to go on a national television and radio hook-up tonight, heightening speculation he may announce a general election.

Mr. Pearson was expected to confer with Governor-General Vanier before the broadcast, scheduled for 8:30 p.m. EDT.

If there is to be an election, the prime minister will have to seek a dissolution of Parliament from the Governor-General.

The planned radio and television broadcast, being arranged through the CBC, was announced in a one-paragraph press release by Richard O'Hagan, the prime minister's press secretary.

It said: "The prime minister will deliver an address on national radio and television tonight at 8:30 p.m. EDT."

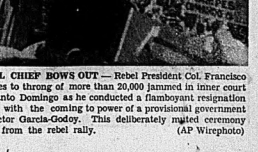
The Governor - General returned to Ottawa shortly after 10:30 a.m., several hours earlier than originally scheduled.

A spokesman in Mr. Pearson's office said no definite arrangements have been made for the prime minister to see the Governor-General but that such a call is customary when Gen. Vanier returns from his summer home at Tadoussac, Que.

A Government House spokesman said the change in travel times for Gen. Vanier was brought about by train connections. Arrangements could not be made to book his private cars on a train arriving here Tuesday night, so the earlier train was taken.

Mr. Pearson promised after a cabinet session last Wednesday to announce a decision by tomorrow.

If he requests Gen. Vanier to dissolve Parliament today, the earliest date on which an election could be held is Monday, Nov. 8. Nov. 15 also has been mentioned as a possibility.



The prime minister returned here at noon Monday after spending three days resting and fishing at the summer home of prime ministers, at Harrington Lake, some 40 miles north of the capital.

For more than a week now, Mr. Pearson has kept mum on the subject of a fall election. Before that he appeared to drop a string of election hints and comments that encouraged speculation during a Western Canada tour and at press conferences before going West.

Wilson Predicts Balancing Foreign Accounts in Year

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON (CP)—Prime Minister Wilson, aggressively confident amid a host of political troubles, predicts Britain will balance its foreign accounts within a year and thus eliminate one source of pressure on its tottering economy.

Wilson spoke during the week-end like a man with a firm grasp on government, rather than the leader of a party with its fingernail-clutch on parliamentary power reduced to a precarious two votes.

Speaking to a Labor party rally in Bristol Saturday night, Wilson forecast better times ahead, spurred the idea of a general election, attacked the "negative" Tory opposition, and outlined a legislative program for Parliament when it reassembles late next month.

Wilson said the international payments deficit—the result of Britain buying and investing more overseas than is earned—will be cut by the end of this year to a maximum of £800,000,000) from the £800,000, deficit inherited from the Conservative government when Labor took office last October.

MAY BEAT PREDICTION

Estimates showed the deficit would be eliminated "probably earlier" than originally predicted—the end of 1966. The government now expected back once to be achieved by the middle of next year as a result of import and credit restrictions, reduced public spending and other deflationary measures.

Balancing the foreign accounts would bolster foreign confidence in the British economy and relieve the selling pressure on sterling, which had forced the Labor government to borrow more than $2,500,000,000 abroad and institute a succession of austerity measures in the last 18 months.

But Britain would still be faced with the problem of paying off the debt by 1970 while attempting to promote economic growth at home. The government aimed to achieve these twin goals through increased productivity, by shaking up business and labor with a battery of controls and incentives.

Wilson paid tribute in a week-end interview with the Sunday Mirror to Economics Minister George Brown's success in getting labor and industry to agree to controlled restraint.

But in Brighton, where the Trades Union Congress meets this week, there were gurglings indicating that the unions were finding it difficult privately making the idea of submitting wage claims in advance to the new prices and incomes board for approval.

CHIEFS RETREAT

Trade-union chieftains, after having agreed to go along with the government plan in a marathon meeting with Brown Friday, retreated to a watered-down version that would require unions to submit pay proposals to a committee of the Trades Union Congress. The congress would decide whether to refer the proposals to the government before it comes board.

Even the union plan is expected to encounter heavy opposition when it is submitted to the full congress Wednesday.

The Confederation of British industry, meanwhile, is reported reluctantly ready to meet the government's demands for preliminary approval of proposed price increases in key industries. The confederation, which meets in Brighton Wednesday, is influenced by the unions' decision.

The prices and incomes policy is only the beginning. The government has a sterling pressure on the automobile industry to rationalize wildcat prices and on the docks, shipbuilders, bakers and millers, and steadies railways to improve efficiency or face government intervention.

Wilson is pressing these tough and often unpopular measures in the knowledge that his slight hold on Parliament could slip suddenly. He apparently calculates on deriving political benefit from the uncertainty, whether an election comes this fall or next year.

LONDON (AP) — Britain's balance of payments in 1964 was in the red £256,000,000 ($2,268,000,000), probably the greatest annual deficit in his tory.

A treasury spokesman said today 1964 was certainly the worst year since 1952 and probably the worst in history. But a different bookkeeping system was used before 1952.

The 1964 deficit—the difference between what was spent and what was earned abroad—compared with a deficit of £577,000,000 ($171,000,000) in 1963, according to statistics published by the treasury.

Farmers Out Again To Block

ALMA, Que. (CP)—Some 700 farmers who held a meeting which lasted until early today were unable to agree on whether to lower their demands for $3,000,000 in compensation for crop damage.

The farmers, who have been staging demonstrations by blocking traffic with tractors in this area some 100 miles north of Montreal originally asked for $5,000,000 to compensate for crop losses in 1964 caused by an excess of rainfall.

The farmers, who blocked traffic last Saturday by driving their tractors at a crawling pace on public roads, are to be out in force again today and Wednesday.

After these further demonstrations, they say they will again consider whether or not to accept the $3,000,000, which has not as yet been officially offered by the federal and Quebec governments.

The Catholic Farmers Union, representing the farmers in this Saguenay-Lake St. John area, is to hold a press conference today but the subject has not been announced.

Union President Lionel Sorel is to attend.

The farmers have asked that a three-year moratorium be declared on repayment of government loans because hay and fodder crops were hard hit by the inclement weather in 1964.

The provincial government has offered the farmers $1,000,000 and the federal government has offered to match whatever the Quebec government gives.

While the official farmers' demand is still for $5,000,000 they have indicated they would consider $3,000,000.

This would require an additional $500,000 from the provincial and federal governments.

Alcide Courcy, Quebec agriculture minister, has said he will transmit all of the farmers' demands to the provincial cabinet.

Sources say Mr. Courcy has tentatively offered an extra $500,000, which would bring the provincial total of $1,500,000.

Today's demonstrations, which are to involve more than 1,000 tractors, were scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. and to continue for several hours.

Small Year-end Surplus Seen as Session of County Council Opened by Warden

On the basis of spending for the first six months of the year, the county of Hastings is expected to be in the black with a small surplus at the end of 1965.

This was indicated today by county clerk treasurer Carl Bateman at the fall session of Hastings county council which got underway at the county buildings this morning.

Mr. Bateman, in his report for the first six months of the year, said that if committees kept within their budgets for the balance of the year it would appear the county could have a small surplus at the end of the year.

County spending for the year was estimated at $1,840,639 of which $818,001.80 had been spent by the end of June.

THREE IMPORTANT ITEMS

In opening the session Warden Fred Beckett said that three very important matters would be before council.

These were the Belleville General Hospital board report on the new hospital addition; the agreement regarding the proposed central jail to be built in the Napanee area, and the report of the county board for the aged committee regarding possible sale of the county farm.

Mr. Beckett said he was happy to say that the county's share of the cost of the new hospital addition was within the figure estimated and would not result in any increase in the present mill rate.

Mr. Beckett recommended adoption of the resolution regarding the hospital construction which he said would be presented later in the day at a joint meeting of county and city councils.

COUNTY ENGINEER RETIRES

Also during his opening remarks Warden Beckett said that Marmora had tendered the resignation of county engineer, Larry Langlois, would be presented to council.

He moved a vote of appreciation to Mr. Langlois who, he said, had served the county as roads engineer for a period of 27 years.

He noted also the recent appointment of Madoc Reeve Allan Nicholson as a member of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board and reminded council that it would have to name a new finance committee chairman to fill the vacancy resulting from the resignation of Bancroft Reeve M. J. McAlpine. Warden Beckett is the new Bancroft Reeve.

A paragraph in the county clerk's report was suggesting a policy of suspension for county employees faced with a second garnishee of wages.

Mr. Bateman said the roads and bridges committee had recently adopted the policy whereby an employee is automatically suspended on presentation of a wages garnishee within a 12-month period and he hoped this could be a policy for all county employees.

But Deroro Reeve Tom Armstrong did not agree and seconded Stirling Reeve, Don Rogers.

Mr. Armstrong said suspension of an employee would only compound the problem and suggested there may be special circumstances.

Mr. Rogers said rather than suspend or fire employees in such cases, the county should try to assist them. Firing them or suspending them would mean only that they would go on relief, he said.

"Somebody has to be stuck with them and it may as well be us," he said.

But the majority of councillors felt otherwise and turned down a motion to have the specific paragraph in the clerk treasurer's report deleted.

APPOINTMENTS MADE

Thurlow deputy reeve Carl Thompson was named as finance committee chairman replacing M. J. McAlpine with Tom Armstrong as the new committee appointment. Bancroft Reeve Gordon Groves was named to the Juvenile and family court committee with Clayton Brooks of Deseronto as the new chairman.

Bancroft deputy reeve Mrs. Audrey Beamish and Sidney deputy reeve Jack Smith were named to the winter employment committee. Tudor Reeve Verne McMurray resigned from the committee.

CNE Ends On Financial Note

By IAN MacLAINE

TORONTO (CP) — The 1965 Canadian National Exhibition ended on a healthy financial note today.

Treasurer C. S. Wakers said profits may exceed last year's figure of $2,961,623 despite adverse weather that reduced attendance in the final week of the 14-day show.

A CNE spokesman said about every revenue-producing phase of the exhibition reported records in gross income. J. W. (Patsy) Conklin, president of Conklin Shows Ltd., said the midway alone grossed $1,062,264. It was the best show in the history of the 87-year-old fair that the midway had made more than $1,000,000.

Councils Will Hear Minister On Hospital

A joint meeting of Belleville City Council and Hastings County Council was scheduled for this afternoon at the county council chambers for hearing of a special report on the new Belleville General Hospital.

The report from the hospital board will include a statement of costs for the new hospital addition together with figures regarding source of funds and methods of financing.

Plans call for a joint hearing of the report by both councils, followed by discussion and separate acceptance or rejection of the report.

Attending the meeting session will be Hon. Matthew Dymond, Ontario Minister of Health, who is expected to speak briefly to council members during the joint session.

County council was to break off its regular fall session this afternoon for the joint meeting with city council. The two day fall session of county council is not underway this morning.

Following the joint meeting at the county council chambers, city council is scheduled to reconvene at city hall for a special meeting dealing with city affairs.

Driver Loses Licence for Six Months

Persons convicted of dangerous driving in the Belleville area may face imprisonment in future, Magistrate T. Y. Wills warned today.

He issued the caution as he suspended the licence of 17-year-old Ronald Alan Cooney arrested in the city after a Sunday-night police chase.

Cooney lost his licence for six months — three months longer than the minimum mandatory suspension — and was fined $25.

Magistrate Wills noted other courts were now imposing jail sentences along with convictions in efforts to break dangerous driving offences.

"If we get many more of these things I'm going to have to do the same thing myself," he added.

He directed the warning specifically to youthful 'car owners driving with reckless disregard for public safety.

"There is no way to teach them otherwise except to imprison them in the first place."

Constable Barry Titterson said he chased Cooney's car along College and Sidney Streets at speeds up to 90 miles an hour. The accused stopped his automobile on Harris Street after the headlights fell from their sockets on a stretch of dirt road.

Railroader Due For Pension, Held for Thefts

A Belleville railroader, due soon for pensioning-off after 36 years service, today pleaded guilty to pilfering from CNR stores since 1952.

Albert Gilson Hucker was remanded to September 17 after Magistrate T. Y. Wills was told a total of 1,653 items were recovered from the railroader's Gilbert Street residence where he had been storing them over the years.

CNR special agent Joseph Howard said the goods — including such items as blankets, sheets, batteries and soap — had been taken from the Bellville roundhouse stores where Mr. Hucker was issuer. Total cost of the items to the railroad was $643 — although retail store prices would have been higher, the agent said.

As issuer, Mr. Hucker had made out vouchers for the articles and company auditors were expected soon in Belleville to thoroughly check the stores, the investigator added.

The railroader had been with the CNR since 1929 and had never been in trouble before. He was due for pension September 19.

"I am given to understand it won't affect his pension," said Mr. Howard.

Magistrate Wills adjourned the case until a full report was received from the CNR auditors.

Bright Skies, Big Entry Feature Stirling Fair

Kiddies, candy floss, horses and old fashioned taffy were the order of the day Saturday at the Stirling Fall Fair.

Bright, sunny skies prevailed and were credited by fair officials as the reason for the very large turnout, though the good weather did cause some problems.

Fair president Ivan Sarles said, "We would have had a lot more farmers here, but most of them are late with their harvest and can't afford to miss a day like this to harvest."

Later, during the official opening ceremonies, Mr. Sarles said, "On behalf of the Fair Board I'd like to welcome you all here on such a nice day. It's gratifying to see such a good crowd."

The fair was officially opened by Clarke Rollins, M.P.P., Hastings East, on behalf of W. E. Sandercock, M.P.P., Hastings West. Mr. Sandercock was too ill to attend.

Mr. Rollins brought greetings from the provincial government. "Your 4-H clubs are a credit to this area and the whole county of Hastings," Mr. Rollins said. "The efforts put forth here by everyone is an example of what can be done in a rural community."

Carl Heath, District Director, Agriculture Department, also brought words of greeting from his office.

The fair was organized by the Stirling Chamber of Commerce and the Agriculture Department.

Every event had a large entry list. The fair featured a western horse show, cheese judging, cattle judging, horse judging and speed contests.

The heavy draught, light draught and roadster classes enjoyed a heavy entry, while the other horse classes, though there were fewer entries, were well represented.

One of the highlights of the fair was the large entry list in every area of the Junior Farmer section. The swine, sheep, poultry and other events in the junior section were all hotly contested.

The ladies too were very busy at the fair. The ladies' work section was perhaps the busiest spot on the grounds as people flocked in to see the numerous displays ranging from homecraft to men's wear, ladies' wear and children's wear.

The fair was topped off by a dance Saturday night featuring George Wade and His Corn huskers. Ben Bleecker, a past-president of the Ontario Association of Agriculture Societies, was Master of Ceremonies for the fair's activities.

Heavy Drinking Is Linked To Development of Cancer

NEW YORK (AP)—A new study shows that heavy drinking of alcoholic beverages is linked to the development of mouth and throat cancers, a doctor reported.

Dr. Milton Terris, professor of preventive medicine at the New York Medical College, said Saturday his study found that heavy drinking is more than twice as prevalent among cancer patients as among people without cancer.

Terris said he arbitrarily defined "heavy drinking" as four or more drinks a day.

The study, he said, was based on a study of 308 cancer patients at three U.S. veterans hospitals, and 598 persons without cancer.

He said he showed:

—Of the cancer cases 19 per cent did liver cirrhosis. Of the others the percentage was nine.

—Of the cancer cases 43 per cent were heavy drinkers, compared with 20 per cent of the others.

—The ratio for heavy smoking was 23-to-12.

—There were more heavy drinkers among the cancer victims even if you compared only those who were also heavy smokers.

Terris said the study did not establish what alcohol does that makes mouth or throat cancer more likely.

Kingston Choir Home After British Tour

LONDON (CP)—The choir of St. George's Cathedral, Kingston, completed a four - week singing tour of major English churches with accolades from their hosts echoing in their ears.

"They really made the building sing," an anonymous member of a recital audience was heard to comment after a program Saturday night at King's College Chapel in Cambridge.

The response of choir members was that the vaulted Gothic building, renowned for its fine acoustics and inspiring architecture, "really made us sing."

The choir of 32 boys and 22 men completed their five-church tour with Sunday evensong in the King's Chapel before catching a chartered Super-Constellation for home at Gatwick Airport south of London.

The tour opened Aug. 8, at York Minster Cathedral and included Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's and Canterbury.

The choir's five days at King's College coincided with the annual conference at Cambridge of the British Association for the Advancement of Science. Some of the 3,000 delegates and their wives filled the chapel Saturday night, paying admission of 60 cents or $1.15 for the recital.

Navigation on Seaway

Replacement of old-style marker buoys with up-to-date equipment along the reaches of the Bay of Quinte draws attention to a vital service in Canada's inland waterways.

The buoys, laid by the Department of Transport vessel Kenoke, lay out the boundaries of channels into harbors and identify waterway obstacles.

They serve as a reminder that the whole question of navigational aids has been under review in both union and government circles this year. In a brief to the government recently the Seafarers International Union called for the use of both AM and VHF radio-telephones on all ships—Canadian and foreign—navigating in the St. Lawrence and in the lakes.

All Great Lakes ships now carry this equipment, the petition noted, but ocean-going vessels are equipped with radio-telegraph transmitters. The two systems are not compatible which means that a laker cannot communicate with a deep-water vessel.

The brief pointed out that the sinkings of the Tritonica, the Leecliffe Hall and the Transatlantic—all below Montreal—within the last few years could have been avoided if the ships and those with which they were in collision had been able to communicate with one another. More than 40 lives were lost in these collisions.

The SIU made other submissions, but standardization of the means of communication was the main one.

All ships operating on the Seaway face difficult navigational problems, according to SIU President Leonard McLaughlin. Writing in the publication Canadian Sailor, he noted that the Tritonica, which sank in July 1963 after being in collision with the Roonagh Head, ran aground off Longue Pointe two years before. The Roonagh Head was involved in two previous collisions. The Leecliffe Hall had had three hits before the September, 1964 collision with the Appolinia which sent it to the bottom.

Said Mr. McLaughlin: "The sinkings were well publicized. The prior accidents involving the ill-fated vessels were not. Which only goes to show that accidents are so common on this country's inland waterways that, unless sinking or deaths result, the mishaps arouse little if any interest."

The SIU brief drew an interesting contrast between the laxness of maritime navigational practices and those observed by the airlines, which led the Montreal Star to comment editorially: "As far as aviation is concerned there is no questioning the conscientiousness which has placed us among the world's flight leaders. In our maritime affairs, however, it might be said that we are still a nation keyed to the easy pace of sail."

Certainly the number of accidents on the Seaway system as revealed by the SIU brief is something of an eye-opener. In this regard The Star observed: "It is not good enough to point only to the vast increase in traffic as an almost inevitable cause of accidents. What we must do is cope with that traffic increase as we have so well in the aviation field."

He Never Quit!

Adversity, according to a quote that has come to hand, "inevitably destroys something; it chips away at joy or confidence or enthusiasm or love. . . . What may appear later as increased strength of character or understanding, is born of using the knowledge to be gained through difficult situations."

Colonel Harland Sanders of the Kentucky Fried Chicken Empire said much the same thing when he visited Belleville last Monday, the only difference being that when times were bad he lost none of his confidence or enthusiasm.

"You know it is a funny thing," said Colonel Sanders. "I own a lot from getting knocked down. I never quit. I sold my dining room, motel and service station in 1956 and went out on the road trying to talk restaurants into selling my brand of chickens."

The rest is a success story with which most people are familiar. Colonel Sanders' dining-room, motel and service station business had been doing nicely until "they changed the fork in the road in front of my place and business dropped by 75 per cent."

It was then he embarked on his present endeavor—and with conspicuous success.

All of us should remember these words of advice: "You know it is a funny thing. You learn a lot from getting knocked down. I never quit."

I hate fashion. Absolutely—with a capital A. Fashion is a tyrant. Clothes should be personal and only for each separate individual. Clothes should accent the most favorable aspects of the appearance—which are naturally for everybody different.—Valentina.

Language is not an abstract construction of the learned, or of dictionary-makers, but is something arising out of the work; needs, ties, joys affections, tastes, of long generations of humanity and has its bases broad and low, close to the ground.—Walt Whitman in Slang in America.

I'm out in sympathy with you — the kids are picketing in the kitchen — so how about dinner out tonight? . .."

To Your Good Health

Inner Ear Responsible For Many Dizzy Spells

By JOSEPH C. MOLNER, M.D.

(This is the first of a series of two articles.)

Dear Dr. Molner: Please discuss vertigo in older people. This is entirely different from dizziness.

What does the inner ear have to do with it? — Mrs. W. A. L.

Why do older people stumble and sometimes fall?

Are there reasons other than dizziness, or vertigo? Indeed there are. Tomorrow I'll answer your specific questions, because today we need to lay some groundwork first.

Vertigo, or dizzy spells, can be a hazard, of course. The inner ear is responsible for much of this trouble — sometimes Meniere's disease, sometimes other ailments affecting the ear.

The inner ear is important in keeping our balance. It isn't the whole story, but it is part of it. The inner ear, you see, has a tiny, semi-circular canal containing liquid. As we move this way and that, the liquid flows to different parts of the canals. Nerves attached to canals react to this, giving us a sense of knowing, even in the dark, whether we are tipping this way or that.

We "get dizzy" when we spin around rapidly because centrifugal force makes the fluid try to whirl outward, rather than flow in accordance with merely gravity in the head.

Infection of the inner ear can change the normal, delicate pressures, and that, too can cause dizziness.

Yet again, hardening of the arteries, or vagaries of blood pressure can disturb the sense of balance by interfering with circulation.

Finally, a sudden lowering of blood pressure (as when one has been sitting down and stands up suddenly) can cause a very brief "blackout" that may be confused with "feeling dizzy," although it is not really quite the same thing.

So much for the inner ear. At least, that is a general outline which will serve as a skeleton foundation for what we will discuss tomorrow—the lack of skin ear which is not due to true dizziness.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am 70 and have pains in my legs and my toes turn up. Some people call them a "charley horse." I have been told that taking five grains of quinine at night will help. Is this harmful? — Mrs. R. F.

The original meaning of "charley horse" is a muscle cramp caused by a strain. The type of cramp you describe is not from strain, but from other causes — and there are several.

A few grains of quinine at night often helps, and the suggested amount five is a reasonable dose. If that doesn't help, you can try other methods beside. I suggest you get my booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains." To receive a copy, send 30 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

Note to L. S.: The stool-softeners containing dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate can be obtained without prescription. However, since they come in a number of variations, it is helpful to get your doctor's suggestions as to the type best suited to you.

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 7, 1965 . . .

What came to be called simply "the Blitz" began 25 years ago tonight—in 1940—as London underwent the first concentrated night air raid of the Second World War. In the first three nights 1,000 people were killed and 3,500 seriously injured. More serious to the war effort was the destruction by fire of thousands of acres of dock installations and warehouses in the city's East End. Until late 1941, fighters provided little protection against night bombers and there were not enough guns. The RAF prevented invasion during 1940, but the civilian population had to undergo years of bombing before the tide turned.

1892 — James J. Corbett beat John L. Sullivan in the first modern boxing championship.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—13 people were killed and many more injured as German Zeppelins bombed eastern England; Russian armies closed down the retreat near Tarnopol, in Poland.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1940—the Blitz on London began. Vichy interned former premiers Daladier and Reynaud and General Gamelin; the U.S. House of Representatives approved the conscription bill; General Antonescu put the finishing touches to his alignment of Romania with the Axis powers.

Aussie Concern

Brockville Recorder and Times

Critics of American policy in Vietnam, who maintain that the attempted expansion of communism in South East Asia is no concern of theirs, will be made little impression if any on Australians, with this thesis.

Reuters news agency reports that the Australian army has been swamped by members of the militia volunteering to serve in South Vietnam. Quite apparently when one lives in Australia, events in South East Asia are of the utmost concern. A quick look at the globe shows why.

Strictly Personal

Borrowed Words Confusing

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of French, as I was the other day, a friend who recently returned from a summer in Europe told me how disappointed he was in Paris when he ordered "biftеck" in a restaurant — and it turned out to be an entirely different cut of meat from American beefsteak.

But this is what inevitably happens when languages adopt foreign words to their own use. We are much quicker in that respect than the French are. Offhand, I can think of a dozen French phrases which we have borrowed and now use in a manner that would confound any Frenchman.

The most obvious example is "brassiere", a French word really meaning a small camisole for supporting the body of an infant. What we call "brassiere" is called by the French a "soutien-gorge", a feminine garment for supporting the breasts.

"Lingerie" is another flagrant distortion. In French, the word means "linen closet, or linen clothes collectively." Here, we apply it to any female appeal to an inmate nausea. "Silk lingerie" would be meaningless to the French.

The phrase "double entendre", meaning a statement with a double meaning (the second usually off-color), is simply unknown in French. The correct approximation in that language is "double entente." Nobody knows how English-speaking people came to use the former phrase.

"Morale" is an interesting example of a complete reversal of meanings. It is a French word signifying "ethical philosophy"; while their word for "courage-ous spirit" is our own "moral." Loan words from another language can hardly become more twisted than this.

Another one which perplexes all students is "nom de plume" for the assumed name of a writer. In French, it is always called "nom de guerre." The use of "nom de plume", although a French word, is peculiarly English and American.

And a French visitor to one of our concerts or operas would assuredly puzzled to hear the audience call out "Encore!" Our use of this French word for appreciation of a concert is quite unknown to the French — who, if they desire it, call for it repeated, call out "Bis, bis!"

Nowhere is this mutual violation of languages more amusingly shown than in our phrase "to take French leave", meaning to slip away without permission. The French return the compliment, of course, by calling it "S'en aller a l'Anglaise" — to take English leave.

Bad Formula

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

The newspaper reports that the decision to adopt the CF-5 was made because it was the cheapest plane available and because components will be manufactured at Canadair in Montreal. This would make the decision a compounding of military expediency and political opportunism, which is the worst formula for finding the answer to military problems in the equipment field.

The 'Speech' Stays Sweet Through Political Stress

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Happen to catch that report from Washington the other day that Prime Minister Pearson is "bucking for the penthouse suite in President Lyndon Johnson's doghouse?"

You'd never guess it from the speeches Canadian Cabinet Ministers make when they go to New York, Washington, Chicago or anywhere else across the line to talk to just about any type of American audience.

For years the departments of External Affairs, Finance, Trade and Commerce, even National Defence have kept on tap a stock speech for the use of their ministers when they go over the border to sound off.

This is "The Speech."

A message of importance and significance.

Reserved for influential audiences such as the Chicago Board of Trade, the American Newspaper Publishers Association and other such blue ribbon opinion-making groups.

It is the long familiar tell-the-Americans-the-plain-Canadian-truth-about-themselves.

It shapes up as a kind of adult education project in neighborly hemispheric relations, with the Canadian Cabinet Minister laying it on the line.

Aged in the filing cabinet of any Federal department, "The Speech" is real vintage stuff.

THE ORIGINAL:

Initially it was written back in the days when former Prime Minister Mackenzie King ruled Parliament Hill as if it were his private empire — which, indeed, was just about what it was.

"MacKing" was his own External Affairs Minister for a time, and when he shucked that for Trade and Commerce, Finance or any other department had drafted the speech. Then, if he ordered "biftеck" in a restaurant — and it turned out to be an entirely different cut of meat from American beefsteak.

Newspapers In Classroom

London Free Press

Many progressive schools teachers complain that text books are so stereotyped that they stifle any student controversy. Perhaps they should turn to use of the newspaper in the classroom as a method of creating pupil interest and debate.

An educational conference at the University of Waterloo heard many reasons why the newspaper should be introduced to the classroom. Teachers were told that the geographic course was not carried through to present time because world conditions were changing day by day. Here again newspaper coverage brings current changes that readily augment the classic material supplied in texts.

History too is in the making, and the press carries day by day items of territorial, social and economic changes, which should stimulate and intrigue the student because of their immediacy.

The press is attempting to fill this gap in school texts, not gratuitously but because it wants to create future readers. Student debate into classes. Even if the teacher doesn't want to become involved in debate, he should moderator of lively debates.

Newspaper files could well be made available to every classroom; most publishers are interested in their establishment.

It's a worthwhile project.

Air Charter In Difficulty

Peterborough Examiner

A number of Canadian tourists have been stranded in Britain for a short time because the airline from which they had chartered their flight had run into financial difficulties. Their plight is unfortunate because of debts owed by the airline, World Wide Airways, to an air terminal and the British government. The same fate will nearly befell a religious group from Peterborough on a flight to an international conference in Geneva.

This kind of incident is by no means exceptional. The chartered flight business is a booming one as it offers large savings (of up to 50 per cent) in air travel costs. In order to organize such flights, numerous nominal or at least highly flexible organizations have been formed representing sporting or social organizations with membership fees of as little as $10 per year. Hence the stranded Canadians, many of them of Dutch or British descent, Canadian Polish Ukrainian Estonian Social and Athletic Club. And frequently the charter arrangements are made with small and unreliable companies.

Charter flight organizers may be prepared for some discomfort in return for low prices. Nevertheless, such incidents as this will be enough to cause them to make their arrangements with caution. They are, moreover, another reason why regular airline prices should be made more competitive with the chartered flights so that travellers may be assured of flights that are both reasonable in price and likely to reach and return from their destinations in safety.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials were higher and speculatives mostly lower in moderate trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

Westcoast Transmission climbed ¾ to a 1965 high of 18¾ in a continuation of last week's strong showing. The company is planning sale of 200,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day to El Paso Natural Gas of the United States.

Banks were stronger with Toronto-Dominion ahead 1¼ to 35¼.

Speculatives were mostly lower as the market seemed unsettled at the suspension of recent-favorite United Buffadison. The shares were suspended at the opening today pending confirmation of assay results reported that week.

Shelled Buffadison traded more than 1,700,000 shares last week, and in the first three weeks climbed to a high of $2.40 from less than $1. On the unlisted market today it fell as low as 50 cents, but recovered to 80 cents bid near noon.

On index, industrials were up 12 to 167.00, base metals .01 to 80.01, western oils .11 to 98.98 and the TSE index 30 to 136.65. Golds were off 2.12 at 163.71. Volume at 11 a.m. was 806,000 shares compared with 568,000 at the same time Friday.

Bomb Damages Restaurant

TORONTO (CP)—The wash room of an east-end Toronto restaurant owned by National Hockey League star Tim Horton was blown up Monday night by a bomb.

Police believe the bomb, which caused the drive-in restaurant on Kingston Road about 9:30 p.m. while patrons sat eating in their cars, was home made. No one was injured.

The force of the blast blew the door off the women's washroom at the rear of the building and scorched the inside of the room and knocked plaster off the walls.

Police believed the bomb, made of dynamite, a type of explosive used during the Second World War, was tossed into the washroom.

chi, two waves of Indian Air Force planes roared in over the city in the darkness at about 5 a.m. and dropped bombs on the outskirts. The sky was bright with aircraft fire.

Karachi, with a population of nearly 2,000,000, is Pakistan's biggest city and the major seaport in West Pakistan.

Most of the firing appeared to come from the dockside area.

No casualty figures or reports of damage were immediately available in the confusion that followed the raids.

Chittagong is a populous East Pakistan seaport.

Pakistani planes intercepted the Indian aircraft in the attacks on Rawalpindi and Karachi, but "no engagements took place," Radio Pakistan said.

(The Associated Press quoted unofficial reports in Rawalpindi as saying eight persons were killed in the Indian attack.)

No damage was done to military installations, radio Pakistan said.

HIT CIVILIAN AREAS

An official Indian announcement said Pakistani planes hit "civilian areas" in Amritsar, largest city in the Punjab, and Kalaikunda air base at Calcutta.

New Delhi claimed its fighters beat Pakistan's air force in air battles over what it said was the subcontinent and destroyed nine planes—two F-104 supersonic jet fighters, six Sabre jets and one B-57 bomber.

India said it lost eight planes but had turned back many Pakistani attacks.

In ground combat, India acknowledged it was meeting increasing resistance." Pakistan claimed it had halted India's tank-infantry invasion in West Pakistan which crossed the international frontier at dawn Monday.

Lahore, Pakistan's second largest city 15 miles from the frontier, appeared to be the target of the Indian invasion.

WARN CANADIANS

As the conflict spread, some 120 Canadians in the Lahore and Amritsar danger zones were warned to move to safer areas.

An external affairs department source in Ottawa said plans for evacuation of the Canadians, if such action becomes necessary, have been co-ordinated with British authorities in the Canadian High Commission in New Delhi and Karachi.

The Canadians include foreign aid workers, engineers and doctors and their families.

Neither India nor Pakistan had formally declared war but their leaders told their people a war was on.

"We are at war," Pakistan's President Mohammed Ayub Khan told his country's 110,000,000 people. "Go forward and meet the enemy."

India's Prime Minister Shastri told the 480,000,000 people they were in a "full-fledged war." Later a New Delhi spokesman hedged, saying: "We are not at war with the state or people of Pakistan. The sole objective of the current operation is to destroy bases from which Indian territory was threatened."

BOTH CLAIM STATE

Escalation of the fighting came after a month of guerrilla warfare in the rugged Himalayan state of Kashmir. India charged that Pakistan sent 5,000 or more guerrillas into the part of Kashmir controlled by India. Pakistan denied the charge, claiming the guerrillas were Moslem Kashmiris fighting domination of predominantly-Hindu India.

In New York, UN Secretary-General U Thant made plans to fly to both warring countries on a peace mission. The Security Council reported the first fire appeal and asked Thant to help end the war.

Pakistani Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto announced he was calling on Pakistan's allies in the Central Treaty Organization to fulfil their treaty pledge of help against an aggressor.

Britain, Turkey and Iran are the other full-members of the alliance, and the United States is closely associated with it.

A Sad Farewell

This column is an obituary.

It is the last farewell to someone who has been our friend for a long time — though not long enough — and who must answer to his fate long before what should be his time.

You knew him well.

He went fishing with you at West Lake, He played golf with you over the Bay of Quinte Club. He went with you when you took the wife and children on a refreshing drive through the country.

Or maybe you met him while sailing out on the Bay or when he dropped around to your house for a visit when you sat in the back yard talking to your neighbors and barbecuing steaks.

He was everybody's friend. Oh, sometimes we got hot under the collar and became angry with him, but it didn't really last. And now that he has gone, we can only be sorry he ever angered us.

He had a beautiful personality. Sometimes his temperament grew stormy, but usually, and this is why we loved him so, he was warm and comfortable to be near. His very presence added sparkle and sunshine to all our lives.

He offered us many opportunities to really enjoy living. If you went along with him, then your memories can somewhat console you in his hour of death. If you ignored him; if you were too busy for him; then you've suffered a double loss, because he has gone and can never be recalled.

It is sad. Life will seem so cold without him.

In many ways he was a real greenhorn, but he was green in such a beautiful way that even this, a disadvantage at times, was turned to an advantage by him.

There were so many things he could do for us. He had a power that was above the common power of man. A power that could not be resisted or reckoned with and not be overruled.

And now he is gone.

The people cry out that he went away too soon. They say he never really did get down to a serious visit.

In a way, they are right, and it seems unfair.

Maybe his ghost will pop around from time to time, but not for long. Soon even his ghost will disappear under death's cold, cold sheet of white.

His death came too soon, but it was not sudden. The cold and pain of the past few weeks were too much for him to live with. Slowly they ate away at his strength, until finally he was forced to surrender his life to the elements.

The ringing of the school bells today did more than summon all the students back to school. Those bells rang the final death knell for our friend. The students are his mourners, trudging slowly along their own heartbroken line that he is gone so soon.

And so, let us bid farewell and thank our friend for what he gave us while he was here. We owe that much to him.

Around the 'Cat'

The John Shaw Memorial trophy tournament, staged by the Belleville Lawn Bowling Club, held on local greens on the holiday and a Kingston rink of Mrs. Vi Armstrong skipping Kingston won the beautiful trophy and accompanying prizes.

There were 20 rinks entered from Brighton, Campbellford, Madoc, Trenton, Kingston and Belleville with the local club having eleven rinks shooting for the awards. Despite the Eddie Cantor song the holiday sun broke out beautifully for the tournament and it was a delightful day in bowling. The greens as usual were fast and true and some splendid bowling was witnessed by the large gallery that followed the play.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wright and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Avery of the local club tied for the second three-game high and by a cut of the cards Mr. Wright took the second prize while Wm. Wonnacott and Mrs. Carm Mott also from the Belleville Club were in fourth position, while another local rink, Frank Morrell and Mrs. Grace Clapp had Bob Sweetapple high, being defeated in the final game by the eventual winner of the tournament. The one-game high count was won by Mr. and Mrs. Bob Haker of the Trenton Club.

Famous Quebec Hotel Empty Due to Strike

By Ed Reed

QUEBEC (CP) — The massive Chateau Frontenac Hotel stood empty today following a walkout by some 500 employees.

Some 300 guests left the CPR-operated hotel Sunday, having been warned of Monday's impending strike.

At strike time, 11:15 a.m. EDT, the building, on the heights of Quebec City overlooking the St. Lawrence River, had been deserted by all but some 300 guests and a skeleton staff.

The registration desk early today was refusing reservations. "We are on strike," an employee said.

The employees, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) are out for higher wages.

They were eight early Monday that the strike would be averted by a last-minute compromise but it was turned down by a meeting of the union's rank-and-file.

The company proposed a 21¼-year contract and offered a five - cent increase effective Sept. 1, a five-cent increase on the same date next year and a final increase of the same amount Sept. 1, 1967.

USE SLIDING SCALE

The increases would have been applied on a sliding scale to the different categories of workers, such as cooks, maintenance engineers and painters.

The employees want a 12-month contract, a general 15-cent-an-hour increase and better working conditions.

Salary scales now run from a minimum of $2.05 an hour for maintenance engineers to $5.65 cents an hour for chambermaids, who receive room and board.

Last Wednesday, the government - owned CNR started a strike at its Ottawa Chateau Laurier Hotel by agreeing to pay employees the federal 1-an-hour code minimum of $1.25 an hour.

A spokesman for the privately-owned CPR said the federal minimum wage did not apply to them as wages in hotels were determined by provincial rather than federal wage standards. The union has not stated its position on legal minimums.

Sky Ride Kills Two at Fair

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—A sky ride collapsed while carrying gondola passengers on a moving cable over the crowded Nebraska State Fair midway Sunday, killing two persons and injuring nearly 50.

Screaming riders in cars some 30 feet overhead fell or jumped as two supporting steel towers toppled.

The sky ride, patterned after mountain ski lifts, used four 40-foot towers to support a moving cable to which were attached the 30 gondolas, each holding two or three passengers, on a 1,100 - foot - long overhead trip along the midway.

"OK, it's agreed — if you won't knit anything for me, I won't make any furniture for you."

Seaman Swims 24 Hours in Mediterranean

MODICA, Sicily (AP)—A 22-year-old British seaman staggered ashore early Sunday after a 20-foot wave washed him overboard from his ship and he spent 24 hours swimming in the whipped-up Mediterranean.

"I followed the North Star by night and the sun by day," said James W. English of Blackpool, England, a pumpman aboard the 25,673 - ton British tanker Esso Durham. "I couldn't see the land, but I knew which way it should be."

English firstly came out of the water nude and exhausted into the rocky coastline at Marina di Modica in southern Sicily.

A fisherman found him and took him to a hospital, where doctors said the seaman was suffering from extreme exhaustion.

NEW FOUNTAINS PLAY

REGINA (CP)—This year the legislature buildings have three new fountains outside. They join a fourth, originally from London's Trafalgar Square, which was donated by the National Gallery of Canada in 1962. The English fountain commemorates the foundation of the Royal Northwest Mounted Police headquarters here in 1882.

Successful Living

Abused Baby Helped By Treating Father

DEAR DORIS: I received your letter asking about what I did towards help for my niece. (Whose father was pulling his baby daughter's hair, and banging her head against the crib.)

Well, a doctor who was doing this kind of work and a minister had talks with the father. After a time I hope the treatments will help the father see how cruel he was to be so hateful to the little one. Now he has left her alone and doesn't beat her any more, so that's a little help.—WORRIED AUNT.

DEAR AUNT: Good news! Let's hope that continuing talks will work the further miracle of persuading this confused father to show life-giving affection to his own flesh and blood.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS:

(1) My husband would like to buy me either a fur jacket or stole. I want to have what would be most practical and would stay in style the longest. Where can one wear a stole? What type of fur would be a good choice?

(2) Our unmarried son, who lives with us, has been asked to usher at the wedding of a friend of his. I am wondering if we should expect to receive an invitation to this wedding, even though we don't know the bride-to-be but because of our son being in the wedding party. I think we should be invited.—MOTHER OF GROOM'S FRIEND.

DEAR MOTHER:

(1) Take the jacket; it will be far more useful than a stole. Type of fur depends on your price range. Mink wears excellently but it is expensive; muskrat is a good choice in the medium price field. Rather than look for a bargain, select a good reliable furrier and be guided by his advice.

Your son is an adult; he now has his own friends; and receives his own invitations. Unless his friend is also close to you, an invitation is not to be taken for granted.

DEAR DORIS: I am 15 and would like to know at what time girls my age should be in at night? Also, at what age should girls my age date boys?—ONE WHO IS IN DOUBT.

* * *

DEAR ONE: Far be it from me to set the deadline. This should be arrived at through consultation between teen-ager and parents. Age for dates to begin also varies. I prefer to suggest dating in groups during the first year or two when teen-age boys and girls are becoming used to one another.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO NO CURVES: Medical experts are quite firm about the fact that you cannot enlarge breasts by rubbing cream on them. You could even do injury. Exercise to improve posture and develop chest muscles; and a diet to encourage curves instead of a too-slender frame; these are the safe healthy ways to help nature. And there's nothing whatever wrong with a padded bra.

* * *

CONFIDENTIAL TO WONDERING: For the answers to your questions about plastic surgery you will need a private reply. Write again requesting them and supplying your correct name and address on a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Women's Institutes

SIDNEY SOUTH WI.

Mrs. Jack Caddick opened her home for the September meeting of Sidney South Women's Institute on Wednesday evening. As convener of health, Mrs. Harold Hollomby was in charge of the program.

Current topic, quoting from "Medic-Alert" gave many suggestions for help for sufferers from chronic diseases. Diabetics can wear a bracelet that will help them get quicker medical attention. A person who might suffer an epileptic seizure could carry a card in purse or pocket with directions for care. A blood type card should be carried by all people. A person suffering from allergy or needing special medication could help if she carried a card stating treatment needed particularly when travelling.

A plastic heart and kidney were displayed and an explanation of the function of each was given. It is estimated that 20 percent of people die of heart conditions and 17 percent die of cancer. In tensions, Mrs. Hollomby suggested "Talk it out, don't bottle it up. Escape, see a movie, play a game, take a short trip or a walk and then face up to the problem."

During the business period Mrs. Douglas Reid, president, gave an account of the picnic held in August. The members decided to buy flowering crabtrees as a centennial project. The ladies will be filling the course "Hats for You" with Mrs. Ken Bush and Mrs. Dawson Douglas as leaders. The '61 Homemaker Club "A Club Girl Entertains" will be under the leadership of Mrs. Fred Myers and Mrs. Ted Aikens, Mrs. Roy Nobes and Mrs. J. W. Sargent. ## Program of Social Action To Be Implemented by CWL

By ANNE MASON

JASPER, Alta. (CP)—A program of social action to be implemented by the Catholic Women's League of Canada frequently will encourage co-operation with other denominations, it was announced Monday.

CWL President Catharine Toal of London, Ont., told 150 delegates to the league's 45th annual convention the program aims to discover and combat the causes of community problems.

"If women of all faiths combine to study common community problems we will have more effective action," Miss Toal said in an interview later.

"There should be every reason why we can't come together to improve conditions in our communities for the betterment of everyone."

Miss Toal added that many parish councils have taken up the spirit of the ecumenical movement and invited women of other faiths to work with them in social action or study.

A guide prepared by the National Catholic Social Life Conference in Montreal last May says the program is to "observe, judge and act." It was prepared for women at the parish level.

The guide suggests seven aspects of community life be studied—the church, leisure, education, health and welfare, civic, industrial and international life.

Miss Toal said many of the league's 1,800 councils already are working on the program. The league has about 180,000 members across Canada.

In a move to co-ordinate the league's work, the executive and provincial presidents unanimously voted Monday to create a new national office, that of social action convener.

Previously the work of social welfare and action had been under the jurisdiction of one convener.

In other business, it was reported that several provincial councils did extensive work during the last year on the CWL's adoption and foster home program.

Ontario and British Columbia chapters both screened finding homes for hard-to-place children such as the handicapped or those of Indian or mixed blood.

The executive also announced it will request Prime Minister Pearson to separate the federal Indian affairs branch from the citizenship and immigration department.

CLAIM CHAMPIONSHIP

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Australian schoolgirls Jennie Begbie, 14, and Wendy Carter, 15, claimed the "world Beatle mania championship" Sunday. They said they had a collection of 22,000 Beatle photographs—and had jointly written a 4,613-page letter to the mop - haired singing group.

SALMON SANDWICHES FOR LUNCH

A 32-inch long fresh Red Spring salmon travelled under my coat on the Air Canada plane from Vancouver to Toronto, then was transferred to my car to go to Kalora Cottage in Muskoka, where I bake† it in our unreliable oven at (I think) 450 deg. Fahr.

It was superb — perfectly superb. There was enough left over after serving it to 10 people for sandwiches the following noon. These salmon sandwiches were so satisfying that I want to urge you school-lunch - packing - mamas to include them in your children's — and husband's — lunch boxes at least once per week, starting this week. You can use our famous canned Canadian Sockeye or Cohoe or Chum or Keta, but for special occasions bake a whole Red Spring salmon and serve it hot, then make sandwiches from the leftovers and see for yourselves why I am so enthusiastic.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

by Mary Moore

Melon Ball Fruit Cup; Chicken Liver Omelette; Fried Unripe Cherry Thick Tomato Slices; Creamed Kernel Corn and Green Peppers; Plum Cobbler; Pouring Cream; Coffee.

SALMON SANDWICHES

(makes 8 Sallie sandwiches):

1 one-lb. can salmon — red or pink (or 2 cups well-packed cold cooked salmon — see notes), 1 teaspoon finely chopped or grated onion or green onion flakes, 3 tablespoons chopped sweet pickles or olives or cucumber or celery or green relish, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ cup mayonnaise, 16 slices buttered fresh bread — preferably 60% whole wheat.

NOTES:

1) If cold cooked salmon is used add salt to taste and more lemon juice and mayonnaise to substitute for the liquid on the canned salmon. 2) If you use chopped cucumber or celery instead of pickles or olives add ½ teaspoon prepared mustard.

Tip salmon from can into shallow bowl. With a fork at one side mash bone, and skin well, then mix them into the liquid and salmon meat without breaking the meat too much. Stir in remaining ingredients without mashing. Be sure both slices of bread for each sandwich are properly buttered. This is a moist sandwich filling and should be, and the butter is a must to prevent the bread from soaking. Spread salmon sandwich filling on 8 slices right up to the crust and cover with remaining buttered slices. Cut into halves or quarters and wrap each sandwich in saran before putting into lunch box. Do not remove crusts from lunch box sandwiches but if you decide to make these sandwiches for a tea party crusts should be sliced off with sharp knife. Ladies love them. If the bread in these sandwiches is properly buttered you may refrigerate these saran-wrapped sandwiches overnight.

Car Crash Wins Wife for Wilf Carter

CALGARY (CP)—A car accident and an offer to be model won a wife for Wilf Carter, a well-known western singer.

"Wilf and I lived in the same apartment building in Tulsa, New York. I'd never met him but we used to hear him practising. Then I was in a car accident and while I was recovering, the building superintendent brought Wilf in to cheer me up.

"Wilf sang one of his songs and suddenly, that was that—as I hadn't heard cowboy music before—at least not that close and personal. It was love then and a short time later we were married."

The Carters, who now live in Winter Park, Fla., have travelled across North America. Mrs. Carter, who was a nurse, became her husband's secretary in 1938 to help answer his fan mail.

Immigrant-haters Not Typical Citizens

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I came to this country with my husband 14 years ago. America has been very good to us. We are citizens now and we feel a deep sense of loyalty to our adopted land.

"A woman I work with hates foreigners. Once I heard her making fun of the way I speak. I know I do not speak perfect English but I'm learning in night school and I hope to do better.

This woman does not like to see people from other countries make a success of their lives. When she learned that my husband and I are taking a trip next month to visit our families on the other side she said, "Those foreigners have money for everything. They sure know how to get their hands on our dollars."

I don't know how to answer her when she says such things. Surely she must realize that nobody gave us anything except a chance, which Americans get also. Can you suggest an answer to ad her straight?—A CITIZEN.

ANN LANDERS

DEAR CITIZEN: Don't bother. The woman isn't interested in an answer. She needs someone to hate and you're it.

America is a great country because of the willing hands and dedicated hearts that came here from other parts of the world. Unless the woman with the loose lip is an American Indian, her ancestors also migrated here from a foreign country.

Most native-born Americans do not resent foreigners—it's only the malcontents and the small minds who must place the blame for their failures on someone else.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently you printed a letter signed "From Georgia" commenting on women who undress in the closet. I have a few comments of my own to add.

My husband was married to one of those screwballs for 18 years. After raising his two children he walked out. We have three sons and another child on the way. I am 40. He is 50. You'll look a long time before you find a marriage better than ours.

If some of those frigid bedboards would unwind and do what comes naturally they'd make their husbands a lot happier. They might find, too, that their husbands wouldn't ogle every leggy waitress in a tight uniform.

Men who are married to closet-bidders get to be like small boys who want to "look". Sick? You bet. And they can thank those walking glaciers who call themselves wives.—GLENCOE.

DEAR GLENCOE: I doubt that your comments will smoke out the closet-bidders. They consider themselves "properly modest" and insist that your breed is "Exhibitionistic". Sick? You bet. And they can thank their mothers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old girl who has fallen head over heels for a 17-year-old fellow I met at a religious camp.

We only had two weeks together but it was heaven. Daryle asked me to correspond with him so I wrote a letter the minute I got home. I began, "Dear Daryle" and signed off "Oceans of love with a kiss on each wave".

His answer arrived today and I felt like a sap. He started his letter, "Hi there" and ended with, "So long for now, Old Buddy". I don't think my letter was overly mushy, but maybe it was. How should I start my next letter and how should I finish it? —MISS OVERDID IT.

DEAR MISS: "Dear Daryle" was O.K., but you closed with too much love and too many kisses for a growing boy. Finish the next letter with "Sincerely" and sign yourself "Old Buddy". If he continues to treat you like one of the boys, I suggest you save your stamps.

Opportunity Wide Open Says Doctor

EDMONTON (CP) — Opportunity is wide open for anyone in the Canadian North, says a woman doctor.

Dr. Ella Margret Savage recently was accorded an honorary doctor of laws degree by the University of Western Ontario for her work in the north. She has spent 34 years in the Peace River country on the Alberta-British Columbia border and at Cold Lake, Alta.

"The frontier is people," she says. "Whatever resources a country may have, there is nothing in it as valuable as the people themselves."

Dr. Savage went to work at a mission hospital at Cold Lake, 120 miles northwest of Edmonton, in 1943.

"It was a quiet little fishing, lumbering and tourist spot, with outlying farms. Then a boom arrived, caused by a multi-million-dollar airport being built just five miles away."

The people who came to the area lived in shacks, tents and garages, she says.

"Now the shacks are gone. There are good homes all over town, a new school, a hospital." Dr. Savage has received the award for strong leadership in northern communities to show the way to youth.

Susanna's Family Fare

HANKY PANKY!

Dear Susanna: Remember what an essential part of our wardrobe those pretty, white linen handkerchiefs used to be before the paper ones in boxes made life so much simpler? I had dozens of them, all beautifully laundered and packed away, until one evening last spring I found a marvelous use for them.

My husband who was still my fiancee at the time, called to escort me to a company dance. He arrived all spruced up, except that he bandged me this huge man's handkerchief saying, "How the heck can I fold this thing into my breast pocket — it's just too big!" That's when I got out one of my plain little ones. It folded beautifully with three tailored points showing and the rest tucked neatly out of sight — no bulk to worry about. Just one more reason why he couldn't get along without me, I guess!

Since we've been married I have turned them all over to him solely for this decorative purpose . . . he thinks it's the greatest idea any femme fatale ever had. — Siren Sue

TIPS FOR KNITTERS

Dear Susanna: When making sleeves, knit both at the same time. This simplifies shortening or lengthening, and ensures that if you are short of wool you can use a contrasting color for both cuffs.

To rejuvenate used wool bank it, dip into cool water and allow to drip dry. —Irene Smith

Unique Service Caters To Lonely Husbands

PARIS (Reuters)—A unique service for lonely husbands of Paris is preparing for a rush of orders as the summer vacation season draws to an end.

"SOS — homme seul," (Man Alone), a service operated from a large Parisian department store, caters to the thousands of men who stay at work in the city while their wives and families enjoy their summer vacations far away.

By a telephone call, the lonely husband can arrange at short notice for a cleaning woman, a handyman for emergency repairs, a temporary home for pets and even a fourth for an all-male bridge game.

The catering service of Man Alone takes care of shoe repairs, laundry, dry cleaning and even sewing on buttons.

Operation Clean-up is one of the most popular services, particularly as the vacation period nears its end.

The average lone husband lets the dust accumulate for weeks, does not bother to make his bed and, when all the pots and pans are dirty, goes to a restaurant for his meals.

But a couple of days before his wife is due back, the temporary bachelor calls for a woman to clean up the mess and rushes out to replenish the wine cellar.

What Any Color Means Depends on Nationality

LONDON (Reuters) — Red stands for strength, stimulation and warmth; blue for masculinity, seriousness and calmness; yellow for youth and weakness; white green is a neutral color without any religious attributes.

That, at any rate, is the classification given by an international market research survey published here.

The survey was carried out by Visual Research International, an independent organization representing marketing men in 14 countries, through interviews with 600 British, American, Dutch, French, Italian Swedish and Swiss housewives. The aim was to discover what package colors will suit certain products in the various countries.

French and Dutch housewives associated a red wrapping with toys and jewelry. But red made the Swiss think of confectionery and the Americans of cosmetics

Blue packing suggested detergents to all nationalities. But the Swiss also associated it with textiles and haberdashery. France, Holland and Sweden thought green packages should contain cosmetics, but to Swiss housewives they suggested nothing in particular.

The Swiss were again the exception with the yellow packing, which they associated with cosmetics, while it made the women of most of the other countries think of food.

Red suggested old age, dullness and drink to the British, masculinity and ugliness to the French, humor to the older Swedish housewives and cleanliness to the Swiss.

Blue meant youth to young British housewives, but old age to older ones. The French thought it rather ugly, while five European countries found it old - fashioned. But to United States housewives it was the most modern of the four colors.

Yellow was distinctly disliked by the Swiss, suggesting sickliness and interest to the British, cheapness and old age to Americans, and modernity to the Italians and Swedes.

Green was the color which housewives generally agreed was unevocative, though young Swiss thought it masculine and old Swiss thought it feminine.

Britons found it particularly humorous, Americans particularly expensive.

LESS COST
CONTINUOUSLY! OIL HEAT
Almost everywhere in Ontario and Quebec oil costs less to heat your home than gas or electricity.
So if you're interested in savings in home heating . . .
Phone the oil supplier of your choice and let him explain why oil is the lowest-cost heating fuel you can buy. Depending on where you live, you can save $50 or more every year on fuel bills by choosing oil instead of gas—and save much, much more by choosing oil instead of electricity. This is one of the reasons most Canadian homes heat with oil. Another is the dependability of oil. Your dealer is on the job 24-hours a day to give you personalized, no-cost service.
Safe—unquestionably! Oil is non-explosive. You could safely extinguish a lighted match in it. Of course, all fuels are safe—if handled and consumed with proper care. Oil, however, is safe under all conditions.
Clean—extraordinarily! Dark streaks above vents and radiators occur with all systems—oil, gas, electricity—but not because of the heating fuel. The cause is dust and grime entering the house and circulating in heated air.
When you are considering a new heating system, remember the known dependability and economy of oil heat.

World Spotlight

The Associated Press world spotlight this week and looks at the troubles of U.S. Ambassador Foy Kohler in Moscow, assesses essential China's chances of gaining admission to the United Nations, and examines the British government's continuing efforts to get the country's foreign trade out of the red.

MOSCOW (AP) — Sometimes it's hard and sometimes it's harder—the job of representing the United States in Moscow.

When he arrived three years ago, Nikita Khrushchev invited him to the Kremlin. Khrushchev talked for three hours but did not mention that he was sending missiles to Cuba. Within a week, the 1962 Cuban crisis had exploded.

From that low point, relations soared to the high point of the 1963 treaty banning nuclear weapons tests in the atmosphere. Emphasis grew on the two super powers getting along well together.

Viet Nam has soured things again.

Kohler has found himself increasingly frozen out.

Russians, who talk with Kohler have become more formal and a n c o m municative than usual.

Kohler, a small, weather-beaten-looking man, has reacted with a brisk antagonism.

THINKS U.S. BLAMELESS

As the representative of his country, he supports its policy. This is often carried to the point of blaming any deterioration in relations on p u r e l y Soviet causes, without conceding that the United States might have contributed in any way.

Perhaps because of this attitude and perhaps because of an apparent inability to relax completely and hold an informal conversation, Kohler is often bypassed by the Russians.

Soviet officials found Kohler's predecessor, Llewellyn Thompson, a pleasant man to deal with. Thompson went back to the state department, but the Russians continued to do business with him through Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin in Washington.

In addition, the Cuban crisis resulted in the hot line between Kremlin and White House. Although it has yet to be used for a crisis, it is another factor tending to put Kohler on the sidelines.

Nevertheless, Kohler's job remains a huge one. He has said that today's diplomacy requires knowledge of the history, the culture, the political, economic, technological and social forces at work in the area where the diplomat works.

To help him gather this knowledge, Kohler has 28 diplomats and 118 other American employees.

He has four specialists in economics, two men who study the internal Soviet political situation, six experts on different aspects of Soviet foreign policy, three agricultural specialists.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Red China is expected to edge closer to a UN seat this fall, but informal surveys indicate another rebuff for Peking's supporters.

In its season starting Sept. 21, the General Asembly will face the China issue for the 15th time. The big question is how long the U.S.-led opposition can keep the door closed. If the present trend continues, some diplomats say, the breakthrough may come within two or three years.

One delegate who follows shifting positions on the China question speculates that votes this year will be as close as 48 in favor and 52 against.

This would leave Peking three short of a simple majority and far below a two-thirds majority, but it would represent a substantial gain. Other diplomats anticipate lesser gains for Peking.

No vote was taken last year because of the U.S.-Soviet deadlock over UN finances. In 1963, the proposed seating of Peking brought this vote: 41 in favor, 57 against, 12 abstaining.

BEAR ON ISSUE

The two-year interval has brought important developments bearing on the China issue:

—Recognition of the Peking government by France. This could influence the position of several African countries, former colonies of French rule, though France has not actively campaigned for Peking.

—Acquisition of nuclear weapons by China.

—Escalation of the Viet Nam war and a possible Peking role in peace negotiations.

The Viet Nam question has produced two seeming t w o-thirds. Some argue that it is important th.t Red China be in the United Nations so that it can be dealt with effectively. Others contend that Peking is backing Communist a g r e s s i o n in Viet Nam and therefore should not be given a seat. This latter group cites Peking's snubs of Secretary - General U Thant's peace bids as well as its threats to join Indonesia's President Sukarno in forming a rival organization.

In this connection, there is renewed speculation at UN headquarters as to whether Peking would take a UN seat if the invitation were extended. Charles Lynch, a Canadian correspondent who returned recently from China, believes Peking would decline. Some diplomats have held the view for several years that Mao Tse-tung would rather have the issue than the seat.

Supporters of Red China say this speculation is irrelevant, since they want the United Nations to extend the invitation in any event and see what happens. The seat belongs to Peking, they say, and should be made available by ousting Nationalist China.

This is still the most difficult part of the problem for many countries. The Formosa government is recognized by a majority of UN members. Many would not mind voting to seat the Chinese Communists, if this did not mean expelling Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

LONDON (AP)—Frank Murray, 30, a truck driver, was convicted of dangerous driving and was fined from his job—moving new cars from Ford's Liverpool factory.

His 200 fellow drivers immediately went on a protest strike. New cars quickly filled up the Ford yards and production had to be halted for lack of room. As a result, 8,000 Ford workers

Conklin Gets Over Million

TORONTO (CP)—Gross revenue from the midway of the Canadian National Exhibition which closed Monday went over the $1,000,000 mark for the first time.

Conklin Shows Ltd., which operated the midway, announced that gross revenue for this year, will pass the $1,000,000 mark. The previous record was of $958,000 was set in 1953. No definite figures for the 1965 midway was available. Total in 1964 was $953,000.

This year's gross was partly offset by a 10-per-cent increase in costs, including $500,000 for new rides and fun houses.

Welder Terry Williams refused to take orders from a foreman in a body works in Wales and was suspended. The protest walkout that followed soon tied up the British Motor Corp., with 20,000 men laid off.

Strikes like these, together with restrictive practices by both management and trade unions, have brought Prime Minister Wilson the biggest single threat to his survival in order to get Britain's foreign trade out of the red.

Unofficial walkouts, often touched off by trivial disputes, provoke paroxysms for Wilson's Labor government. That being forced to take action to prevent strikes and end trade unions, backbone of the Labor party support, to give up some of the powers it has promoted this project in the area.

The prime minister's first act on returning from his vacation was to convoke representatives of management and labor to discuss means of halting tieups in the automotive industry.

The prime minister was prepared to take his case to the floor of the convention of the Trades Union Congress, which opened today in Brighton, The 1,100 delegates to the congress have a bone to pick with Wilson over wage parades: A government-provoked recession that has sent industrial production tumbling and thrown 58,000 workers out of jobs between July 15 and Aug. 15. There has been a serious drain of England, Hoover Home Appliances and the Vauxhall Motor Co. have cut work schedules because of declines in business attributed to government credit restrictions.

The prime minister's case is that his government inherited a chronic deficit in British foreign trade. Britain was buying and investing considerably m o r e abroad than it earned. The trade deficit in 1964 was $2,000,000,000.

Years of confidence abroad in the Labor government's ability to cope with the crisis started to run on sterling in late June. That sent the pound to its lowest level since the Cuban crisis of 1962. The government had to seek short-term loans abroad in order to stave off the crisis.

British industrialists were asking why they should strive to compete with foreign manufacturers in the export market in order to earn 10 per cent, when they could make do the job at home and sell at the quoted produce.

But imports were pouring in to compete with more expensive British goods, produced by an inefficient industry as a result from the effects of restrictive practices and a plant badly in need of modernization.

As the government saw it, there was just too much money around with full employment. Imtalment buying had soared. The government estimated excess purchasing power at more than $800,000,000 a year.

After it took office last October, the Labor government slapped a surtax on most imports and began a tightening credit restrictions.

The aim is twofold: To curb imports by making them more expensive, and at the same time force British industry to export in order to survive when the home market loses part of its purchasing power.

Grand Bahama Island, which stood for a time Monday close to the storm's path, escaped with a 60-mile-an-hour lashing from Betsy's outer gales.

Fears for the safety of the disabled Dutch freighter, Sarah Elizabeth, which had sent a distress call Monday from out of the hurricane, were dispelled today when she reported to the U.S. Coast Guard that she was no longer in need of aid.

The freighter, with 11 crew members aboard, had lost her rudder and was in danger for a time of being turned aground on Egg Island near Eleuthera.

But the captain advised the coast guard today that he made it safely into Nantucket Providence Channel south of Grand Bahama Island and was out of the worst of the storm.

Raging water pounded the Florida coast south today as the tides ran four to six feet above normal.

Tropical storm Hurricane Betsy is forecast to continue this slow drift toward the southwest at five miles an hour today," Forecaster Arnold Sugg reported at 6 a.m.

The future course tonight is uncertain, but a slow southwest or westward drift appears most likely.

The 6 a.m. advisory located the centre of the storm about 185 miles slightly westward and east from Miami and just a short distance — about 25 miles — northeast of Nassau.

The eye of the storm is some 20 miles across and the highest winds are around the outer edge of it. Gales and squalls extend 200 miles in all directions.

Cuba's national observatory warned residents along the north coast of the island of Betsy's potential danger. Another meandering hurricane, Cuba's worst storm more than four days over Cuba after raking Haiti and caused an estimated 6,000 deaths in 1963.

Persistent Canadian Reporter Saves Lives of Turkish Babies

TORONTO (CP) — Lives of prematurely-born babies are being saved in a Turkish hospital in Cyprus because of the persistence of a Canadian newspaper man and the co-operation of Canadian and international organizations and services.

The story began last November when Alan Walker, now a writer for Time magazine in Montreal, was assigned by Cyprus to cover Canadians in the United Nations force there for The Canadian Press.

Walker found:

"The Greeks had excellent medical services. The Turks had practically nothing. Their hospital was built of odds and ends."

One piece of medical equipment needed was an incubator.

It might seem a "comparatively simple matter to find someone to donate a used incubator and send it to Cyprus but for Walker, who undertook the job of searching for equipment, it meant more than two months of frustration, polite refusals and flat rejections.

Finally everything worked out. The Turkish Red Cross Society of Toronto donated the incubator; the Canadian Red Cross Society worked through the International committee of the Red Cross in Geneva to gain permission for shipment; the Canadian Army delivered the incubator from Toronto to RCAF base at Trenton, Ont., and the air force flew it to Cyprus.

ASKED TO HELP

Walker's interest in an incubator came after he met Col. Yves Leclaire of Montreal, then up if Walker could get it to Cyprus.

The army and air force were sympathetic about transportation problems but said Walker should work through official United Nations channels. The UN at New York said it couldn't get involved—it might appear to be favoring one side.

An army public relations officer referred Walker to the defence department in Ottawa. He was told the department would arrange transportation on receipt of an official request from the Red Cross.

Maj.-Gen. A. E. Wrinch, national commissioner of the Red Cross, and Richard Glass, national public relations director, checked Geneva. Permission to ask for an incubator. One had been available; the other did not want to become involved because of possible political complications.

He approached a surgical supply company which had the new equipment costing $800. He was referred to Imperial Surgical and struck pay dirt—an outdated incubator the company promised to paint and fix

Walker and Leclaire met at the airport. Walker said:

"There seemed to be a shocking lack of equipment," said Walker. "I was surprised to see the primitive things they were using.

"The matter of an incubator came up almost parenthetically. Col. Leclaire said Toronto hospitals probably had used incubators and suggested I try to arrange for one on my return.

"I did so more as a personal favor to Col. Leclaire than anything else although I was sympathetic toward the Turks in their lack of medical services."

Back in Toronto last winter, Walker approached two hospitals for an incubator. One had none available; the other did not want to become involved because of possible political complications.

He approached a surgical supply company which had the new equipment costing $800. He was referred to Imperial Surgical and struck pay dirt—an outdated incubator the company promised to paint and fix

SPORTSLICES

By Geo. H. Carver

The ten a.m. reveille for this buck gunner of the vacation troops shrilled for the last time (for a while I hope) yesterday. Now its up again when the lark is in the heaven and nothing's right with the world.

Had an unforgettable week of cruising "up and down" the mighty St. Lawrence aboard a luxurious river liner the CSL's S.S. Richelieu. It was a far cry from the last time I travelled the river aboard a gaunt grey camouflaged troopship headed for the Atlantic and the great adventure.

This time I had the time to see the romance, colorful charm and the rich historical background of Eastern Canada at her glorious best.

We had a day and night in historic old Quebec the only walled city in America as French as Normandy itself yet unique in it's early garb. Visited St. Anne de Beaupre, the Shrine of Shrines, and saw the famous Montmorency Falls.

At Murray Bay and at Tadoussac stand two of Canada's most celebrated summer resorts — the Manoir Richelieu rising in Norman splendor above the broad reaches of the bay — and Hotel Tadoussac overlooking the mouth of the Saguenay at Tadoussac, site of Canada's first settlement.

Climax of the spectacular cruise is the voyage up the Saguenay, the world's most amazing river, 600 feet deeper than the St. Lawrence at its mouth and more than 900 feet in places. Wild headlands and tumbling mountaindsides keen it in, reverberate like thunder to the ship's wristle.

There are the famous Capes Trinity and Eternity which in places rise 2000 feet sheer from the water's edge. Trinity is named for its three natural plateaus. The water that laps its feet is inky black.

Atop the first plateau stands a statue of the Virgin Mary called Notre Dame de Saguenay "Our Lady of the Saguenay". The story goes that in 1881 a traveller named Charles Napoleon Robitaille, was stricken with an incurable disease while on a voyage up the river. He made a vow that he would erect a statue in honor of the Virgin if he lived 10 years longer. He lived 18 years! And today there is a statue in 25 feet high with an outer covering of heavy lead.

Up to Chicoutimi, home of many a fine hockey player, and back to Tadoussac to see the first wooden chapel built in America. It still stands ,spared by the Indians from their torches.

Back to Quebec and a tour of the famous Plains of Abraham now the site of beautiful homes and parks. We were told the federal government owns the land of the plains, rents it to home owners, who do their own building and maintenance, while Ottawa takes care of utilities and paying etc.

Passing touches:- An American from Louisiana pointing to the Chateau Frontenac towering high above us and telling his family that years ago an English soldier had a fight with a French general, licked him, and "it took place right behind that big hotel." In Murray Bay in front of the entrance to the millionaire hostelry, a youngster, 16, garbed in silk from hoot to mouth, pulling up in his 1965 Jaguar, tossing the keys to the gaily-appareled doorman (at least 70), with the instructions, "Park it, boy."

It was a highly enjoyable trip but I discovered that if all the hands with tip-questing fingers were stretched end to end they'd go around the world twice.

Now back to earth. Slightly out of touch city-wise, I note the big sports event of the week — or one of them — is the Celebrities Dinner at Tweed tomorrow night.

Jim Halpenny and company of the mid-Hastings village, have done an excellent job in rounding out a colorful galaxy of sports sustaining figures.

George Chuvalo Canada's heavyweight championship hope heads such a brilliant supporting cast as Buddy Ploos, King Clancy, Pinky Lewis and a real top-notch sports reporter Bob Slaughter, formerly of the Ottawa Rough Riders who almost stole Red Storey's thunder here two years ago.

Several hockey and other sports luminaries will also grace the celebrities table, and according to late reports some 450 tickets have been sold: There are some seats left and you can get your pastebards today and tomorrow at Carl Thompson's Variety Shop, Front Street or from Jack Bagley at Seven-Up.

Minnesota Twins, who had been cruising toward the American League pennant, suddenly have found themselves with a problem or two—a slight skid and Camilo Pascual.

Chicago White Sox, meanwhile, continued their bee-line toward the Twins with clutch help from Smoky Burgess and Ken Berry in a 4-3 and 2-1 sweep of Los Angeles Angels Monday.

The double triumph shot the second - place White Sox to within five games of the Twins, who lost to Kansas City Athletics 4-2 after winning 7-4.

The victories also gave the White Sox 21 victories against seven defeats, a .750 percentage, since Aug. 13 to storm from fifth place, 11½ games back in the pennant position.

Minnesota hoped to receive some pitching help from Pascual, who returned Monday after undergoing arm surgery Aug. 2. But Pascual, twice in 20-game winner, lasted only 1 2-3 innings in the opener, being battered by the Athletics for five runs.

The White Sox, meanwhile, came from behind in both their victories, routing the first game in the 10th inning on pinch-hitter Burgess' run-scoring single.

Berry, a .214 hitter, provided the punch in the nightcap. He belted in a third inning and scored on Jack Sanford's wild pitch. He tied the game 3-3 with a homer in the seventh, then led off the ninth with a single and helped Sanford win the winning run as Aubrey Gatewood fired a bases-loaded wild pitch.

In Monday's games, Baltimore Orioles swept New York Yankees 2-1 and 6-2, Cleveland Indians split with Washington Senators 5-3 and 4-3 and Boston Red Sox defeated Detroit Tigers 4-1.

In Sunday's games, Chicago blanked Minnesota 2-0 while Washington split with Detroit, was blanked 4-0 before Boston edged New York 4-3, Baltimore bombed Cleveland 9-5 and Los Angeles edged San Francisco 4-3.

Saturday, the White Sox swept the Twins 5-4, the Senators shut out the Tigers 1-0, the Red Sox whipped the Yankees 6-3 and 7-2, the Orioles shaded the Indians 1-0 and the Angels whipped the Athletics 6-1.

Minnesota overcame the five-run deficit in the first game Monday, going 6th to 8th to get Rich Rollins' run-scoring single in the fifth.

SHERRITT STRONG

The Twins' Jim Merritt drove in two runs and had a two-hitter in the second game until the Athletics erupted for two runs and a 3-3 tie in the eighth. Then in the ninth each Sandago Rosario's bases-loaded sacrifice fly.

Baltimore won the opener behind Sam Bowens' fourth-inning, tie-breaking home run and Dick Hall's four perfect innings of relief pitching. Andy Etchebarren lashed a three-run inside-the-park homer and Curt Blefary connected with one for the Orioles' second-game victory.

Rocky Colavito went past the 1,000 career-baseball mark in the opener, driving in three with a pair of singles as the Indians downed Washington. Leon Wagner paced the second-game triumph, collecting three hits and knocking in a run.

Earl Wilson set down Detroit on six hits and received support from Dalton Jones as Boston ran its winning streak to four games. Jones swiped three hits, including a two-run homer in the seventh inning.

John Hiller of Toronto made his major league debut for Detroit, holding the Red Sox scoreless in a ninth-inning relief stint.

Officiating Sharply Criticized

Brockville Ousts Juniors

By GARRY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter

BROCKVILLE — An overflowing grandstand, including many Belleville fans, voiced disapproval of a totally incompetent plate umpiring job here Saturday night as Brockville Diggers ousted Ellis Juniors with a 3-2 OASA Junior "A" decision.

The loss eliminated Belleville's two games to one and pits Brockville against Oshawa in the next round.

Jim Dunleavy, of Brockville, drew the ire of the Ellis contingent as well as both teams' backers with the lack of knowledge of the game's rules, failure to call infractions and often unbelievable calls on balls and strikes.

Brockville won the flip prior to the game and the Diggers took the visitor's roll, thus placing the Brockville official behind the plate and Belleville umpire Les Barton on the bases.

"He is the only umpire we can get to do our games," said Brockville coach Don Swayze following the game. Swayze also admitted that no OASA conveyor was anywhere near the park for the key game.

The Brockville area is under the correspondence of Kingston's Harold Langabeer, an elected OASA executive.

Dunleavy threw Belleville pitching ace Bob Ethier out of the game in the fourth inning during an argument which started when a Digger batter failed to step out of the batter's box when a mate was trying to score from third on a passed ball. Belleville claimed interference, no avail, and the run gave Brockville a 3-1 lead at that point.

Earlier Dunleavy ruled a "dead ball" on a low pitch that hit the plate. He changed that decision after conferring with Barton, but then called the pitch a strike.

Ethier took a 1-0 lead in the first on Muirhead's single and heads-up base running which enabled him to circle the bases on passed balls and a wild pitch. Muirhead ran over Stewart covering home, on the close play and the injured player was later forced to leave the game.

Duvall lined a homer past Muirhead to tie it in the third as tension increased.

Brockville won it with two out in the fourth. Shorey slammed a solo homer over the left field fence, Christie and Duvall followed with singles. Patterson was at bat and Christie on third when the short passed ball play occurred, leading to Ethier's ejection.

Bob Boyle took over Ellis' pitching chore and stopped the Diggers on two harmless infield hits over the remainder. He fanned five and walked one in a superb cleanup chore. Ethier gave up four hits, walked three and passed one.

Ellis' made it 3-2 in the eighth. Muirhead got his third single of the game, stole second and scored on McKibbon's double to centre.

An error put Chatland on leading off the ninth. Dunleavy called Boyle out on a pitch so far outside the catcher almost fell leaning to catch the ball. Ellis' still battled and Woods' clutch double sent Chatland home to end the game.

The tying run from there on a short passed ball but was out on a close play. Woods got to third on the same play but Hodgekinson fanned Soule to end it.

Roger Hodgekinson threw a five-hitter and struck out 10 for the victors. He walked two and hit two others. Muirhead's three singles and doubles by John McKibbon and Wayne Woods accounted for Ellis' hits while Don Gardiner hit a ball inches from the fence in the first.

Rick Duvall's homer and single, John Shorey's homer and loners by Ted Emmons, Ralph Hunt, Hodgekinson and Wayne Christie were enough for the Diggers.

FOOTBALLER DIES

FARGO, N.C. (AP)—A 17-year-old high school senior, injured Friday in a football game at Lakota, N.C., died Saturday in hospital. The death of Elton Hinesperger, a lineman at Cando high school, pushed the toll of football fatalities throughout the United States to nine in two weeks.

Shannonville Leads Foxboro In Long Series

Foxboro and Shannonville failed to settle their South Hastings Baseball League semi-finals over the weekend.

Shannonville took a 3-1 win at Shannonville on Saturday to grab a 2-1 series lead.

Yesterday, darkness halted the next game in the fifth inning with the score tied 2-2.

The next game is scheduled for Foxboro Wednesday at 6.15 p.m.

To date the clubs have played nine games, five of them going to decisions, two of them ending in ties; another being tossed out of the records following a protest, and last night's game falling short of completion.

Elginburg Takes Out Point Anne

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

Elginburg defeated Point Anne 5-2 on Saturday to wrap up their OASA Junior "B" Playdowns in two games straight. A gloppy performance by the losers in the field and on the bases made the Elginburg victory an easy one.

Jack Leeman, on the visitors mound, kept Point Anne off balance throughout the contest with a fine performance. He struck out eight of the first ten men to face him, and coasted the rest of the way as his teammates started to pile up the runs.

The winners scored their first three runs on only one hit, as throwing errors and wild pitches enabled them to round the bases.

Point Anne got one back in the fourth, as Mike Cook walked and later scored. They added their final one in the next inning on singles by Denny Maher and Cook.

Elginburg pushed across two runs in the seventh as they lashed out four hits off Point Anne pitcher Ron Maracle. A walk, wild pitch and error gave them another in the last inning.

Leeman ended the game with 16 strikeouts. He walked four and gave up seven hits.

Maracle whiffed seven in going the distance, while walking three and allowing eight hits.

Elginburg's offensive was spear-headed by Jack Irvin and Brian Row. They collected two hits each. Ron Cordukes, Garry Clow, Don McDonald and Leeman all hit one.

Mike Cook lined a double and single for the losers. Dennis Hull slammed a two - bagger, and Rick Rosebush, Gerald Maher, Eric Maher, and Danny Maher all stroked base - knocks.

FOUNTAIN PARK 14, BAD BOYS 5

The winners scored one in the first, seven in the second to tie it and five in the third.

Twenty-two walks given up by Bad Boy pitchers Stephen Boardman and Paul Wolfe plus a dozen hits, told the story.

Brian Cousins was the winning pitcher, taking over from DDvid Wood in the first frame. They allowed five hits, fanned seven and walked eight.

Carl Yates, Kirby, Windsor and David Wood looked after the winners' hits with two singles each.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement," "the pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or (retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Parsons Draw With Dunbriks

Parsons Cleaners and Kingston Dunbriks, both looking for important points, battled to a 1-1 deadlock before the biggest soccer crowd of the season in Kingston on Saturday.

Dunbriks needed a win to keep them in contention for the Kingston and District League championship. Belleville is battling for a spot in the top-placed "A" group playoffs.

The game was dominated by strong defensive play and excellent goalkeeping by both clubs.

Dunbriks moved ahead 1-0 after just two minutes of play. B. Houghton put a long pass through the Parson defence and Westerfield sank a low Vette to the corner.

Kingston held Belleville off with a strong passing game until the 25 minute mark.

Bob Rutherford checking closely, stole the ball from Dunbrik's centre half and slipped it past a surprised goalie to make it 1-1.

Both sides had some great opportunities in the second half as play became rougher.

Alan Brown almost won it for Parsons with a fine shot but the Dunbrik goalie stopped that shot and also the rebound while stretched out on the field.

R. DiGenova and G. Geldart were strong on the Belleville defence.

Campbellville Eliminates Cannifton

Cannifton bowed out of the OBA Intermediate "C" playdowns in Oshawa Monday afternoon by losing in thirds and deciding game 7-3 to a hard-hitting Campbellville crew.

On Saturday, Cannifton grabbed a 6-3 win at Cannifton to force the third game.

A grand-slam homer over the right field fence, by Don Forsythe in the bottom of the ninth inning, won the Saturday tilt.

Bill Latchford stopped the visitors on five hits in that game, striking out nine and walking three. Hamilton gave up eight hits on the losers' rubber, whiffing four and passing seven.

Catcher Len Harvey got two Cannifton singles, Forsythe ala homer, Ross Empey a double, Gerald Hill, Latchford, Ron Urch and Keith Dickey a single each.

Joyce clouted two Campbellville singles.

In Oshawa, Campbellville broke a 1-1 deadlock with three runs in the fifth inning to take the lead to 5-3 with a pair in the seventh but the winners got those back in the next frame.

Roberts buried eight-bit ball, whiffing six and walking one, for Campbellville. He got batting support from Moore, Winegrove, Henderson, Joyce and McPhail with two hits apiece.

Bill Latchford was the loser, relieved by Bill Hill in the seventh. They were tagged for 13 hits, fanned three and passed three.

Len Harvey hit a double and single in defeat and Keith Dickey singled twice. Gerry Brennan, Howard Meeks, Ross Empey and Ron Urch also hit safely.

Cats Cling To Lead
Cats, Riders Win Weekenders

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tiger-Cats are sitting on the defensive and they're still in first place in the Eastern Football Conference following a pair of weekend games.

Hamilton defended its intercepted five passes and pounced on four fumbles Monday for a 21-4 victory over Montreal Alouettes, in Hamilton.

The win moved the Ticats two points ahead of Ottawa Rough Riders who crushed the last - place Toronto Argonauts 41-21 Sunday in Ottawa to gain a temporary tie for the leadership.

The results left Hamilton with 10 points on a 5-1 record, Ottawa second with a 4-1 mark for eight points, Montreal third with 1-4 for two points and Toronto winless in six starts.

The Ticats, who picked off seven passes last week against Saskatchewan Roughriders, rallied on their defence again Monday.

It was the defence that carried us through again" coach Ralph Sazio said. "As far as the offense goes we're still struggling with the two kids."

KICK ATTEMPTS

The two "kids" Sazio referred to were quarterbacks Joe Zuger and Frank Cosentino, who have been alternating since Bernie Faloney was dealt to the Alouettes season.

Faloney had his troubles against his former mates, who spilled him for losses on seven occasions which set the Als back 62 yards.

Hamilton got touchdowns from halfbacks Tommy Grant and Cloyd Webb, both set up by fumbles, and a field goal and two converts by Dave Mann. Sutherin's five points put him back on top in the scoring race with 31 points, one more than Ottawa's Bo Scott.

The winners spotted Montreal a 2-0 lead in the first quarter on a safety touch. Garney Henley intercepted a Faloney pass just outside his own end zone and his momentum carried him across the goal line. Montreal halfback Terry Evanshen nailed him for the two-pointer.

The Als outpassed the Ticats 199 yards to 100 and had 16 first downs to Hamilton's 14. But the Ticats held their opponents to 84 yards on the ground and managed 131 themselves.

The Argos lost more than the game Sunday. Tackle Dave Sith and end-corner linebacker Marv Luster both suffered torn knee ligaments and are expected to miss Toronto's next four games.

Coach Bob Shaw, desperately juggling his lineup since the season started, put both on the 20-day disabled list and isn't sure where he'll fill replacements.

The Argos managed to come out of the first quarter with a slight edge to play and a 7-7 tie, but an electrifying 80-yard touchdown gallop on a kickoff return by Orv Keith set them back on their heels and they never recovered.

Fullback Jim Dillard added two Ottawa touchdowns with Whit Tucker, Don Gilbert and Dave Mann getting single converts apiece. Moe Racine converted five of the six to the delight of 17,203 who turned up for Ottawa's first Sunday afternoon game.

Dave Thelen, an Ottawa cast off this year, along with Dave Mann and Pat Brosnan got Riders in the fourth quarter after the game was out of reach of Toronto. Jackie Parker converted all three.

In all Toronto had 75 first downs to Ottawa's 17, but the Riders outrushed the Argos 184 yards to 69 while Ron Jackson had an unfortunate quarterback Bill Cline completed eight of 16 passes for 204 yards.

SETS RECORD

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Bob Simmons of Charlottetown set a Canadian record of 180 feet, 10 inches in the senior hammer throw during the Prince Edward Island track and field championships Saturday.

Giants Defeat Dodgers In Thriller

Win 7-6

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Tension filled the air Monday as San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers met for the first time since the Juan Marichal - John Roseboro battle-swinging incident.

However, the only thing that filled the air at the end was neat cushions.

Huge crowd of 53,581 at Los Angeles tossed the cushions in a display of frustration as the Giants edged the National League leaders 7-6 in 12 innings on Jim Davenport's run-producing bloop single.

With one out and pitcher Frank Linzy on with a single in the 12th, Matty Alou grounded to second. Linzy was forced but Howie Reed, a rookie Los Angeles relief pitcher, failed to touch first base in an attempt at a double play that would have ended the inning.

Alou then stole second, Willie Mays was purposely passed and Davenport dropped a bit into left center, Alou racing across the plate as Reserve outfielder Marichal, who bit Roseboro over the head with a bat when the teams met 15 days before, was banned from making the trip to Los Angeles under orders from league president Warren Giles but Roseboro collected three hits, including a homer.

WITHIN ONE GAME

The victory pulled the Giants within one game of the Dodgers as Cincinnati Reds and Milwaukee Braves dropped in behind, 1½ games off the pace.

The fifth-place Pittsburgh Pirates closed within four games of top by beating the Reds 3-1 and 4-2 while the Braves inched up with 4-2 and 3-1 victories over New York Mets.

Philadelphia Phillies crushed St. Louis Cardinals 10-1 after taking a 10-3 walloping in the opener and Houston Astros shaded Chicago Cubs 2-1 in a single game.

In Sunday's games the Dodgers downed Houston and the Giants topped the Cubs by identical 4-3 scores. Pittsburgh shaded Milwaukee 2-1, the Reds outslugged the Phillies 10-9, and the Cards crushed the Mets 14-5.

The Dodgers blanked the Astros 5-0 Saturday while the Giants stomped Chicago 7-2, the Braves whipped the Pirates 8-3, the Reds slipped the Phils 2-1, and the Mets and Cards were rained out.

The Pirates broke a 1-1 tie with the Reds in the seventh inning of the opener when Pete Rose let Bill Mazeroski's grounder go through his legs and Gene Alley doubled him home.

The Reds' Jim Maloney, now 17-7, had the Pirates shut out on two hits in the slightcap until they erupted in the seventh with Willie Stargell slugging a three-run double.

Rico Carty swung the big bat for the Braves in the opener against the Mets, rapping out three hits, including a homer and a two-run double. In the nightcap, the Braves got the job done on Joe Torre's two-run single in the third inning.

The Cardinals broke a 2-2 tie in the fourth inning of the opener when Julian Javier singled and Bob Tolan doubled, then put a cut of reath with a six-run seventh built on Lou Brock's three-run homer and Phil Gagliano's two-run shot.

The Phillies came back in the nightcap behind rookie Adolfo Phillips, who smashed a homer and three doubles and scored four runs.

Jim Wynn's two-run homer in the sixth inning lifted Houston past the Cubs.

Lindsay Puts Out Bloomfield

PICTON — Single runs in the fifth and sixth innings gave Lindsay a tight 2-1 victory over Bloomfield here Saturday night in OASA Intermediate "B" playdowns.

The close decision gave Lindsay a sweep of the series in two consecutive games over last year's Ontario champions.

Bloomfield led 1-0 after Ostrander got on with a walk and circled the bases with two steals and a wild pitch, in the fourth.

Back to back doubles tied it for the visitors in the fifth and another double set up the winning run in the next frame. The runner advanced on a passed ball and came in to score after Ostrander had made a fine diving catch in centre field.

Hits were scarce in the pitching duel between Lindsay's Bunt Hodgson and Bloomfield's Carl Stacey.

Hodgson set the county crew down on three hits, struck out 11 and walked one. He got sharp, errorless support.

Stacey gave up just four hits. He struck out seven and did not walk a batter.

Hennessy collected two of the Lindsay doubles and Dillow got another. Hshinore's single completed the attack.

For the losers, Warren Ostrander got two doubles and Keith MacDonald added a single.

BANTAMS SPLIT

Meanwhile, in OASA Bantam playdowns over the weekend, Picton split a pair of Zone Four finals games with Kemptville.

Picton won 12-11 in ten innings in Kemptville on Saturday. Yesterday Kemptville evened the series here with a tight 4-3 victory.

Third and deciding game of the set will be played here next Saturday.

Picton has ousted Point Anne, Cobourg, Westwood and Fort Perry in previous series.

Defeats Stollery 4-3

Thomas Junior Golf Champ

BRANTFORD, (CP)—Putting was the difference Saturday as Ian Thomas of London, Ont., won the Canadian junior golf championship with a 4 and 3 victory over Gordon Stollery of Toronto Rosedale.

The 16-year-old London golfer never trailed in the 36-hole final and took advantage of Stollery's erratic putting to take the first three holes.

Thomas, on the other hand, was deadly on the greens. He dropped in birdie putts from 25 feet, eight feet twice and 10 feet to lead by 7 up after 25 holes.

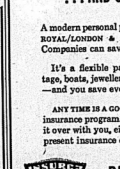
Stollery made a late charge, winning four of the next five holes to cut the margin to three but saw his birdie matched on the 32nd when Thomas sank a difficult putt.

Stollery's inconsistent putter cost him the 33rd and Thomas dropped in a short putt to end the match.

Both golfers qualified with identical rounds of 78 and 79 Monday and Tuesday and neither was optimistic about making it to the finals.

Thomas was drawn against Peter Turner of Toronto, the tournament's second low qualifier with a four-over par 148, in the semi-final.

Turner, however, experienced difficulty with his drives and lost 5 and 4.



Stollery though he had no chance when he lost a two-hole lead with two holes to go against Doran Doucet of Windsor Ellis, Que., in the other semi-final. But by sank a 20-foot birdie putt from the fringe of the green on the first extra hole to oust Doucet.

Thomas, a Grade 12 student, was also a member of the Ontario team that won the interprovincial title in the qualifying round here earlier in the week.

Ellis' Bantams Outscore Coaches 10-7

Ellis Bantams scored at least one run in every inning to defeat the re i nforced Coaches 10-7 in the annual exhibition baseball game played at Park Dale Monday afternoon.

The Coaches held a 4-3 lead after two frames and were in front 7-6 after the 7th but were all they managed. The bantams got two in the first and one run every inning after.

Ted'Shaw stopped the Coaches most of the way, with Jim Wood, hurling the fifth frame. Shaw gave up three of the losers' seven hits, striking out 17 and walking four.

Rene Ashton Glen Dalnard and Moe Hunter shared the Coaches' pitching duties and allowed 15 hits, struck out 17 and walked seven in the nine inning contest.

For Ellis', Steve Moore and Mike Healey got three hits each, Joe Lunney, Ted Shaw and Brian Coughlin two apiece, Jim Wood, David Cass and Ron Parry one.

The Coaches' hits were divided among Don Dolan, Rene Ashton, Fred Roberts, Moe Hunter, Al Meagher, George Mills and John Emerson.

At the Belle

Unusual Adventure, "A High Wind in Jamaica" Stars Anthony Quinn and James Coburn as Pirates

The exploits of pirates and the children they have kidnapped are presented in "A High Wind in Jamaica," 20th Century-Fox feature attraction starting today at the Belle Theatre.

Technicolor and Cinemascope, showing today, Wednesday and Thursday at the Belle, Theatre. Anthony Quinn and James Coburn head a cast that includes Lila Kedrova and Gert Frobe in this film version of the best selling novel by Richard Hughes.

"A High Wind in Jamaica" is set in the Caribbean of the 1860's, when steam-powered warships were slowly chasing pirates off the seas.

Among the last of the pirate ships is one commanded by the grizzled Captain Chaver, played by Anthony Quinn. One day Chaver and his crew of disgruntled buccaneers capture a sailing vessel, murder its crew, and kidnap its passengers. These are all children on their way to school in England. On the Spanish Main, the children have the run of the ship, and eventually it becomes difficult to discern between kidnappers and the kidnapped.

Anthony Quinn, nominated for a Academy Award on the recent performance in "Zorba the Greek," stars as Chaver, the pirate who would rather be a farmer.

James Coburn, described as a cross between Lee Marvin and Jean Paul Belmondo, plays the first mate.

Lila Kedrova, winner of an Academy Award for her performance as Madame Hortense in "Zorba The Greek," appears again with Anthony Quinn as the proprietress of a brothel. And Gert Frobe, who played the title role in "Goldfinger," will play a sea captain captured by Chaver and his pirates.

"A High Wind in Jamaica" now showing at the Belle Theatre was filmed on location in the Caribbean under the direction of Alexander MacKendrick.

Television Salary Scales Frequently Exaggerated

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Television, although only the baby sister of the show business family, already has managed to e'ab Ish its own mythology, among t' two unvariable rules:

1. All stars of series are rumored—by their press agents most—to make at least $250,000 a year.

2. Every star or co-star turned down "absurd" offers of series before finding one exactly suited to his talents.

Both of these are nice round figures shot look impressive in print and both are difficult for anyone outside the internal executive department to prove or disprove.

Some television stars are, indeed, paid salaries. But others are co-owners of their shows. Still others have special arrangements under which they are paid stated amounts each year over a period of years so that the tax slap will be lighter.

DESILU DOING WELL

After a recent meeting of stockholders of Desilu, show business journals and daily newspapers seem by this reporter set the annual stipend of President Lucille Ball at $250,-

ALWAYS THERE WITH READY CASH FOR ANY GOOD REASON

000, $300,000 and $500,000—any of which seems like enough to pay bills.

On the other hand, the hero of a by-gone Western series who might have been expected to have been in the $250,000 class was actually making $650 a week. He was stuck with a tightly written studio contract signed when he was unknown and from which there was no escape.

Each of the stars of Bonanza are reported — unofficially, of course—to have received nice salary increases under new contracts this year, moving from a mere $4,500 per episode to $10,-000.

One hears plenty of money in Hollywood, but most of it is pure guess and gossip.

BREAKS WORLD RECORD

BUDAPEST (AP) — Hungary's Gyula Zsivotzky broke the world hammer throw record by more than 10 feet Saturday. Zsivotzky's heave was 73.74-metre (241 feet, 11-inches). The listed world record is 241 feet 10 inches by America's Harold Connolly.

The Rural Scene

PICTON — It was recently announced by Ontario Department of Agriculture that the time for entering the Farmstead and Rural Improvement Centennial Competition has been extended for one month. This extension has been granted because of the unfavorable weather that has been experienced in many parts of Ontario. The deadline for entering was originally September 1st., however this has been extended to October 1st. More than $400.00 is now available for this project in Prince Edward County and it is hoped that this will encourage rural people throughout the County to enter the competition and improve their property in preparation for Canada's Centennial. All farms entered in the competition will be inspected this autumn with the final judging taking place during the fall of 1966. There are five divisions on the score sheet and in some cases those entering the competition may wish to limit their efforts to one or two sections. The division on the score sheet are as follows: 1. Attractive Approach including roadside and fences, entrance, mailbox and farm name, laneway to buildings; 2. Yard Area Around House including lawn, shade trees and windbreaks, flowers, vegetable garden, fencing, hedges, walks, patios; 3. House including condition and painting; 4. Yard Area Around Barn including fencing, grading, freedom from weeds, removal of old scrap rubbish etc; 5. Barn and Other Outbuildings including condition and painting. Silage Corn Day - As a result of the increasing interest in corn silage in the past few years plans have been made to hold a Silage Corn Day at the farm of Robert Jackson, Peterborough on Wednesday, September 8th. The programmes have been designed to focus attention on production techniques, on handling equipment and on the use of corn silage as a livestock feed. Field plots have been planted to compare the date of planting and plant population on yield. Plots will also show the effect of different methods of weed control. Many farm equipment companies will be demonstrating forage harvesters and forage wagons. In addition, there will be such equipment as silo unloaders, blowers, corn planters, fertilizer spreading equipment, and weed spraying equipment on display. The program commences at 10.00 a.m. with a tour of the field plots with Harvey Wright, Soils and Crops Specialist, Lindsay as discussion leader. At 11:15 a.m. Prof. Stan Young, Crop Science Department of O.A.C. will speak on "Trends in Corn Silage Production." Lunch will be available on the grounds, with the afternoon program starting at 1.00 p.m. Mr. Roy Brubacher, Dairy farmers, Waterloo County will be speaking on "Corn Silage for Dairy Cattle". Following Mr. Brubacher's talk, a question and answer period will follow with Prof. Young, Harvey Wright, and Mr. Brubacher fielding the questions. At 2.00 p.m. the demonstration of corn harvesting machinery will commence with a representative of each Company having the opportunity to discuss their machine. The Jackson farm is located three miles south of the City of Peterborough, just off Highway No. 7. Signs will be posted.

New Addition Being Sought

PICTON (Staff) — A delegation from the Prince Edward District High School Board will go before county council this month to seek preliminary approval of a new addition to the collegiate here.

The decision to make a submission to council was made at a special meeting of the board last week.

At the meeting the special building committee, headed by Jack Ward, met with the entire school board and brought members up to date on progress made to date. Estimated cost of the new addition is expected to exceed one million dollars but the board is hoping to have further information from the department of education on the portion grants will cover before the county council meeting on Sept. 20.

Picton detachment of the O.P.P. report a very quiet Labor Day weekend insofar as county accidents are concerned. Only one minor accident has been reported.

Low Lift Pump For Utilities Has Arrived

PICTON (Staff) — The long awaited low lift pump for the Picton Public Utilities water plant has finally arrived, PUC manager H. C. Blakely announced Friday.

Ordered last spring to help offset expected heavy water consumption during the summer, construction and delivery of the new specially designed pump has been delayed until now.

Mr. Blakely said that he expects to start installing the new pump this week. The pump should increase the plant's low lift pumping capacity by one third to 3,000,000 gallons per day.

Meanwhile, at a special meeting of the PUC Friday morning the commission passed a motion for formal acceptance to a report prepared by the consultant engineering firm of Gore and Storrie.

Russ Jackson talks about doubling his money with London Life

Why did Russ Jackson—football player and mathematics teacher—choose a $25,000 Jubilee whole life policy? Russ gave his reasons in a tape-recorded conversation. Here they are—in his own words:

"There are not too many places where you can double your money as well as protect your family."

This one comment sums up Russ Jackson's reasons for buying a London Life Jubilee policy. It's interesting to hear him explain the steps that led up to this investment.

"Being in the position I'm in, I have a lot of insurance people who contact me and try to get me to take insurance policies of one sort or another.

"But I had known some people in London Life and when a chap here in Ottawa contacted me, I was ready for insurance and more than willing to talk to him."

Why did Russ feel he was "ready for insurance"?

"I was married in 1961 to a Hamilton girl, Lois. We now have two youngsters—a boy, Kevin, and a little girl, Suzanne.

"This policy gives my wife protection if anything should happen to me and would enable her to carry on what I think would be a fairly normal life."

Protection is one side of his Jubilee whole life policy. Investment is the other. Russ looked into this thoroughly.

"As many people know, bonds and investments are part of the Grade 93 Algebra course. Teaching this to the students at high school has made me aware of all the pitfalls and possibilities in this type of investment. I believe the mathematical background has helped a great deal in evaluating this London Life policy.

"My monthly premium is $34.58.

"I bought the policy when I was 28. If I live to age 65, I will have paid in a little over $15,000. And if I leave my dividends to accumulate, which I plan on doing, then this policy can be worth over $31,000.

"This would be double the amount I would have paid in premiums."

(Note: the $31,000 figure Russ mentions above is made up of $13,600 guaranteed cash value and the balance in accumulated dividends. These dividends are based on the current dividend scale. While they are not guaranteed, London Life has had an outstanding record of dividend payments. Dividends allotted to owners of London Life profit-sharing policies for 1965 exceed 529 million.)

"I have to admit it's a long-term investment—you're not going to make a lot of money quickly—but the protection that you get with it makes it extremely attractive."

London Life insurance is flexible. Here are three of the choices Russ will have when he reaches age 65:

(a) He can continue to pay premiums on his $25,000 policy and continue to build savings.

(b) He can withdraw his $31,000 or so as a lump sum.

(c) He can use his savings to provide an annuity for life or for a set number of years.

Russ talked briefly about one other feature of his insurance program:

"I also have what is known as income continuance. This extends through to May of 1984, and guarantees Lois—if anything happens to me between now and 1984—$200 a month after a month, until that date in '84. The purpose of this is to guarantee my children — who are very young now — the chance of going to college."

(This income would be in addition to the $25,000 provided by Russ' Jubilee policy.)

Russ Jackson's story is not unusual. Today, most young men know they need insurance to protect their families. Many of them are discovering they can also double their money with London Life. A representative of the Company can show you how.

PEARSON SETS NOV. 8 ELECTION

Will Hold Fifth Vote In 8 Years

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson unleashed the politicians on the electorate Tuesday night, bidding for a Liberal majority on voting day Nov. 8 to build a "new Canada."

It will be the fifth general election in eight years.

In rapid order, Mr. Pearson's political opponents followed his broadcast announcement by denouncing him for bringing on an election on the basis of a 14-year-old electoral map.

Call Finds Dief Ready For Fight

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker came snorting out of his corner Tuesday night at the sound of Prime Minister Pearson's election bell.

"I never felt more like getting into a campaign than I do tonight," he said as he stepped from the lights television lights in an Ottawa studio.

"This," he said forcefully, "will be a strenuous campaign."

"It is imperative there be honesty and integrity in government," he told reporters, who regarded the statement as an indication this would be the 67-year-old leader's main theme in the campaign.

"When one finds, as the Dorion commission has done, that wrongdoing goes into vital parts of government — including the office of the prime minister — that of the ministers of justice and citizenship — then there's something wrong with government."

IN FIGHTING FORM

Mr. Diefenbaker was in fighting form as he left the studio, where he heard by television Mr. Pearson's announcement— it originated in another studio —and then spoke to the nation himself before listening attentively to the leaders of the three smaller opposition parties.

"Oh, yes, I listened to what they (the leaders of the smaller parties) had to say, and I am making any observations. The contest is between the Con-

And Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker, his chief opponent in the last three federal elections, charged that the prime minister called an election rather than face parliamentary attack on charges of corruption in high places.

Mr. Pearson said he believes "the Canadian people want to solve the big problems; to get on with the important tasks facing them; to get on with the job of building the new Canada."

"For this high purpose, they can best be served by a government at elections which has the confidence of Canadians in every part of the country, as represented by a majority of

PM Decided On Election Week Ago

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson's final decision to call a general election for Nov. 8 was reached last Wednesday during a cabinet meeting, sources say.

It was reached after an informal vote among cabinet ministers was reported to have given overwhelming approval to the idea of an immediate vote. A minority, described as relatively small, opposed it.

Although the prime minister gave every indication a week earlier in Western Canada that he had decided in favor of an election this fall, the sources say Mr. Pearson went into Wednesday's cabinet meeting without strong feelings on the matter.

India Attacks on 2 New Fronts To Force Kashmir Withdrawal

NEW DELHI (CP) —India launched two new army attacks into West Pakistan today after reporting Pakistani bombers tried to attack New Delhi but were driven off.

Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan told parliament one Indian spearhead already was five miles deep into southeast Pakistan.

Reports reaching New Delhi said this force captured Gadra, six miles inside the frontier about 220 miles east of Karachi, Pakistan's main port and naval base. These accounts said the army was advancing toward Khasrapar, 15 miles inside Pakistan. The defence ministry could not confirm these reports.

Chavan said another force crossed the northern frontier near the sector in southwest Kashmir where the Pakistani Army invasion began a week ago. He said this attack was forcing Pakistani units in the Chamb area of Kashmir to withdraw.

Thus India opened three fronts in West Pakistan, the third one being in the Lahore sector about 110 miles south of Chamb.

Reports from Pakistan, however, said all Indian troops had been driven from Pakistani soil on the Lahore front.

The object of the multiple Indian attacks appeared to be to force the small Pakistani Army to withdraw from southwest Kashmir in order to defend the new fronts.

A New Delhi spokesman said the thrust into West Pakistan in the southeast was in reprisal for a Pakistani naval bombardment of the port of Darka, about 240 miles down the coast from

China Claims India Violates Her Border

TOKYO (AP) — China protested today against what it claimed were "successive serious violations" of China's territory and sovereignty by Indian troops.

China demanded that India "dismantle" all military structures "built beyond or on the China-Sikkim border."

The Chinese also urged India to "withdraw" its armed forces and "stop all acts of aggression and provocation against China in the western, middle and eastern sectors of the Chinese-Indian border."

The note, issued by the Chinese Communist foreign ministry and sent to the Indian government, was broadcast by Peking's New China news agency.

The Chinese protest came one day after China accused India of aggression against Pakistan and warned it was "strengthening its defences and heightening its alertness along the China-India borders."

"Facts have proved once again," the note stated, that India has not the slightest respect for its neighbors, but makes insensious, harassment and encroachments upon them whenever there is a chance."

Waves and torrential rains flooded a vast expanse of Florida beaches, highways and city streets, isolating some areas. Power and telephone failure was widespread. House trailers were battered around.

In the hurricane's track was the usual other debris—splintered windows, fallen signs, utility poles and trees.

But when the worst of the wind was over in the 1,000,000-plus Miami metropolitan area, forecaster Gordon Dunn of the Miami weather bureau said "we came off rather well, as hurricanes go."

Hurricane - force winds still were blowing at the time, but Miami had escaped Betsy's full fury. Winds peaked at 105 miles an hour, compared with the 135-mile-an-hour blows thrown at the city last year by hurricane Cleo.

The wall of the eye, around which whipped the storm's most fearful winds, missed the Miami area by 10 miles to the southward.

Still to come were reports from the small communities of the upper Florida keys over which the eye of the hurricane passed. Wind gusts of 140 were recorded at Plantation Key.

The Miami River surged out of its banks and muddy water ran deep in the city's streets as rain lashed the city hour after hour. At Miami Beach and Fort Lauderdale, winds blew sheets of water into homes and hotels.

Striking along a wide front, the hurricane hit dozens of big and small cities on a curving, 200 - mile stretch of coastline, and brushed across the narrow bottom of the Florida Peninsula toward the Gulf of Mexico.

And nobody knew how much longer Betsy would rage the seas, or how many other coastlines it might cross.

Forecasters expected it to lose little if any of its fury in the Florida crossing and, once over the gulf where warm, subtropic waters would add new fuel to the storm's engine, it could strike out for new land areas in any direction, depending upon the steering currents it encountered.

"Once in the gulf," Dunn said, "the storm has to hit another coast somewhere. There is no other escape."

Total Cost Of Project $8 Million

The city of Belleville and the County of Hastings yesterday made municipal history as at a unique joint meeting of the two council bodies the final go-ahead for construction of the new Belleville General Hospital addition was given approval.

In separate motions the two councils approved of a total cost of $8,657,554 for the hospital project and also that the general construction contract go to Robertson Yates Corporation Ltd. for an amount of $7,117,902.

The Robertson Yates tender was the lowest of the seven bids received.

AGREE ON FINANCING

The respective councils also approved the method of financing the hospital addition which will be paid for by 20 years debentures. The annual debt charges for the city will be $816, 715.87 and for the county $69,606.37.

The county has already started levying its share of the hospital cost with $100,000 raised in each of the past two years.

Hospital board chairman McLean Haig said the cost of the hospital addition was higher than anticipated, but that gov-

Councillors Celebrate Agreement

Municipal councillors and their appointed administrators last night toasted approval of the new Belleville General Hospital extension at a wine-and-beef banquet.

Members of Hastings county and Belleville city councillors joined with hospital board members in the celebration in the Hotel Quinte.

Representative speeches were made by Herbigh Hamilton, for the Hospital board and Mayor Jack Ellis and Warden Fred Beckett for the municipalities. Senior government was represented by Clarke Rollins, MLA East Hastings.

ernment grants and other revenue were also higher than expected.

Warden Fred Beckett said the county's share of the hospital cost was within the estimated figure and would not result in an increase in the county mill-rate.

COST TWO MILLS

Mayor Jack Ellis said the cost to city taxpayers from the end of the construction period would be about two mills, with interim financing to run between one and one half mills.

Costs for the new hospital are made up of the $7,117,902 general contract for the main

12 Killed In Bridge Blast

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) Reflections of brilliant arc lamps glinted off the surface of the St. Lawrence River through out the night as the search continued for the bodies of men killed in an explosion Tuesday.

Early today, the number of those killed in an explosion that shattered a caisson on a bridge construction project here was fixed at 12.

One body was recovered late Tuesday, six more were found early today and the search for the other five men missing after the explosion of unknown origin continued today.

Late Tuesday, the company in charge of the project, Dufresne and McNamara Engineering Ltee, issued an official statement which said: "There is one known dead and 11 missing and feared dead."

Twelve men were injured in the accident, two of them seriously. The company statement said the explosion "has sheared in half the caisson forming part of Pier N-2."

The pier was part of a mile-long $30,000,000 road bridge which is to link Trois-Rivieres West with the south shore of St. Lawrence at St. Gregoire.

WERE CHANGING SHIFTS

The company said it did not know how many men were working in the area of the explosion when the blast went off, since workers were changing shifts.

However, civil protection officials who arrived on the scene minutes after the blast, said they had determined that 31

Betsy Barely Misses Miami; Nassau Reports No Deaths

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Betsy lurked her mighty-test 140-mile-an-hour wind gusts at the Florida keys today and lashed the metropolitan areas of the southeast Florida coast with torrential rains that sent flood waters raging through the streets.

But, as Florida took the worst, the giant storm could give, word came from Nassau that the Bahamanian capital came through Tuesday's terrible 12-hour beating without loss of life so far.

A telegram from Sir Etienne Dupuch, publisher of the Nassau Tribune, said the resort city of 50,000 was "stunned, shocked and badly damaged, but so far we have no casualties."

The telegram arrived this morning, first breakthrough in the communications blackout that had fallen over the beaguered city.

Council Sets $300 Fee To Builders in Downtown Area for Parking Spaces

Belleville city council at a special meeting Tuesday made it easier for owners of vacant lot properties in the city downtown area to rebuild.

In the future owners will be allowed to pay the city $300 for each of the off-street parking spaces which under present by-law they are required to provide.

Under existing regulations when burned out blocks are reconstructed, the owner is called upon to provide one parking space for each 500 square feet of floor space.

With this in some instances being all but impossible and with the feeling that the by-law was holding up replacement of buildings, the Belleville Suburban and Planning Board recommended that the city accept a payment of $1,200 in lieu of each off-street parking space which the owner or developer might feel he was unable to provide.

City manager J. R. Reynolds in an earlier report said the $1,200 figure was 60 per cent of the amount it actually costs the city to provide an off-street parking space.

OPINIONS DIFFER

But others were of a different opinion and Mayor Jack Ellis said the Downtown Merchants' Association had suggested a figure of $200 per parking space in Toronto the charge was $1,000 per space, and in view of this said there seemed room for a compromise.

Alderman Frank Murray proposed a figure of $500 per space and this was seconded by Mayor Ellis.

However, Alderman Don Whalen proposed an amendment calling for a $300 fee and this was seconded by Alderman Thomas Lally.

After considerable discussion on the matter council voted for the $300 figure.

Strong opposition to any reduction in the $1,200 fee was made by Ald. Don Joss who said amounts in excess of $200 figure were being short sighted.

He said that to attract customers to the downtown area there must be adequate parking, and this was possible only by providing parking spaces.

LOSE TAX REVENUE

But Ald. Bert Corke pointed out that presently established business had not been called upon to provide parking spaces and said he felt a $200 fee was adequate.

He agreed that the vacant lots were serious from "the city's point of view in that they represented a loss in tax revenue.

Alderman David took the same view claiming that assessment was of more importance than a few dollars which might be received in lieu of owners providing parking spaces.

Aldermen Ken Sedore and Tom Lally also felt the fee should be reduced to encourage rebuilding, the former stating that no obstacle should be placed in the way of new buildings.

Marmora Fair On Labor Day Well Attended

IDENTIFY BODY

KINGSTON (CP) — A body recovered from Lake Ontario near here Tuesday has been identified as that of Dale Thompson, 37, of Almond, N.Y. Mr. Thompson and his 12-year-old son, Dale Jr., were drowned in the St. Lawrence River off Kingston Sept. 3 after he dived overboard to rescue the boy who had fallen from their cabin cruiser in rough water. A search for the boy's body has been resumed.

Murray Twp. Council Delays Approval of Plan to Sell Land

TRENTON — Murray Township council last night passed a motion deferring approval of a plan by which the Stockdale Community Club would sell part of the Stockdale school, the clubhouse to the township area for the board for expansion of the nearby school. The clubhouse, erected some six or seven years ago, is the scene of many community affairs, and council fears there would not be adequate parking for it if it should any of the present land be sold. The school could be expanded in the present area if the board bought adjoin ing farm land.

Fred Hayes, Murray Township gardener, was refused permission to extend his hot houses as the application for a pole of frames to extend almost to the township road.

Council approved a request from the Ontario Department of Transport to use a section of the Wooler Road at the Wooler Road railway subway as a detour for traffic on Highway 2 while the subway on Highway 33 is being enlarged. The DHO has given the township 10 months of hot mix to the road proposed as a detour.

Tenders, as council expects many motorists and truckers will take an alternate route, have been called for the subway Two and using the Second Day Hill road as a detour. The DHO will do some maintenance work on this road.

Tenders close at 5 p.m. sit tenders for the construction of the proposed Stockdale Community Hall the township must be in. Council will probably hold a special meeting to consider the tenders.

Tenders have also been called for the sale of a dump truck with a snow plough attachment and tenders will be received at the office of the clerk for with two wheel drive and a loader attachment for drawing the snow plough.

Present at last night's meeting were Reeve Douglas McFarlane, Deputy Reeve Lloyd Ross, township clerk, Angus Conner, councillors Harry Lafferty and Raymond Williams, assessor Henry McColl, building inspector Sheriff Byers and road superintendent, Clifford Wannamaker. Councillor Leo McAuley who has been in hospital, was absent.

The next township council meeting will be held on Sept. 20.

BOATING SLOWS DOWN

Chilly weather or the prospect of it is keeping boaters at home this summer — or so it would seem from the disappointing number of boats locked through — 100 less than last year at the same time.

However, on the two warm weekends, last year's record total of 1,164 boats may be reached by navigation's closing, Oct. 17.

Airman Freed On Charge Of Prowling

TRENTON — Ghosts? Skeletons? Skulls?

LAC Lawrence Rodney, 20, of RCAF Station Trenton, pleaded not guilty to a charge of prowling at night in magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday in an incident involving a three-storey vacant house at 41 Queen Street, Trenton, the home of the late N. J. McNair.

The charge against Rodney was dismissed and a similar charge against LAC James Wesley George by the Crown.

The court was told by Constable Fred Nokes that after the men had been found on the second storey of the house, he had found a white cardboard covering of a skull, measuring 28 inches by 18 inches. The drawing was entered in evidence.

Constable Douglas Bradshaw told the court "there had been some talk of ghosts" when the men were apprehended.

Magistrate T. Y. Wills ruled the official charge of "prowling at night" contained reference to "rear" a dwelling, not "in".

REMANDED A WEEK

Marco Van Bree, 20, formerly of Nova Scotia, pleaded guilty to four charges of passing worthless cheques, in magistrate's court at Trenton yesterday and was remanded for one week for sentence while his record is checked.

Van Bree was charged with obtaining groceries and giving cheques for $10 each at A and P employees. The other two charges involved $10 cheques to Lange and Fetter Motors.

Van Bree, who had been AWOL from the RCAF at the time, told police he had gone to St. Catharines and "got in with a playing crowd" before trying to make up money for the cheques.

"I'm willing to make restitution," Van Bree told Magistrate T. Y. Wills, "Can I get out on bail?"

"If we arranged this, the air force would pick you in their jail," the magistrate advised him, "is their jail any better than ours?"

Speeding Charge Is Dismissed

TRENTON — A deputy chief constable from Frankford, William Reynolds, was told by Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Trenton court yesterday that radar evidence that a car proceeding in one direction at an estimated speed of 55 miles per hour could not be considered when what the deputy claimed was the same car backtracked to where the police officer lay in wait. The officer had laid down the licence number of the car in question, but could not identify the man he eventually stopped, (William Whaley), as the driver he had followed in the first place. The charge was dismissed.

Lumber Firm's Fire Loss Heavy

TRENTON — Sunday afternoon, Trenton firemen fought a stubborn blaze in a galvanized shed at the rear of the Allore Lumber Company property on Dundas Street, but damage could not be confined to that building as they were forced to return later when the fire flared up again. IN MEMORIAM

GULLIS — In loving memory of our dear son and brother Stephen Stephen Gullis who passed away Sept. 6, 1965.

He left the home he loved the best,
He left the world and went to rest,
God took him home it was His will,
We keep on asking why.

The years may slowly roll onwards,
In the pattern God has planned,
But memories of you will linger on,
And someday we'll understand.

Sadly missed by mother, dad, brother and family.

Pope Paul Will Visit United Nations

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican press office announced today Pope Paul will go to New York to visit the United Nations Oct. 4.

The announcement did not say how long the Pope will spend in New York on the first papal trip to the United States. But the director of the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said he will be there only one day.

The 8,500-mile round trip will be Pope Paul's third major voyage since he opened a new era of papal travel by flying to the Holy Land and then to India last year.

He is expected to go again by air, leaving Rome Sunday, Oct. 3, and spending the next day in New York. Presumably he will fly back overnight to be in Rome Tuesday morning, in this way he will be gone a minimum amount of time while the Vatican ecumenical council is holding its final session.

Chief Coroner Will Be Asked To Explain

TORONTO (CP)—Chief Coroner, Dr. Morton Shulman, will be invited to appear before the Metropolitan Toronto transportation committee Sept. 23 to explain his criticisms of safety features on the Don Valley Parkway.

The decision was announced at a committee meeting Tuesday during which Dr. Shulman was chided for his report made public last Aug. 16.

"He is a good coroner, but certainly not an authority," remarked Etobicoke Reeve John MacBeth.

Dr. Shulman concluded that the parkway, a northeast rapid transit highway through Toronto, lacked many commonsense safety features.

The criticisms were investigated by Samuel Cass, Metro traffic commissioner, and George Crewe, roads engineer. Their reports disputed the coroner's claims.

PREDICTS INCREASE

Japan may more than triple its oil imports from the Soviet Union in the next two or three years, the vice - minister of trade and industry, Shigeru Sahashi told reporters in Tokyo Tuesday. Oil imports are expected to be a major item when the bilateral trade discussions open next month.

REPORT DECREASE

Steel ingot production totalled 187,956 tons in the week ended Sept. 4, down 4.5 per cent from 196,838 tons a week earlier, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported in Ottawa Tuesday. The index of steel production, on a daily production of anything near 100 yards was considered a good day.

BUYS CRUSHED ROCK

Now the county buys its crushed rock and nothing is thought of applying 1,000 yards in a day.

Mr. Langlois said it was not without much thought and considerable regret that he decided to resign as county engineer after 27 years, but he had felt that this was the best step.

He expressed his appreciation for the fine co-operation of county officials and trusted his successor would receive the same courtesy.

The new county engineer will be Peter Anderson, currently assistant engineer with the county, who came to the county two years ago from the Ontario Department of Highways. The necessary by-law for Mr. Anderson's appointment will be before council at the current session.

The county roads and bridges report was read by committee chairman Ernest Kells of Sidney township. It was a busy year for the four pre-stressed concrete beams.

A new bridge is also planned for the village of Stirling, this to provide a 24-foot roadway with a five-foot sidewalk.

The roads committee report said the grading contract for 1.73 miles of the No. 4 development road project south of Frankford was all but completed.

Design work on the second section of the road has been completed and appraisals and negotiations are going ahead for the 60 parcels of land required for road widening.

Design work on 7.2 miles of county road No. 12 north to its intersection with road 20 is being proceeded with. This section of road is to be rebuilt as a development road project.

REPORT HEARD

Also heard during the morning council session were the planning committee report by Thurlow Reeve Clayton Hall and an interim report on child and family welfare by committee chairman Tom Armstrong.

The latter report indicated a low incidence of family breakdown in the county, due mainly to the high general economy. Only 20 children were admitted to care in the county from January to the end of August, ten of these being born to unmarried parents.

The report outlined recent changes in the child welfare act and asked that further consideration be given by the county to making funds available for the establishment of a qualified caseworker in the northern end of the county.

Councillors concurred in a Bruce county resolution asking that the cost of sewage plants be subsidized to the extent of 50 per cent for urban municipalities under 5,000 population.

CONCUR IN RESOLUTION

At the same time, however, members felt the same subsidy should apply for built up areas in rural townships.

Council also concurred in a resolution asking for increased school grants to rural municipalities and in another for the department of education to take steps to bring all private schools up to the standard of public schools.

Finally county weed inspector Harry Coulter reported that the campaign to eradicate barberry and buckthorn was continuing and that increased efforts should be made to control wild carrot.

Larry Langlois Retires As County Engineer After 27 Years' Service

Retiring as Hastings county roads engineer after 27 years on the job, Mr. Larry Langlois today recalled early days with the county and made a few prophecies regarding expected changes in the future.

"There have been tremendous changes (in roads construction and maintenance) in the past 27 years and changes can also be expected for the future", he said.

One of the changes which Mr. Langlois expected was the development of some kind of climate energy which would melt the snow and completely eliminate the necessity for snowplowing.

In the early days the county did its own stone crushing and a day's production of anything near 100 yards was considered a good day.

BUYS CRUSHED ROCK

Now the county buys its crushed rock and nothing is thought of applying 1,000 yards in a day.

Voters in all parts of the city will be given the opportunity at the next municipal election to vote on liquor questions.

In the east end of Belleville taxpayers will vote on liquor and beer retail outlets, while in other parts of the city they will be asked to vote on whether they approve of liquor lounge licenses for hotels.

City council yesterday approved of the vote on the liquor lounge question.

Mayor Jack Ellis said the request had come from 10 hotel owners and although without a signed petition of ratepayers council was not forced to allow the vote but he saw no reason for denying it.

Minister Urges Public Health Unit for City and County

Strong recommendation for a public health unit taking in the city of Belleville and the entire rural area, was made yesterday to city and county council members as they met jointly at the county buildings to give final approval for new hospital construction.

The speaker was Ontario's Health Minister Dr. Matthew Dymond, who said now that the city and the county had joined together to provide new hospital facilities, the same two bodies would join together to form a public health unit for the whole area.

He said the only way to provide adequate public health service was by a public health unit which was eligible for government grants.

"I would like to offer the services of my department to help form a public health unit here," he said.

Dr. Dymond said that there were only seven counties in Ontario that did not have a complete county health unit and the county of Hastings was one of them.

In commending a public health unit for Hastings, Dr. Dymond said he never before had had the opportunity of personally urging such a unit to a county council.

Side advantages of a public health unit, in addition to the service it provided, was that it was eligible for provincial government grants, while a well-operated unit lessened the need for hospital facilities.

Two years ago county council turned down formation of a county health unit, but yesterday at the conclusion of Dr. Dymond's address, Warden Fred Beckett said the matter would again be broached to council.

Council Transfers Many Items Of Business to Next Meeting

City council made short work yesterday of one of the longest agendas to come before them in recent years.

Meeting in special session at city hall following a lunch meeting with county council, city fathers speeded up action by referring much of the night's business to the next meeting, and dealing only with matters demanding immediate attention.

A long list of by-laws, including third reading for a number of sewer construction by-laws, were passed.

Council set a $300 fee per parking space for owners wishing to rebuild in the downtown area and approved the contract for installation of traffic lights at the corner of Coleman and Moira, and Moira, North Front Street intersection.

TENDER ACCEPTED

The tender of Stacey Electric Company in the amount of $6,900 was accepted by council. Work on the installation has already commenced, council was told.

Council also approved of making Sidney Street a through street at Moira Street, making for better driving conditions for big trucks coming off the CNR overhead bridge.

The tender of The Tatham Company Ltd. was accepted in the amount of $130,861.71 for the construction of local improvement sanitary sewers and Park Road sanitary sewers.

ESTIMATE APPROVED

Surface reconstruction for Pinnacle Street from Dundas to Station Street at an estimated cost of $163,430 was approved. The city's share of the project under a highway connecting link proposal is estimated at $49,222.

Underground work preliminary to the surface reconstruction is already underway.

Council appointed a special committee to investigate construction of secondary treatment phase for the city water pollution control plant.

Proposals Too Drastic

Two law enforcement officials, the head of the Ontario Police Commission and a Crown counsel, want the police to have more power.

Crime is increasing in Canada at a greater rate than the population, says R. Percy Milligan, chairman of the Police Commission. "Unless the courts punish the guilty, there is going to be no prevention of crime," he declares. Sounds reasonable. Increased efficiency of crime detection is a much greater influence in reducing crime than in an increase in the severity of sentences, says Bruce Affleck, Crown counsel for the Oshawa area. Sounds eminently reasonable.

But look what these men want the police empowered to do in this fight to detect crime and punish criminals.

Ask citizens for mandatory identity cards and fingerprints.

Tap telephones.

Administer compulsory breath analysis tests.

Allow a wife to testify against her husband.

Let us suppose, for the purpose of argument, that the average citizen is willing to put up with the inconvenience of being detained if he should leave his "person" licence in another suit; that he does not mind police having the right to listen to all his telephone conversations; that he is prepared to submit his sobriety to the judgment of a machine and that he is willing to let his wife testify against him if she wishes to do so.

Even then the law enforcement officials will not be satisfied. For they want the police to be invested with one more power.

That is the right to hold suspects incommunicado.

Reflect on that.

Any person can be suspected of a crime; innocence is certainly no protection.

Therefore, if these proposed changes in the law are made, every person would be subject to detention without the right to communicate with any relative or friend.

If the public will swallow that proposal, in the name of improved law enforcement, then it will swallow anything.

Perhaps, however, two lawyers who opposed these proposals at a discussion before the Canadian Bar Association, Arthur M. Maloney and Joseph B. Pommerant, will find public support for their assertion that increasing police powers in this manner would diminish the liberty we cherish.

Let us hope so.

Otherwise we shall be doomed to live in a police state.

Kashmir Fighting Spreads

Only a few months ago, when India and Pakistan were skirmishing over their disputed frontier regions, the leaders of the two countries, Prime Minister Shastri of India and President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan met at the Commonwealth conference in London. They were photographed together, talking amicably, despite the ominous reports from their homelands.

Now India and Pakistan are involved in a swiftly-escalating conflict stemming from their respective claims to the Himalayan region of Kashmir. As a war between two Commonwealth nations it is unprecedented, and this was clearly the concern of Prime Minister Pearson when he offered to mediate the dispute.

If ignored all efforts — by the Commonwealth countries as well as the United Nations— the fighting spreads, then it is likely to be a bitter conflict because it is also an ideological war. President Ayub claims Indian leaders have never reconciled themselves to the establishment of an independent Pakistan, where Moslems could build a homeland of their own. The population of Pakistan is almost 90 per cent Moslem.

Quite apart from the domestic differences that have brought the two countries into conflict the dangers of involvement of other countries cannot be ignored. For all its size India does not appear to be a strong nation militarily, and if China, for instance, decides to take advantage of the situation there is no knowing where the conflict may end.

Quebec Bravado

Thirty of the 59 traffic deaths in Canada during the holiday weekend occurred in Quebec. By contrast, Ontario had only 11 highway fatalities.

This is not unusual. The Gallic temperament has much to do with the recklessness of Quebec drivers. They drive faster than most and take more risks. They hate to be beaten and they cheat death itself to stay in front. Some unfortunately pay the penalty for such bravado.

Ontario drivers are no angels, but the statistics indicate that it is safer to drive in Ontario than it is in Quebec.

Moreover, there was a big influx of Quebec cars on Ontario highways at the weekend. Heading for Toronto or Highway 401 on Saturday we were passed by at least a dozen Quebec cars and almost sideswiped by one. When you see a car from La Belle Province, watch out!

Defensive Action

The Population Explosion

Christian Science Monitor

Perhaps the outstanding mark of the post-World War II period is the world-wide demand that all men share in the blessings of progress and prosperity. This irresistible demand lies behind the vast upsurge now taking place among formerly lethargic peoples, the rise of scores of new nations, the yearning for education and enlightenment, and the deeper-ate struggle for technological achievement which characterize our times. It also lies behind the growing realization, that, all over the globe, progress and prosperity are jeopardized by another phenomenon of this age — the population explosion.

With this realization there has come the late — but not too late — conviction that practical steps must be taken to combat overpopulation. National governments, social organizations, international aid structures, even the United Nations itself, have been in varying degree the necessity to keep population in line with natural resources.

The last few years have witnessed both a far wider public recognition of the problem and a willingness to take practical steps to meet it.

Foremost among these steps is the dissemination of information on birth control. When done on a voluntary basis such dissemination is worthy of both private and governmental support. It places the decision upon the individual's conscience, where it belongs, and it avoids offending either religious or traditional sensitivities.

It is welcome news that both the United Nations and the United States Government are now prepared to support birth control programs wherever these are requested or instituted by local governments. Indeed, in many areas such programs are a virtual necessity if other aid programs are to achieve their goals.

As individuals and nations strive to achieve a higher standard of living and a higher concept of living, they will recognize more and more clearly that these must have their origin and foundation in a higher sense of family life. And while such a sense has nothing to do with wealth, it is also true that the more rapid rise in population in line with natural resources.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 8th, 1945

Maybe its the rationing system that should have the credit, but for some reason butterscotch and cottage cheese seem to taste better this summer than they have in a long time.

Anyway, lest bellicosity, with just a proper proportion of finely divided curds in it and just the right tang to its flavor, is a beverage well worth renewed acquaintance. The synthetic, which was so widely available a few years back, hasn't the same character. How it was made always was a mystery to us, once we still have no intention of solving. By "synthetic" we mean so-called buttermilk made from milk instead of cream and without the basic production of butter.

Cottage cheese is definitely not cream cheese, as the cottage cheese connoisseur will point out with eloquent emphasis. Cottage cheese — it is also called pot cheese and Dutch cheese — is full of curds and lumps and tasty little chunks. It is sweet, but with a clean-cut flavor.

Bifocals, Tense Muscles Can Affect Balance Sense

By JOSEPH C. HOLMER, M.D.

(This is the second of a series of two articles.)

What do we use to maintain our sense of balance besides the intricate mechanism of the inner ear?

First, the eyes. Shut your eyes as you walk along, and you suddenly realize that although the inner ear tells you whether you are leaning one way or another, you do not have quite as sharp and precise an awareness. Blind persons soon learn to depend on the inner ear for balance, but the rest of us are so accustomed to using our eye for this purpose that we depend on vision without realizing it.

Muscle co-ordination is another. Walking sidewise along a hill, with the eyes shut, you would know. from having one foot higher than the other that you are on a slope. Well, the action of the muscles in much smaller ways also help tell us whether we are upright or leaning.

The amount of muscular force we exert, which is similar but not exactly the same as muscular co-ordination, also contributes to our sense of balance.

Impairment of any of these faculties can interfere to some extent to our sureness of balance even though we do not feel "dizzy."

Cataracts, glaucoma, or any other defect in eyesight affect them balance. Bifocal glasses, with the necessity of shifting the eyes from one focus to another, can make balance a bit more difficult, especially when first used. I suppose that everybody with bifocals knows that it takes a bit of practice to become accustomed to them.

Older folks also lose muscle tone. Both co-ordination and muscular strength decline. And this is another contribution to a sense of balance. Stiffness of hip, knee or ankle, as may be due to arthritis or aging joints, cause us to become much less sure of our balance.

Hardening of the arteries and limitation of circulation can introduce some degree of tenseness and rigidity in muscle movements. Add everything together and you see why loss of balance becomes one of the frailties of growing older.

Some of these factors have no adequate answer. Others do. They are more severe in some people than in others. But here are certain things to remember to keep the problem at a minimum:

Be sure your glasses correct your vision to the best degree possible. The sharper your eyesight, the better your balance. And be sure there is adequate lighting. You want to see.

Be familiar with your surroundings. A strange stairway or strange hall or house take a bit of getting used to. Your own stairs at home, well known to you, are easier to climb or descend because you "feel" the proper distance for each step.

Use a cane. The value of a simple walking stick is too frequently underestimated.

Don't have throw rugs or other such floor coverings that can trip you. (And watch out for flopping slippers.)

Grab bars beside the bathtub and in other strategic spots are a blessing, and prevent many a nasty fall.

These simple things, while they won't give us back the sense of balance we had when we were young, can still do a lot to make life more secure and comfortable.

No, not at any age. However, if certain types of heart disease develop from other causes, restriction of salt may be necessary.

French, U.S. Women Contrasted

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

In a little talk I gave last week called "Are Women People?" I contrasted the American woman and the French woman — and not to the favor of the former.

Since then one of the ladies in the audience has sent me a faded clipping from the magazine Elle, published in Paris, in which a French woman, Josephine Le Blanc, married to an American and living in Connecticut, makes a similar comparison.

Mlle. Le Blanc (now Mrs. John Fregel) was a native of Laon, France, who moved to Bridgeport, Conn., an industrial town of about the same social background. Here is her scoreboard of the differences between women here and there:

The French girl wants to please one man; the American girl wants to be admired by all men.

The French girl likes people to admire her salon; the American girl likes people to admire her bathroom.

The French girl treats her children as children; the American girl treats her children as her equals (and often as better than the husband).

The French girl doesn't like to change her residence; the American girl is constantly on the move for a "better" place.

The French girl respects the opinions of her husband, and usually accepts them; the American girl often contradicts her husband in public, and ignores him in private.

The French girl likes her husband to help her select clothes; the American girl doesn't believe a big in her husband's taste.

The French girl loves the big double bed; the American girl prefers single beds.

The French girl likes to give her clothes a personal, elegant touch; the American girl likes the American girl likes to dress the same as everybody else, especially the wife of the richest neighbor.

The French girl has little or no interest in public affairs; the American girl belongs to women's clubs and organizations.

The French girl thinks that American movies are unrealistic; the American girl swallows American movies whole.

Letter to the Editor

Beaumont Story Sparks Memories

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

Your feature story in 1st Tuesday's paper about Captain Beaumont, certainly brought back many memories of happy trips aboard his Discovery. He it prompted me to dig out the old photograph album and view the pictures aboard the yacht. He is a grand old man and has given many happy hours to the youth of Victoria.

One part of the story was overlooked however. He took out many girls' groups also, I was fortunate enough to be included in one of these groups and we had many adventures on our trips. I recall one time when the engine broke down and we took shelter in a cove on one of the islands, and it took the Captain and his helper about 5 hours to get it going. We arrived back at the Yacht Club around midnight, and were greeted by hordes of anxious parents. Of course, we all thought it was a lark.

Mary E. McKenzie,

Flags Droop

Hamilton Spectator

Many of the Canadian flags in southern Ontario are a disgrace.

Some are dirty, others are the wrong shade of red. Still others have been washed or rained on and the color has run so that the white square has been changed to a sickly pink or grisly orange.

Not altogether a very prideful display, particularly for a nation that created such a furore over getting a new flag.

Welfare Lack

Kingston Whig - Standard

On the basis of its national attitudes towards such social welfare needs as housing and universal medical care Canada reveals itself as a reactionary, snobbish and backward country. In Canada as little as possible is done, on the basis of charity, for those who are without any resources; nothing at all practically speaking, is done to integrate the old and those with lower incomes into the mainstream of social life.

Northland Development

La Presse Montreal

Northern Affairs Minister Laing was bowled over last May and June by what he saw of the industrial development of the Soviet Union's vast Siberian holdings. Meanime, our own Arctic areas remain what members of Parliament John Turner so rightly called them — "Canada's great enigma."

Do we want to concentrate on developing the minerals of the northland or, like the Soviet, build within the Arctic Circle cities teeming with busy people? The population of Canada is only one-tenth that of the Soviet Union, which makes such an expansion program far less urgent here, there is no one major consideration that hardly bothered the Soviet authorities at all, they decided to industrialize their immense northern territories. That consideration is, that "Can man be happy living up there?"

Even if the workers established in Siberia are treated with all the care lavished on precious gold, even if they are offered all the comforts possible to help them withstand the isolation involved, the cold weather, the endless winter nights, one cannot forget the many thousands of forced laborers who, at the price of their lives, established all these northern developments in the first place. Is our own lethargy thus can be explained and to some extent excused by reference to the fundamental difference between the Soviet and Canadian philosophies of life. But nevertheless we think it's high time for finding the best means possible of developing the some of this immeasurable expanse that constitutes two-thirds of Canada and doubtless conxains very considerable riches.

But where are the pioneers, the adventurers, the builders, the men who can function in the fashion of the old-time frontiersmen? . . . While a taste for the new and the strange takes hundreds of young Canadians overseas for work in underdeveloped countries, one wonders if a similar number would be inclined to give some years of their lives to development work in the north.

Dentists in Short Supply

Vancouver Sun

Money isn't as good as health, but it is assumed that those with money can at least afford the best in health care. So one would think a country as prosperous as ours would be well-equipped to deal with such an important aspect of health as teeth.

Just how far this is from the truth has been revealed by a brief brief for the Health Research Commission on Health Services. The work of Dr. Bruce Archibald, Carleton University, is, it shows that Canada has one dentist for every 3,106 persons. This contrast, with a ratio of one to 1,500 in Sweden, one to 1,900 in the United States and one to 3,000 in France.

As the Toronto Star comments, "If Canadian people were ever gathered in one place for a gigantic Centennial picture, the photographer would be unwise to give the traditional command "Smile, please."

The story of dental neglect in Canada goes back a long way. Dr. Archibald points out that while the population increased five million, there wasn't a single new dental graduate in Canada. B.C. survived only on the charity of dental schools in Washington, Oregon and Ontario.

Dr. John Macdonald, now UBC president, made the case for a study here back in 1956 and he warned then that a dental school was imperative. But Victoria delayed so long that when funds proved inadequate when contracting bids for the dental school were opened this year. Enrolment when the dental building opens next year will only be 20 students instead of 40 planned for.

One of the reasons the Europeans do so well in comparison is that they tap the obvious source of talent: women. Half of Sweden's dentists are women and women dentists are in the majority in Russia.

In B.C. there are few women in dentistry by proportion to the population of Canada. The B.C. Dental Association has made the plea many times. The problem remains: Where are the girls?

Today in History

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sept. 8, 1964 . . .

Harvard University was founded 329 years ago today—in 1636—when the colony of Massachusetts voted to set up a college to look its name in 1639 from a local Puritan minister who had bequeathed his library and half his fortune to the new college the year before. The first class graduated in 1642 and Harvard's history has been inextricably linked then. The second building of the college, put up in 1682, was for the education of Indians and an Indian translation of the Bible is thought to have been printed there in about 1661.

1760 — Montreal passed from French to British control.

1920 — First transcontinental U.S. airmail service began.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1915—London was attacked by German dirigibles which penetrated to the heart of the city; fires started by bombs were put out but the feebleness of air raid defences made a lasting impression.

Will Sell County Home Farm; May Then Enlarge Manor, Build New Home in North

Faced by "badly overcrowded" conditions at Hastings County Manor, members of Hastings county council yesterday authorized its county home committee to commence negotiations with the city of Belleville and the Ontario Department of Welfare with the view of enlarging its present home or of building a new home in the northern part of the county.

The council motion authorized consideration either of the above possibilities or a combination of both, which could see an addition to the present home as well as a new building to serve the northern part of the county.

At the same time councillors decided that the county should not be in the farming business and voted to sell 110 acres of the present county home farm at an offered price of approximately $1,000 per acre.

The money from the sale of the farm lands would go toward financing expansion of county home facilities.

WOULD PROVIDE SUBSIDY

Discussion on the county home question took up a large share of the Tuesday afternoon session attended by Mr. Noble Drew, director for the home for the aged branch of the Ontario Department of Welfare.

Mr. Drew said that Hastings Manor was "badly overcrowded" and that his department would provide a 50 per cent subsidy for either expansion of present facilities or building a new home or "both" if this action were deemed advisable.

Under the suggested proposal the city of Belleville would be given the opportunity of participating in expansion plans for the county home. However, agreement the city is entitled to two sevenths of room accommodation at the home or. The agreement with the city is for another 5 years with the city having the option of renewing the agreement for a further ten years.

Home committee chairman Goldie McInroy said there are 212 residents registered at the manor with 56 being from the city.

ACCEPT TATHAM OFFER

The council was told there are 16 more residents in the home than for which accommodation had been planned and areas now used to accommodate the overcrowding would have to be returned to original use with the construction of a new addition or a second home.

During the council sparring session an offer to purchase the county home farm was made by local contractor William Tatham.

No action was taken on the offer at the time, the matter being referred to the county home committee for consideration and recommendation.

Yesterday council debated whether to accept the Tatham offer of $1,000 per acre and to call tenders for the sale of the county farm. The decision was to accept the Tatham offer.

REVENUE TO COUNTY

Earlier Mr. Drew told council that all funds derived from the sale of the county farm would go to the cost of providing these were used for expansion of county home facilities.

Fifteen years ago the Ontario government had assisted in the cost of the farm purchase but this money was being considered in the nature of a grant.

Mr. Drew paid tribute to Clarke T. Rollins, MLA for Hastings East, for his influence on the government to allow the county to retain all funds from the farm sale.

He said that an addition to the present county home would cost in the neighborhood of $5,000 per bed with construction charge of handling another 50 beds.

A new home of 100 beds in the northern part of the county could cost up to $800,000. Of this the country's share would be $400,000. Many counties in the province were now considering construction of a second county home, he said.

hospital and $363,640 for the boiler house which is already built and in operation.

Added to this is architects' and consultants' fees amounting to a total of $637,003 for a total construction cost of $8,11-554.

Added to this will be furnishings and equipment estimated to cost $443,000; field supervision, $32,000 miscellaneous costs (already partly expended) of $39,000 and $25,-000 set aside for contingencies for a grand total of $9,057,554.

Offsetting this is $2,836,327 to be received by way of government grants; an estimated $200,000 from private subscriptions; $293,656 forgiveness fees; $2,646,667 from the hospital assistance program and $300,-000 provided by the hospital, leaving an amount of $5,072,-571 to be financed.

The hospital will receive a loan of $1,500,000 from the Ontario Hospital Services Commission and another of $880,969 through a municipal works assistance debenture issue. The $2,646,667 will be raised by general debenture issue.

Capital costs of the hospital construction are shared 65 per cent by the city and 35 per cent by the county.

Hospital board building committee chairman John Burden has said the completion date for the main hospital was 95 weeks from the start of construction with the completion date for the entire project 130 weeks.

There is a penalty clause in the contract but there will be a holdback until completion and architects' approval.

In welcoming members of city council for the joint meeting at the county council chambers Warden Fred Beckett said the occasion was an interesting one which had not occurred before in Ontario. He said he hoped the joint session would result in a way to ever better county-city relations.

The county and the city have always been ready to sit down to amicable discussions," the said said "Joint ownership of the hospital is but one example of the good relations."

HISTORIC OCCASION

Mayor Jack Ellis said the joint meeting of two council bodies was of historic significance which he hoped would be the forerunner of other such meetings in the future.

He said he had long been a personal advocate of an area or regional type of government although he had been informed by the warden that members of county council were not particularly keen on the idea.

"Gentlemen, I bow to your wishes," the mayor said, but he added it behooved residents of both the city and the county to join together for the common good of all citizens."

He said a case in point was the city county high school board which, he claimed to be one of the best in Ontario, while another is the proposed new central jail.

"These and many other fields of common interests must be pursued," the mayor said. "In some, such as in planning, the city must give leadership. In others we look for ward, and expect, leadership from you gentlemen of Hastings county."

YEARS OF EFFORT

Mayor Ellis said the recommendations being presented in connection with the hospital were the culmination of many years of effort by many people and said he was certain that city council would want him to acknowledge particularly the part played by former Mayor A. M. Haig, now chairman of the hospital board of governors; the various past wardens of the county and members of the joint city-county hospital committee.

Sitting in on the joint county-council session was Hon. Matthew Dymond, Ontario Minister of Health, who said this was the first time he had had the privilege of sitting in county council.

He said the joint session of Belleville and Hastings county councils was a "unique occasion" which could be the forerunner of other such meetings leading to regional government.

"But more of that later," he said.

COMMENDS BOARD

The Ontario Health Minister commended members of the hospital board for their planning in connection with the new hospital addition.

He said the success of the hospital movement in Ontario could be greatly attributed to the hard work of board members who served without pay.

The Minister also referred to the "fine spirit of co-operation" between the county and the city. He said yesterday's meeting was the culmination of considered planning by all three bodies.

Noting that hospital plans called for a total of 443 beds, Dr. Dymond said he hoped that this would be the maximum for the building. "It is my personal belief that a hospital should not go beyond 600 beds," he said. "Beyond that figure a hospital becomes an institution and loses all personal touch."

Hospitals, he said, were supposed to be built to provide good care for those who need it.

TIMING GOOD

At the same time, he said that an eight million dollar hospital was a big undertaking and noted that it was fortunate it project had been carried on to this time so that advantage could be taken of recently announced increases in capital grants from the provincial government.

The new interest loan (three per cent) was also now available to cover part of the cost of hospital construction.

He was glad that the county and city had joined hands to look after the health needs of all their people and said this was a trend throughout the province. County councils are over are making grants for hospitals, he said.

Returning again to the topic of regional government, Dr. Dymond said he felt that such a move will have to come.

Community problems were becoming -ao great that they can be only solved satisfactorily by action on a regional basis, he claimed.

Clarke T. Rollins, MLA for Hastings East, introduced Dr. Dymond on behalf of W. E. Sanderson, MLA for Hastings West, who is ill, while appreciation was expressed by Mayor Ellis.

12 Killed

mso had been at work in the caisson.

The caisson is a cement box from which hollow pipes, 12 feet in diameter, are sunk into the bed of the river to form the foundations for the bridge's piers.

The company said the missing men were believed to have been working within the hollow pipes at some 40 pounds of air pressure. The pipes were 85 feet below the surface of the river and some 200 feet from the shore.

Company officials said the explosion apparently took place within the pipes and that those who escaped were working in the caisson or above water and outside the pipes.

The men in the caisson were wearing life jackets and were thrown out by the force of the blast, heard for miles around. The explosion shook this city mid-way between Montreal and Quebec.

Only one body was recovered Tuesday, that of a man who was killed when he fell into the caisson. He has been identified as Gilles Arvisais, 28, of nearby Ste. Clarmel.

There was no indication of the cause of the explosion.

The area of the disaster was sealed off to make search and rescue operations easier.

The company said the men working within the pipes had air for only half an hour and that it was for this reason that they were presumed dead.

The blast went off shortly after 4 p.m. EDT. Eyewitnesses said its force thrust men and material out of the caisson and into the air. They were reacted from the river by crusing boats. Two hospitals in the area rushed ambulances to the scene.

TURK GOES HOME

He made headlines in a 10-month stay at Toronto's St. Joseph's Hospital despite legal battles to evict him.

No Poisonous Reptiles In Area Says Speaker

There are no poisonous reptiles in the Belleville area.

Tom Stovell, a technician at the Research Institute for Biological Control, revealed this at the regular weekly meeting of the Belleville Kiwanis Club yesterday.

"Reptiles are cold blooded animals," he said. "By that I mean their temperature is just above the surrounding environment.

"By hibernating they can take off the whole strain of life and come back refreshed." Then he added jokingly, "They've got something over humans there. Just think of the possibilities, if we could hibernate when things get rough. We'd sure live longer."

Mr. Stovell, who has lived in Belleville for 20 years, is well known for his work as the Chartered President of the Association for Retarded Children.

He is a recognized expert on biological research.

"Most of our general knowledge in this area came from folklore," he said. "Cults of worship down through the years have endowed reptiles with certain powers.

"In this country there are many stories about their power that are incorrect. For example, some people believe that milk snakes actually milk cows. Well in the words of the punters, that is "rubbit" nonsense."

NO BAYTLERS IN AREA

Mr. Stovell pointed out 'that a four-foot milk snake, the biggest snakes in this area, can only produce a small scratch on a person.

"In Ontario there are 12 varieties of snakes, three turtles and one lizard. In the Belleville area, we have eight of the snakes, five turtles and the one kind of lizard.

"There is one rattlesnake in Ontario, the Minesauga, which can be poisonous but instances of deaths resulting from its sit? are almost negligible.

"But there are none in this area anyway. If farmers would leave the milk snakes alone and Executive Club.

not kill them off, they'd be better off because those snakes do not harm and they get rid of a lot of pests."

Mr. Stovell said, "Most reptiles become used to you if you feed them a bit. This is the principal that snake charmers work on.

"Snakes have no ears. Their tongues are sensory, which means they can sense odors.

"Only poisonous snakes have fangs. Rattlers have reserve fangs. Their teeth fold up in the mouth under a sheet of skin and drop down into the victim. They may have as many as six reserve sets of teeth.

CAN EXPAND HEAD

"All other snakes have four rows of teeth, a double on the top and a single row on the bottom of their mouths. They can expand their mouths considerably, some of them up to 10 times the size.

"Snakes use the top row of teeth when they're eating it to grab the prey. The bottom teeth hold it in place, while the throat muscles pull it rows to shunt the food in. It takes a long time."

Mr. Stovell told the Kiwanians not to sell snapping turtles short. "Snappers are ferocious. They can snap your finger right off.

"Turtles will grow bigger and live longer than any other reptiles in captivity."

Hiking Club Formed After 50-mile Jaunt

By DON ANGUS

HALIFAX (CP) — Some started out bouncing along on rubber-soled running shoes and came home stepping gingerly on blistered feet. Others didn't finish at all.

But a 30-mile hike undertaken by 15 teen-agers and two chaperones this summer has been pronounced a success and may have long-term effects.

Wilfred Allan, youth program secretary for the Halifax YMCA, says the hike was inspired by the physical fitness campaign of the late president Kennedy.

It started out mostly as a lark but its success led Keith Stickings, a young physics teacher, to begin laying the groundwork for a hiking association.

The club hasn't taken its first official step but has attracted considerable support from teen-agers.

Although there is no regular hiking group in this area, hiking is part of summer youth camp groups. The Y has such groups of young people on canoe-and - portage excursions through Nova Scotia's hinterland.

A graduate of George William University in Chicago with a bachelor of science degree in group work, Mr. Allan is a native of Yarmouth, N.S. who was "always a bug on camping ever since I was a kid."

From June 30 to July 8 he took a group of 13 young people on a six-day camping and hiking expedition in the Tackerman Ravine area of New Hampshire's White Mountains.

THREE WERE GIRLS

He says there is no particular kind of individual who is attracted to hiking or the outdoor life and offers the 50-mile hike in early August as a case in point.

Thirteen teen-agers, including three girls, showed up at the Y for the start of the marathon walk. One boy, he says, "was the epitome of the lazy teen-ager" and other participants included a ballet dancer, a "math genius" and a "couple of physical education nuts."

But for the most part the hikers were not the kind of people one might expect to be interested in such a project.

Mr. Allan says he can't explain why they responded to the challenge except perhaps that some were becoming "bored with riding around in cars."

The first day the hikers marched 25 miles southwest of Halifax to picturesque Peggy's Cove and camped overnight.

The kids felt pretty tired after first day but even then some of them walked an additional mile or more down to see the cove."

The next morning, after losing five members who hitchhiked home, the remaining hikers set out through the woods and circled the remaining 25 miles back to Halifax.

Your Car

Batteries Feel Heat In Summer

By EUGENE S. MILMOE

Every year — especially in late summer — many car owners discover that battery trouble isn't just a winter malady. During hot weather months, the combination of high temperatures and greater car use makes the battery run hotter and more thirsty than usual and water usually must be added at more frequent intervals.

When this is neglected, battery troubles are on the way. Of course it's abnormal if additional battery water is required every week or so, and you should ask your service station to check it out.

The greater charge may be over strong, and is usually due to a badly adjusted regulator. Overcharging can also result if the wrong type of regulator is installed, if there is a generator short, if contact points in the regulator are dirty or if there is a poor ground in the charging circuit.

In some cases, only one battery cell seems to require frequent water-filling. This is not due to excessive charge but is indicative of a battery leak.

From G. A.: "With the automatic transmission in Drive, and my foot on the brake pedal, the transmission is noisy. This has just developed and I checked the transmission fluid, but it is more than ample. In fact, it was just filled."

Too much fluid can cause this and many other troubles as well.

H. McG. writes: "Since a recent tune-up, my engine now idles smoothly, accelerates with more pep, and gas mileage is better too. But something new has now developed — the engine misses at high speed."

Have the spark plugs rechecked. If the gap settings are too wide, high speed miss will result.

R. I. asks: "I like to keep tires a few pounds lower than standard in order to get a softer ride, which is more comfortable for my riding wife. Is it true that this will really eat up gas?"

It can waste as much as a gallon per tankful, and also shorten tire life.

From E. T.: "If pressure cap, radiator, water pump, fan belt and hoses are O.K., why would the cooling system lose water at highway speeds. It does not happen when the car is just used around town."

It could be due to a slight head gasket leak when higher speeds build up pressure.

United States Called Nation Of Illiterates in Economics

New techniques are being used in a growing number of U.S. schools. The following first of three articles on the revolution in the 3 Rs outlines a concept for teaching economics to children.

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP Education Writer

ELKHART, Ind. (AP)—The United States is a world show case of economic power—with a populace that knows appallingly little about what makes it tick.

"Ours is a nation of economic illiterates," says Dr. Lawrence Senesh, professor of economics education at Purdue University. "Few people have any real conception of how the free enterprise system works."

This isn't a new charge. Economists have been saying the same thing for years. But Senesh not only says it, he's doing something about it. His work is part of a movement which is reshaping teaching techniques in U.S. education.

Here in Elkhart, a Senesh-designed program of economics has been introduced into the first, second, and third grades in the public schools. Each year new and more difficult material will be added as the children progress through school.

As ninth graders, they will be studying national and international agricultural problems. In the twelfth grade, they will take up problems of economic stability.

Senesh defines economics as "a study of how man organizes his existence to satisfy his needs." And, he says, "every single big idea in economics can be related directly to the everyday life of the child at every grade level, right down to the first grade. And that includes the deprived child in the slums."

COMPLEX SUBJECTS

This is something you have to see to believe. In the Elkhart classrooms you believe it as you listen to youngsters discuss income, scarcity, supply and demand, and the division of labor.

The first graders in Mrs. Frances Tuerff's classroom at Mary L. Daly School were discussing going into business.

"You have to go to a bank and borrow money. . . . You have to promise to pay it back, with a little more. . . . That's interest, Mrs. Tuerff explained, "and you have to pay interest so the bank can pay you interest when you save money there. . . ."

In Mrs. Gerald Cummin's second-grade room, they were talking about buying and selling houses.

"The more houses for sale in a neighborhood, the lower the price. . . . The more people who want to buy a house, the higher the price. . . . We're moving to a bigger house because Mom's been working, and she says she wants a bigger place. . . . Sometimes you sell a house because yous dad gets a new job somewhere. . . ."

The same basic concepts are presented each year, but each year they are seen from a different approach, and with greater depth and complexity.

Two things should be emphasized:

The economics course for the primary grades is not an abstruse program of complex theories being stuffed down the throats of children who aren't ready for it. Everything in it is based on the children's own experiences and they are perfectly at ease with it.

It doesn't displace the traditional classroom subject matter and it doesn't weaken the traditional emphasis on reading, writing and arithmetic. It serves as the social studies course and it is co-ordinated with art, science, English, arithmetic and music.

BECOMING OBSOLETE

"The traditional high school course in economics will some day be obsolete," says Joseph Resuf, co-ordinator of the Elkhart program.

"Today's children come to the first grade knowing more about economics than you or I can think. They know about the division of labor—they've seen it at home. They know that Dad, and sometimes Mother, go to work, and get money for whatever it is they do.

"They know that money buys things, and there are some things you can't buy because you don't have enough money. And they know if they spend that dime they have for cookies today, they can't spend it for a soft drink tomorrow."

Only a handful of the largest U.S. school systems have required high school course in economics—and usually for only one semester.

Economists are the first to acknowledge that the traditional high school course, even where it's offered, is dull, and taught from textbooks which often aren't very good.

The new program, based on children's experiences in the

India

state and captured the city of Gadra.

Military experts said the Indian Army could be heading for the important Pakistani centre of Hyderabad, and then for Karachi, a city of more than 2,000,000.

Gadra is 200 air miles from Karachi, on the main road through Hyderabad.

India began its invasion of Pakistan Monday when it launched a three-pronged attack in the Lahore - Amritsar area 100 miles northeast of the new invasion route.

BY LAND, AIR, SEA

Both sides reported a new series of military actions on the ground, in the air, and for the first time at sea, as United Nations Secretary - General U Thant held urgent talks with British officials in London before speeding to the sub-continent on a peace mission.

India announced the first bombing raid by Pakistani planes on the Indian capital of New Delhi, but said there was no damage. Radio Pakistan called the report "complete lies."

An official spokesman in New Delhi said the new threat into West Pakistan was in reprisal for naval bombardment of the Indian port of Dwarka, on the Arabian Sea coast about 240 miles from Karachi. This aroused speculation that Karachi was the Indian target since it is the headquarters of the Pakistani Navy.

An Indian communique said the new move across the border was to "forestall a Pakistani attack."

It said the naval attack on Dwarka caused "no damage of military significance" and that "damage to civilian life and property is being assessed."

SAYS HIT RADAR

However, Radio Pakistan claimed the naval shelling destroyed military and radar installations at a base at Dwarka from which it said air attacks on Karachi were being made.

The broadcast added that Indian Air Force planes attacked the Pakistani Navy ships and the naval guns shot down some of the planes. It said the Pakistani ships suffered no losses.

India's other invasion drive, in the Lahore-Amritsar area, "continued to make progress", despite Pakistani counter - attacks which were "being repulsed with hefty losses to the Pakistanis," the Indian announcement claimed.

Again there was a conflicting report from the Pakistani side. A spokesman in Rawalpindi, capital of Pakistan, said the Indian offensive has been bogged down for the last 24 hours.

However, a Pakistani government spokesman admitted that Indian paratroopers had dropped on Pakistani territory between Lahore and Wazirabad, 120 to 180 miles east of Rawalpindi.

The number dropped and other details were not announced.

The spokesman said they are being "taken care of."

CLAIM ADVANCE

In the extreme north, in Kashmir state, India claimed its troops advanced five miles in the Poonch area, in the west central sector of the now-shattered United Nations ceasefire line.

An Indian government broadcast reported heavy mauling of Pakistani troops in the northern sector of East Pakistan, on the other side of the subcontinent.

Air raid sirens sounded at 2:45 a.m. in New Delhi and wailed for 10 minutes, but officials said the Indian Air Force had repelled an air attack on the capital. A defence ministry spokesman said one Pakistani plane, an American-made C-130 transport, went down in flames near New Delhi's Palam International Airport.

New Delhi had expected a raid in reprisal for an Indian air raid Tuesday against the airport at Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital.

The defence ministry spokesman said Pakistani planes made two strikes against Halwara airport in India's Punjab state and dropped paratroops. There was speculation that paratroops had been dropped by the downed C-130 near New Delhi, but the spokesman said it was not believed any landings were made.

India said its planes raided more "military and military objectives" in West Pakistan, including the Sargodha air base over, which a battle was reported Tuesday.

BOMBERS ATTACK.

Radio Pakistan said 20 Indian B-57 bombers attacked Sargodha air base in West Pakistan "early today, but were beaten off by Pakistani interceptors. It said the base "was not damaged" and no Pakistani aircraft were lost.

Ann Landers

True Friendship Needs No Tokens to Seal It

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My problem is out of the ordinary. Please come up with some badly needed advice.

Our only child is nine years old. A few days ago Molly received a note and two dimes from a little boy who is a classmate of hers. The note said, "Dear Molly, I want to be your boy friend. Here is 20c. Please go out and buy yourself a present. It will mean you are my sweetheart.

A friend who happened to be here thought it was the cutest thing she ever heard of. I feel differently. In my opinion, if this isn't handled wisely it could be very damaging to our daughter and to the little boy as well. What should be done about it? — B.B. OF PEORIA.

DEAR B.B.: Molly should return the 20c. Explain to her so that she can explain to the little boy, that they are too young to be sweethearts but that she would like him for a friend — and friends don't need to give each other gifts or money to seal the friendship.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS — I'm a high school junior who is confused about love and sex. How can a person tell the difference?

I am going steady with a guy my parents don't like very much. My dad says Ron will never amount to anything. Maybe he won't but I don't care. He's the only fellow who ever gave me a thrill. In other words Ron turns me on.

It's getting harder and harder to keep from going all the way. Ron says if two people love each other it's O.K. I think he's right, but the big question is how can I tell if it's really love or just plain sex? Please help me, Ann. I'm — BETWEEN HEAVEN AND HELL.

DEAR BETWEEN — Sex is the instinctive response to a biological urge. It is one set of glands calling to another. Sex is like a sneeze — it is a physical release with no emotional investment.

Love is a combination of respect, admiration and the desire to give and to please. Love is developmental. It must take root and grow — one day at a time. Love contains the magic element of physical excitement but this feeling comes with discovering and appreciating the other qualities. The perfect love experience is communication in its most complete and selfless form. It is worth saving for that very special person. So wait. You'll be glad you did.

DEAR ANN LANDERS — My dear friend who is in her late 30's lost her husband six months ago.

There are two men on our social circle and either one would be perfect for Marge. One is a bachelor and the other is a widower. I'd love to fix up with one or both of these men but it would be awkward because they already know her.

How can I couple her off without making it appear that I am trying to arrange something? — GOOD FRIEND

DEAR GOOD — The question you are asking is how can you fix up your friend without appearing to be fixing her up? The answer is you can't.

These men are aware that Marge is a widow. If they are interested they'll move on their own. The sure way to spoil it all is to try to do Cupid's work.

If you want to be really helpful introduce her to NEW faces.

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits — the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding "succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Petting or Sex. Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

RICH BEEF STEW

Readers and grandchildren are influencing my cooking.

Twenty-one-month-old Douglas likes beef stew. Random letters have been arriving asking me how to make it properly. Pete and Margaret are moving in to their new home and I wanted to send their first dinner with them all ready to reheat. Beef Stew meets all of the requirements.

Italian Meat Sauce on Spaghetti; Sliced Cucumbers and Radish Roses; Sesame Rolls or Italian Bread Slices; Sliced Peaches and Cream; Dream Bars; Tea.

RICH BEEF STEW
(to serve 6 or 7)

3 lbs. shin or shank beef (one bone) cut in ½ cup flour, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon pepper; ½ cup fat or drippings or butter, 2 beef bouillon cubes, 5 cups hot water, 12 or 14 2½" whole onions, preferably white, 10 or 21 1¼" whole scraped new potatoes, 18 to 21 carrots, 1" diameter, 1½" long, quartered.

If possible ask the butcher to cut the shin or shank beef into about 2" pieces. Shin or shank beef is relatively lean, and its muscle are cartilage are ideal of stewing purposes. In a strong paper bag combine the flour, salt, paprika and pepper. Shake the pieces of meat in this dry flour mixture to dredge them on all sides. Try to use all of the flour mixture. In a large heavy pot melt the fat and brown the meat on all sides in it, over high heat, stirring. Add the hot water and bouillon cubes, bring to boiling, cover, reduce heat to simmer and cook for 4 hours. Be sure heat is really low to prevent sticking. Three-quarters hour before serving time add the whole potatoes and halved carrots. Cook until simmer gently until vegetables are tender. Taste broth to see if it is salty enough for your taste. If not add some salt.

Douglas loved this stew, as we all did and half of it went to their new home for the following day's dinner.

I served this with a Tossed Green Salad that seemed to be the perfect accompaniment: to serve 6 or 7 cut a medium-large head leeberg lettuce into bite-size pieces with silver or stainless steel knife. Add half- of a pared cucumber, chopped. 1 cup capped celery and ½ cup sliced radishes. Moisten with ½ to ½ cup herb dairy sour cream, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoons lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon accent, ½ teapoon garlic salt and toss just enough to moisten greens.

Wives of Drivers Have Great Deal in Common

BOWMANVILLE, Ont., (CP) — While their husbands are zooming around nearby Mosport track, three Toronto women spend their time in the pits checking cars or holding out message boards.

Beattie Gray, 31, Jeanne Hill, 28, and Brigitte Heinrath, 29, say they love it.

Although their husbands compete against each other in the various sports car events, all three wives have a great deal in common. They each have red hair, two children and love for the races.

They arrive at Mosport park each Friday night and sleep in tents prior to the start of Saturday's races. Some the crowd, they are in the pits with stopwatch in hand, watching their husbands warm up their cars.

This early morning routine usually means "no room for the children" who spend the weekend with relatives.

"The race track is no place to bring children," Jeanne Hill explains. "It's dangerous and there's no place to give them proper meals and naps."

Mrs. Hill says her two children — four years old and 16 months, can come to the track when they are 16 and "can be left in the car."

Mrs. Heimrath concurs with Mrs. Hill and leaves her six-year-old son at home. Four-year-old son at home on race days.

Mrs. Gray also leaves her children, Allison, 6, and Nicole, 4, at home, but on occasion "I let them come to watch their father."

When the children do come to the track, they sleep in a tent near the cars. Mrs. Gray feeds the children, gets them into bed, then slips down to the track to time her husband during his warm-up laps.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

At the sit-up stage you'll find your baby will delight in a change of scene from playpen or nursery. After all, there's a lot of new sightseeing to do from a sitting position. So why not treat your sweet to a special seating arrangement occasionally? In the living room, say, while you're tidying up. A car seat, attached to the davenport or big chair is great for getting from "on high". If you don't have a car seat a stroller or swing seat will do nicely.

Golden opportunity to brighten up a baby menu: one big, happy serving of Gerber Strained Egg Yolks. There's a dish to tune up a baby's taste bud or two. A creamy, custard-like texture, coupled with a delicate fresh-egg flavour, makes every spoonful call for a second. They are an excellent source of iron and vitamin A, and also a good source of protein.

Gerber Egg Yolks are delightful served plain, extra appealing when used as a topping for cereal or vegetables. For older tots and toddlers Gerber Egg Yolks make a fine base for a cooling eggnog drink.

Playpen pointer. Sit up babies use their playpens as a safe, cozy way to help baby improve manual dexterity and keep him quietly amused: attach a shoe bag to the inside of his playpen. Stuff pockets with small toys and let him play put-in and take-out to his heart's content and his hands' delight.

Mother saver. Alternating standing and sitting chores and changing shoes once a day will reduce fatigue considerably.

Four savoury ways to give your baby body-building protein and significant amounts of iron and B-vitamins: try talking about Gerber Strained Meats . . . wonderfully smooth and moist and brimming with true-meat flavour. Made from selected, government-inspected cuts, they're low in fat and ever so easy to digest. The succulent choices: Beef, Veal, Chicken and the new Chicken-Veal combination . . . all designed to delight your baby. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Irene Parsons Is New Breed Of Executives in White House

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

WASHINGTON (AP)—Through the ages when kings sometimes trap-strewn, jungle of federal bureaucracy, a slim, bright-looking woman named Irene Parsons moves with the unfoolishness of one who knows where she's going.

At this point she has reached the loftiest personnel post in the U.S. government ever held by a woman—the $22,000-a-year job of assistant administrator for personnel of the Veterans Administration.

Luckily for the 270,000 employees under her supervision, Irene Parsons couldn't act the formidable Miss Anne-with hat, gloves and stiletto for genteel back-stabbings—if her pension depended on it.

She is, rather, one of the new breed of women executives that President Johnson seems to like best to lure into government's higher circles:

They're attractive and feminine without flaunting sex, decisive without being dictatorial, intelligent without being aloof, intellectual pretensions and instinct. Rarely consorting of others with-out thinking of it as an instrument of policy. Their secretaries like working for them, and so do their male colleagues.

MEN CO-OPERATE

Brown-haired, brown - eyed Miss Parsons herself gives her sex-role grin, and says: "I haven't run into any undavor able reaction. Of course, I've worked with a lot of these men during the years and have been able to assess them in personnel matters. I believe they will co-operate with me fully."

Equal job opportunities are one of the top planks in Miss Parson's personal platform.

"I've always said that anyone who discriminates against the Negro will discriminate against women," says the North Carolina-born executive. "If they do it toward one, they'll do it to ward any group."

Miss Parsons had been sizing up people for jobs for more years than you'd think possible, looking at her face in the youthful, her figure supple, but she insists her only exercise has been walking up to her old third-floor office in the morning. "Now that I've been elevated to the 15th floor, I'll have to think of something else to keep fit," she says.

After graduating from the University of North Carolina in 1941 she taught school a year, worked for the Civil Service Commission, became a lieutenant in the U.S. Coast Guard doing personnel work in the Second World War and joined the Veterans Administration in 1946 as a $2,000-a-year personnel assistant.

Now she ranks top among the 50,000 women in the VA, the third largest U.S. government agency.

Women's Institutes

PLAINFIELD W.I.

The August meeting of Plainfield W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hall with an attendance of 15 members and two visitors.

Mrs. Huffman and Mrs. Harrison were chosen to look after the Hallowen display at Shannonville Fair.

Contributors for the blind were installed. An invitation from Bethel-Zion W.I. was extended to Plainfield W.I. to attend their meeting on September 9th.

Mrs. Garfield Hall introduced the guest speaker, Miss Connors, Y.O.N. Queen of Belleville. Miss Connors gave a talk on the work performed by the Y.O.N.

Mrs. Hall presented Miss Connors with a small gift in appreciation of her visit to the institute.

Mrs. Blanche Emerson gave a humorous reading and Mrs. Hall conducted a slogan contest.

Mrs. Sullivan acted as auctioneer for a sale of fancy and pre-serves.

Lunch was served at the close of the meeting by the hostess.

Olive Waters To be Honored On Retirement

OTTAWA (CP) — Olive J. Waters, private secretary to two successive national defence ministers, and the civil service's only woman department secretary, will resign from the health and welfare department Friday after 26 years in the public service.

In the health department, Miss Waters worked primarily in the administrative field, dealing with financial matters and with the preparation of the department's budget, one of the highest of federal budgets.

She is the only woman in Canada to regularly act as advisor to her minister on the floor of the House of Commons, during debate each year on the department estimates.

Miss Waters joined the public service in 1939 as secretary to the late Hon. J. L. Ralston, then minister of national defence. She also served with Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton during his time as national defence minister.

In January, 1945, she was invited by the late Hon. Brooke Claxton, first minister of the newly formed national health and welfare department, to join that department as departmental secretary.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said Miss Waters has been moving Miss Waters today.

Susanna's Family Fare

COBWEB CATCHER

Hi Everybody: Only those interested in raising hands, making gifts or keeping an immaculate house need read this. May we herewith please present an original Susanna design, especially for our readers. It is a colorful cobweb catcher with wispy frisky edges.

When using it to dislodge cobwebs you couldn't possible mark your delicately decorated walls, even if you tried. The best news of all is that it costs practically nothing and is as simple as sipping cider to make.

Using whatever scraps of gay material you may have on hand (most of us have a treasure hat) sew up a simple rectangular bag about 14" wide by 12" deep — large enough to slip easily over any broom. Add two thicknesses of cotton flat, slightly shirred, at the top so the closed end so that the strips of net extend slightly over the edge about two inches. Tack a 36" length of binding tape to one side of the bottom of the bag for a hanger. Then begin on the broom. That's it!

Now you can fix from room to room, whisking away cobwebs with complete abandon and, because you won't have a worry in the world about streaking a wall or ceiling corner that may be somewhat dusty but is not quite ready for washing or redecorating.

All our cobweb catcher does is remove the cobwebs by tickling them to death, — it doesn't even have to touch the wall!

If you would like the original pattern for Susanna's cobweb catcher, just send in your request with a stamped envelope, and, if possible, one of your own suggestions for her column — we're always delighted to hear from you and your ideas are greatly appreciated — in fact, she simply couldn't exist without them!

WCTU Consecon Camp Reports Good Season

The annual session of the Consecon children's camp which was held when Lyra Council, Christian Temperance Union of Prince Edward, Hastings and Lennox and Addington counties opened on the first of July with an attendance of 59. Daily instruction was given in temperance and Bible. The day's program also included swimming, nature hikes, handicrafts, camp fires and singing.

The camp site is one of the most beautiful in Ontario. This year's camp is the only one of its kind in Ontario and was founded over 40 years ago by Mrs. Frederick Dodds, the convenance cause. Through the years great improvements have been made such as a well equipped kitchen and dining room, installation of electricity, a waterfront and a new recreation room. Refreshments were served by the committee and a social time was enjoyed.

Following is a list of the leaders: director, Miss Edna Grant, Toronto; Miss Gladys Hall, nurse, Toronto; Miss Grace Maclean, Toronto, temperance and Bible; Mrs. Muirhead, Belleville, instructor in Bible; Miss Diane Paro, swimming instructor; Mrs. Bentley, cook; Margaret Mitchell, craft counsellor; Mrs. Harold Taffs, Napanee, camp mother; Miss Sharon Hall, Belleville, Bible; Miss Susan Brown, Toronto, assistant; Miss Melanie Roung, Troy, craft assistant.

This year was one of the happiest in the camp's history. The leaders rise in the each room for prayer at 7.30 each morning, before the campers were up and had breakfast at 8 a.m. The campers had breakfast at 8.30.

Special features of the session were the water carnival, water sports and a film on temperance shown by Miss Maclean. Visitors to the camp were Guy McFarland of Belleville, Sandra Mitchell of Toronto.

Awards were given in the three Bible groups for memory verses.

Cabins were inspected every morning and the highest standing was won by "Robin's Birdlings", leader, Melanie Roung.

In decorating cabins special days were observed, such as Temperance Day, temperance day, nature day, etc.

Results of water sports competitions were: swimming dog paddle — Pat Reid; floating — Karen Craig; three-handed push — Shelly Walk; Canadian Latchford; free race — Shelly Walk.

Hand sport winners were: 9-year olds: wheel-barrow — Sharon Douglade and Patsy Collver; potato sack — Cheryl Ditmar; straight race — Sharon Longlade.

9 and 10-year olds: wheelbarrow — Marion Ropking and Jane McGurter; potato sack — Christine Fox; 3-legged race — Pat Reid and Elaine Williamar, straight race — Carol Boyd.

11 and over: wheel barrow — Peggy Miller, Debbie McCaw; potato sack — Karen McLeskie, Debbie McCaw; 3-legged race — Karen McLeskie, Bonnie McLuskie; straight race — Karen McLeskie, Jane Conley.

The inspector of camps representative from the Ontario Dept. of Education visited the camp and gave it an excellent rating.

Margaret Mitchell, craft counsellor, has just completed her 14th year at the camp and has had a high standard record among staff members. She reports that at the end of this year's session the staff had much to be thankful for: good weather, good health and spirits among the girls with no serious illnesses and a co-operative spirit among the staff. The chairman of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, which runs the camp, maintains a high standard of accommodation and service for the girls in attendance.

Priests Tend to Stiffle League's Work Is Claim

JASPER, Alta. (CP) — The laity should not be tied to the apron strings of the pastor, Rev. P. B. O'Byrne of Calgary, chairman of a panel discussion on social action, said Tuesday during the annual Catholic Women's League convention.

Father O'Byrne said the CWL constitution enacted in 1949 set back CWL councils 25 years.

"It gave the parish more authority and tied them so closely to the parish priest. You should be put in touch with the new church."

The discussion was confined to prominent Roman Catholic clergy from Western Canada.

Rev. G. J. Schachtel of Regina, director of the Saskatchewan CWL, said Father O'Byrne favors doing away with CWL groups entirely.

Father O'Byrne said he would do away with clerical direction of the CWL because "many parish priests tend to stifle the league's work.

Msgr. Charles Empson of Winnipeg, Manitoba CWL director, agreed with Father O'Byrne that "sometimes directors have stifled aspirations of councils," but said "more frequently they have guided councils to fruitful work and saved the CWL from becoming a tea-party.

"The director is a spiritual counsellor or he is no director at all," Msgr. Empson said.

In a letter address, Father O'Byrne called delegates to attend their sphere of interest beyond league business.

Giving financial aid to needy people and undertaking other charitable projects is not good enough, he said,

He said Roman Catholic authority and laity must work closely to the parish priest. You should be put in touch with the new church."

The discussion was confined to prominent Roman Catholic clergy from Western Canada.

Rev. G. J. Schachtel of Regina, director of the Saskatchewan CWL, said the league should increase its contribution to national social work scholarships.

HAVING TROUBLE

Delegates agreed the league was having difficulty collecting money for two $1,500 social work scholarships awarded nationally.

Mrs. A. A. Boucher of Vancouver, executive secretary of the 180,000 member league, said $54,000 is contributed by members annually to scholarships in parishes and provinces.

"We need more social workers in Western Canada", Mrs. Stevens said. "As the league is undertaking a social action program to help solve community problems, the need for social workers will be stroked."

Mrs. Stevens recommended in an interview that at least $1,500 scholarships should be established in social work to encourage young people.

Rt. Rev. J. A. MacLellan of Edmonton, Alberta CWL director, told delegates "your contributions to the national scholarships are peanuts."

He referred to the Edmonton CWL diocese centennial projects to raise $50,000 for an Indian-Metis home for girls.

Delegates unanimously recommended that each of 1,000 parish councils in Canada increase their contributions to the national social work scholarships. The recommendation is not binding.

supporters in the House of Commons.

"Therefore, there will be a federal election on Nov. 8."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the prime minister has been assured of a majority "at all times by the support of third parties" which had repeatedly informed Mr. Pearson in the last few weeks they would support him.

The prime minister "is afraid to meet Parliament."

"He would have to face a vote of non-confidence for his failure to clear up the mess which has struck into the highest echelons of Liberal government."

Thus Mr. Diefenbaker laid out what he has said is a chief issue of the election campaign.

For Mr. Diefenbaker, who marks his 70th birthday Sept. 18, it will be his fifth campaign as Conservative leader. Mr. Pearson, 68, has led the Liberals in three previous campaigns —twice to defeat and once to head the present minority administration.

Mr. Pearson, speaking on a national radio and television hookup, contended the boundaries of electoral divisions, now under revision, cannot be redrawn in time for an election before October, 1966. He said a more realistic date would be early in 1967.

"So what I had to decide was whether, in the national interest, there should be an election now; or whether we could get along with another year or more of the present Parliament, with increasing uncertainty and factiousness because no party has a clear majority in it."

Mr. Diefenbaker replied in a similar national broadcast a few minutes later that an election could be held by next June on the basis of redistributed electoral boundaries, taking into account population shifts and growth since the redistribution which followed the 1951 census.

He said an election on the basis of the present electoral map showed a cynical disregard for the voters' right to be represented in Parliament on the basis of the 1961 census, not the 1951.

"It means that many thousands will be disfranchised."

New Democratic Leader Douglas accused Mr. Pearson of being undependable and indecisive and heading a government which lacks leadership and a sense of national purpose and direction.

Creditiste Leader Caouette, who indicated his party will contest only Quebec's 73 Commons seats, accused the Liberals of causing greater harm to national unity than even Quebec's separatists. He pledged a campaign based on "Quebec in Confederation."

Social Credit Leader Thompson said minority government has been more effective than Mr. Pearson could have hoped for from a majority government. The prime minister's election call was pure political opportunism contrary to the national interest.

Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay announced that nomination day for the Nov. 8 election will be Monday, Oct. 25 in 242 of the 263 federal ridings. In the other 21 ridings, nomination day will be Tuesday, Oct. 12.

Enumeration of the estimated 10,700,000 voters starts Sept. 20 and ends Sept. 25. Polling hours will be 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. local standard time.

Cast of Hundreds Involved In Making of Announcement

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Elections have been triggered in some strange ways since Confederation, but this was the first time a prime minister applied pancake makeup to his face to announce dissolution of Parliament, and a voting date.

Instead of the House of Commons where many dissolutions have come, Prime Minister Pearson was in studio A of the CBC's Ottawa outlet, CODT.

A cast of hundreds was involved in the production.

The request for television and radio time was received by the CBC earlier in the day and a coronation spokesman said a fast decision had to be made. He said it strictly political broadcasts would be turned down, but political announcements of national interest accepted.

"In view of the recent speculation, it didn't take long to decide that," the spokesman said.

PROBLEMS PRESENTED

Technical staffing programs presented problems.

The major difficulty was that Pearson, the only political figure who was to appear only on the CBC, with Opposition Leader Diefenbaker on the private CTV network afterwards.

How to get both leaders on the networks involved both professional and technical problems, and officials of both networks met for many hours before coming up with a solution.

There was not only the problem of whether to carry anyone with a competitor, but technical problems in cutting from one network to another without seconds.

Only hours before the 8:30 p.m. EDT air time, the difficulties were resolved.

HAD OWN STAFF

Pearson and each network even had his commentator talking to the other's listeners.

Arranging for his broadcast about 33 minutes before air time, Mr. Pearson quipped with reporters before entering the studio.

After the makeup was applied, Mr. Pearson chatted with a few aides and, a CBC spokesman and a Liberal party official went through cue cards to rehearsal of his announcement.

This meant CBC personnel knew the election announcement before the Canadian public.

A spokesman said this group included about a dozen persons—the man who prepared the speech for his announcement, some cameramen and about six production people in the control room.

OATH TAKEN

One CBC reporter said an "extraordinary secrecy was observed."

"It just meant that if you wanted to keep your job you couldn't tell your wife and say anything," he replied.

A CBC spokesman said at one point in the day the prime minister had deliberated whether to put the speech on tape for broadcast in the evening. This was rejected because it had been decided the content would leak out during the day.

The speech arrived at the studio before the prime minister. William MacEachen, the Liberal party public relations officer, had copies for reporters in his office.

"He had taken an oath of secrecy, he said, and had not looked at the speech.

Cigars handed to reporters as soon as Mr. Pearson started reading. The sentences on dissolution and the election date were contained in the last four sentences of the seven-minute speech, enabling the announcement to be carried on news wires before Mr. Pearson reached that part.

Text of Announcement On Election by P.M.

OTTAWA (CP)— Text of Prime Minister Pearson's broadcast Tuesday night announcing a general election for Monday, Nov. 8:

Since the Canadian Parliament was established 98 years ago, we have had a general election, on the average, about once every 3½ years. It is now 2½ years since the last election campaign.

That is a longer time than most people predicted when the present government was formed from a party which did not have a majority in Parliament. The opposition parties have frequently declared this minority government but up to the present they have not defeated it in Parliament, thereby forcing an election.

In spite of the uncertainties of our minority position and because of longer parliamentary sessions than a two-party race, we've been able to pass a great deal of important legislation. It has been a minority — but an very proud of that. But there is much more to be done in the progress of this nation, and faster with a majority government.

This summer, the uncertainties became greater than ever. The leaders of all the opposition groups announced that, although they hadn't engineered defeats themselves to defeat us earlier, they would certainly do so when Parliament returned in September.

TIME IS NOW

That, of course, is their right. But it is the government's responsibility — faced with such a situation, to consider whether the time has come for the electors to decide whether our party should be given a majority mandate to form a majority government.

The responsibility for the decision is not, or not to call, an election is mine as prime minister—and only mine. I have taken it. I have made the decision only after long and earnest consideration of the best interests of the best in the national interest.

My decision had to be made in the knowledge that there are now facing, in Canada, issues and problems of great importance to every country's future. The country needs a strong central government supporting that government.

I also had to face the fact that the election must be conducted on the basis of the present constituencies, before redistribution can take place.

Redistribution of electoral districts on the basis of the census of 1961 will not be completed some time ago. But legislation for the purpose was not introduced when the present government was formed in 1963.

The legislation—the first of its kind in our history—has been passed. But the parliamentary processes, necessary before the new boundaries become law, are not yet completed.

I have been informed by the officials responsible that the earliest date at which an election could take place on the basis of the new boundaries would be the end of October, 1966. And this date could be met only if the electoral discussion of the new constituencies was strictly limited.

NOT ACCEPTABLE

The officials agree that a more realistic date for the next general election would be after the new distribution of seats would be early in 1967.

So what I had to decide was whether, in the national interest, there should be an election now or whether we could get along with another year or more of the present Parliament, with increasing uncertainty and factiousness because no one party has a clear majority in it.

My government has already dealt with many of the important questions we said we would deal with when we were elected. But important problems remain and there are new problems that have developed since we took office.

We have policies which I believe will be effective in dealing with these problems; policies to continue Canada's expanding economic expansion; to provide for the continued development of our resources and especially of the greatest resource of all—the talent and spirit of young Canadians; to bring about the elimination of poverty in our island by helping all Canadians to take advantage of improving opportunities.

PLUGS LIBERAL AIMS

Above all, we have the policies that can reduce tensions in our country and make us one all go forward as Canadians, in unity and strength.

The task is to meet challenges facing Canada—and I have mentioned only a few—are difficult and complex.

If Canada is to meet them and realize the great destiny that is within her reach, it will take all our faith, energy and devotion.

There are genuine differences of opinion about the course we should take into our future, but I do not think we can follow any steady course if there are day-to-day uncertainties about the government having a majority in Parliament.

The issue, then, is the

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

According to a story recently published in the London Free Press, the Ontario Minor Hockey Association has handed out indefinite suspensions to the manager and coach of the Ottawa Alta Vistas, a peewee hockey team that has played in Belleville tournaments.

The two men, manager Steve Hoek and coach Moe Bisaux, are indefinitely suspended until such time as they appear before the OMHA executive for a hearing. The suspensions were given for the not knowingly of an ineligible player in the Goderich Peewee Tournament.

And to make the suspension more binding, the story says, the OMHA in a directive to Bill Hanley, secretary of the OHA, says that "No OMHA team may play with or against the Ottawa Alta Vistas or any team with which Steve Hook and Moe Brioux are connected."

The player concerned is Barry Green who lives in Kingston and who is under suspension by the Kingston Church Athletic Association for refusing to play in that league and for going to Ottawa to play for the Alta Vistas.

The OMHA states that the Ottawa team paid the expenses of young Green to play for them although he still continued to reside in Kingston.

Green's home address on his eligibility card was listed as Richmond Village, a suburb of Ottawa, the story states.

It adds that it is almost certain that the OHA, parent body of the OMHA will uphold the suspensions of Hook and Brioux and it is possible the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association will go along too.

Hook, who operated the Alta Vistas as an independent team of peewees, was advised earlier in the season by two members of the OMHA executive that the Green boy could not be used in OMHA competitions.

The Alta Vistas which played in a wide range of tournaments from Washington, Boston, Lake Placid, Quebec City and Goderich during a 70-odd game schedule last season, were reported to have had players from Brockville, Cornwall, and other OMHA centres as well as Kingston at time or other.

OMHA vice-president Doug. Patterson informs me that Hook endeavored to secure the services of a Belleville peewee player last year. The Belleville Minor Hockey Association executive asked the OMHA official if it was possible for the youngster to play a number of exhibition games with the Ottawa club. The answer was a definite "No."

"My reply," Mr. Patterson told me, "was that the Belleville youngster should play his hockey in his home town, just as Ottawa should use all Ottawa boys."

"My ruling" stated Mr. Patterson, "did not make some people in your city happy. I was indirectly accused of ruining the boy's hockey career."

Mr. Patterson was right as subsequent events have proved. His action was not for the purpose of "ruining" any boy's hockey career. He was merely doing what the OMHA stand for and this a,..st commends him for the stand he took.

Also to be commended are the members of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association who first of all did the right thing in checking with the OMHA and then fully concurring and following the ruling handed down.

Had the BMHA and the OMHA not nipped this tourist-travel idea in the bud, the youngster today might have been standing in the shadow of suspension.

It is time some people realize that faraway hockey pastures are not as green as they look, and there is as good coaching and training to be had at home.

As Mr. Patterson points out, "the case of the Green boy from Kingston is a good example. What sense does it make for a 12-year-old boy to travel from Kingston to Ottawa to play and practice when a city like Kingston has two fine hard-working minor hockey organizations."

"To me" he added, "this whole thing is a good example of the attitude which we must resist — that of winning at all costs. The sooner people realize the main purpose of hockey is to provide a chance to play the game and not a sport where youngsters can be dragged clean across the country to provide someone with an unbeatable team, then the sooner we can have the kind of hockey that has a real meaning to it."

Lacked Block Ability

Vikings Waive Young

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Young of Hamilton, Ont., trying to become the only Canadian in the National Football League, was waived out of the league Tuesday, the Minnesota Vikings announced.

Young, for the last three years a collegiate sensation with Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., was placed on waivers last week and withdrawn from the list Monday by the Vikings when another team moved to claim him.

The Vikings said Tuesday Young was waived from the league after the team, never theeless, dropped the claim.

Young, a muscular halfback, ignored a final year of Canadian collegiate football and an offer from the Eastern Football Conference Toronto Argonauts to sign with the Vikings.

Earlier, it was thought that if Young failed to make the Vikings he would be kept on the team's reserve "taxi squad" for use in case of injury to regulars.

Viking coach Norm Van Brocklin had praised Young who scored two touchdowns in a pre-season exhibition contest. He said Young's main deficiency was blocking ability.

Salvidar Defends World Title

The 22 year - old champion from Mexico came in at 125¾ pounds, just one-quarter below the class limit, for his second title defence. Winstone, the British Empire champion was a one-half pound lighter.

Tribe Roadblocks White Sox Drive

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago White Sox let the big one get away from them Tuesday night in a display of pitching wildness which is rare for Al Lopez' corps.

The White Sox scored four runs in the first inning but before the game was over Cleveland lockers had carved out a 9-5 triumph.

The loss dropped the Sox five games behind the leading Minnesota Twins in the American League race. The two meet for the last time this season, in a two-game set beginning tonight.

"Sure it was a big game for us," said Lopez of the Indians' contest. "They're all big and all losers are hard to take. But we simply didn't have the pitching and when you don't have the pitching any lead can be overcome."

"I used seven pitchers in the doubleheader Monday. It was obvious Juan Pizarro didn't have it. I went for Tommy John hoping he'd give me a couple of good innings before going for the knuckleballers. But John didn't have it either.

"We have to beat the Twins twice now but even if we had taken Cleveland we still would have to win twice from Minnesota."

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore Orioles swept New York Yankees 4-2 and 9-5 and Detroit Tigers trimmed Boston Red Sox 5-3.

The loss restored Chicago's unpleasant relations with utility infielder Chico Salmon, whose homer with the bases loaded capped a five-run inning and pushed the Tribe ahead to stay.

Salmon came into the game with a .242 average. He had hit only two previous home runs and had only six runs batted in. All three of his homers and nine of his 30 RBI have come at the expense of the White Sox.

Cleveland lashed out 17 hits — four by Rocky Colavito and three each by Chuck Hinton and Leon Wagner.

The Yankees' double loss to Baltimore extended their losing streak to seven, their longest since 1953, and put them within one loss or one Minnesota victory of being eliminated from the race.

The Orioles ran their winning string to seven, winning the opener behind Sam Bowens two-run homer and taking the nightcap as Charley Lau drove in three runs with a double and a single and Boog Powell clouted a two-run homer.

Detroit snapped Boston's four - game winning streak, breaking a 3-3 tie in the seventh on John Sullivan's single and Ray Oyler's double.

Mike Whalen 'Umpire Of The Year'

The last week or so has been quite an exciting period for Mike Whalen, a Point Anne umpire in the Belleville and District Umpires' Association.

Whalen was voted "Umpire of the Year" by his fellow arbiters a short while ago.

He will receive the Ken Colling Memorial Award, an annual presentation, for his efforts during the 1961 season.

Whalen also got another "award" a week ago - but one he would have preferred to miss.

Working an OASA playdown game, between Kingston and Peterborough teams in Madoc, Whalen was hit on the jaw by a wrumpp threw prior to the game.

Whalen was down and out for a while but came around and went ahead with the game.

The following day he was taken to Belleville General Hospital where it was discovered he had a jaw broken in three places.

Mike's back on the umpiring circuit now, jaw wiring and all.

Anyone still insist that an umpire's job is an easy one?

Cementmen Shade Lightfoots

A second-inning run, forced on a bases-loaded walk, stood up for Point Anne last night as the Cementmen edged Lightfoot Construction 1-0 in the first game of their Commercial Softball semi-finals.

Second game in the four-of-seven set is slated for Point Anne on Thursday while Stewart Warner and City Hotel tangle, at Prince George, in their game tonight. Stewart Warner leads that series 1-0.

In the second frame, G. Maher and D. Hull stroked singles and Horwood walked to fill the bases. E. Maher fanned but Bob Rosebush drew a base-on-balls to force home the game's lone run.

Ron Maracle on the winners' rubber outpitched Lightfoots' George Young over the route.

Maracle gave up just two hits, struck out six, walked four and did not allow a Lightfoot runner to reach third base.

Young gave up five hits, struck out four but issued six free tickets.

Lightfoots left two men stranded in each of the first two frames while the Cementmen threatened to add to their total in the late frames. Maracle hit the longest ball of the night, with a mate aboard, late in the game but Don Smith's fine running catch in centre robbed him of a home run.

Gerry Maher banged two singles, Perry Ellis and Dennis Hull one each and Jim Horwood a double for Point Anne.

Don Smith and Doug Rose got singles for Lightfoot.

Giants Ease Into Top Spot

Whip Dodgers 3-1

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Los Angeles Dodgers wish the Giants had left their Hart in San Francisco.

The Dodgers are out of first place in the National League for only the 18th day this season and Jim Ray Hart drove in all of the runs with a single and a homer Tuesday night as the Giants jumped into the lead by defeating them 3-1.

The victory, their fourth straight, put the Giants two percentage points ahead of the Dodgers, one-half game ahead of Cincinnati Reds, one in front of Milwaukee Braves and four ahead of Pittsburgh Pirates.

The triumph also gave them a sweep of the two-game series, a sweep accomplished without the help of 20-game winner Juan Marichal, who was banned from Los Angeles because of his bat-swinging incident with Dodger catcher John Roseboro.

The two-day ban, in effect, extended Marichal's eight-day suspension over the incident to 10, which puts him nine days ahead of Hart.

The third baseman-left fielder was hit with a one-day suspension July 31 by Giants' manager Herman Franks for breaking training regulations.

Since then Hart has been greatly responsible for pushing the Giants to the top. In 90 games before the suspension, he batted .281 with nine homers and 47 runs batted in. But in just 44 games since, he is hitting .323 while slamming 12 homers and driving in 36 runs.

In the only other league game Tuesday, Cincinnati whipped Pittsburgh 5-0.

This is the fourth time since July 16 that the Dodgers have lost the lead, but on the first three occasions they regained it the next day. They are idle today while the Giants play Houston Astros.

Hart's first-inning single, following singles by Jesus Alou and Willie Mays, put the Giants ahead 1-0. The Dodgers tied it against Bob Shaw in the third on doubles by Wes Parker and Roseboro.

Then, in the fifth, Claude Osteen walked Mays, and Hart connected for his 21st home run. Sammy Ellis gained his 18th victory against eight defeats, limiting the Pirates to three hits and striking out 10. The Reds put the game away with four runs in the fourth inning. Two Frank Robinson's double and the last on John Edwards' homer.

Jets Cut $200,000 Bonus Back

PEEKSKILL, N. Y. (AP) — Quarterback John Huarte Heisman trophy winner from Notre Dame and $200,000 bonus rookie for New York Jets, was cut from the American Football League team's roster Tuesday.

The Jets trimmed five other players and got one below the league limit of 36. Among others dropped were defensive tackle Gordy Holz, a starter last season, and flanker - halfback Bob Schweikert, a rookie from Virginia Tech who was reported to have received $100,000 to sign with New York.

Huarte, selected as the top college player of the year last season and most valuable player in last month's all-star game at Chicago, ran a poor third in the Jets' quarterback sweepstakes behind second - year man Mike Taliaferro and the $400,000 rookie, Joe Namath.

If another AFL club claims Huarte within 24 hours, the Jets can take him off the waiver list and restore him to their roster. If no other team picks him up within 24 hours, the Jets have another 24 hours to remove him from the waiver list and put him on their taxi, or reserve squad.

If he isn't taken by another club or placed on the Jets' taxi squad, he becomes a free agent.

YANKS RELEASE TWO

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees Tuesday released outfielder Elvio Jiminez and right-handed relief pitcher Tom Metcalf outright to Toledo Mud Hens of the International League. Both performed there this year while out on option.

Chiefs Game From 'Out'

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP) — Last week Syracuse Chiefs reached the International League playoffs with a minimum of effort when they won their last three games on bases-loaded walks. Today the Chiefs are a game away from oblivion thanks to their own generosity.

Columbus Jets, the league champions, took a 9-3 lead over Syracuse in their best-of-seven semi - final Tuesday night by edging the Chiefs 2-1. The winner will play Toronto Maple Leafs, who closed out their series against Atlanta Crackers in four straight games Monday.

How They're Hitting

NEW YORK (AP)—Tony Oliva of Minnesota Twins, forced to carry a double load while trying to win his second straight American League batting title, has moved to within nine points of pace-setting Carl Yastremski of Boston Red Sox.

Oliva, sophomore Cuban outfielder, collected 11 hits in 24 times at bat last week. The .438 pace enabled him to gain seven points to .318. Yastremski of the ninth-place Sox remained at .327 with 12 safeties in 37 attempts. Oliva led the league last year with a .323 average.

The pressure has been on Oliva because the Twins' star slugger, Harmon Killebrew, has been sidelined with a dislocated shoulder since Aug. 2. Most of the other Twins have been unproductive and Minnesota's first-place margin has been trimmed to 4½ games, three less than a week ago.

Baltimore Orioles' Brooks Robinson slipped one place to third. He lost nine points in last week's action, dropping to .300 with a 9-for-35 performance. F. Whitfield of Cleveland Indians is fourth at .296. The figures include Monday's games.

Roberto Clemente has virtually sewed up the National League batting crown. He leads by 20 points.

The Pittsburgh Pirates' outfielder, defending batting king, climbed five points to .345 with 33 hits in 96 times. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee, the runner - up gained one point to .325 on a 12-for-36 showing.

Pete Rose of Cincinnati Reds overtook San Francisco Giants' Willie Mays and advanced to third place. Rose has a .310 mark while Mays fell nine points to .315 while collecting only four hits in 25 tries.

Two of Mays' safeties were home runs, boosting the Giant Star's leading total to 43. Deron Johnson of Cincinnati lifted his pace-setting RBI total to 111. He drove in nine runs last week.

Willie Horton of Detroit Tigers continues to lead the American League in home runs with 27, while Cleveland's Rocky Colavito is tops in RBI with 96, seven more than last week.

Jim Grant of Minnesota has the highest winning percentage among AL pitchers with a minimum of 12 decisions. He has a .773 mark with 17 victories against five defeats. Cincinnati's Joe Nuxhall heads the NL with .750, resulting from a 10-3 record.

Quantity of Water Constant, Quality Different Matter

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Water is indestructible. Presumably there is exactly as much water on earth today as at the time of creation.

It is not the total amount of water that concerns mankind, however: it is the quality of the water and its availability for human use.

And herein lies the crux of what is now recognized as the U.S. water problem:

—The available supply of good water is so limited that within 35 years demand will outstrip supply by 350,000,000,000 gallons daily.

—The water in the 90 major U.S. river basins is being polluted by municipal, industrial and agricultural wastes.

The work of improving the water quality of just 17 of these streams has cost nearly $3,100,000,000 since the program began in 1957.

The fact that American waters are being polluted is, in itself, probably no surprise to anyone, especially anyone who has felt the tingle to smart in the waters off Milwaukee, Cleveland or New York City.

But pollution is a variable, depending for definition upon the intended use of the water. For domestic use water must be clean, free of disease organisms, bad taste and odor. It must not have a dissolved mineral content higher than 500 parts per million, by U.S. Public Health Service standards.

Water for agriculture is judged on mineral content, particularly its sodium level.

MUST HAVE OXYGEN

Water for fish propagation must be relatively free of industrial and municipal wastes and be able to sustain a flora for the small organisms which serve as fish foods. It also must have a minimum dissolved oxygen content of at least four per cent.

Water for industrial use varies, some uses requiring complete absence of minerals, some being concerned with temperature, the critical factor where water is used for cooling.

There is a wide-spread assumption that U.S. waters are being polluted chiefly by municipalities, which dump raw sewage into lakes, rivers and streams.

This is true only in par One of the worst offenders is industry.

The staff report by a special sub-committee of the U.S. Senate committee on public works found:

" . . . At the present level of industrial waste treatment, in 1970 the amount of organic industrial wastes discharged will be the equivalent of the raw sewage that would be discharged by the entire population of the United States in that year."

By 1970, the United States is expected to have a population of 210,000,000. The committee staff estimated U.S. industries need to build 6,000 waste treatment plants, beginning now.

The Senate sub-committee reports that there are now 7,939 municipalities with waste treatment plants which serve the needs of 102,000,000 people. Many of these plants, however, are obsolescent.

ESTIMATE COST

Some 6,140 municipalities have under way waste treatment projects costing $3,100,000,000.

The ultimate bill for clean U.S. water may run as high as $40,000,000,000.

The public health service has estimated that for loans to communities for waste treatment plant construction. Loans are limited to per cent of the total estimated cost up to a maximum cost of $600,000.

For practical purposes, this excludes the larger U.S. cities. Atlanta, Ga., for example, estimates that to clean up its wastes will cost close to $70,000,000.

But industry is the big headache. The service says that unless it knows what industry is putting into the waters, it has no idea how to go about cleaning them up, and industry is hesitant to tell.

Richard S. Greene, chief of the service's basic data branch says that with some exceptions industrialists have refused to provide information on the quality and quantity of liquid wastes.

"There is one thing you must keep in mind," Greene said. "It is understandable from the management viewpoint: No industry makes a profit from treating wastes . . . unless it ures, the cost of law suits is going to be higher than the cost of installing treatment facilities."

But water pollution is not he only problem. In the arid and semi-arid regions of the west, water collected underground over thousands of years is being pumped out much faster than it is being replaced, raising the spectre of great areas returning to desert.

BACK TO DESERT

Deer Valley, an 80 - square-mile area north of Phoenix, Ariz., already has returned to desert, its ground waters exhausted.

The pumping of ground waters has caused parts of the Imperial Valley in California to subside, the Long Island, N.Y., salt water is intruding into the underground facilities.

The U.S. now uses about 360,000,000,000 gallons of water a day, the Senate public works sub-committee estimates it will need 515,000,000,000 gallons within 15 years and that by the nation can ever hope to achieve as a result of engineering works is about 450,000,000,000 gallons a day."

At the present rate of growth, the sub - committee estimated, the U.S. will need more than the U.S. will need more than 1,000,000,000,000 gallons daily by the year 2,000. This means, the committee said, that the U.S. will have to re-use and re-use its available waters, hence the concern with pollution.

Any water, no matter how polluted, can be made re-usable at a price. When people talk of converting sea water to fresh water, or of re-using waste waters, they are talking economics primarily.

Water re-used means scientists must learn a great deal more about water than they now know.

Only $4,200,000 is spent annually on water research, but the U.S. is spending about 5,000 times that much on defence and space research.

Three Detroit Girls Make It Good in Record World

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Take three Detroit girls, give them glamor trappings and a new rock 'n' roll sound, and what do you get? In the case of the Supremes, a $1,000,000 enterprise.

Within the brief space of a year, Diane Ross, Florence Ballard and Mary Wilson have been converted into world travellers earning fortunes with their songs. They were in Hollywood on one of their breakneck tours, picking up more loot with appearances on the Red Skelton and Dean Martin television shows.

Diane appears to be the spokesman for the group. She is 21, as is Mary. Florence is 22.

"We started singing together seven years ago, when we were 14 and 15," said Diane. "We sang at dances and shows.

"In those days we called ourselves the Primettes. But when Berry Gordy's recording line was formed a year ago, he changed our name, so we picked the Supremes from a list that the secretary at the record company had compiled. It sounded good to the ears."

Their first record, Where Did Love Go, sounded more than good to the teen-agers who buy most of today's single records. Some 1,500,000 copies went over the counters in the United States, another 500,000 in England.

NOTHING BUT HITS

The Supremes seem unable to produce anything but hits, having followed with such solid sellers as Baby Love, Come See About Me, Stop in the Name of Love, Back in My Arms again, Nothing But Heartaches and Mother Dear.

These instant classics are whipped up for them by three Detroit boys who write for Motown Records. The Supremes' style now is termed "the Motown Sound, which has to be heard to be understood.

"I can't describe it," Diane admitted, "and I don't think anybody has been able to. It's just there."

The lives of the three girls have changed immensely in the last year, mostly for the better.

Production Cost of NBC's White Paper Is $500,000

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A massive cram course on the history of United States foreign policy during the last 30 years occupied 3½ prime evening hours on NBC Tuesday night—a record length for a television news special.

Called American White Paper: United States Foreign Policy, the seminar undertook to explain the unchanging U.S. goal from the time the iron Curtain descended after the Second World War up to the moment Americans began fighting in Viet Nam.

It became clear that NBC's point of view was that U.S. actions from the Berlin airlift to the fast bombing raid in North Viet Nam were taken to prevent the spread of communism, and to fulfil commitments to protect the freedom of its allies.

The logistics of constructing this extraordinary program were as remarkable as its simplicity and clarity. Twenty-four film crews were rushed to the four corners of the globe.

Executive Vice - President William McAndrew of NBC News estimated production costs were "around $500,000." The largest part of which was paid by the program's single sponsor, Eastern Airline.

The networks's regular summer programs were pre-empted at a considerable financial sacrifice and the usual short commercials around station identification breaks were dropped.

Many of the explanations were given by world leaders, including Presidents Truman through Johnson. Spokesmen of other viewpoints included President Nasser of the United Arab Republic and President Nyerere of Tanzania.

It was an intelligent, calm and enlightening analysis.

However, it was far, far too long a single program to impose at one sitting on even the most eager viewer.

New Booklet On Pension Plan To Be Issued

OTTAWA (CP) — A widespread information program to acquaint the public about the Canada pension plan will cost the federal government $2,000,000, officials said Tuesday.

The program includes newspaper ads as well as leaflets, pamphlets and booklets mailed to employers and employees.

An explanatory pamphlet has been mailed to every Canadian household. MacLaren Advertising of Toronto handles part of the job, which includes placing ads in newspapers.

As a follow-up to the household's pamphlet mailed in June, the government is distributing a detailed booklet explaining how the plan affects Canadians. Tibbles will answer the key questions: How much will it cost the individual? What will he get?

The booklet should be in the hands of the public by the end of September. About 4,000,000 copies are being printed. The 80-page publication will be in French and English.

BEGINS NEXT YEAR

Pension plan contributions start a year later.

The time and form of the newspaper ads caused some soul-searching before it was decided on. Ottawa, Toronto, Canadian approach. Highlights of the plan are brought out by asking how it affects individuals.

First because of the complexity of the plan and second, because it affected so many people.

Every province except Quebec—which has opted out—is in the plan. The Quebec plan will be worked into the over - all

Canadian Navy Strength Cut To 39 Vessels

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Navy's Atlantic and Pacific fleets have been conservatively reduced to 39 active ships from 64 two years ago, officials disclose.

And of these 39 include a repair ship, a diving tender, a supply ship, a training yacht and 14 minesweepers, leaving 22 destroyers and 4 submarines—which are some 20 years old. Fully modern naval officers read that apart from three submarines being built in Britain for 1970, no new warships have been laid down since 1960. Construction of four new destroyers is not scheduled to start until early 1967 — a seven-year gap.

Government officials say that though numerical strength of the navy has been reduced, submarine and destroyer has actually increased because of the introduction of new equipment and techniques.

Seven destroyers and eight frigates have been sent to the took place at the Stirling Dairy reserve fleet in mothballs and the first of the three British-built submarines, Okanagan, will join the Atlantic fleet this fall.

RECRUITS MAIN WORRY

Officials say their main worry is how to recruit, train—and hang onto—the technicians who have fleet in operation.

There are at least 17 warships in reserve on the East and West coasts and one of the chief reasons they are tied up is that the navy simply hasn't enough technicians to keep them at sea.

The Atlantic fleet comprises the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, 18 destroyers, three frigates and three non - combat ships. The Pacific fleet has five destroyers, seven frigates, the submarine Rainbow and the training yacht Oriole.

By 1971, the navy is expected to have a fleet of 15 more ships but to have added nine new ones for a total of 34. These 34 will comprise a carrier, 24 destroyers, three submarines, three support ships and three non-combat ships.

New Booklet On Pension Plan To Be Issued

OTTAWA (CP) — A widespread information program to acquaint the public about the Canada pension plan will cost the federal government $2,100,000, officials said Tuesday.

The program includes newspaper ads as well as letters, pamphlets and booklets mailed to employers and employees.

An explanatory pamphlet has been mailed to every Canadian household. MacLaren Advertising of Toronto handles part of the job, which includes placing ads in newspapers.

As a follow-up to the householder's pamphlet mailed in June, the government is distributing a booklet today to Canadians. Tables will answer the key questions: How much will it cost the individual? What will he get?

The booklet should be in the hands of the public by the end of September. About 4,000,000 copies are to be printed. The 80-page publication will be in French and English.

BEGINS NEXT YEAR

Pension plan contributions start a year later.

The compulsory form of the newspaper ads caused some soul-searching before it was decided on the neutral, lyrical Canadian approach. Highlights of the plan are brought out by asking how it affects individuals.

First because of the complexity of the plan and second, because it affected so many people.

Every province except Quebec—which has opted out—is in the plan. The Quebec plan will be worked into the over - all plan.

Canadian Navy Strength Cut To 39 Vessels

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Canadian Navy's Atlantic and Pacific fleets have been numerically reduced to 39 active ships in the last two years up, officials disclose.

And those 39 include a repair ship, a training cruiser, a convoy ship, a training yacht and 16 warships—10 frigates, three destroyers and six submarines—which are some 20 years old.

A senior naval officer said that apart from these obsolescent ships built in Britain for the RCN no new warships have been laid down since 1960. Construction of four new destroyers is not scheduled to start until early 1967 — a seven-year gap.

Government officials say that though numerical strength of the navy has been reduced, submarine and ASW capability has actually increased because of the introduction of new equipment and techniques.

Seven destroyers and eight frigates have been sent to the reserve fleet in the same period and others put in reserve but six new destroyers have been laid down and are slated for the first of the three British-built submarines, the Ojibwa, will join the Atlantic fleet in the fall.

RECRUITS MAIN WORRY

Officials say their main worry is not the overall, train-and hang cote—the technicians who keep the fleet in operation.

Between the end of 17 warships in reserve on the East and West coasts and one of the new destroyers are tied up is that the navy simply hasn't enough technicians to keep them at sea.

The Atlantic fleet comprises the aircraft carrier Bonaventure, 18 destroyers, three frigates and three non - combat ships. The Pacific fleet has five destroyers, seven frigates, the submarine Grilse and the training yacht Oriole.

By 1971, the navy is expected to have got rid of 14 more ships but to have added two new ones for a total of 34. Three 34 will comprise a carrier, 16 destroyers, six frigates, six submarines, three support ships and three non-combat ships.

Quinte Marina Ski Club to Hold Show

DESERONTO — The Quinte Marina Ski Club is to hold the first Central Canadian Closed Water Ski Kite Flying Championships at Deseronto next weekend. The show starts with practice sessions on Friday, eliminations on Saturday and finals on Sunday.

The club was started three years ago and this is the first tournament to be held by the club, if successful it is expected to be a yearly event.

The club operates two ski boats, one is an 18 ft. 6" Lapstrake by Riley with two 90 h.p. Johnston motors, the other is a Princecraft Flyer with a 75 h.p. motor.

The members have held several shows at home and other resort areas.

The entries have been coming in from many points across Ontario and Quebec and promises to be a very competitive show.

Doug Galt the president of the club and his wife Kathy just returned from the U.S. National Ski Kite meet in Austin Texas where they faired well in competition. A number of other members of the club competed in the Canadian Open at Collins Bay and the North American Continental at Old Forge, N.Y. With all this talent as a start it looks like a good show for the spectators.

The judges for the show are professional kite fliers, George Boyce, Old Forge, N.Y.; Dave Leane, Point Anne, a champion many times and Guy Weese from Kirk Kove and Cypress Gardens. George Boyce compiled the rules for kite skiing and he operates a Ski School.

The kite used in this sport is made of nylon sail on an aluminum frame with a total weight of about 25 pounds. The flyer hangs from a trapeze bar under the kite and is protected by a safety harness that can be released in case of danger. The sport looks very thrilling and the members all agree it is an extremely safe one. To get a flyer air borne the boat has to go between 20 to 22 miles an hour pulling the skier on a 130 foot rope to heights up to 75'.

The sport started about seven years ago in Florida and has progressed rapidly since. The first world championships were held in Vichy, France in 1963 and are to be held every two years in different countries. The meet was to be held in Greece this year but because of government upheaval, it was cancelled for this year.

There will be entries in men and women classes in tricks and formal and men only in the exciting slalom air borne event.

Council Votes In Favor Of Resolution

DESERONTO — The town council held a meeting on Tuesday evening. A letter was received from Mrs. C. Emmons asking the town to pay for damages to her verandah and fence caused by the limb from a tree situated on town property. Council voted to turn this complaint over to the town insurance company.

A letter was received from Owen Sound council containing a resolution stating that the use of disposable glass bottles for drinks be prohibited. They feel the bottles are being thrown about and are afraid children will be injured by broken glass. When bottles cost two cents an attempt was made to preserve them. The Deseronto council voted to concur with this resolution.

Some time ago Mr. D. Dawson asked the town to build a sidewalk from the Dawson's Marina up to Main Street. At that time a letter was sent to the Canadian National Railway to ask permission to cross the C.N.R. property, no answer has been received to date. Councillor Sharpe asked that another letter be sent in order to pursue this matter further.

A by-law was passed which will allow the residents of the township of Richmond to use the Deseronto town dump for the disposal of household garbage. The sum of $350 per annum will be charged for this service.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind will hold a canvass on September 27.

The waterfront lot 26 will be sold to Mrs. F. Walker. Waterfront lots 27 and 28 will be sold to Mr. Stan Marek. Mr. Wilfred French will be sold a lot in the extreme east end of town.

Liquor Vote Will Be Held In November

DESERONTO — Deseronto will once again hold a liquor vote on November 3rd. Approximately three years ago an unsuccessful attempt was made to obtain a liquor licence for a cocktail lounge. This election was said to have many discrepancies and a second vote was held which was also lost.

Mr. Stan Marek recently asked the town to hold another vote, to which the council replied, they would first require a deposit of $1,000, to cover the cost of such a plebiscite.

A petition was circulated and enough signatures were obtained to force the council to have this third vote and also pay the costs involved.

CHEER OLIVIER

Major Religions Will Hold Silent Service at Abbey

By RON HOWARD

LONDON (CP)—Leading representatives of the world's major religions will be invited to an unusual silent service at Westminster Abbey next year as this ancient spiritual centre celebrates its 900th anniversary.

About two dozen special events will be featured, spread over the year.

Very Rev. Eric S. Abbott, dean of Westminster, said Tuesday invitations for the silent service, to be held Dec. 10, 1965, will be sent to the Roman Catholic, Jewish, Moslem and other faiths.

Stressing the anniversary theme of "one people," Dean Abbott said:

"We hope that men and women of good will who believe in God in whatever form may on that occasion come and stand together shoulder to shoulder in the abbey in a profound silence."

The calendar of events, beginning Dec. 28—the anniversary date of the abbey's consecration in 1065 — calls for three special commemorative days. Services also will pay tribute to a number of organizations, including the armed forces, welfare bodies and the United Nations.

DESCRIBES SERVICE

Dean Abbott, speaking at a press conference, described the Dec. 28 inaugural day service as "fully ecumenical," bringing together the Queen and members of the royal family, clergy from other churches and diplomatic representatives from various countries. Lionel Chevrier Canadian high commissioner, will represent Canada.

Just Thirty Days After Hiroshima Canada Stepped Into Atomic Age As Chalk River Pile 'Went Critical'

By BOB MacKENZIE

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)—There was an air of tension as the men stood near what seemed to be a simple mass of grey-black graphite bricks.

Their attention was fixed on a small instrument panel, shifting from one dial to another. Ears were tuned to a series of clocks from another control device.

The clocks speeded up to a loud buzz.

"It's gone critical," someone said with carefully-controlled excitement. The tension evaporated. The experiment was a success.

Canada had entered the atomic age with its first nuclear reactor.

That was 20 years ago, on Sept. 5, 1945—just 30 days after the U.S. dropped an atomic bomb on the Japanese port of Hiroshima.

Canada's Zero Energy Experimental Pile — ZEEP for short—produced its chain reaction with natural uranium fuel about three years after the first U.S. success, but ZEEP was the first reactor in operation outside the U.S.

Although it has had a face-lifting to increase its graphite shielding and power, basically the same nuclear reactor is in operation here today, fulfilling its role of testing various uranium fuels.

OUTPUT ONE WATT

While the reactor had an original power of about one watt—the same as a flashlight —it still is relatively in the zero-power range, compared with the later NRX and NRU reactors now in operation here which produce thousands of watts power.

ZEEP was a side effect rather than end result of nuclear research that started in 1940 at the National Research Council in Ottawa. It was conceived after a decision had been made to build the giant NRX reactor and a joint Canadian - British team working at the University of Montreal during the Second World War wanted a test vehicle to help calculate fuel requirements.

Dr. George Laurence of NRC (now president of Canada's Atomic Energy Control Board) had started work on nuclear energy at Ottawa in 1943 with Dr. Weldon Sargent of Queen's University. They tried to see whether the heat-producing fission or atom-splitting process could take place in natural uranium with a carbon moderator which would both sustain and control the process.

"We didn't use enough material to hope to start an actual chain reaction," Dr. Laurence recalled. "All we wanted was to know if the process would be possible with larger quantities of material."

But the form of carbon, powered petroleum coke, wasn't pure enough.

'MESSY JOB'

"It was a real messy job. The coke was just like coal dust and got into everything before we managed to get it into a paraffin-lined bin."

The next step came in 1942 when the British and Canadian governments decided to concentrate a joint nuclear research program in Canada, moving the British work outside the range of German bombers.

The British team, including refugee scientists from France, Germany, Italy and Czechoslovakia, joined the Canadians at the University of Montreal in a program administered by the NRC.

While there was a limited exchange of information with U.S. scientists working on the same problem, the Montreal group was unaware of many U.S. advantages because of secrecy surrounding development of the atomic bomb.

By 1943 the scientists were ready to start work on what they thought would be Canada's first nuclear reactor—the giant NRX which was completed in 1947. But a year later a decision was made to build a smaller experimental reactor to test the fuel design.

The engineering problem was turned over to two NRC mechanical engineers, George Klein and Don Nanzer, who had to contend with two major problems—secrecy and scarcity of materials.

NEEDED SPECIAL SCREW

"I remember we had to go to Chicago to get stainless steel screws," Mr. Klein recalled. He still has one of the screws as a souvenir in his Ottawa NRC office where he now is working on gear design problems.

"But we got wonderful co-operation."

Mr. Klein's role in the nuclear field has been overlooked by many, but after 36 years with the NRC he has won fame in many other fields, especially for the design of the radio antenna used on many U.S. space satellites, including the recent Gemini 5 capsule which kept astronauts Gordon Cooper and Charles Conrad aloft for eight days.

"Secrecy was another matter," Mr. Klein added. "It wasn't until two months after we were consulted that the scientists could tell us exactly what they wanted.

"When they did we had it ready in less than a year.

"It was a simple design. It had to be. We were told to produce something reliable because a man couldn't go inside to fix it if something went wrong.

"The simpler we could make it, the less chance for anything to go wrong."

Mr. Klein was inside the small, white building housing ZEEP when the reactor went into operation that September afternoon.

'IT'S GONE CRITICAL'

"It was rather quiet. There wasn't anything to see except the dials.

"Then some one said 'It's gone critical.' I'm not sure who it was but I think it was Dr. Lew Kowarski."

Dr. Kowarski, a French scientist, was in charge of development of the Montreal research project. When the Second World War started, he was conducting experiments with natural uranium and heavy water — the same system used in ZEEP — as he escaped the Germans and reach Britain with practically the entire world supply of heavy water.

The same heavy water supply accompanied him to Canada and its extreme scarcity led to posting a reminder about care in handling heavy water on ZEEP's storage tank.

"I think Dr. Kowarski put it up but I don't know who wrote it," Mr. Klein said.

"It went like this:

"When you are working with ZEEP

"One rule in your mind you must keep

"Don't waste heavy water

"Any more than you oughter

"Because the darn stuff ain't cheap."

STILL EXPENSIVE

Heavy water contains a rare form of hydrogen rather than the hydrogen atom in regular water and is about 10 per cent heavier. It is available in larger quantities today but still is expensive — about $24.50 a pound.

ZEE Pi self is fasically just an aluminum tank about 6½ feet in diameter and about eight feet deep. To obtain the heat-producing nuclear fission this tubes containing uranium were hung from the top of the tank and the tank was filled with heavy water.

There was little chance of any accident. Radiation was absorbed by the graphite shielding. The heavy water level controlled the fission process so that if it started to go too fast the heat would boil away the heavy water, thus reducing the water level and slowing the process — or even halting it completely.

There also were cadmium rods that could be dropped into the tank to slow or halt the reaction.

But ZEEP, like most reactors, has had a completely trouble-free life.

From this start, a complex nuclear industry has grown in Canada, with four other research reactors now in operation at this Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. site on the Ottawa River, 90 miles northwest of Ottawa.

FIRST POWER STATION

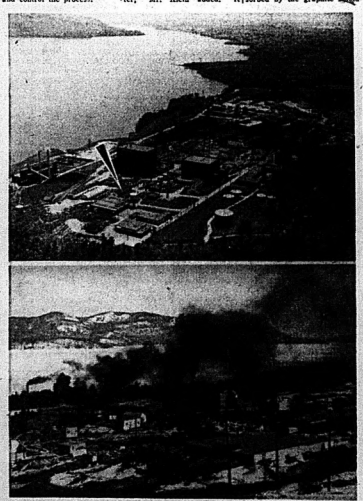
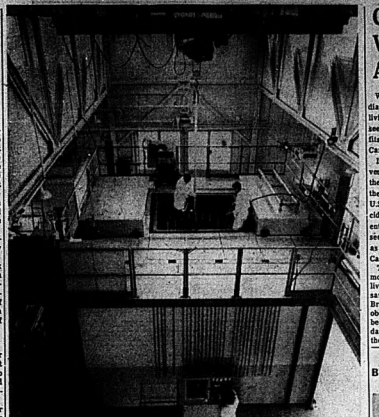
Canada's first nuclear power station, a demonstration unit just north of here, went into operation three years ago and now is supplying power to Ontario Hydro's grid.



This unit has led to plans for three full-scale nuclear power plants in Canada, and the first, at Douglas Point, Ont., on the shore of Lake Huron, is scheduled to go into operation early next year.

Sod - turning ceremonies for an even larger station at Pickering, Ont., near Toronto, will be held Sept. 11 and engineering studies already are under way for a modified Hydro Quebec installation somewhere along the St. Lawrence River. Both should be providing power within seven years.



A new research reactor using an organic compound rather than water for cooling is expected to go into operation within two months at Whiteshell, Man., 60 miles northeast of Winnipeg.

Canada also is building nuclear reactors for India and Pakistan and is one of the world leaders in peaceful uses of nuclear power for industry and medicine, particularly with the radioactive cobalt bomb for cancer treatment.

"This progress really isn't surprising," says Dr. Lloyd Elliott, director of AECL's physics division at Chalk River. "The timing has worked out just about the way most scientists expected, although scientists are sometimes inclined to be optimistic in the light of engineering work that has to follow their successes."

BIRTHPLACE OF ATOM PROGRAM—In the spring of 1945 Canada's nuclear centre at Chalk River (lower photo) was a mass of mud and confusion. Foundation for the first reactor was the concrete platform (centre). Today the original building (see arrow, lower photo) is lost in maze of laboratories which have sprung up along the Ottawa River. The large structures at right are the giant NRX and newer NRU reactors. (CP Photo)

ATOMIC PROGRAM STARTED HERE — Canada's first nuclear reaction took place 20 years ago in this ZEEP reactor at Chalk River. The energy produced was about enough to light a flashlight bulb. The ZEEP, which was built primarily to calculate fuel requirements for larger reactors, is still in use today. # Canadian, U.K. Veterans Seek Added Benefits

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Canadian and British army veterans living in the United States are seeking to have the same benefits as U.S. veterans living in Canada.

In a vote at the annual convention during the weekend of the Great Lakes Command of the Royal Canadian Legion, U.S.A., the 300 delegates decided to work on a bill for presentation to the U.S. Congress seeking a similar arrangement as exists for U.S. veterans in Canada.

The delegates, representing more than 1,000 veterans now living in eight U.S. states who saw service in Canadian or British forces, said the primary objective of the new bill would be to standardize and consolidate benefits on both sides of the border.

Louisiana Is Declared Disaster Area

Johnson Visits Flood-stricken New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A little - Dunkerque rescue fleet ranging from primitive bayou pirogues to helicopters prowled through the night and into today in a mercy mission on floodwaters from hurricane Betsy.

President Johnson saw the flood scene Friday in a two-hour tour of the hurricane damaged city. He then declared southern Louisiana a major disaster area.

Johnson flew from Washington to make a personal inspection of New Orleans, the sector hardest hit by the hurricane which may have brought this carnival city its severest natural disaster.

"This state will build its way out of this sorrow, and the national government will be beside you every step of the way," Johnson said before flying back to the capital.

PERSONAL TRAGEDIES

The rescue operation by hundreds of craft had already brought out an estimated 30,000 people, police said. At least another 10,000 are still in the inundated area, some perched on roof tops, the only high points available.

As communications were repaired and flood waters ebbed, the death toll of the storm rose to 36 in Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi and Florida.

Still to be counted is the loss of property, a total from Betsy's winds and floods. Agriculture officials estimated the cost' to the important cotton, rice and sugar cane crops alone at $90,000,000 to $40,000,000 or more.

The vast offshore oil and gas properties, unmanned ahead of the storm, remained to be inspected for damage.

"There will be a lot more bodies out there," said officer G. J. Le Blanc Jr. of the city police. He was referring to a 30-square mile area south of the city along the east bank of the Mississippi River. It was flooded by up to 15 feet of water when a levee broke shortly after the full force of the hurricane struck the city just before midnight Thursday.

MAY LOSE TRIP

"We can't possibly get them all today," he said. "The trouble is that many of them have no food and may get too tired to hang on."

Rescue officials called for small boat owners to aid in the

Pakistani Jets, Paratroopers Launch Drive

NEW DELHI (AP) — India said today strategic airports and supply routes near the Chinese border in east India were attacked by Pakistani troops while hundreds of Pakistan's paratroops landed in the same area.

These blows threatened to spread the fighting from the borders of West Pakistan and India 1,000 miles eastward to East Pakistan. India probably fears the Pakistani strikes in the east may be a prelude to Chinese incidents on the border.

Three unsuccessful Pakistani air raids also were reported on the vital bridge across the Brahmaputra River. This bridge is used to carry troops and supplies to the Northeast Frontier, where Chinese troops attacked in 1962.

John Bush of Reuters news agency quoted a New Delhi spokesman said India today captured 17 tanks and killed a major - general and a brigadier - general in fighting on the Lahore front.

This brought the total of Pakistani tanks so far destroyed or damaged to 170 with 19 captured, while India had lost 35 tanks up to last Thursday, he said.

THANT LEAVES

On the diplomatic front, United Nations Secretary-General U Thant ended his peace mission to Pakistan and headed for India. His talks with leaders of Pakistan apparently got nowhere.

In Moscow, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin disclosed at a press conference he sent letters Sept. 4 to India and Pakistan asking the two sides to end hostilities and supporting Thant's peace efforts.

Fighting along the front in the Rann of Kutch in India seemed to have settled down to attack and counterattack.

A Pakistani spokesman in Rawalpindi declared the Indian Army was launching a wholly defensive battle. He conceded Indian forces were still bolking some positions on Pakistani soil.

But on the northern front, he said, Pakistani forces were "quote a few miles inside their territory" in the sector around the Indian city of Khemkaran.

New Delhi announced Friday that Indian troops had withdrawn in the area, under heavy Pakistani attack. Indian Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan had declared portions that Pakistani shells had fallen in Ferozepore, 10 miles inside the border.

"Fierce fighting" was under way.

To Keep Pound Buoyant

By HAROLD MORRISON

LONDON (CP) — Ten countries, including Canada but not France, have agreed to put up more cash and credit, if necessary, to keep the pound buoyant. Britain jubilantly proclaimed this would dispel all devaluation fears.

The amount of new standby credit made available through currency swaps and other central bank arrangements was not disclosed but British treasury officials said Friday it is substantial.

The big disappointment in Whitehall was the refusal of France to participate.

The Bank of England announcement produced London newspaper headlines such as "Pound Is Safe" and "Sterling Wins Through."

While the pound is maintaining stability, the critical test is expected to come in the fall and winter months. The flight of money from Britain, which reached a high point during an economic crisis a year ago, has virtually stopped, but investment money still is not coming back in great amounts.

Soviet Motion Rejected

OTTAWA (CP)—The annual conference of the Inter-parliamentary Union Friday voted down resolutions by the Soviet Union and the United Arab Republic on the Viet Nam situation.

The milder Arab resolution, which urged an end to U.S. air bombardment and negotiations to restore peace, won more support than the tough Soviet draft on "the aggression of the U.S. in Viet Nam."

A total of 130 delegates voted against the Arab resolution, 194 supported it and 98 abstained.

Vote on the Soviet resolution was 411 against, 124 for and 175 abstentions.

Applause followed an Arab delegate's plea that an end to bombardment in Viet Nam would be a sign of good will that could pave the way to peace.

Voting with Russia were Indonesia, Hungary, Bulgaria, Mongolia, Poland and Czecho-

Social Credit to Lose All 5 Quebec Members

QUEBEC (CP) — Dr. Guy Marcoux, Social Credit MP for Quebec-Montmorency, said Friday night he will run in the Nov. 8 federal elections, but not as a Social Credit candidate, and he believes the other four Quebec Social Credit members will also quit the party.

Dr. Marcoux announced his decision in an interview, but declined to say whether he would run as an independent or seek nomination as another party's candidate.

The other four Quebec Social Crediters are Marcel Lessard, member for Lac St. Jean; Maurice Cote, Chicoutimi; Gerard Chevalier, Sherbrooke; and Jean-Louis Frenette, Portneuf.

Dr. Marcoux said he believes Mr. Frenette will seek nomination as a Liberal candidate, and the other three as Independents.

In a separate interview, Mr. Lessard confirmed that he will contest the election as a Independent.

The five Social Credit members are those who remained loyal to Party Leader Robert Thompson when the party's Quebec wing, le Ralliement des Crediitistes, broke away in September, 1963.

The split, led by Crediiste Leader Real Caouette, reduced Mr. Thompson's following in the Commons to 11 from 24. At disolution, there were nine Social Credit members and 13 Crediistes.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said Friday he is not surprised at reports that five Quebec Socred MPs have quit the party.

He told a new conference that it is necessary for the MPs to run as Independents in order to have a chance in the Nov. 8 federal election. He understood that all five will be opposed by Crediitistes.

Mr. Thompson predicted a return of a minority Liberal government.

He did not say so in as many words. But he said there will be a minority government and "I don't see Diefenbaker forming it and I don't see Tommy Douglas forming it."

The Conservatives will open his election campaign after a nominating convention in his Red Deer, Alta., constituency Sept. 24.

Charge Mother In Death of Two Children

TORONTO (CP)—A 35-year-old mother was charged with capital murder Friday night after the bodies of her two children were found in Lake Ontario.

Police said Mrs. Joyce Brown was under heavy guard in hospital where she was reported to be in severe shock.

The bodies of Cynthia, 6, and Larry, 5, were found by police floating in the lake a few minutes after police received a telephone call. An autopsy showed the children Mrd drowned.

Police said the children had apparently been led into the lake and then pushed under the water.

They said Mrs. Brown has been under psychiatric care for some months.

Students Have No Recourse

OTTAWA (CP)—Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer, sent a circular letter Friday to all returning officers advising them that university students who had not registered by Wednesday will have the right to vote only in their home ridings Nov. 8.

He said in an interview that the Canada Elections Act is "quite clear" on this subject and he is bound to enforce it. There was no need to seek a legal opinion from the justice department.

Earlier Friday, Prime Minister Pearson said at a press conference he was "sorry about this inability." He had asked the justice department to see if any way could be found to prevent students far from home from losing their votes in the federal election.

Mr. Castonguay's circular quoted in full section 16, rule 9 of the act and asked the returning officers to inform all enumerators about it and satisfy for India. His talks with leaders themselves that the enumerators understand its effect.'

The enumerators will go from door to door Oct. 20-30 to compile lists of all eligible voters. "NOTHING CAN BE DONE"

Mr. Castonguay's letter told the Canadian Union of Students something can be done to change section 16, which the union said will disfranchise thousands of students aged 21 or more.

The 138,000-member students union is up in arms over a technicality in the act which says university students who wish to vote away from home must be

Air Force Planes Trap 1,000-2,000 Viet Cong

SAIGON (AP)—U.S. pilots raided the headquarters of a Viet Cong regiment in the Mekong Delta today, U.S. military sources said.

They estimated that between 1,000 and 2,000 Communists may be trapped by the air strikes.

Associated Press Photographer Horst Faas flew over the area and reported the Reds have 500 miles southwest of the capital. He reported that escape routes leading from the headquarters appeared to be cut off.

By nightfall, U.S. aircraft had made nearly 100 strikes against the position despite 30 mile-an-hour winds and low-hanging clouds. It was believed the guerrillas suffered heavy losses.

Earlier, U.S. Army helicopters assaulted 100 guerrillas believed part of the Viet Cong force, but "government soldiers are not landed to engage the Communists because of heavy rains.

In another action, South Vietnamese troops killed 104 Communist guerrillas in a big operation this week involving several thousand troops in a coastal province, a U.S. military spokesman said.

U.S. marines joined the action Friday in Quang Nam Province but fighting has slackened off and no major contact has been reported since mid-week.

The marines were airlifted into the area after winding up a major sweep on the Bagantangan Peninsula.

In the air war, U.S. planes pounded a military barracks in North Viet Nam Friday for the second straight day.

In a series of raids by Viet Cong in Long Khanh Province about 40 miles east of Saigon, the guerrillas inflicted moderate casualties on the defenders of one outpost as it was overrun but government troops retook it without engaging the Viet Cong, U.S. sources said.

Huge U.S. Air Force jet B-52 bombers made their 23rd attack of the war Friday when they dropped tons of bombs on a suspected guerrilla stronghold in the central highlands.

Following the B-52 attack, helicopters ferried U.S. and Vietnamese troops into the presumed Viet Cong communications centre 325 miles northeast of Saigon.

Under security rules, no further details were given.

A U.S. Marine regiment and South Vietnamese battalion Sunday killed 196 guerrillas during the four-day sweep of the Batangan Peninsula, 330 miles north of Saigon, a marine source said.

As the big operation ended, the spokesman said 36 Viet Cong were captured, 265 suspects detained and 22 weapons taken.

50 Beautiful Girls Compete For "Miss America" Title

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (CP) Miss America 1966 will be crowned shortly before midnight tonight, climaxing a four-day talent and beauty examination among 50 beautiful girls including Miss Canada, Linda Douma of Sidney, B.C.

After three days of preliminary judging, the 10 semi-finalists will compete in swimsuits for the runners - up are picked until only one remains—the new Miss America is crowned replacing queen Vonda Kay Van Dyke of Phoenix, Ariz.

The preliminaries started Wednesday. Each of the girls, most of them college students seeking scholarships, competed in the swim suit, talent and evening gown divisions. The evening gown winners are announced.

Nine judges, headed by actress Joan Crawford, award points that will give one of the girls a title.

Miss Douma, 20-year-old anthropology student at the University of Victoria, is one of the tallest girls in the competition. She is five-foot-nine and measures 34-24-36.

The first preliminary winners Wednesday were Miss India, Elaine Smith, who sang a medley of tunfis from Sound of Music in the talent division, and Miss Mississippi, Patsy Puckett, a hazel - eyed blonde who showed her shapely 35-23-35 figure in a swim suit.

The girl who wins the crown will receive a $10,000 scholarship, personal appearance contracts valued, at some $90,000 and an opportunity to travel about 200,000 miles throughout the United States and perhaps some other countries.

A crowd of about 25,000 is expected in convention hall tonight. The final two hours of the pageant will be shown for the 12th year on television. Bert Parks will be master of ceremonies again.

Cold, Wet Harvest Weather Hits Farmers in Pocketbooks

WINNIPEG (CP)—Cold, wet weather is hitting the Western wheat farmer where it hurts—in the pocketbook.

Grain authorities here say there still is little reason to doubt the Prairies will yield enough wheat to beat the 702,000,000 - bushel record of 1963.

But because of the wet weather, grades are expected to be lower—worth less to the grower—when harvesting gets back in high gear. It has been at a virtual standstill over the Prairies since early August, and on rains started Aug. 22.

W. J. Parker, president of Manitoba Pool Elevators, said in an interview Friday $100,000,000 is a "conservative" estimate of what the prairie grain crop lost in value in the last two weeks.

He said the grade loss in wheat will likely amount to about 10 cents a bushel, and there probably are 300,000,000 bushels of wheat still on the fields, standing or "in swath"—cut grain lying in the fields awaiting threshing.

That would represent a loss of $30,000,000, and not take into account loss in other grains and loss in seed per bushel of wheat. Wheat loses one to three pounds a bushel in such conditions as the present one.

In Edmonton Friday, R. E. English, statistician for the Alberta agriculture department, said losses will be heavy only in the western part of the province.

"Rains and cool weather have caused considerable deterioration of all crops in Alberta, but our information is that the damage is not as heavy as that in Saskatchewan and Manitoba."

The Saskatchewan Wheat Pool said cool, wet, cloudy weather kept harvesting at a standstill in the week ended Sept. 7. Crop damage from rain, hail and winds was reported in a number of communities.

The Saskatchewan agriculture department said in a report issued Sept. 7 that 65 per cent of its wheat had been harvested. About 15 per cent was threshed—or combined.

That left half the wheat lying in swath in the province which produces by far the bulk of Canada's wheat. Saskatchewan has about 18,500,000 acres in wheat this year, Alberta 6,000,000 and Manitoba 3,600,000.

By mid-week, as combining was resuming or about to resume, more rain pelted the prairies.

The Manitoba Wheat Pool president said loss in grain quality will not affect foreign purchases.

India, Pakistan Conflict Final Blow to U.S. Policy

WASHINGTON (CP) — The war between India and Pakistan is the final blow for United States policy of a decade ago to contain communism in Asia with military pacts.

To the late John Foster Dulles, then U.S. state secretary, the chief threat was the Soviet Union. The simplest definition is containing that threat was taken to be an extension of the NATO-style defence to the Middle and Far East.

There emerged the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization and the Baghdad pact, renamed the Central Treaty Organization when Iraq withdrew.

On the world map of that day, those formed a boat and tidy buffer against any Soviet Communist expansion. But the war in Viet Nam finished off SEATO and the India-Pakistani conflict has ended any remaining usefulness that CENTO might have had.

CHINESE THREAT

Soviet communism no longer is a threat; Chinese communism is.

SEATO—comprising the U.S., Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, The Philippines and Pakistan—has produced little hard military support for the U.S. in Viet Nam. France no longer attends the meetings.

CENTO — comprising Britain, Pakistan, Turkey and Iran, with the U.S. technically not a member of the alliance it put together—has never been tortured a deal ex to Pakistani appeals for help against India.

The underlying weakness of the SEATO and CENTO pacts was that little reciprocal protection existed as in NATO of that day.

Subsequently, the addition of Greece and Turkey to NATO weakened that cohesion through chronic tensions over Cyprus. President de Gaulle of France has added a greater threat with his apparent lotent to pull out of the alliance in 1969 or sheerly after it.

SUPPLIED ARMS

Pakistan was the only other nation aside from Britain which belonged both to CENTO and SEATO and that helps explain why the U.S. extended $1,200,000,000 worth of arms to her, ear-marked only for use against any Communist threat.

India now is the target of these weapons.

The rise of Chinese influence and the Communist presence of the fight between the Soviet Union and China to lead the Communist world has helped to hasten the demise of both military pacts.

It seems plain now as well that Pakistan, while accepting arms from the U.S. under the guise of preparing to resist communism, sli along fek India to be the more likely foe.

This view accepted with some reluctance officially here.

Jamaican Y's Man Visits With City Club Members

Y's Man Ellis Grant-Levy is the guest of the Belleville Y's Men's Club for the next few days as he tours Ontario before departing to Kingston, Jamaica. Y's Grant as he likes to be called, was International convention delegate to Fredericton, N.B. from the Y's Men's Club of Kingston, Jamaica.

By special arrangement with Overseas Delegates' Committee of the International convention, Y's Grant is being introduced to Ontario and Ontario Y's Men. So far on his whirlwind tour he has visited Montreal, Ottawa, Peterborough, Orillia, Midland and Barrie. He has been greatly impressed with Canadian hospitality and promises equally good things to anyone who visits Jamaica.

A supervisor with the Banana Board of Jamaica, Y's Grant also is secretary and president-elect of the Kingston, Jamaica, Y's Men's Club. He describes his homeland as a small island of close to two million population. Living in an area 144 miles by 90 miles, "Small but Powerful."

Jamaica is multi-racial, there are no segregation or color problems, an example to the world of integration. "Out of many, one people."

Although—Jamaica is the "Crossroads of the West Indies," Mr. Levy states that trade with Canada is quite limited, except for large quantities of bauxite mined - by Alcan (Jamaica) Ltd. The Jamaican people are very proud of their orderly and bloodless winning of independence three years ago. They are proud of their economic development which has given them a higher living standard dependent upon their exports of sugar, bananas and other citrus fruits, cocoa, bauxite, rum, and a flourishing year round tourist industry.

Y's Grant expressed how happy and envious he was to be in the new Belleville Family YMCA building. Many fine programs are underway in Jamaica for new YMCA's but it will be a few years yet until they are equal North American style facilities. He is pleased to be an overseas guest of the Y's dom and to bring better understanding of Jamaica to the Y's Men of Ontario.

way in West Pakistan's northern sector, Indian radio said. No indication of who was winning was given and no official spokesman declined to comment before a briefing scheduled later in the day.

The Pakistani government radio in Rawalpindi said "fierce fighting" is going on in the Sialkot and Kasur sectors, 150 miles east of Rawalpindi.

The radio claimed Pakistani troops and planes have destroyed 100 Indian tanks in the last five days.

"Pakistani military observers believe the entire MIG (Soviet jet) strength of India has been destroyed," the broadcast said. THANT LEAVES

Officials in New Delhi announced that United Nations Secretary - General U Thant is not expected here until Sunday on the second leg of his peace mission to the war-torn subcontinent.

Thant left Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital, today after two days of apparently fruitless talks with officials there. He met with Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Kahn and Foreign Minister Z. A. Bhutto.

"Thant's visit is like a boy scout blowing his whistle—tweet, tweet—and telling us to be good," said a qualified Pakistani source in Rawalpindi. "We have been good long enough and now we must fight."

Official sources hinted Pakistan is standing firm on its position that there must be a plebiscite in the divided state of Kashmir, cause of the outbreak of fighting last week. Pakistan believes most Kashmiris will vote to join Pakistan.

In a dispatch from Moscow, Reuters news agency reported that Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin told the Indian ambassador today that the U.S.S.R. fully supports action by Thant toward a solution of the India-Pakistan conflict.

Kosygin was speaking after Ambassador Triloki Kaul had delivered to him a note from Indian Prime Minister Shastri.

Soviet leaders held separate meetings with the ambassadors of Rindia and Pakistan and planned to mediate the dispute. PROTESTS BAN

In other developments the Pakistani envoy to London protested Friday night the British-American embargo on arms to the warring countries and charged it will favor India.

Pakistan High Commissioner Alie Shaikh said a press conference the ban on military supplies "would cripple Pakistan, more than India, considering India is many times our size in area and resources."

Turkey and Iran, allies of Pakistan in the Central Treaty Organization, suggested Friday night that the UN send a peace force to the area of the India-Pakistan war. Both countries offered to contribute to the force from their seniors.

Prime Minister Tawfik Abdul Rahmen of Malaysia was reported today to have suggested a Commonwealth meeting be summoned to deal with the India-Pakistan crisis.

Eucumenical Council Subject of Talk

TRENTON — Rev. Joseph O'Sullivan of St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic parish in Wooler, briefed members of the Trenton Kiwanis Club at their day night on achievements of the Eucumenical Council, convened by Pope John in 1962 and told of the aspirations of the Second Vatican Council which will be called next Tuesday.

Since the Eucumenical Council started, said Father O'Sullivan, the church has been brought up to date in many ways, where previously it had been "in the deep freeze of the Reformation."

Some of the subjects the council will discuss this session are race relations, world peace, communism and the role of the laity in the church.

"The church will actually be run by all phases of human living," Father O'Sullivan said.

NO APPROVAL

Wm. Sidor presented plans for Trenton's Centennial to night for an extension to his Westmount Park sub-division, which would run south and west of the established development, on the hill and behind the hill.

Council, however, will ac vise the Department of Municipal Affairs, Community Planning, that until Mr. Sidor fulfills his contract with the town for certain work and sent development, no council approval for the extension will be forthcoming.

BRINGS WOMAN

Trenton council has been told more than once this summer about the luxuriant growth of weeds in Trenton. Tuesday night, Miss Eleanor O'Rourke, a long-time resident, "illustrated" her concern that the weeds are now in a luxuriant second growth by bringing a paper bag of them along to council with her.

Prominent Quebec Figures To Seek Liberal Nomination

OTTAWA (CP)—Three prominent Quebec figures, long rumored as potential cabinet timber, have declared their intention to enter the political arena for the Nov. 8 federal election.

They are Jean Marchand, Gerard Pelletier and Pierre-Elliot Trudeau, who announced a news conference in Montreal that they will seek Liberal nominations.

All have been mooned for some time by the Liberals. There have been reports that the New Democrats wooted them, too.

Mr. Marchand is former president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions. Mr. Pelletier is a newspaper columnist and former editor of Montreal La Presse. Mr. Trudeau is a lawyer and economist.

Prime Minister Pearson's office would not confirm or deny that the trio would run.

Mr. Pearson was asked about Mr. Dupuis' declared intention of seeking the Liberal nomination.

"It's a free country," he replied, "and I'm proud that in Quebec all our candidates will have been nominated at open nominating conventions."

In St. Johns, Que., Mr. Dupuis said:

"Why are they making an exception here? Is it that they are afraid I would be selected?

Mr. Pearson announced that the party's election campaign will be launched with a rally here Sept. 21 of Liberal candidates, party workers and the provincial executive. Regional campaign will start at his nominating convention for Algoma East, according to Espanola, Ont., Sept. 17.

He repeated his appeal for a strong majority government to deal with such future problems as division of taxing powers between federal and provincial governments and medical care insurance.

He said he agrees with Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker that executive, legislative and judicial powers should be kept separate but declined to comment on Mr. Diefenbaker's statement that Liberals cause to the integrity of Mr. Pearson's government.

Private Radio Station Owners, Managers React in Strong Way

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Private broadcasters have reacted with strong words to criticism of their program standards contained in a report to the government by the Fowler committee on broadcasting.

"Unfair," "ridiculous," "distortion" and "regimentation" were some of the words used by private station owners and managers Friday in commenting on the report.

Labor leaders, on the other hand, generally were favorable.

The 400-page report, issued Thursday night, sharply criticized the CBC as well as commercial stations. It called for the creation of an all-powerful agency to prove for better programming on radio and television.

Alphonse Ouimet, president of the CBC, said in Montreal it was not the practice of the publicly-owned corporation to make immediate comment on a document of this kind.

"I am certain the CBC will have the opportunity of making its views known at the appropriate time, and we will certainly do so," he said.

WILL BE STUDIED

Mr. Ouimet added that selection of the report suggesting changes in the CBC will be studied and "implemented in that will improve our operation will be quickly adopted."

The Canadian Labor Congress, in a statement by Secretary-Treasurer Donald MacDonald, welcomed the theme of the report which called for improved variety and Canadian content.

But he said the plan for a super-authority to control broadcasting would need more careful study by the 1,150,000-member labor body.

The Association of Radio and Television Employees of Canada (CLC) announced at Montreal general support for recommendations contained in the Fowler report. The largest CBC union in broadcasting, the association represents some 2,300 employees including administrative staff, announcers, program and sales personnel.

Strong support for the Fowler proposal was voiced by the Canadian Broadcasting League, an association of 73 organizations and about 50 individuals drawn mainly from labor and farm groups.

David Kirk of Ottawa, a league executive, said the CBL has long advocated a strong central controlling body in the broadcast field.

CTV REPLIES IN PART

In Toronto Spence Caldwell, president of the Canadian Television Network, said Friday he agrees with many parts of the Fowler report but doesn't understand other aspects. He reserved judgment until he has read it.

However, he replied to criticism that CTV carries few programs of real value by pointing to the network's ratings:

"People must like these programs. Are we to broadcast to the people or to a few authorities in Ottawa?"

Mr. Caldwell predicted that what the report called the "unsavory feud" between CTV and the affiliated private stations would end now that the stations are beginning to make money.

He also said that the private stations had lost about $6,000,000 while CTV, owned by "100 businessmen and Canadian businessmen," lost some $600,000 during three years of operation.

CAN GO AHEAD

Replying to the report's suggestion that CTV be taken over as a government trust, he said the government could go ahead provided it reimbursed investors and added a dividend for their efforts.

Also in Toronto, Henry Comor, national president of the Association of Canadian Television and Radio Artists, said the report's emphasis on program content will "assist all creative broadcasters in their fight with commercial broadcasters."

Mr. Comor said in a statement the recommended institution of a Canadian Broadcasting Authority to replace the Board of Broadcast Governors and the CBC board of directors would give strength and purpose to a4 branches of broadcasting.

Private broadcasters concerning the CBC administration should result in a new vitality in that creaking monolith," he said.

LACKS 'UNDERSTANDING'

In Regina, H. A. Crittenden of CKCK, vice-president and managing director of Transcanada Communications Ltd., and Marsh Ellis, president of CJME, said Friday the Fowler Report lacked the understanding of the broadcasting business.

In Montreal, Earl Pritchard, manager of CIVL Verdun, said the report is unfair because it generalizes so much.

The report states that 49 French-language stations average $16,300 for Canadian talent in 1963 while during the same period 180 English-language stations averaged $5,900.

Referring to the $16,300 average for French-language stations, Mr. Pritchard said his bilingual station spent that much in two or three weeks for Canadian talent. He said CIVL spent $300,000 on live Canadian talent in 1963 and in 1964 it was more than $400,000.

In Calgary, Gordon Love, chairman of the board of directors of CFCN-TV, a CTV station, said he probably could write as good a report on the radio and paper industry as Robert Fowler wrote about the broadcasting industry.

Mr. Fowler is president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

Later, 18 Alberta television and radio stations joined in attacking the report.

The stations, in a statement issued following a meeting in Calgary, said the report's suggestion that control of broadcasting be placed under a Canadian Broadcasting Authority veers "in the direction of the worst kind of dictatorship."

The statement said such a move "would place viewers and listeners in Canada in the position of having to see and hear what someone thinks they should see and hear . . . not necessarily what they want."

At Winnipeg, historian W. L. Morton, a former member of the CBC board of governors, said the report carries "dangerous bureaucratic tendencies."

He criticized particularly a recommendation to scrap the CBC board and the Board of Broadcast Governors, replacing them with a single Canadian Broadcasting Authority.

Dr. Morton said in an interview that such a move would lead to "too much centralism, too much regulation and concentration rather than balance."

SAYS FACTS DISTORTED

In Vancouver, three area radio & t.v. executives labelled as a distortion of facts the Fowler committee's conclusion that private radio stations in Canada spend an average of only $22.39 a day each on Canadian talent.

All three said the figure does not give a true picture of private radio's support of Canadian talent because the committee lumped together the operations of large metropolitan stations and outlets in smaller towns.

Ray Peters, president of B.C. Broadcasting Limited, which operates CHAN-TV in Vancouver and CHEK-TV in Victoria, said he got the impression from the report that Mr. Fowler had made up his mind before the inquiry began and did not want to be bothered by facts.

Mr. Fowler, he said, did not invite individual presentations or submissions, had not been to Vancouver and apparently did not really know what was going on in broadcasting in B.C.

Two Liberal Senators Retire

OTTAWA (CP) — Retirement of two more Liberal senators was reported Friday.

Senator Thomas V. Grant of Montague, P.E.I., who will be 89 years old in December, is still retiring because of age.

Senator Leonard Tremblay, 69, of St. Malachie, Que., has stepped down because of poor health.

Under terms of the Senate retirement bill passed by Parliament in June, Senator Grant will qualify for a full senatorial pension given to present senators who retire at age 75 or more. Future appointees must retire at that age.

Senator Grant is the third to retire under the plan. Senators 33 senators who are 75 or over have not yet announced their decision. They are likely expected to stay on at their $15,000 salary for as long as they wish.

The latest resignations bring the number of Senate vacancies to nine. There are two in Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Ontario, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

PLAN JOURNALISM COURSE

QUEBEC (CP)—The extension department of Laval University will introduce a course in journalism this year, open to all interested in journalism. The announcement Friday said the course will be conducted by four professors of the university.

65 YEARS MARRIED — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Odendahl, formerly of Sinclair Street, Belleville, and now residents of Hastings Manor, enjoy a quiet game of cribbage on eve of 65th wedding anniversary.

Mr., Mrs. Robert Odendahl To Mark 65th Anniversary At Hastings Manor Monday

Sixty five years married and never a harsh word.

That is the record of marital happiness for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Odendahl who Monday will observe their 65th wedding anniversary at Hastings Manor.

"Our children never heard a harsh word between us," stated the 88-year-old bridegroom, still as attentive to his wife as when he was wedding day in London, England, back in 1900.

Mr. Odendahl, a retired electrical engineer, works mornings in the county home hobby shop and spends his afternoons with Mrs. Odendahl, now confined to a wheelchair.

An electrical engineering graduate from the London Institute, Mr. Odendahl has held many positions in the electrical field, both in England and in Canada. He is best known locally for his knowledge of electric motors and his motor re-winding shop on Sinclair Street.

One time employee of an English power company supplying power to the London underground, Mr. Odendahl at his wife's suggestion decided to emigrate to Canada in 1910.

The only person the couple knew in Canada was then living in Oshawa and after arriving in that city Mr. Odendahl quickly got a job at the McLaughlin motor plant, forerunner of today's General Motors.

His job was installing the electrical work for McLaughlin dashboards.

DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

But he quit his job following a difference of opinion with R. S. McLaughlin — and was promptly hired as manager of the Oshawa machine shop.

Later he worked for International Nickel at Copperclif where he was a department head, then went to Frood Mines for two years.

While he was at Frood Mines he was offered the position of hydro superintendent at the St. Mary's Cement, public utilities, a job which he held for 17 years before going into business for himself at Woodstock.

But the hungry depression years of the 1930's intervened and Mr. Odendahl not only lost his business, but also his health.

The doctor told him his working days were over, so Mr. Odendahl and his wife decided to enjoy life for a while and went on an extended 11,000 miles motor trip through the United States and Western Canada.

Their prolonged stay in the mountainous areas of British Columbia and Yellowstone Park, restored Mr. Odendahl's health and he decided he was not quite ready for retirement after all.

Arriving in Belleville in 1938 Mr. Odendahl set up a home electrical repair shop which he gave up only about three years ago.

The couple now live at the county home where Mrs. Odendahl is a wheelchair patient.

With most of their children living at a distance, the couple expect to spend a quiet anniversary on Monday.

Members of Christ Anglican Church, the couple saw two sons enter the ministry. Their son Robert is an Anglican minister near Brantford, while another son Albert (now deceased) entered the ministry of the Mormon Church.

"We never stood in his way, it was his choice," Mr. Odendahl said.

The couple have two other sons, Eric of Brisbane, Australia, and Arthur of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and a daughter Mrs. Eva Brady of Consecon.

The search was organized when three Rev. Dr. Ernest Long, secretary of the United Church of Canada, told police his son Peter, 22, should have phoned on Thursday.

Stricter Control?

The Fowler committee on broadcasting advocates a new controlling body for the news and entertainment medium, to be called the Canadian Broadcasting Authority, with a full-time chairman and 14 part-time members.

Whether such a body would improve the image of Canadian broadcasting is a matter for conjecture. One thing is certain, it would mean much stricter control of broadcasting.

The first duty of the proposed authority would be to "control, regulate and develop the program performance of all broadcasters." This, on general principle is something Canadians, living in a free, democratic country, would not take kindly to.

Dennis Braithwaite, the Globe and Mail's commentator on broadcasting, has observed: "It is a departure from anything in past broadcasting practice in this country. Until now, outside of a minimum Canadian content regulation, broadcasters have always been free to program as they chose."

The Fowler committee is quite blunt on the matter of program content. Averring that the only thing that matters in broadcasting is "program content," the committee says in its report that the general level of Canadian programming, "is deplorably low — dominated to an increasing degree by the worst type of U.S. shows."

What the committee should have said, of course, is not so much that program content but rather the public taste is deplorably low. By and large the Canadian (and American) public is an uncritical body. They lap up what is served with a word of complaint. Culture? That is for squares and eggheads. Program more of this type of thing at the expense of popular fare and the bottom would fall out of the whole broadcasting edifice.

As Mr. Braithwaite observed: "Isn't the low state of television . . . directly related to commercialism? Wouldn't the CBC, CTV, CBS or NBC, gladly telecast art and culture if sponsors would pay for it and enough people would watch it?"

What could a new broadcasting authority made up of 12 part-time members and an embattled full-time chairman do that the existing authority is not already doing? The Fowler committee has made some useful recommendations, but in the opinion of many their ideas are too Utopian, too unrealistic. Probably the best solution is to carry on with the present structure while seeking means of streamlining the CBC's unwieldy administration and improving program content.

Douglas Fisher Retires

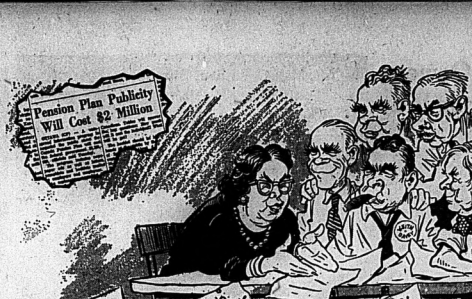
It seems only yesterday that Douglas Fisher, a Port Arthur high school teacher and virtually unknown outside his riding, toppled C. D. Howe in the 1957 election.

Mr. Fisher won the seat for the CCF party and went on to hold it in each succeeding election under the banner of the New Democratic Party created by the CCF.

Since then Mr. Fisher has become one of the best-known personalities in the House of Commons. A giant of a man physically, he rose to become deputy leader of his party under Tommy Douglas.

On that rainy day in Port Arthur in the spring of 1957 when Mr. Howe quietly accepted defeat in the Cumberland Street headquarters of the CCF party and Mr. Fisher was catapulted into prominence, the new member stood by happily with his wife.



Now, not far short of a decade later, events have turned full circle for Mr. Fisher. "My wife and I have a family of boys and they become a stranger to them," he said in a telecast announcing his retirement from politics. "I've had to ask myself which comes first — your family or politics. The answer had to be family."

For one who has made no small contribution to the political life of Canada, Mr. Fisher's decision is all the more admirable. He says he will likely return to teaching, continue a column for a Toronto newspaper and perhaps write a couple of books. The subjects reflect the versatility of the man. One will be on the Second World War and the other will deal with the history of sports.

There must be no lessening of this concern for the constitutional rights of persons accused of crime. But the first and foremost priority today must be a like concern for the rights of citizens to be free from criminal molestation of their person and property. — Lewis F. Powell, President of the American Bar Association.

The French girl respects the opinions of her husband, and usually accepts them; the American girl often contradicts her husband in public, and ignores him in private. — Mrs. John Brigge, a Frenchwoman living in Connecticut.

Grosart Is Back as Member Of Tory Planning Team

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Look who's going back to Conservative National Headquarters here in the Capital.

That one-time newspaperman, former Toronto advertising agency executive, political backroom boy and campaign ringmaster Allister H. G. Grosart, now the Honorable Senator from Pickering, Ontario, an exurb of Metro.

All set to take charge, too, as one of a top team of three as the party's organizational master-mind.

Allister Grosart has been a strategic strategist, policy-planner, platform builder, idea-man and brain-truster-in-chief for John Diefenbaker ever since 1948.

That was the year he ran Diefi's second and still unsuccessful bid for the Federal Conservative leadership.

He was still calling the policy, platform and general political plays for Diefi in his third and this time hugely successful battle for the leadership eight years later.

And from then, for the next six years, everything came up roses for them both.

AT THE OLD STAND

With Allister Grosart as campaign manager, Diefi threw the Prime Minister "Uncle Louie" St. Laurent's Liberals the smallest but still decisive election loss in 1957, and a year later steam-rollered Liberal Leader Lester Pearson in the worst political flattening ever administered either of the major parties.

If it was Grosart's supposed organizational genius that was so magic in '58, he was losing some of the master's touch four years later when the Conservatives hung perilously to power by their fingertips and a shaky minority for a disastrous 11 months.

That was enough for Allister and he went to his reward in the Senate — the greatest prize, in his Metime Hollow Pickering, this side of the Grand National Sweepstakes — in September of '62, a safe six months before the Conservative roof fell in with Diefi's defeat two years ago.

So he escaped any direct responsibility and with it suspicion of blame for the '63 election disaster.

And now he is back in the old stand, a Senator to be sure, full of the Red Chamber's special brand of dignity and wisdom, but still a Backroom Boy, and one of the most sensationally successful ever, in his heart of hearts.

What made Allister Grosart all that good?

Maybe it wasn't so much the great grand strategy.

Perhaps it was the little things.

So often they count so much.

Like knowing how to open a farm gate.

THERE ARE WAYS AND WAYS

But let Jean Casselman, now Mrs. Jean Wadds, close you in on the farm gate bit.

After the death of her MP husband Clare Casselman, long the Conservative Whip in the Commons, Jean made a bid, in the by-election, for his Eastern Ontario riding of Grenville-Dundas, largely a rural, farming constituency.

Allister Grosart, an old friend of her husband and still the party's National Organizer and Diefenbaker Idea-man, offered to coach her in the campaign.

The big secret in campaigning in a rural constituency, he told her, is knowing how to open the farm gate when going country - style cook-knocking.

There are only five different types of farm gates, he instructed her, and each opens a different way.

"Know how to open each one, quickly and easily, as you get out of your car to walk up the farm lane.

"For you can bet your last vote, the farmer's wife will be taking out from behind her parlor curtains.

"And if you are like a city slicker (which she was) who doesn't know one farm gate from another, how do you score 100 points in her about egg and milk prices or to her husband about feed grain policy or dairy subsidies?

"If you can't open the gate properly, she will be too polite to let on she knows you can't tell a Buff Orpington from a White Leghorn, but she won't vote for you and you'll lose the by-election."

Jean Casselman won it by a snugly safe 6,500 votes to the good, and wise in the ways of opening farm gates, has been winning the two elections since, almost as easily.

B.C. Visitor's Flag Episode

Kingston Whig-Standard

It seems that the recent flag uproar has upset some people so seriously that they have lost their judgment completely. A British Columbia resident, travelling in Ontario, told recently of driving into Matawa with a British Columbia flag flying on his car.

According to the story of this visitor from outer space he no sooner got into town that the local police constable took it upon himself to ask by what right he flew that thing with a Union Jack on it. As the B.C. man said, "Am I to understand that Ontario has seceded from the British Commonwealth . . . ?" (It would have been more effective if he had used the proper designation, "Commonwealth"). "Are you part of the South or Union, the United States or just another banana republic?" He said that he had got a better reception in Quebec.

Well, no, we cannot claim any of those affiliations here in Ontario. In fact our Premier recently introduced a provincial flag which looks exactly like the Old Flag except that the coat of arms on the fly is that of the Province of Ontario. We must put the policeman's interference down to pure ignorance. It is, of course, nobody's business what kind of flag a man chooses to fly on his car or over his front door and the law carries no penalties.

Eskimo Is In Between

Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

It is perfectly proper for the people of Quebec to be concerned with the survival of French, but what happens to the poor Eskimo caught between the English and the French? Must he now quit the language he has been speaking (and using, however clumsily) and switch to another?

The Quebec government, it will be recalled, earlier laid great stress on the fact that the Eskimo would be taught in his own language. Does Mr. Gerin-Lajoie's plan for a French-language school therefore mean that this has been abandoned?

Twenty - five hundred Eskimos living in the Stone Age may not seem worth bothering about, but at a time when minority sensibilities have been so heightened in certain areas, one cannot see why the Eskimo's right to his own language should be ignored.

Cop on 'Beat' Hard to Beat

Vancouver Sun

It's a pleasure to hear from a veteran police officer an entirely unpretentious plea for that almost vanished paragon of yesteryear, the cop on the beat.

Chief Superintendent Lyle Robin is retiring after 35 years with the Vancouver force and, if the man on beat does stage a comeback, the sore feet won't belong to Staff-Sergeant Lyle Robin.

But few will deny the wisdom of what he says.

In our modern society the policeman in the patrol car is, of course, indispensable. But he is remote from the countless subtleties of the street scene. He can't read the pulse of a neighborhood while travelling at 30 miles an hour.

That is why, as Staff-Sergeant Roblin says, the best patrolling is done on foot. The walking policeman gets to know the people on his beat, as the officer in the driver's seat never does.

If the new lightweight walkie-talkies now being employed by the city police do indeed glue the foot patrolman p'now here on life, all law-abiding citizens will have something to cheer about. The man in brass buttons wrenching off the pavement is a reassuring fellow to have around.

Safety Device

Hamilton Spectator

News that scientists are on the verge of developing a device to detect small the presence of odors emanating from an explosive substance has excited the commercial aviation world. The "sniffer", as it is called, may one day in the near future be used to swiftly scan baggage at airports for signs of explosives.

Such a needed development cannot come along too soon. Air crashes that have been caused by explosives have killed scores and frightened thousands of other air travellers. The travelling public would be genuinely relieved if a safety device such as the "sniffer" was placed in general and effective use.

Blood Used Over Again But Does Not Last Forever

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: In a discussion with a friend I said that once blood flows through the main artery it is consumed and does not flow through again. Then I restated my remark, and said that certain parts of the blood are used up, and the body constantly builds it up anew. Am I wrong completely? They asked us when all blood went if it was used up. — J. V.

You're not completely wrong — just partially so.

Blood is, indeed, used over and over. The heart pumps it to all parts of the body. It returns through the veins to the heart, then to the lungs, where carbon dioxide is removed and fresh oxygen picked up. Then the blood goes back to the heart to be pumped again through the body.

The oxygen is carried by the red blood cells. This fresh oxygen is absorbed by the cells of the body. Old oxygen molecules, and carbon molecules (formed when combined, carbon dioxide molecules) then are carried back, along with other waste materials from the cells.

Now it is the waste (the carbon dioxide) is removed by the lungs. The kidneys and other organs remove other wastes. The liver and other organs supply blood sugar and other nutrients to the blood as it passes through.

You are correct that the blood does not last forever. Red cells, for example survive for quite a number of weeks, but one by one they are broken down and discarded, largely by the liver and spleen. Some of the chemicals, however, are retained by the body, and help provide the substance for new red cells which are constantly being manufactured. (The bone marrow is the area in which most of the new cells are created.)

Dear Dr. Molner: I have a child of 9 who has just developed diabetes. Please send your booklet, "Diabetes, the Sneaky Disease." I enclose the required self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin.

My youngster won't eat food sweetened with saccharin. What else could I use? — Mrs. E. H.

I don't think the saccharin problem will last long. You may be using too much. Or more than likely, this is an emotional resistance. Sweeten his food when he isn't looking. The alternative, no sweetening at all, would probably change his attitude in a hurry, but I don't recommend such procedure. It's too tough a step to take when your boy is just beginning to understand diabetes. Did y o u ever hear children (with or without diabetes) object to low-calorie pop, which is artificially sweetened? I never did. They don't tell the difference.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been treated for erythema nodosum. Now my doctor treated me for tonsilitis, then decided it's a "strep" when I ran high temperatures. After partial recovery I developed nodules or lumps under the skin on my legs. My doctor says not to worry. — Mrs. W. S.

Erythema nodosum (red, painful lumps under the skin) believed to be related to streptococcus infection. The lumps disappear with treatment.

In your case, the strep infection centred in the tonsil area, which is not unusual. Getting rid of the tonsillar lumps of erythema nodosum depends on subjugation of the strep infection. The treatment of the tonsillitis was also the beginning of treatment for the erythema nodosum.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 11th, 1945

The War Office has had to take a good many knocks and criticisms in this war. For a change let us hand it a bouquet. The speed, the cleanness, the rich sympathy and deep humanity with which it has performed the task of bringing home our released war prisoners deserves the nation's thanks and gratitude. From the moment their prison doors have been opened, these liberated men have been under the care of an organization which, although it has moved with the efficiency of a perfect machine, has functioned with a delicacy and human understanding rarely found in an official machine. These men have been brought home and welcomed with none of the regimentation that in all other activities must be an essential feature of the army. They have come home with a feeling that they are honored, eagerly awaited men in whom we have pride.

Vacant Chair

Windsor Star

Since its inception Canada has steered clear of the Cold War — the Organization of American States — although word came through from time to time that a vacant chair was kept there for us. Now there is some assurance from Prime Minister Pearson that the vacant chair, real or symbolic, will be filled. Whether we missed by good something by staying out all these years probably is arguable. We have the presumption was, and it could have been accurate, that Canada stood aloof because the United States made the OAS an instrument of its neutrality policy.

TAKING NOTICE of this placard carried by Garth Stephanson motorists got the Belleville student to Prince Edward Island and back in record time!

Hitch-hiking Record Set by City Student In Trip to East Coast

Lucky breaks may have helped a Belleville student break hitch - hiking records in Eastern Canada.

Yesterday 20-year-old Garth Stephanson arrived back home at 34 Bertram Boulevard after a nine - day vacation to Prince Edward Island that cost little more than $20.

Making it a nine - day wonder was the luck he had hitch-hiking there and back. He figures it took him 25 hours getting there and about an hour longer returning.

It happened like this:

Garth, swimming instructor at Tweed's Sisco Park for the summer, decided to see the ocean for the first time before settling down at Western University as a physics student.

"As soon as the Tweed job ended August 30 he stopped off long enough at home to paint a large cardboard destination sign then hiked off to the Macdonald - Cartier Freeway north of Belleville. The first motorist to stop was travelling from Toronto to Montreal.

From Montreal he hitched to Quebec City, where he made instant contact with four Prince Edward Islanders returning home.

ONLY TOOK DAY

Just a day after leaving Belleville he was with friends in Charlottetown.

On the return journey a week later his phenomenal luck still held good. While taking the ferry to mainland "a motorist asked me if I was going to Montreal — and I said yes," Garth recalled.

Outside Montreal he was picked up by two more Islanders — this time travelling through to Toronto. They dropped him at Belleville late Friday morning. Still intact was the handpainted sign which had helped him travel cross-country faster than a transportation ticket.

"I took money with me in case I got stuck and I could make it back by bus or train," Garth admitted.

rescue. Hundreds responded as others had when an amateur flotilla saved the trapped British Army in France in 1940. The military has supplied helicopters, amphibious ducks and coast guard cutters.

Cars pulling boat trailers unloaded at the edge of the muddy water and moved off to the rescue.

"It was like every one was going fishing", said Officer J. Crespo.

Outboards towed strings of rowboats crowded with flood victims. One of them tipped over, drowning two children, Le Blanc said. An unconfirmed report said a national guardsman was missing in a mishap involving an amphibious vehicle.

Busses, police cars, even the police horse vans were pressed into service to bring the refugees to high schools and the Municipal Auditorium in the city. There were 5,000 in the auditorium sleeping on cots, lining up for Red Cross blankets and food, looking for members of their families.

Lewis Benson last saw his family Friday afternoon. When the water began rising, he and 21 neighbors climbed a hillsiden, the youngest 7 months, chopped a hole in the roof and climbed on top. He was now in the 3 cooler of water. When the 115-mile-an-hour wind drove rain over them they fled the roof and dren back through the hole to nestle in the rafters.

"In the afternoon a duck came and took the children and women off," Benson said. Several hours later an outboard took the men from the roof. They had been there 36 hours.

WATER REACHES CHINS

Once evacuee told of an elderly couple in wheel chairs trapped by the water. They were last saw them as the water reached their chins.

Another who couldn't swim looked on helplessly as the foaming water from the storm inched over a rickety trestle. Four young children in it. climbed as high as they could then were seen no more.

Jack Rowley, sheriff of St. Bernard parish, one of the said: "Places are flooding that never flooded before in any hurricane. We are in a regular state of siege. We have 35,000 people who will not be able to return to their homes for an indefinite period of time."

He said 75 per cent of homes in the parish were under four to six feet of water.

At Chalmette School is the parish, 2,000 people were with out food. Officials there were asking for 10,000 loaves of bread. Cars at on the hich point turned on their headlights to help a helicopter land to take off a woman who was having a baby.

All through the black night the flashlights of the hodge-podge rescue fleet twinkled as the small craft roared and never expanding circles in their search.

Meanwhile, in the city residents still were being cautioned to boil drinking water because of a temporary power failure at the purification plant.

WILL OPEN CENTRE

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) Premier Robarts and Governor Nelson Rockefeller of New York will officially open the Niagara International Centre and skyion here Wednesday, Oct. 6. It will house permanent industry and government exhibits.

Students Have

in residence at their universities when the election writs are issued.

The writs were issued Wednesday, when most students were not yet in residence. Registration in most Canadian universities is just getting underway.

The situation will prevent resident university students from voting unless they go home on election day. The union says this will be impossible for most of them, both financially and academically.

But Mr. Castonguay told an interviewer: "This section is contained in a statute of Parliament. Only Parliament can change it and Parliament has been dissolved."

The chief electoral officer said the first such section was inserted in the act in 1938 to give university students the right to vote while in residence.

"Before then, they had to vote in their home constituency or not at all."

When the student first got the dzial voting right, they had to be in the university constituency for at least seven of the 12 months before the election writs were issued.

In 1948, the section was amended to its present form so that students could vote in the university constituency as long as they were resident there at the time the election writs were issued.

The current difficulty has never arisen before because elections since 1938 have always been called at a time when students were in residence.

Mr. Meltzer on Real Estate

"What's Your Problem ?"

By BERNARD C. MELTZER

Construction mortgage lenders periodically inspect a property before they release funds to the builder. Many owners erroneously assume that the purpose of these inspections is to guarantee proper construction. If this viewpoint is held, the following should be enlightening.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: I have stopped making payments on my mortgage. The reason is that the bank let me end up with a "lemon" of a house. They may as well have a "sour" mortgage.

I took my house plans and my builder to the bank and an $18,000 construction loan was approved. The bank appraiser inspected the house every week and payments were made to the builder as construction progressed.

I moved in to find dozens of little items left out and undone and many major ones as well. Since the builder has all the money, I cannot get him or the bank to make him come back.

When I complained to the bank's appraiser he told me that I was aware that the builder was doing a poor job. He showed me copies of his weekly reports countersigned by me. Reluctantly, the bank allowed me to continue to sign and paid the builders vouchers. I have a putrid house; justice dictates that they have a sour mortgage. Do you agree? — "Angry But Not A Fool"

ANSWER: The area of responsibility, in this case, have been confused. You had a contract with a builder for the construction of a house. You also had a contract (mortgage) with the bank. There was no contract between the bank and the builder to guarantee the construction.

The bank's appraiser was protecting the interest of the bank not yours. His job was to see that the mortgage funds as advanced were adequately secured. Often, a lending institution, for purposes of good will, will appoint an owner with a construction deficiencies as they arise. In this case it appears that the bank valued the builder's good will more than the borrower's.

My reply may appear to be harsh but if my correspondent was unable to check the construction he should have employed a qualified representative. By signing papers you don't gain your point. The bank will then foreclose and you will personally be responsible for any loss.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Can you tell me the difference in rental costs between Western Pennsylvania and New York City. My son has just obtained a job in New York at $80 per week. I have heard that rents there are very high and his salary may not be sufficient. I brought him up to lead a clean life, early to bed and no frivolous entertainment. — A Worried Mother

ANSWER: I would not be too much concerned about your son leading a clean life in New York City on $80 per week. On that salary that's all he can do.

Specifically, there is no accurate answer to your question. Adjusting for type and size of facilities and services, the rent cost for a young man in New York City, according to best available information, would be about twice that for Western Pennsylvania.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Our family has owned 40 acres of land for more than 90 years. Recently the road on which the land faces was widened to a four-lane highway.

A major gasoline company has contacted me and has offered to lease one-half acre of the corner for 20 years. They will build a service station at their own expense. I haven't the slightest idea what a fair rental price would be. Can you help me?—"Fortunate Land Owner"

ANSWER: A fair annual rental for a major oil company would be from 7 to 8 percent of the value of the land. The credit standing of the company, together with the terms of the lease, determine whether it will be closer to 7 or 8 percent.

I recommend that you secure the services of a realtor experienced in gasoline service stations to help you negotiate the lease. A good one with ample qualification for the owner requires considerable knowledge.

Dear Mr. Meltzer: Our township has recently enacted an ordinance providing for the impounding of all dogs found on the streets. My dog has already been picked up twice in a month. The third time calls for a $25 fine.

Our German Shepherd dog is a pet. We feel that it isn't fair to bear to part with him. I have been told that the proper enclosure for him is at least 6 feet by 50 feet of 6 foot chain link fence with three strands of barbed wire on the top. Could you give me an idea of what it would cost? — "Dog Lover"

ANSWER: An ordinary 6 foot chain link fence with barbed wire topping, depending on the number of gates and posts, costs from $3.50 to $4.50 per linear foot. Your 50 foot run by 50 foot cost from $560 to $720.

Mr. Meltzer welcomes your letters and comments. Unfortunately he is unable to enter into personal correspondence with readers, but will attempt to answer as many letters as possible through his column.

and this balance is expected before the end of 1966—there may be a short period-to-payments deficits which could reduce the country's monetary and gold reserves and put new pressures on the pound.

The new pledges of aid from the central banks will tend to discourage speculation that the pound may be forced into devaluation.

Britain's current official reserves are roughly equivalent to $2,700,000,000—virtually the amount she borrowed from the international monetary fund a year ago. The U.S. and England also has been obtaining U.S. dollars from the IMF under a $750,000,000 currency swap arrangement. Repayment to the monetary fund starts about 1968.

Participating in the new credit pledges are the U.S. federal reserve system; the central banks of Canada, West Germany, Italy, Japan, Switzerland, Sweden, The Netherlands, Austria and Belgium and the bank for International Settlements.

BLAMES ON U.S.

Afternoon speakers concentrated on the United Nations. The Russian delegate blamed last year's financial crisis in the United Nations on the U.S. he said it was an unsuccessful attempt to paralyze activities.

Speakers Oliver Flanagan of Ireland, who caused a stir by starting off in Gaelic, and Ishar Ilarari of Israel called for an effective international police force in the UN.

In Korea, the UN had fought rather than prevented a war, Mr. Ilarari said. It was stationed between Israel, Egypt to prevent infiltration, but no one knew exactly what it would do in the event of an attack.

Mr. Ilarari said that if the force had existed when Norway sought separation from Sweden, it might have prevented Norwegian freedom.

Speakers from Poland and the United Arab Republic said China must be admitted to the United Nations.

Miss Helen Miller, Dufferin Ave., and Mrs. E. Jackson, Herchimer Ave., have returned to Belleville after vacationing at New York City and the World's Fair.

* * *

Before her marriage at St. Joseph's Church, Belleville, on Saturday, Mrs. Joseph Garrah, the former Miss Mary Dunley, was entertained at a linen shower given by Miss Eileen Bibley in Kingston, at a miscellaneous shower given by Miss Patsy Whalen, Mrs. Michael Whalen and Mrs. Ralph Sedore in Point Anne, at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Henry Capener of Brockville and at a miscellaneous shower given by Mrs. Wendon Kellar, Mrs. Evelyn Martin and Miss Ann Turcotte of Kingston. Mrs. Oscar King, and Mrs. Don Mitchell, both of R.R. 6, Belleville, held a cup and saucer shower. The bride was presented with a silver tray by co-workers at the Ontario Hospital in Kingston and the bridegroom received a presentation from his co-workers at Liquifuels Ltd. of Belleville and Millhaven.

My Freedom Came First Says Refugee

BERLIN (AP)—"I am sorry I had to leave my husband, but my freedom came first."

That is how a young East Berlin refugee explained her decision to seek asylum in West Germany—via Mexico and New York.

The case was disclosed by the private Berlin bureau information agency IWE. The agency did not identify the petitioner's but gave this account:

The girl, now 23, met an East German soldier and married him last year. For her honeymoon she was allowed to visit with her husband's freighter Leipzig to England to pick up a cargo for Cuba, going by way of Vera Cruz, Mexico. In England she began thinking of seeking asylum from Communism for herself, but apparently her husband did not want to go along.

In Vera Cruz he managed to reach the West German consul. When her flight was discovered aboard the Leipzig, the ship's captain — and her husband— came to the consulate but couldn't persuade her to change her mind.

She was flown to New York and then to Frankfurt, West Germany.

MRS. NEIL GORDON

St. Julien Chapter I.O.D.E. will mark its 50th anniversary at a district dinner meeting to be held next Wednesday evening in Holloway Street United Church at 7 p.m.

Highlight of the evening will be an address by the National President of the I.O.D.E. Mrs. Neil Gordon who attained this position in June of this year.

Mrs. Gordon first became interested in the I.O.D.E. after her marriage to J. Neil Gordon, an officer of the Queen's Own Rifles of Canada and joined the chapter in 1940 while her husband was serving in Newfoundland. She has held many offices in the chapter and has been its Regent for two different terms. Since 1955 she has been a member of the education committee, acting as treasurer, second vice-president and first vice-president before becoming the national president.

As well as being interested in I.O.D.E. work, Mrs. Gordon has also been associated with the Mothers' Auxiliary of the Girl Guides as president and on the home and school executive where she was editor of the paper.

Mrs. Gordon has five children with the eldest now married and the two youngest will enter Havergal in the autumn.

Lord Snowdon Wins Title For Fashions

LONDON (Reuters) — Lord Snowdon, who was made an earl after he married Princess Margaret, won a new title this week from the British press.

Fashion editors here elevated the photographer, formerly Antony Armstrong-Jones, to Royal Mod in establishing pictures of him shopping with Margaret in Scotland.

Mod, from modern, is teenage slang here for someone who lights the fuse of every later-than-latest fashion.

Snowdon was shown in the main street of Ballater, near the Queen's Scottish residence at Balmoral, in corduroy shock-top, tapered-back shirt, knee breeches and high leather boots.

His wife for once was almost overlooked. She was wearing her traditional country garb: Tartan kilt, long thick-knit sweater, headscarf and low-heeled walking shoes.

Snowdon, 35, designed a range of women's ski clothes before his marriage and still causes regular fashion controversy with his own off-duty outfits.

On vacation with Princess Margaret in Rome last month, he outdressed the Pakistans in a light summer suit of Mordth jacket and slim pants, worn with a dark shirt and tie.

In May Tony—as the London headline writers still call him—had already put himself in the pimp-ahead of male fashion here. He went off to Switzerland skiing vacation dressed in thigh-length ferry coat, slender corduroy trousers and Scandinavian peaked cap.

It wasn't until th.s week that similar coats, in simulated fur, were presented by Royal couturier Hardy Amies in his 1960 collection.

Snowdon may have aroused disapproval from London's traditional corps of bowler-bedecked, umbrella - carrying businessmen. But British teen-agers have decided he's the most "with-it" member of the Royal Family.

Ann Landers
Unwise to Show Deep Disapproval of Choice

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 17-year-old son quit high school to join the Navy. My husband and I were glad to see him make this decision because he was flunking in every subject and he was getting out of hand at home. We thought the Navy might make a man out of him.

Yesterday he wrote that he is bringing a 24-year-old "girl" home. The "girl" works at the base and I'm sure she has had a lot more experience with members of the opposite sex than our son. He says nothing in the letter about the girl's background, her family, how he met her, or his feelings for her.

What do we do now? Should we hide our feeling or should we tell our son the door is closed if he can't make a better selection than that? — D.R.B.

MR. AND MRS. JOSEPH GARRAH

Garrah — Dunley

GARRAH — DUNLEY

On September 4, 1965 at 11 a.m. in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Belleville, Monsignor J. A. Carley united in marriage Mary Ilene Dunley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Dunley, R.R. 5, Belleville, and Joseph Drenews Garrah, son of Mr. Ira Garrah, Howe Island.

Sister Mary Rosaria for St. Michael's Convent, Belleville, was the organist and the soloist was Mr. Leo White of Kingston.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white corded taffeta with a high boat neckline, long lily point sleeves and bodice appliques of Guipure lace. The long skirt, fashioned with an A-line in front, swept to a bouffant back with the fullness coming down into the train. A large bow enhanced the back waist-line. Her four tiered veil of silk illusion was held by a bridal headpiece of organza in a one flower arrangement embroidered with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and Shasta daisies.

Miss Patricia Whalen of Point Ann, as maid of honor, was dressed in a gold peau de soie sheath dress with matching overskirt covered with rosettes of the same material and fastened in front with a tiny bow.

The bridesmaids, Miss Eileen Bibley of Kingston and Miss Sharon Dunley of Belleville, cousin of the bride, wore dresses identical to that of the maid of honor, but in Kelly green. All attendants were small pillbox hats in the same color as their dresses and carried nosegays of Shasta daisies.

Mr. Michael Garrah attended his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Wilfred Garrah, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Michael Dunley, brother of the bride.

At the reception held at Club Canara, Mr. Kent Callahan acted as master of ceremonies. To receive the guests, Mrs. Dunley wore a brown and turquoise printed silk sheath with matching jacket, turquoise and brown accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations. Assisting her was Miss Ann Turcotte of Howe Island, who was dressed in a pink sheath with matching jacket, pink and black accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

For her wedding trip to Niagara Falls the bride chose a gold heather two piece suit with gold hat, brown accessories and a corsage of Shasta daisies.

On their return, the couple will live at 63 Hatter Street, Kingston.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Don't be rigid in your opinion about your son. Why not call on the telephone and tell him to identify themselves? Maybe it's my fault because I'm not sharp enough to tell who's who, but several of my friends sound alike.

This morning a woman called and taked for five minutes and I didn't know who she was. Finally I had to ask. She snapped, "Well, you'll know me by my garden ne. I didn't realize I was that much of a stranger to you."

Shouldn't the one who calls identify himself and not put the burden on the person he is calling? Am I all wet? Please give this not only for me, but for others who have a tin ear. — A POOR GUESSER.

DEAR GUESSER: It is good manners to start every telephone conversation by identifying yourself, regardless of how well you know the person. Often sisters sound alike, a father and son frequently have similar voices, and people who don't even know each other have similar voices, too.

A caller who fails to identify himself should not be miffed when he is asked, "Who is this?"

* * *

What is French kissing? Is it wrong? Who should set the necking limits — the boy or the girl? Can a shotgun wedding succeed? Read Ann Landers' booklet, "Teen-age Sex — Ten Ways to Get Into Trouble." Send a dime and a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Many Dinners Planned for Delegates

OTTAWA (CP)—Ice tinkles in cocktail glasses, teacups clink and thousands of dainty hors d'oeuvres vanish as parliamentarians from around the globe mix business with pleasure here.

During the mixing are the 800 delegates to the 54th Inter-parliamentary Conference.

Veterans of the Ottawa diplomatic circuit say they can't remember a round of receptions, cocktail parties and dinners like this one.

Said the infatigatable social editor of one of the local newspapers Friday; as she passed between a tea and a dinner:

"There were seven receptions last night and I managed to get to four. I think it's the biggest social whirl staid Ottawa has seen in years."

The social gaiety, described as "an informal exchange of ideas" by conference planners, may have hit its peak Thursday night.

That was the night Mayor Don Reid of Ottawa kicked off the evening with a mammoth reception for special delegates at city hall. From there, they fanned out all over the city to seven different parties, many of which were attended by 150 to 200 guests.

Governor-General Vanier and his wife are to give a garden party at Government House Saturday afternoon and many of the delegates are planning to leave from a football game at Lansdowne Park.

World Famous Winter Resort St. Moritz Only Small Town

By SHIRLEY and BOB SLOANE

ST. MORITZ, Switzerland — St. Moritz started its career as the most famous of all winter resorts in 1864, when an Swiss innkeeper bet four unsuspecting Englishmen that if they came back for Christmas they'd find it much more sunshine and better than London, and if they did they would stay until Easter. Naturally, the wily innkeeper already had his collar stocked with Scotch and claret, for it was a sucker's bet.

St. Moritz is still only a small mountain town, 6,000 feet high among the edelweiss and goat herds. The winter migrations of such as Mel Ferrer, Audrey Hepburn, Marlene Dietrich and Seavron Niarkos don't really change anything.

Right now, quiet and peaceful between seasons, the 3,000 permanent residents are hardly enough to keep Hanselmann's magnificent hotel open, much like in The Season, when it is crowded with flushed cheeks and laughter and dripping boots.

The Season in St. Moritz . . . Why is it such one of course. Anyone loyally insists there is a summer season for the mountain lakes and the sunshine. There is even summer skiing at 10,000 ft. But it is not The Season when St. Moritz is in full swing.

Snow and skiing and winter sports are in St. Moritz what gold is to St. Andrews; everything else must get out of the way. The skeleton (stripped down bobsled) run wraps itself leisurely around a bobsled run, out of the main highway, and presumably prudent motorists stop to make sure no sled is coming, as they do when crossing the tandem first and eighteenth fairways at St. Andrews.

WINTER SPORT HAVEN

Bobsledding and tobogganing have been in St. Moritz had its introduction on the Continent in 1884. Conspicuous at skating, the earliest forms of ice hockey, the first skiing and ski jumping contests, all were brought on a plaster to St. Moritz in the nineteenth century. There was no other logical place to bring them.

Davos, Gstaad and others are bigger and more chic today, but St. Moritz still is the most comprehensive of all winter resorts. Cable cars, cog railways and low lifts crisscross the formidable mountains the way street car tracks lace other European cities. It's been more or less that way for 100 years.

Like Hannibal and Caesar we came here from Italy; unlike Hannibal and Caesar, we travelled in a bus of the Swiss Postline, through Alpine villages of picturesque to be real through streets too narrow for wide pedestrians and too overhung with balconies to let cars oees.

The road wound and dipped its way along precipitate cliffs and through backed-out stone tunnels. Purple and yellow flowers hung like tapestries from stone balconies, even dangled from the roof of a country railway station. On the distant green slopes, climbing high up to the timberline and cracked gray and white of the mountains, villages clung like postcard scenes, complete with stone church spire and ruined castles on commanding ledges. Far below the road, rocky streams, fairly dancing with trout, roared by.

And then we were through the Swiss Pass, on the Alpine plateau and among the mile-high mountain lakes of the Engadine. All around, as is some real like Shangri-la, rose the Bernina Pontresina and the Bernina, Piz Palu, Piz Corvatsch, Piz Roseg. Behind, near the Italian border, was the mirage-like Albigna Dam, sky-high among the mountains.

The Grisons continue north of St. Moritz through everchanging vistas and verdant valleys until they descend into Chur, an ancient Roman town. It is now the Imperial off place for Roman, Klosters and Flims, for notquote - so hardy snow bunnies or cure bait patrons, who want to acclimatize themselves at a lower altitude first.

Just north, in the highlands of St. Gall and separated by the Rhine from the valleys of the Grisons, is the scenic spa town of Bad Ragaz, its broad streets and green valley bordered by the brittle air descending from the surrounding peaks.

Though a modern town, it still is old-fashioned and very European in spirit, and Americans see something of a curiosity here.

Bad Ragaz is one of the most beautiful and sophisticated resorts of its type in Europe. Its type is that inscrutable European institution known as the spa.

For more than 100 years tourists have been coming here to drink, wallow in, and inhale the vapors of the thermal springs that so far rubbed, electrified, packed in mud and otherwise beaboored in the interests of everything from overtired arthritis to manager's disease (that's what it says here).

The springs are the most abundant in Europe, putting out more than 2,000,000 gallons a day. For years an establishment has grown up around them that is one of the most elaborate in the world. It includes two swimming pools, a modern bath and treatment section, and a private one on the sprawling hilly-dotted park, a public park and the Quellenhof and Hof Ragaz Hotels.

The former is one of the most lavish and tastefully decorated hotels in Europe.

Its entrance - book town looks as if it is scrubbed every morning, its almost unreal backdrop of lush green mountains freshly repainted by the sun. There is a fine golf course adjoining the hotels, no perfected by the towering Alps that it seems to be painted into the bottom of a bowl. With year-round skiing nearby, it is not unusual, from spring through fall, for golf bags and skis to pass each other on the Cure Park grounds.

HE CHEATED HIMSELF

The story is told of a wealthy contractor who lost everything in the Great Depression of the 1930's. A philanthropist, authorized him to build a hollow-bottomed, thinking the contractor permission to select the materials, and govern every part of its construction.

The contractor looked upon this as an opportunity for him to recover some of his lost fortune. So, only the poorest of materials and workmanship were put into the building. When the house was finished, the philanthropist said, "This house is for you and your family, and you may live in it as long as you please. It is yours, forever."

The contractor now realized that he had built a home in which he himself must live. He had thought he had been cheating the philanthropist, and was amazed to find he had only been cheating himself.

Whenever we are, and whatever we do, it pays us to fulfill our duties to others. In the long run, the homes we will live in will be those built by our own hands.

CHRIST CHURCH : 1865 - 1965

"Oh how lovely are Thy dwellings, Thou Lord of Hosts." — Psalm 84.

* * *

This year marks Belleville's Christ Church with a special distinction. It is its Centennial year.

The achievement of a congregation's beloved edifice in reaching this pinnacle of time gives pause for reflection. What is the story behind these hundred years?

"The history of anything is the sum and substance of all its joys and sorrows, its debts and aspirations," said Mrs. Percy Reed by in a recent talk about Christ Church. "Christ Church, Belleville, over the years has had all of these things as it has sunk to depths of despair and through the grace of God lifted itself up to reach new heights of attainment over the years."

Today we are indebted to Mrs. Earl Hickey, 183 John Street, whose research on the history of Christ Church makes her following account, written especially for this column, most interesting reading :

"Christ Church, Belleville, has now behind it 100 years of history. The story of the origin and gradual attainment of its influence and usefulness forms a fascinating narrative and a most human document.

In the year 1863 Christ Church Congregation was organized (later Christ Justice of Manitoba), Thomas Wills, R. B. Cooper, J. W. Dunnet and many leading Anglicans of the city associated themselves with this movement.

No church building was available so a meeting place was secured at the Marble Hall opposite the Upper Bridge — now the Knights of Columbus Hall. A building committee was formed with T. Wills, County Treasurer as chairman and construction proceeded through the summer of 1865. By the following year a modest rough cast structure was ready for its progregation of seventy-seven.

The site chosen was on Moira Street, W., east of the L. B. Restaurant, on the corner of the O'Brien Funeral Home. The first day of January 1865 saw only the down of a new year but the "opening" dedication that has since meant much to the religious life of Belleville. Eight hundred crowded into the building meant to accommodate only 300.

The first Rector, Rev. Septimus Jones, M.A. (so called because he was the seventh son of his parents) conducted the service and the Right Rev. John Travor Lewis, D.D. Bishop of Ontario preached most impressive sermons, morning and afternoon.

Christ Church was the first church in the Diocese to obtain free sittings. The prevailing practice of renting pews was not favored. For five years Christ Church grew and prospered under the able direction of Rev. Jones. In December, 1870, he moved to Toronto to become curate of St. Paul's and in 1872 he was appointed rector of The Church of The Redeemer, Toronto, which position he held for 30 years. His farewell discourse was from the text: "And now Brethren I commend you to God." He died in Toronto on January 31st, 1915.

There followed two years of discouragement. However, the Sunday School flourished under Superintendents Dr. Potts and Hon. Lewis Wallbridge. His sister Hannah Caroline Wallbridge is a teacher of a large class. The Chancel window in the south side of the church is in memory of Hannah, Lewis and William Holloway Wallbridge.

The Communion service and plate was given by Hannah Caroline Wallbridge in 1870.

The third rector, Rev. F. S. Forneri established St. John's Church on West Bridge Street, near the Fair Grounds, then moved to Bridge and Isabel

Religious Bodies Alienate Intellectuals

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

Many intellectuals are either indifferent to or hostile to religion. And for this, religious institutions often have no one but themselves to blame.

Racial tensions, anti-minority attitudes, indifference to international problems of great spiritual moment are often fostered within churches and synagogues whose members want a socially respectable, more than an ethically enlightened, religion. Instead of being converted by a church to a moral world-view, too many succeed in converting the church and the synagogue to their own prejudices, by declaring the really vital human issues to be out-of-bounds for the religious community.

One cannot argue against the need for rationality in human affairs; we avoid the light at our own peril. Intellectual content, unhappily, is a sadly missed element in our political, cultural, and even our religious life.

And yet knowledge by itself may do harm rather than good; this is especially apparent when we observe the manner in which many modern intellectuals "pity their trade." They have succeeded in fragmentizing the world even as they have been successful in splitting the atom. Their pursuit of knowledge is often equated with intensive specialization in fractional fields of investigation. Intellectuals are indeed right when they speak of the need for rationality in human behaviour, but are wrong when they identify wisdom with facts, insight with information, humaneness with knowledge. Indeed, our intellectuals need to know that our generation suffers not so much from a lack of knowledge — we have much of this — but rather from the absence of a passion for its rightful use.

A parable for these intellectuals was recently recorded in the daily press. The sweep a per story of the untimely, accidental death of one of the world's great men sent a shiver down readers' spines. It was a parable not an obituary; what really mattered was not that he died, but how he died!

The report described how Sir Raymond Hart, the man who developed Britain's radar defence system at the outbreak of World War II and one of the great geniuses in the field of electronics, came to his end. He picked up the live end of a 240-volt electrical connection while shaving.

"It was the sort of mistake a chap who could not change a fuse would be likely to make," said his son. "And yet my father, a genius in electronics, made just such a mistake. Maybe he became over-confident about electricity."

Over-confident in what knowledge by itself can do for man can make fools of even wise men. How we use what we know is still a spiritual, not a scientific problem.

BUGS NOT BUNNIES

FREDERICTON (CP) — A party of 24 high school and university students spent August on an egg hunt. It is not Easter bunnies, though, but spruce budworms they are tracking down. By counting egg masses on thousands of sample tree branches they hope to provide scientists with information to help end the budworm's hazard to tree crops.

Nursery Teacher's Job Most Rewarding

DEAR DORIS: My daughter, who just recently became a widow, is planning to start a small nursery school and I am wondering if you know of any books that would help her plans along this line? — LOVES CHILDREN.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR LOVES: I'm glad your daughter is starting a nursery school; to my mind nothing could be a greater blessing for three-year-olds and four-year-olds.

You can often spot the child who has had this kind of pre-school experience. He shows more independent thinking, more creativeness, more joy in living; a better-developed sense of orderliness and discipline in the first years of public school.

Literature and special help are available through the child care agency nearest you. Or write to the Preschool Parent Centre, 283 Bay Street, Toronto, for information on how to get started.

DEAR DORIS: My boy friend and I have been going together for three years. My whole family think an awful lot of this boy and know we are planning to get married some time, but I think they expect us to wait for two or three more years.

My problem is how to tell my family I will be getting married next year. We both have good jobs and are buying a house this coming spring. He will be 22 and I 21.

Could you advise me as to how to tell them? I know I will be getting my diamond next month. — TONGUE TIED.

* * *

DEAR TONGUE TIED: The night you get your diamond, make a ceremony of breaking the news to these two people who care so much about you. Together, invite them to sit with you in the living room; together show them your ring.

Having a ring brings thoughts of weddings closer. Announce then that you have set the date. Explain your plans for financing your future. Ask for their blessing and good will.

Making it important that they should know, ahead of all others, will help them to take the shock gracefully and without feeling too disturbed. You are both old enough to know your own minds and to manage matrimony.

A water heater so amazing it can triple its heating power automatically to meet the most outrageous demands

As your needs for hot water increase, so does the output of the Cascade 40 electric water heater. A 1000-watt lower element supplies plenty of hot water for normal use. But when your demands are unusually heavy, the 3000-watt top element automatically surges into action to supply hot water faster than you're ever likely to use it.

Cascade 40 is flameless, safe, clean. Cascade 40's tank is guaranteed for ten years. And no matter how much hot water you use, you save with Hydro's low rates. Ask your Hydro for more information about the Cascade 40 electric water heater.

Wife Discovers a New Cause For Jealousy in Retirement

By THOMAS COLLINS

Wives, ranging as they do from shrew to sweetheart, aren't always fun to come home to in retirement.

Some husbands, in fact, had rather the Army would draft he said. "But my problem sure ly is not mine alone. Thousands of other husbands must share it.

"I found on retirement, after a strenuous career, that I was too close to the every-day activities at home. I had looked forward to retirement, hoping it would furnish me the leisure and freedom of mind to read, keep up with current affairs, listen to discussions . . . and thus update myself in my general education.

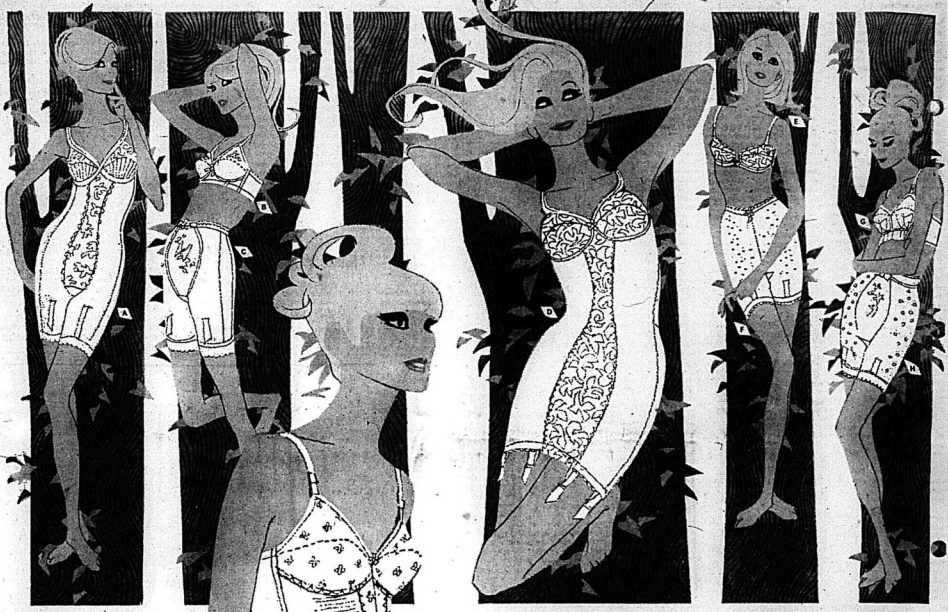
"However, things have not worked out well. It seems that while I prepared myself for what I wanted to do in retirement, and how I would use the spare time, my family did not. This particularly applies to my wife, who feels frustrated that she cannot share with me a new life of serenity that my financial security has produced.

"WHAT DO I GET?"

"She keeps asking: 'What do I get out of your retirement?' And she stresses the fact that her daily duties have not changed. She naturally feels her sense of responsibility in managing the home, but when I offer to take over some small chores she shrugs me off. She says I am not capable of doing housework, and that I would only make her job worse.

"What can be done about this endless jealousy of a wife . . . and the friction it contains at home?"

Well, a man could go back about ten years and start over. It might take this long to condition a wife to her husband's retirement, especially if she is inclined to be jealous of the benefits — exclusively his own — that he will get at 65. This jealousy is far more prevalent than most husbands suspect. Many very good wives quietly burn in resentment over the one-sided blessings of retirement.



In the main, the husband is to blame when friction moves into his marriage after retirement. The pension is his, and his wide shares in it only because she has him. The retirement is his, as tribute at the retirement party, his gold watch, and service certificate prove. The husband who comes home with this small-boy complex — as many do — is going to run into a buzz-saw. Because the woman who married him as an equal to share, and who thinks that over the 40 or so years of their marriage she has contributed some overtones, some meals, and a bit of tender-loving-care to his pension, is going to rebel, even if silently, at the proposition that she is to be the underprivileged partner of his retirement.

"OUR" RETIREMENT

So for ten years or so before retirement a smart husband would start talking in terms of our pension, our retirement and making plans for retirement that — as all their previous life together — includes them both. And while he at it he would figure that all those years he has had the role as captain of the marriage, leading his wife to decisions on where they should live, what they should buy, how they should save, and on most of the major factors of their lives. Should he not also take her hand as retirement approaches and show her the road to a life of leisure? He helped her adjust to that kitchen town he made her move to back in the Forties so he could get a better job. Is his obligation any less in the more trying moment of retirement.

Be all this as it may, the wife who watched her husband more closing closer to retirement, and who rests on her pots and pans without making efforts to work out her own salvation, has only a few of her marbles.

Plenty of Written Assignments Cure Difficulty With English

Mrs. Nettie Thomas is an American teacher who decided to do something about children's inability to write English. So she devised a new system. The following article on the revolution in the 3 Rs in U.S. schools tells what Mrs. Thomas' system is about and of other developments in "readin' and writin'."

By G. K. HODENFIELD
AP EDUCATION WRITER

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — So what is it with youngsters and the English language?

"They can't read it, they can't write it, they can't spell it, they can't use it," says English teacher Nellie Thomas.

Most of all, Mrs. Thomas says, they can't write it.

"The monosyllabic grunts so many high-schoolers communicate with are transcribed with heart-breaking fidelity to the scribbled page."

But, she added in an article in the journal Illinois Education, "It wasn't the students' fault that they are lazy, inarticulate and illiterate. . . . It was the fault of the methods we were using in the first four grades."

The thing to do, Mrs. Thomas decided, was to develop a new method of teaching children how to write. So she did—a method that has children writing original, legible, coherent sentences with properly spelled words, as early as the end of the first grade.

And that's writing she teaches, not printing.

Mrs. Thomas started putting her theories to work back in 1951 in the Westview elementary school here. Basic to all was her conviction that traditional methods don't work because the children don't get enough writing practice.

DAILY WRITING

"Children learn to write by writing," she said, "and once they learn to write they like to write. I wanted a system where they would have a writing assignment every day.

"And I knew the old practice of the teacher taking papers home to correct at night—while the children watch television—had to go. No teacher has the time to do a good job of correcting 100 to 150 papers, so she cuts down on the writing assignments."

What evolved was a sort of do-it-yourself learning technique with the pupils responsible for finding their own mistakes and correcting them.

Here's how it works:

When the pupils hand in their daily written assignments, Mrs. Thomas glances over them. If she finds mistakes, she doesn't mark them—she merely hands the paper back to the child.

Then she goes to the board and writes eight or 10 sentences, full of the mistakes she has noted in the papers. And she asks the class to find the mistakes.

FIND OWN MISTAKES

"I'll discuss the mistakes with them," she said. "I'll explain why you use one verb form instead of another, or the difference between to, too, and two. But I never make the corrections on the board—the sentences stay there just as they are.

"Then I ask the youngsters to write the sentences properly. They have to go through them all, find the mistakes and correct them. If I made the corrections, the children would just copy them, and they wouldn't learn a thing."

On the papers handed back, the pupils also are expected to find and correct their mistakes.

"I don't expect them to find every single one," Mrs. Thomas said. "I don't demand perfection, only improvement. Besides, what they don't catch today they'll probably catch tomorrow."

Mrs. Thomas spends only a few days teaching penmanship. She teaches the proper form for each letter and insists the pupils write each one as fluently as if it were a drawing lesson.

For the first few weeks the writing is almost painfully slow. Then the pupils begin to speed up, but their penmanship remains good—at least it had better.

"Whenever they get careless or sloppy," Mrs. Thomas said, "I simply refuse to accept their work. They have to do it over. They soon get the idea."

THUMB DICTIONARIES

Mrs. Thomas also uses a phonetic system of teaching reading and insists that each child have a dictionary from the second grade on. Misspelled words? Look it up.

Last fall Mrs. Thomas' revolutionary methods, a distillation of years of trial and error and revision, were adopted in the three-school Lincoln Park district, just outside Rockford. At the same time, the district adopted the Open Court reading program with a strong phonetic approach.

"Reading and writing must go hand in hand," Mrs. Thomas said. "One reinforces the other. You need a strong phonetic program to get children interested in reading. How can you stir their interest with those stupid 'Oh, oh, oh; look, look, look' books? And if children can't read, they can't write either."

In the Open Court program, the children start learning letter sounds and printing on their very first day in first grade. By the eighth lesson they are printing sentences dictated by the teacher. By the 20th, they are working with three- and four-sentence stories.

The Canada Pension Plan and its benefits

If Mary's earnings continue at this rate until she reaches age 65, she will receive a retirement pension of $77.50 a month from the Plan plus $75 a month Old Age Security.

Because Mary will have the opportunity of contributing for 43 years, she can have as many as 6½ years of lower or no earnings and still be entitled to the same pension.

Actually, Mary's retirement pension will undoubtedly be more. This is because as Mary advances in her profession and her earnings increase so will her pension. Furthermore, to ensure that all benefits under the Plan maintain their value, they will be adjusted to meet changes in living costs and wage levels before they are paid and changes in living costs after they become payable.

If Mary continues to work and becomes disabled at any time after 1970, she will be entitled to a disability pension of $83.12 a month until she reaches age 65. From then on she will receive her retirement pension as well as $75 a month from Old Age Security.

If Mary dies any time after 1967, having contributed until her death, a lump sum payment of $465 will be paid to her estate.

What will the Plan cost you?

If, like Mary, you are employed and have earnings of $3,720 spread evenly over the year, you will pay at the rate of $4.68 a month. Your employer will pay the same amount.

This advertisement is one of a series which relates some of the important benefits of the Canada Pension Plan to individual circumstances.

SPORTS SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

George Chuvalo must have been well-rehearsed for that ring-storming stunt at Lewiston, Maine, after the Clay-Liston fiasco. Chuvalo, you remember, jumped into the ring, shook his fist — and almost took a pole at Muhamid Ali.

The other night at the Tweed Sports Celebrities Dinner, the Canadian champion was anything but bombastic. In fact he spoke to us in quiet confidence expressing the feeling that if "I can get in close I can beat him" (Charlie Terrell).

Both Chuvalo and Terrell are eyeing the all-over world championship, although Terrell is recognized by the World Boxing Association as the current top-notcher.

But Jersey Joe Walcott, former world champion who contributed the second half of the double flop at Lewiston, doesn't give either Chuvalo or Terrell a tumble with regard to the world bauble.

In fact in an interview with Ring Magazine a while back Walcott gave all indications that a lot of Clay must have rubbed off on him during the Lewiston soap-and-water routine.

Walcott nearly floored the reporter with his statement that "Clay could beat Dempsey, Joe Louis, Ezzard Charles, Rocky Marciano and a fellow named Jersey Joe Walcott".

"I saw Clay beat Liston in their first fight. I saw Clay training for the second Liston fight. And I saw Cassius hit Sonny with that short right hand on the chin at Lewiston. Phantom punch? hell! — Clay gets better each time you see him. If he didn't run off at the mouth and belong to the Black Muslims, Cassius would be accepted by the public as the greatest heavyweight champion of them all."

Walcott got hot. "This kid has speed in his hands and feet like a welterweight. He puts his punches together then any heavyweight champion I have ever seen", he said.

The interviewer after he recovered some of his senses asked Walcott, "How about such champions as Tunney, Jack Sharkey, Max Schmelling, Primo Carnera, James J. Braddock and Floyd Patterson."

Jersey Joe never batted an eyelash. "I don't know much about Tunney and I don't remember anything about Patterson because he is still fighting. But all the rest of those names you can skip over. Clay would beat them with no trouble."

Explaining why he believed Clay would whip Dempsey, Louis, Charles, Marciano and a "fellow named Joe Walcott" the former champion said "Cassius is only 22 years old. He's improving. He's already as fit as Ford four and weighs a solid 208 pounds. Dempsey, Louis and the rest of us would be too small to beat this boy's kid. Clay would just have to stay away from us and start throwing his combinations."

Now Jersey Joe was really hot. Coming up for the third round he was announced, "This kid Clay is deceptive. He hoses with his hands dangling at his sides. But he can bring them into action at a moment's notice. His punches are so fast and sharp they look harmless. When one punch can take a big man like Liston off his feet people should realize the agility, co-ordination and power Clay can put into each and every punch".

"I didn't fight Dempsey" Joe added. "But I did fight Louis, Charles and Marciano. I know none of these men, could beat with Clay. And I know none of us could punch as fast as Cassius. Some of us might hit as hard, but Clay would outpunch us in every exchange".

Why this sudden homage at the feet of Clay? It has been suggested that the colorful outburst on Walcott's part is merely an alibi for Jersey Joe's ineffectual clanking of the Clay-Liston Lewiston double.

But the Walcott warblings left little impression on a guy named Floyd Patterson, named as Clay's likely next opponent.

He said Walcott could be right, "but I'm going to try to prove that he is wrong the night I get in the ring with Clay. I don't know where I rate among heavyweight champions. But I do know that I'm going to fight my best out the night I go against Cassius. I'm going to knock Clay out. I know I can knock him out. This is the one thing I'm not going to miss".

As the Montreal Gazette's Dick Carroll columns, "Who has Clay ever licked? The nearest name fighters were Archie Moore and Liston, a couple of tired old men. Henry Cooper the English heavyweight floored his near the end of a round and it could be that he'd saved him. Is Walcott comparing him with the Dempsey who destroyed Jess Willard a big man than Clay? Or with the Louis who annihilated Schmeling? Or with the Marciano who twice stopped Walcott himself?

If Jersey Joe is no better a judge of fighters than he is a boxing referee, Patterson won't lose too much sleep.

World Series Golf

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The chase for the top prize of $50,000 golf's biggest financial jackpot, began today at the World Series of Golf.

Masters champion Jack Nicklaus, U.S. Open titlist Gary Player, PGA champion Dave Marr and British Open winner Peter Thomson comprise the field in the two-day, 36-hole playoff at the 7,136-yard Firestone country club course.

Even the man who finishes last will earn off a good pay cheque out of the $77,500 purse. Second place is worth $15,000, third $7,500 and fourth $5,000.

In event of a first-place tie, a sudden-death playoff will be held beginning on the 18th hole.

Despite the fact he has not played well, Nicklaus, who won the first two World Series but did not qualify last year when he failed to capture a major tournament, is a solid favorite.

Player is the No. 2 choice followed by Marr and then Thomson.

Drysdale Ties Pitcher Homer Mark

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

If there's one pitcher Sandy Koufax can't match, it's teammate Don Drysdale—in home runs, that is.

Drysdale followed Koufax's record-breaking fourth no-hitter with a record-tying sixth of his own Friday night, hitting his seventh homer of the season in Los Angeles Dodgers' 12-4 victory over Houston Astros.

Drysdale gave the Dodgers a 2-0 lead in the first inning when he homered on a Robin Roberts' pitch, tying the National League record for most homers by a pitcher in one season.

Drysdale, who hit seven homers in 1958 and shares the record with the Dodgers' Don Newcombe, also closed in on a 20-victory season by gaining his 18th triumph. That leaves him only three victories behind Koufax. But then he's seven homers ahead.

SCORES 100 AGAIN

Meanwhile, San Francisco's Willie Mays became the first player in baseball to score 100 runs for 12 consecutive seasons when he came home in the sixth inning of the Giants' rolling Giants' 5-2 victory over Chicago Cubs.

Mays scored run No. 100 on a pinch-hit grand-slam homer by Willie McCovey that snapped a 1-1 tie and protected the Giants' one-half game lead over second-place Cincinnati.

Cincinnati Reds dropped into third place, 1½ back, after a 7-0 loss to Philadelphia. Twins and fourth - place Milwaukee Braves remained 3½ behind by downing New York Mets 3-1.

Philadelphia Phillies edged St. Louis Cardinals 5-4 to 12 innings.

Drysdale, who has hit 27 homers during his career, was tagged for fourth inning homers by Walt Bond, Ted Shaw, Wynn Hawkins and Jim Wynn that wiped out the lead he had provided. But he was available again with a 7-4 lead in the fifth when the Dodgers broke the 2-2 tie.

FIRST IS HOMER

Rookie Don Young gave the Cubs a 1-0 lead in the fifth inning with a homer, the first career league hit. But the Giants struck back in the sixth after leading the bases against Dick Ellsworth on a single by Tito Fuentes and walks to Jesus Alou and Mays, the last intentionally.

Ted Abernathy replaced Ellsworth (13-14), yielded a run on Jim Hart's infield single and by McCovey. The homer was McCovey's 34th.

Bob Veale, the Pirates' sox pitcher, lowered his record to 16-10 by scattering nine Cincinnati hits.

Tommy Helms got the job done for the Braves with a two-run homer in the seventh inning that snapped a 1-1 tie and made the Mets' Jack Fisher the first game loser in the majors this season.

The Phillies won it in the 12th, scoring three runs on Johnny Callison's two-out double. John Herrnstein went in as a pinch runner, proceeded to first on a wild pitch and fourth - place Milwaukee Braves remained 3½ behind by downing New York Mets 3-1.

Lou Clinton, playing with his third American League team in five days, made his debut with Cleveland Friday night and helped the Indians drop a 2-0 decision to Detroit Tigers.

That gave the outfielder the distinction of having the only three-team, four - game losing streak in the majors. His fifth inning miscue enabled him to extend the streak.

Clinton arrived in the Indians' camp from California Angels in an unusual manner—by way of Kansas City.

The Angels had placed the 27-year-old Oklahoman on waivers. Kansas City claimed him, and he arrived there in time for Wednesday night's game against the Angels.

He started in right field but left after three innings, making room for Bert Campaneris, who was in the process of playing all nine positions. While he left in the game, though, Clinton didn't have a chance to catch or miss, any fly balls.

WHAT A MIGHTY!

Then, before he could get into the Athletics' lineup again, it was discovered he never should have gone to camp with it all and instead should have gone directly to the Indians.

Al Pryor and Steve Cronin ruled the Athletics claimed Clinton after the 72-hour deadline had passed. He, like Cronin said, he belonged to Cleveland.

No sooner had he arrived in Cleveland than he was inserted into the starting lineup in left field.

In the fourth inning, with one on and one out, Norm Cash lofted a fly to short left. Clinton came in, grabbed the ball—but then dropped it. The Tigers didn't score, but Clinton gave them another chance in the fifth.

With Bill Freehan on first and one out, Ray Oyler hit a fly to left. Clinton lost the ball somehow, and the Tigers had runners at second and third. Mickey Stanley struck out for what would have been the final out, but rookie Mickey Stanley followed with a single that drove in the runs.

Lolich stymied the Indians the rest of the way, pitching a four-hitter and bringing his record to 12-8.

BEAT RED SOX

Elsewhere in the AL, Minnesota Twins defeated Boston Red Sox 8-5, Baltimore Orioles downed Kansas City Athletics 7-5 before losing 10-5, New York Yankees trimmed Chicago White Sox 3-1 and Washington Senators beat California Angels 4-1.

The Twins extended their lead to eight games with a three-run double from Zoilo Versalles in the seventh inning. Versalles added five more doubles to their 10-hit attack while Tony Oliva contributed a two-run homer for the Red Sox.

Baltimore broke a 2-2 deal with a four-run outburst in the opener with consecutive home runs by Brooks Robinson, Curt Blefary and Luis Aparicio.

But the Athletics came back in the nightcap as Dick Green's double in the first drove in runs with two doubles and a homer.

New York's Mel Stottlemyre scattered eight hits for his 17th triumph against eight defeats. Washington got all the runs it needed in its five expansion years with its 53rd victory of the season.

Pitching—Mickey Lolich, Detroit, pitched a four-hitter as the Tigers trimmed Cleveland Indians 2-0.

Batting—Ken Harrelson, Kansas City, drove in five runs with two doubles and a homer, powering the Athletics to a 10-5 victory over Baltimore Orioles in the second game of a doubleheader.

US Tennis

Ashe Defeats Emerson

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—Arthur Ashe, 22, son of a Richmond cop, today is the newest big name in tennis, winner over the world's No. 1 player, Roy Emerson of Australia, in the quarter-finals of the national championships.

He beat Emerson 11-11, 6-4, 10-12, 6-2, 6-3 Friday in a match lasting two hours, 53 minutes.

The UCLA senior gets another major test today when he faces Manuel Santana of Spain, the international veteran who recently almost single-handedly wrecked U.S. Davis Cup hopes.

If he can get by Santana and then beat the winner of the match between Rafael Osuna of Mexico and Cliff Drysdale of South Africa—a big order but not unlikely—he will become the first U.S. player in 10 years to win the American championship. Tony Trabert was the last in 1955.

Ashe also would become the first Negro champion.

Santana beat Antonio Palafox of Mexico 8-6, 7-5, 6-4. Osuna and Drysdale advanced Thursday.

In the women's division, Wimbledon champion Margaret Smith of Australia faces Nancy Richey of Dallas and Maria Nocco of Brazil opposes Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif.

Miss Smith won easily Friday, beating Francoise Dure of France 6-1, 6-0 but Miss Bueno, aiming and off form, had to fight out nine match point to win over Carole Graebner of Beechwood Ohio, 8-6, 1-6, 9-7.

Miss Richey beat Norma Baylon of Argentina 6-4, 7-5 and Miss Moffitt outlasted England's Ann Haydon Jones 16-14, 6-2.

National Next Week

AFL Under Way Today

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

San Diego Chargers and Boston Patriots will unveil rookie running backs Saturday when they open out of necessity than by design, as the American Football League gets under the season with two-game programs to night and Sunday afternoon.

While the circuit's National League runs through its last week of exhibitions, the AFL gets a one-week jump on the regular season action when Buffalo Bills open at Boston and Denver Broncos at San Diego Sunday night. Sunday's program shows Kansas City Chiefs at Oakland Raiders and New York Jets at Houston Oilers.

The Chargers may be forced to use an all-rookie running back duo if Paul Lowe's knee keeps him out of contention with Keith Lincoln, who already has been placed on the injured list because of a shoulder injury.

Gene Foster, a five-foot-11, 200 - pound breakaway threat from Arizona State, will take over Lowe's spot, if necessary, with Jim Allison, from San Diego State, tapped for Lincoln's fullback spot.

COOKIE AT FULLBACK

Denver, meanwhile, will have an all-veteran backfield but there'll be new faces just the same. Cookie Gilchrist, former Canadian Football League player with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Toronto Argonauts and Saskatchewan Roughriders who was acquired from Buffalo will start at fullback, while Abner Haynes, acquired from Kansas City, likely will get the call at halfback.

Boston will have Jim Nance of Syracuse at fullback and Art Johnson of southeastern Louisiana at halfback taking handoffs from quarterback Babe Parilli.

The Bills also will have a trade acquisition at the halfback field—Billy Joe, acquired from Denver in the Gilchrist trade.

At Houston, the Jets will put their new No. 1 quarterback on display—but it won't be Joe (4400)00) Namath, the Alabama flash, second-year man from Hillsdale, will run the offense.

The Chiefs and Raiders will go with veteran backfields, quarterback Len Dawson calling the shots for Kansas City and either Toni Fiores or Cotton Davidson directing the signal-calling for Oakland.

BIG ROOKIE LIST

The Patriots may have the largest rookie contingent in the starting lineup. Besides Nance and Johnson, George Pyne of Citrel will start at defensive tackle and Tom Hennessey of Holy Cross at cornerback.

The NFL's final exhibition schedule has one game, unbeaten Minnesota Vikings vs. Cowboys in New York, and at Omaha, Neb., scheduled this afternoon. The rest are tonight and Sunday afternoon.

Baltimore Colts play Philadelphia Eagles at Hershey, Pa., the NFL's final exhibition game. Green Bay, Cleveland Browns take on Pittsburgh Steelers at Buffalo, New York Giants at Chicago Bears, Los Angeles Rams at Dallas Cowboys at Tulsa, Okla.

Saturday, Detroit Lions meet Washington Redskins at Canton, Ohio, and San Francisco 49ers are at Los Angeles.

McLean Named Champion

TORONTO (CP) — Bob McLean of Vancouver Friday was named champion Canadian racing driver of the year.

The 32 - year - old Australian-born driver picked up six points with his Lotus 32B in the Indian Summer Trophy Races at Mosport track Saturday. He then flew to Fort Macleod, Alta., Sunday and won seven more in the Player's Prairie race driving a borrowed car.

That gave him a total of 42 points with one event remaining on the championship calendar, a 200-mile race with $10,000 in prize money at Le Circuit Mont Tremblant St. Jovite in Quebec Sept. 19.

Defending champion Ludwig Heimrath of Toronto, entered in over-two-litre competition with his McLaren Elva, won at Mosport Saturday and gained seven points. That gave him 28 points and wrapped up a driver title for his car.

McLean will pocket $1,000 for winning the under-two-litre division. Since his total gives him an undisputed over - all edge over Heimrath, he will receive an additional $200 and the Player's Challenge Trophy, awarded annually to the Canadian champion. Heimrath also will receive $1,000 for winning the over-two-litre category.

TRIALS SET

A Lift for Living

Each One of Us Leaves Mark No Matter Where We Tread

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Henry never amounted to much or as he thought. He held no prominent public office. Because he was a man of modest means he could not give large sums of money to charity or to worthy causes. He was not widely acclaimed for unusual skills and gifts.

Henry simply lived among us, working hard for a living, taking good care of his family, raising a family, attending his church and singing in the choir, enjoying the company of his friends.

Not long ago Henry died, and it was my solemn duty to comfort his family and conduct his funeral. As I reflected on the meaning of Henry's life, it became apparent to me that Henry was a parable of what every life should be. While making his living as a painter and decorator, Henry found pleasure in going about our community making dirty places clean and drab places bright, making chipped and marred things beautiful. Wherever Henry went he made a difference for the better.

SPOT OF BEAUTY

Could anything more significant be said about anyone than this: "Wherever he went he left a spot of beauty"?

It is a law of life that everything leaves its mark upon the place on the earth. Rocks tumbling down mountain sides leave scratches on other rocks. Streams leave deep scars in the soil. A tree falling in the forest breaks limbs of other trees as it sinks to rest leaves "a lonely place against the sky." Hills and lakes are often the impressions left by glaciers of the ice Age as they withdrew to the far North that was many years ago. As you walk along a path you kick up pebbles, and small holes are left where the stones were dislodged.

Nothing comes and goes in the world without leaving its impression, large or small, showing it has been here and indicating a little of what it was like.

Humans, lowly or great, obscure or renowned, all leave their mark upon their time. We unthinkingly speak of certain people as being "influential," as if having influence is a matter of high position or immense personal power. This a Senator is influential, and so is a philanthropist, and so is a man who "has the ear of the President."

But actually we cannot choose whether or not we will be influential. Everyone is influential, whether he wishes it or not. The criminologists tell us that no one can enter or leave a room without depositing some traces of his identity, fingerprints, footprints, hairs from his head, threads and other fibres from his clothes, and knowers by these clues to what he is like and what he has been doing. Everyone leaves hints of himself everywhere he goes.

KIND OF MARK

While we cannot choose whether or not we will be influential, we must all decide what kind of mark we shall leave behind. My friend Henry determined both his work and his joy would be found in bestowing a touch of beauty upon every place he visited.

James Whitcomb Riley, the "Hoosier poet," used to delight in his path with a bit of encouragement for the people he met. He was a person of simple thoughtfulness and fitted an anonymous definition of personal worth: "Folks is purty nice lookin' down; when I left him I was looking up."

One day Riley came down the steps of his home on Lockerbie Street in Indianapolis and was confronted by a hunchbacked little lad. The youngster's face was tear-stained and his voice quivered as he asked, "Mr. Riley, you've seen some crooked soldiers, haven't you?"

The poet looked behind the lad and saw an army of boys with wooden swords and guns anxiously awaiting Riley's verdict.

"Yes; I have seen some crooked soldiers. But not many, for crooked soldiers are the bewest and best and the very hardest to find."

With the satisfaction of such an answer the "army" joyously welcomed the hunchbacked boy, proudly closed ranks around him and marched off to some imaginary conquest. Indianapolis was a brighter city that day because James Whitcomb Riley lived there.

UNKNOWN EFFECTS

Often the effects of the good life are not known by the one who lives it, any more than a person is aware of all the germs he may carry in his fingerprints. There is an old French fable about a man who was visited by the angel. They told him God was about to grant him a special gift and that he was to choose what that gift would be. The man protested that God had always been gracious to him, and he was contented; he needed no gift. But the angels insisted he make a choice. After much thought he said, "I ask that I may do a great deal of good with out ever knowing it."

The wish was granted. Thereafter, wherever that man's shadow fell some good thing occurred. Flowers sprang up on barren ground. Spring arose in dry stream beds. The infirm found sudden strength. Food and drink were provided for the hungry. The sick were healed. The fearful found faith, and the sorrowful were comforted. And the man never guessed how he blessed those whose lives he touched.

In the words of a favorite benediction, "Now may Christ be in your life and in all your speaking. May Christ be in your mind, and in all your thinking. May Christ be in your heart and in all your living."

And may the shadow of such a life bless the world wherever you are led to go.

Brooklin Ready For Series

BROOKLIN, Ont. (CP) — Coach A. G. (Bud) Christie said Friday night his Brooklin Merchants are eager to meet New Westminster in the Mann Cup series for the Canadian senior lacrosse championship.

"We have no injuries to bother us, we're all enthusiastic," said Christie.

The team in Brooklin town, Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior A champions and Mann Cup winners the last two years, leave their Oshawa-area community Sunday for New West-minster where the best - of - 7 series will be played.

The teams open the series Monday, with the following games on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Other games, if necessary, are scheduled for Sept. 20, 22 and 25.

The Merchants will be reinforced for the series by two high-scoring centres, Bill Castator and Larry Ferguson, and left winger Jackie Madgett.

Splinter Group Formed

TORONTO (CP) — The Star Soccer group of dissenting Toronto Argonaut shareholders are forming a splinter group within management of the Eastern Football Conference club.

Sports editor Milt Dunnell says the group is headed by W. E. N. (Billy) Bell, former Argo player. Dunnell says a block of the shares formerly held by C. H. Puchard is being sold to persons prepared to back the group. Price is $95 a share.

Also associated with the new group, says Dunnell, is former Argo president Bob Morao, who fell out of favor with club directors last year. Morao owns 1,387 of the Argos' 11,550 outstanding shares.

Dunnell says the splinter group realizes there is no hope that they'll gain control of the club at this time, but they are hoping to at least have some voice at Argonaut affairs.

Gray, Harvey Win Golf Tournament

BRAMPTON (CP) — Professional Bob Gray — Professional Bob Gray — Professional Gary Harvey, Canadian women's close champion both of Toronto, combined to win the Canadian Pro-Lady fifth annual golf tournament Friday.

Gray and Harvey was the only woman golfer to card a par 72 over the 5,875-yard Brampton Golf Club.

The winning team had a seven-stroke margin over Jack Kay and Kay Hellner of Toronto and Bruce Murray and Mrs. S. Dalrymple of St. Catharines who tied for second place with 156.

Windsor Applies Kingston In Senior OHA

TORONTO (CP) — Windsor's bid to re-enter the Ontario Hockey Association senior series rests on the shoulders of two members of the OHA's executive committee.

Bob Mills of Oakville, senior convener, and C. G. (Pat) Patterson of Guelph, past - president and a former senior convener, were appointed by the OHA executive committee Friday night to work out a last - year settlement that will put Windsor in the league.

Windsor, in the league until two years ago, wants to join five other clubs for the 1965-66 season. But the clubs' now in the league, Woodstock, Oakville, Galt, Guelph and a new entry from Ft. Erie, have asked for financial guarantees from the Windsor entry.

Mills reported this following a meeting in Guelph Tuesday night. Windsor was unable to provide a satisfactory guarantees.

MINI TRAVEL COSTS

He said the teams want the guarantees because of the increased travel costs involved in playing games in Windsor. He added that Galt has indicated it will drop out if Windsor is accepted.

Welland, a member of the OHA senior series last year, will not be back this season.

The Windsor entry is backed by a group representing the Windsor Arena.

A schedule in which Guelph, Galt, Oakville and Woodstock would each play 42 games has been proposed. Mills said the

Can the best offence in the Western Football Conference beat the best defence?

If it can, Calgary Stampeders should beat British Columbia Lions tonight and put a steely grasp on first place.

The prospect of the match, to be televised across Western Canada by the CBC, has Vancouver fans converging on the ticket counters.

The attendance at Empire Stadium may eclipse the Canadian Football League record of 36,659, established when the same clubs met on the same field Sept. 7, 1963.

Another important game is at Edmonton between the Eskimos and Winnipeg Blue Bombers. The Esks would jump into the thick of the first-place with a victory. The Bombers trail league-leading Calgary by two points and have a chance to tie or even if the Lions win at Vancouver.

The Stampeders are healthy but will dress-rest the Lions' near-monopoly in games between the clubs since 1960. The veteran were sidelined with injuries.

"We're harder to scout this year," coach Jack Gotta said Friday night. "We're more versatile."

H.C. coach Dave Skrien credited Williams with improving the club in each of the positions this season since taking over from Bobby Dobbs.

The Lions will be missing defensive tackle Gus Kasapis with a knee injury. His replacement is Canadian rookie Roy Shatzko.

The Lions' offence, amended sharply from the crew that began the year, has quarterback Joe Kapp and halfback Willie Fleming in their usual slots, but gives a starting halfback post to Amos Bullocks, the flanker's job to Ron Morris, and the fullback's task to Bill Munsey.

Scoring and rushing leader Orvell Coleman lines up for Calgary with quarterback Eagle Day, halfbacks Lu Bain and Ted Woods, and flanker Buddy Taylor.

The Bombers arrived in Edmonton missing first - stringer Ed Ulmer, Roger Savoie, Roger Hamelin and Harris Hanson, all of whom are recovering from leg injuries.

Peter O'Toole in "Lord Jim" an Eye-Filling Romantic Adventure Film

Peter O'Toole who refuses the use of a stunt man to double for him during filming of dangerous action sequences, usually collects a number of injuries while making a movie. During the making of "Lawrence of Arabia", O'Toole sustained numerous cuts and bruises, a shattered collarbone, and a wrenched back when he fell from charging camels on two separate occasions. However, O'Toole managed to survive the hazard of filming "Lord Jim" during the Belle's booking, now showing until Wednesday, at the Belle Theatre, in superb technicolor and technirama.

On location in Hong Kong and Cambodia he came through without a scratch, while engaging a such derring-do as taking a one-handed ride on a freight train with the giant crane used during a speedy trip from the cargo hold of a huge trading vessel to the hull of a Chinese junk; single-handedly battling a fire aboard a 20-foot dinghy without a scratch, while engaging five dive into the snake-infested Kampot River in Cambodia from the deck of a wooden barge seconds before its cargo of gunpowder exploded.

Peter O'Toole was born in Connemara, County Galway, and educated at schools in Ireland and the north of England.

Written for the screen and directed by Richard Brooks, "Lord Jim" is based on the novel by Joseph Conrad. Starred with O'Toole are James Mason, Curt Jurgens, Eli Wallach, Jack Hawkins, Paul Lukas, Akim Tamiroff and the lovely Dalich Lael as "The Girl." The film is a Columbia Keeps Film co-production.

WRECK CLEARED

MONASTERY, N.S. (CP)— The job began moving on CNR's Truro-Sydney line late Friday night after wreckage was cleared from the tracks here. Railway crews cleared the line shortly before midnight, about 17 hours after cars of a westbound freight jumped the rails.

Stars of U.N.C.L.E. Get Beatle-like Treatment

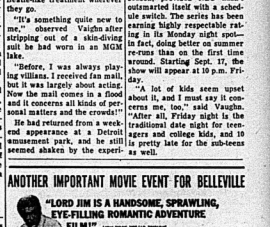
By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Twist 12 and 20, the first is U.N.C.L.E.' and nobody is being destroyed by it than Robert Vaughn.

The actor plays Napoleon Solo, the man from the alphabetized undercover organization, on the NBC television series. The show appears to have been taken up as a cause by teen-agers, along with stretch pants and folk music. Both Vaughn, 32, and co-star David McCallum have been getting Beatle-like treatment wherever they go.

"It's something quite new to me," observed Vaughn after stripping out of a skin-diving suit he had worn in an MGM lake.

"Before, I was always playing villians. I received fan mail, but it was largely about acting. Now the mail comes in a flood and it concerns all kinds of personal matters and the crowding!"



He had returned from a weekend appearance at a Detroit amusement park, and he still seemed shaken by the experience as well.

"I've been in crowds before, but this was the first time I was really frightened," he remembered. "I saw several thousand girls between the ages of 12 and 15 coming at me as a dead run, with only a dozen policemen with locked arms in front of me. The girls grabbed at my coat, my tie—I thought I was going to lose a whole head of hair."

The U.N.C.L.E. mania is likely to flourish in the coming season, provided it hasn't outsmarted itself with a schedule switch. The series has been earning highly respectable ratings in its Monday night spot—in fact, doing better on summer re-runs than on the first time around. Starting Sept. 17, the show will appear at 10 p.m. Friday.

"A lot of kids seem upset about it, and I must say it concerns me, too," said Vaughn. "After all, Friday night is the traditional date night for teenagers and college kids, and 10 is pretty late for the sub-teens as well.

Touchy Johnson Handles Critics With Restraint

President Johnson is a firm believer in courteous government. And he's never been known for his fondness of critics. But his public reaction to dissenters, the president is using a velvet glove. This story describes his approach.

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A University of Kansas student, unhappy about President Johnson's policies in Viet Nam, slashed his wrist and smeared blood on 4 campus bulletin board.

The student, Charles Hook of Glen Head, N.Y., said this rather startling action last March was "purely spontaneous and an individual gesture." But less dramatic displays of displeasure with Johnson's decisions have become commonplace, though apparently reflecting only minority opinion.

This has been a year for teach-ins, sit-ins and hunger strikes, all reflecting various degrees of opposition to various presidential policies.

Johnson's public reaction generally has been restrained, but his sensitivity to almost any criticism is marked and, in private, often stormy.

Publicly, Johnson insists he welcomes Democratic debate and abhors blind conformity. On those occasions when he has uttered stronger statements, he usually has criticized the press which often brings him first news of dissent and, in his view, promotes conflict by publicizing his critics.

IMMUNITY GONE

A year ago, Johnson seemed to enjoy miraculous immunity to the barbs that all presidents encounter sooner than later. When harsh words were heard, they normally fell into the category of partisan campaign utterances or dealt with such side issues as the president's driving habits and dog-handling practices.

However, this year has seen the development of an often-noisy undercurrent of minority criticism embracing such major issues as Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic—plus civil rights, American representation at the Churchill funeral, Johnson's shelving of Washington visits by the leaders of India and Pakistan, and his relations with the press.

With all this, though, the polls show Johnson's standing with American voters has remained exceptionally high on all significant questions, including Viet Nam.

Criticism began soon after Johnson was inaugurated as president in his own right. First he offended an important, if unmeasurable, portion of the American populace by sending Chief Justice Earl Warren—rather than Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey—to represent the United States at the London funeral of Sir Winston Churchill.

U.S. UNNOTICED

During day - long television broadcasts of the Churchill rites, the attention of Americans was called repeatedly to the kings, queens and prime ministers representing many a less powerful nation. Seldom did they glimpse the Warren-led American delegation.

Johnson, recovering from a cold that had put him in hospital briefly, responded to the criticism with sarcasm, telling a press conference:

"I may have made a mistake by asking the chief justice to go and not asking the vice-president. I will bear in mind in connection with any future funerals your very strong feelings in this matter. . . ."

Privately, Johnson once suggested the whole tempest was inspired by a Merle reporter who he thought, wanted a trip to London with Humphrey.

It cannot be said, however, that Johnson does not learn from experience. Within barely six months, Humphrey twice was sent to Europe on presidential missions.

Since then, restraint has been his watchword. He waited nearly six hours for example, to authorize the removal from the White House of 13 young people who staged a sit-in critical of his civil rights policies. More recently, two days elapsed before opponents of the war in Viet Nam were hauled away in paddy wagons after blocking White House entrances in a sit-down demonstration.

About two months ago, Johnson put his public reaction into words in a statement that referred indirectly to teach-ins and other displays of opposition to administration policy in Viet Nam:

"How rare is the land and extraordinary the people who freely allow, and really encourage, as I have on many occasions, the citizens of our nation to discuss and to debate their nation's policies in time of danger. . . .

"We welcome and we ask for new ideas from serious and concerned men and women, from universities and journals and public platforms all across the land. We are constantly searching for views and proposals which might strengthen and unite and help our government."

Then he added a word about what has become his greatest concern about vocal dissidents:

"Let not one ever think for a moment that national debate means national division."

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: I am going to be in Youngstown, Ohio in the latter part of this month and from there I will have to drive to Chicago. I understand that my best route would be by the Ohio Turnpike and Indiana Toll Road. On this trip what is the distance, how long will it likely take, and what will be the total tolls? — L. B. W., Trenton.

ANSWER: From Youngstown you would enter the Ohio Turnchange No. 15. From there to Chicago it is 280 miles, and toll charges would amount to $6.05. Under normal driving conditions the time it would take would be approximately a total of 7½ hours on the road.

QUESTION: When we are in the Niagara Falls area for a weekend this autumn, my daughter wants to see the fort at Fort Erie. Is there such a fort? — D. K. E., Belleville.

ANSWER: Old Fort Erie, located in Government Park, Fort Erie, Ont., is a quite impressive structure, complete with ditch, drawbridge, bastions and early nineteenth - century guns. It contains many pieces of equipment used by the British and American Armies during the war of 1812. The first fort, built on this site in 1764, was destroyed in 1779 by ice and flood. A second fort was then constructed, but this was also destroyed in a storm in 1803. The third fort, begun in 1804, was not completed when war broke out in 1812. In July 1814, while garrisoned by only 170 men, it was attacked and overwhelmed by a force of 4,500 Americans. The Americans strengthened the fort but later abandoned it. Restoration of the present structure was completed in 1939.

The fort is open to the public 10 to 6 daily, May 1 to Oct. 31; noon to 5 daily, Nov. 1 to April 30. Admission is 50 cents; children 7 to 12, 25 cents.

QUESTION: Could you tell me the toll rates for the Burlington Skyway? We are moving to the Hamilton district and would be interested in knowing the cost. — R. D., Belleville

ANSWER: The tolls on the Burlington Beach Skyway are as follows:

Class 1 Vehicles (Passenger cars, light trucks of less than one ton capacity) — Cash rate 15 cents, 20 tickets for $1.00.

Class 2 Vehicles (Drawing a trailer; trucks of not more than two axles with capacity of one ton or more) — Cash rate 25 cents, 24 tickets for $4.00.

Class 3 Vehicles (Class two vehicles drawing a trailer, trucks having three or more axles, Public Vehicles etc.) — Cash rate 45 cents, 20 tickets for $6.00.

Eleven toll gates on the eastern approaches pass traffic through with the minimum delay.

Interesting thing about daily newspapers:

Canadians use them as a shopping guide

It's a fact. In a survey validated by the Canadian Advertising Research Foundation, 83% of those interviewed said they used their daily newspaper regularly as a guide for day-to-day shopping.

That's what they said. What did they really do? Another survey of 42,000 homes from coast to coast showed that daily newspaper advertising actually influenced the purchases of 67.5% of the people. In contrast, television influenced purchases of only 21% of the people and radio a mere 5%.

Probing still further, this survey found that 63% had indeed made recent purchases as a direct result of newspaper advertising; 25% as a result of television advertising; and 4% as a result of radio advertising.

Yes, most Canadians use daily newspapers as a shopping guide, perhaps because newspapers are not time-bound. That is, they can be looked over at length and at leisure. You don't have to be in a specific place at a specific time to get the information you're after. Nor is the amount of information you get condensed to restrictive time limits.

So an advertiser who runs ads in daily newspapers is actually putting his product or service on the shopping list of millions of Canadians. A wise move on his part, don't you think?

INDIANS CLAIM LAHORE VICTORY

Tank War Is Taking Big Toll

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — India claimed its tanks scored a victory over Pakistani forces in a major battle near the West Pakistani city of Lahore. Pakistan said it repelled the attack, inflicting heavy losses on Indian armor.

Pakistan also claimed it turned back an Indian armored attack near Sialkot, some 60 miles north of Lahore.

A Pakistani spokesman said 45 Indian tanks were destroyed in the Sialkot fighting while Pakistani losses "have been substantially less."

Sialkot is just across the border from the Indian part of Kashmir and Lahore, a city of 1,500,000, is 20 miles inside Pakistan.

Reports from Lahore said fighting raged 10 miles away and artillery fire could be heard inside the city.

The Indian radio said since Sept. 1, Indian forces have "immobilized" 246 Pakistani tanks, destroying or damaging 212 and capturing 34. It was estimated that Pakistan had 400 combat-ready tanks at the beginning of the conflict.

DESTROY TANKS

An Indian spokesman said Sunday that 43 Pakistani tanks were destroyed and 30 captured in heavy fighting on the Lahore and Sialkot fronts in the fist 48 hours.

There was no independent confirmation of India's or Pakistan's claims. However, diplomatic sources in New Delhi said it appeared Pakistani forces had been hard hit.

Informed sources in Rawalpindi said Sunday that the Sialkot battle was the most vital action of the conflict on Pakistani soil, and if it continues another 48 hours, both sides will have lost much of their heavy and mobile equipment.

This could alter the entire course of the fighting, conceivably reducing it to mainly a guerrilla action as supplies grow scarcer.

India has been trying to seize Sialkot and then drive on Gujranwala, a vital junction on the highway linking Rawalpindi, the capital, and Lahore.

There was also heavy fighting Sunday on the Lahore front, south of Sialkot. Pakistan radio said today that Indian counter-attacks had been beaten back with heavy losses.

The India s also suffered heavy losses near Kasur, about 30 miles south of Lahore, the radio said.

PAKISTANI PROTEST MARCH IN LONDON — Pakistani demonstrators carry placards as they form in London's Trafalgar Square for march to No. 10 Downing Street, official residence of the Prime Minister. ## Louisiana Lowlands Shambles

By BEN THOMAS

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Authoritative sources said early today about 400 bodies had been counted by law enforcement officers in flooded regions in the New Orleans area.

The Red Cross, meanwhile, said hurricane Betsy wiped out some towns in the marsh country south of here.

The Times-Picayune quoted a spokesman for the Orleans parish coroner's office as saying 250 bodies were expected from Plaquemines and St. Bernard parishes.

"AR I know to that we are expecting a hell of a lot of bodies," said a weary official in the coroner's office when asked about the report.

Another source said an additional 150 bodies could be expected from New Orleans itself.

The Red Cross said its preliminary survey showed 918 homes destroyed, 25,900 with major damage and 181,000 with minor damage in Louisiana.

The coroner's office had more than 30 bodies, many still unidentified. Betsy had earlier left six dead in Florida.

The Red Cross said it has 25,000 evacuees in two big shelters and expected many of them to remain a week or two.

Governor John McKeithen appealed to residents in other areas to help the Louisiana Red Refugees and set the example by taking in these flood victims, the executive mansion at Baton Rouge.

The damage toll left by hurricane Betsy remained a matter of guesswork with estimates ranging about $1,000,000,000.

FALLS SLOWLY

Water was receding throughout the flood area. However, the fall was slow at New Orleans, where low-lying areas surrounded by levees and an elaborate pumping system hold flood water like a bowl. Conservationists estimate how long it will take.

One levee breach the industrial canal was cut in an effort to speed the drainage. Power failure, still a major problem in the city, hampered operations at the big pumping stations.

Physicians assisting the Red Cross screened refugees for typhoid and communicable diseases.

Extra supplies of smoke bbe were rushed to the area. There are a serious problem in some south Louisiana areas during the flood.

In Baton Rouge, Governor John J. McKeithen vowed a crackdown on profiteering. Officials said there were reports, not officially confirmed, of gasoline at $1 a gallon and bread at $1.30 a loaf.

Toronto Opens New City Hall

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's new $21,000,000 city hall, of such radical design it has been described as a North American Taj Mahal, is scheduled to be officially opened today.

The edifice with curtain-walling towers, one 27 storeys high, the other 20 storeys, coupling a three-storey saucer-shaped city council dome between them, was to be opened by a traditional ribbon-cutting ceremony by Gov.-Gen. Georges Vanier.

Sunshine is expected to attract hundreds of citizens to the ceremony, attended by some 2,000 invited guests including the prime minister and Mrs. Pearson.

Rockets were to shower flags on the crowd gathered on 12-acre Nathan Phillips Square—named after the former city mayor who piloted the project through months of turbulent public and council debate—in front of the city hall.

The east tower is 325 feet high and the west tower rises 260 feet. Some 2,800 employees will work in the 1,200 rooms of the new building.

Mr. Phillips will receive a civic merit award for his role in rescuing the city hall plan almost single - handedly after key civic authorities and the voters had rejected it.

Christians in Red Lands Live in Catacombs--Pope

ROME (AP) — Pope Paul stood in an ancient Roman catacomb Sunday and deplored that modern Christians in Communist lands "live in the catacombs."

The pontiff visited the catacombs of Domitilla, near the old Appian Way, to pray on the eve of the Vatican ecumenical council's reopening. He was on his way back to Vatican City from six weeks at the Papal summer residence in the Alban Hills south of Rome.

"It is sad to see how, in so many countries that we highly esteem and love, there are attempts today to suffocate the more religious life of the people and of individual persons, after so much talk (in those countries) about liberty," the Pope said.

"Everything at the disposition of the totalitarian organization is monopolized—the press and cultural, scholastic, educational and recreational life, so that the young from the church and impose upon them Marxist thought."

'READY TO FORGIVE'

The pontiff said the Vatican declares itself always ready for honest and dignified negotiations, ready to forgive wrongs committed, to look more to the present and future than to the recent and sorrowful past, but provided that it (the Vatican) meets with effective signs of good will."

He said he wanted persecuted bishops, priests and Catholics to know that their "distant and Roman brother" remember them and pray for them.

The worldwide council of Catholicism's bishops is expected to end sometime in December. Eleven documents remain for action through debate and voting. The first one to be taken up, when working sessions begin in St. Peter's Basilica Wednesday, will be the topic on religious liberty. It upholds the right of all men to worship with it not interference and according to their consciences.

Rivard Goes On Trial

LAREDO, Tex. (CP)—A stiff court battle was set for today in the United States government's attempt to put Lucien Rivard on rial for narcotics conspiracy in this old border town of gun-slinging and smuggling tradition.

The government wants to try him immediately on charges growing out of a $32,000,000 heroin seizure on the U.S. bank of the Rio Grande in 1963, while the Montrealer's lawyer has filed a series of motions that would add up to an indefinite postponement for the central figure in Canada's scandal over political pressuring and alleged attempted bribery.

Overnight, the only firmly known point was that Rivard, 50, under special 24-hour watch by U.S. marshals, had a date in federal court today. After that, the lawyers were expected to fight it out before Judge Ben C. Connally, head of the South Texas judicial district.

Advance guessing was that the government would likely win the first scrimmages and put Rivard and three lesser-known Montrealers before a jury—al-

PC Chief Hints At Platform

By KEN KELLY

BARRIE (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker said Saturday night the party has matured in opposition to insist on integrity in high places.

The Opposition leader mixed his attack on the Liberal government with brief glimpses on the Conservative platform. He promised to set up a ministry of youth affairs, federal grants to universities of 75 per cent of the cost of buildings and equipment, and deductions for the home owner of municipal taxes in calculating income tax.

He spoke in a standing-room-only crowd at the annual banquet of the Ontario Young Progressive Conservatives in a modest dining room here. Four hundred persons sat down to the meal.

CITES ISSUES

While Mr. Diefenbaker's election platform will be formally inaugurated later, probably next weekend, his speech and an earlier press conference unveiled some of the things he will discuss in the campaign.

He said at the press conference that one reason Mr. Pearson was "rushed to the country in an election" was a bankruptcy racket. He said Quebec Rev-

Nab 23 As Drug Peddlers After 10-month Probe

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-three persons in Montreal and Toronto have been or will be charged by RCMP in connection with a 10-month undercover investigation by two young Mounties into drug trafficking in the two cities.

Among three charged Saturday in Montreal with trafficking in narcotics was Joseph Rosario (Willy) Lamy, 44, who testified at the Dorion inquiry into corruption in high government places that he gave Maria Rivard $20,000 as she tried to raise $60,000 bail for her husband Lucien.

At that time Rivard was awaiting extradition to Texas on narcotics charges. His trial started today at Laredo.

Two others were arrested and charged with trafficking in narcotics. Supt. J. R. Carriere, head of RCMP C Division, identified them as Joseph Dominic Baccal and Mrs. Luciano Griffiths. A third, Anita Kail, also was arrested and charged with possession of narcotics.

Supt. Carriere said one more man was on the RCMP's wanted list in Montreal.

Nell Hicks, 47, arrested Saturday with seven others in Toronto on charges of trafficking in narcotics was turned over to RCMP in Montreal.

While RCMP in Montreal were making arrests, RCMP in Toronto arrested eight on charges of trafficking in narcotics and charged seven others already in the Don jail on other charges.

Another man was arrested Friday. RCMP said Norman Woods was charged under Food and Drug regulations with selling controlled drugs.

The eight arrested Saturday, all of whom appeared today in court and were remanded in custody until Wednesday, were identified as:

Thelma Nyman, 38, Samuel Miller, 38, Margaret J. Littler, 36, Albert Poirier, 58, Linda McLeod, 18, Hazel Reynolds, 36, Cecile Johnston, 35, and Hicks, who later was taken to Montreal.

An RCMP spokesman in Toronto said another woman, currently in hospital, will be charged later.

"We also have warrants out for a number more," he said. "They're more difficult to locate. Some are believed to be in the Toronto area, others may not be."

The seven prisoners in Don Jail awaiting trial on other charges were identified as:

Elizabeth Pugh, Shirley Kinman, Laura Pisseda, Alfred Cooley, Frank Fehson, Michael Descoteaux and Cathy Lyle.

All have been charged under the Narcotics Control Act and are scheduled to appear in court Wednesday with the eight arrested Saturday and the man arrested Sunday.

The RCMP spokesman in Toronto said the illegal narcotics traffic in both cities was big hard, but he expected it to pick up soon.

The undercover agents were identified as John Pielechaty and Christian Sampson, who "look like anything but police men." Both are in their mid-20s and had just finished RCMP training courses. They were assigned to infiltrate the "organized drug traffic" of Montreal and Toronto.

Hunt Sunken Barge Laden With Enough Chlorine To Kill 40,000 If It Escapes

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)— A navy destroyer, navy divers and army engineers searched today for a sunken barge loaded with chlorine—a threat to thousands of lives. One estimate was that it could kill 40,000 people.

Mayor-President W. W. Dumas asked the 180,000 residents of this capital city to stay tuned to their radios for a possible evacuation order.

Army engineers said their search had located a sunken object near the new Mississippi River bridge under construction here, 300 feet out from the bank, 28 feet below the surface.

After the discovery Sunday further operations were delayed due to darkness.

A 40-mile stretch of the Mississippi at this busy port was closed to shipping. Dumas said 100,000 gas masks were being stockpiled.

"We don't anticipate that anything will happen but we want to be ready," he said.

The barge, loaded with 600 tons of chlorine, was ripped from its moorings when hurricane Betsy passed over Baton Rouge, 85 miles upriver from New Orleans.

President Johnson ordered the full resources of the federal government into the search.

The destroyer Hyman moved upstream from New Orleans during the night, with sunken vessels and debris making navigation a delicate business for the skipper, Cmdr. B. E. Terry, and the river pilots.

The Hyman was ordered in primarily because it is equipped with sonar detection gear for locating underwater objects. Diving experts were flown in from Washington.

Chlorine is shipped under pressure, which keeps it in liquid form. Accidental puncture of its container releases a misty gas, capable of killing any living thing in its path.

Though highly poisonous in its basic form, chlorine is one of the most useful chemicals in present - day industry and is used in the manufacture of many plastics, explosives and

Washington sources said the bargeload of chlorine was enough to kill 40,000 persons if the gas was released in a heavily populated area.

However, said W. B. Dodd, "we see no cause for alarm at the moment." He is chief executive assistant to the New Orleans district engineer.

Dodd said the barge sides were thick and underwater objects, such as floating log snags and other debris, would not puncture it.

A chlorine barge, similar to this one, went to the bottom near Natchez, Miss., during high winds three years ago. That barge was successfully raised by the same engineering district operation.

Memorial Mass Honors Deceased N.C.C. Teacher

On Friday the faculty and students of Nicholson Catholic College assembled in St. Michael's Church to participate in a Holy Mass and to pray for the late Sister Mary Matthew, a former teacher and dear friend of youth.

Rev. C. Gazeley, a member of the faculty, officiated. Present in the sanctuary were Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. F. Sullivan, P.P., V.F., St. Michael's parish; Rt. Rev. Msgr. J. A. Cassish, and Rev. T. Boyle, assisting D.P. P.P., St. Joseph's parish, St. Michael's parish. Many members of the N.C.C. alumni were present.

When St. Michael's High School was founded in 1923, Sister Mary Matthew came to Belleville to join the staff. For 33 years, Sister endeared herself to both the parents and the students of Belleville district. Possessing a keen and penetrating mind, Sister, as head of the mathematics and science departments, sent forth skilled graduates who have since risen to prominent posts, civil, political and religious life.

When classes terminated for the Mass holidays, Sister had completed her three science courses and had prepared required pupils for the final term. On April 22, while visiting her sister, Sister Mary Antoinette, in St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, Brockville, Sister suffered a broken hip and was hospitalized. Complications arose and less than two months, Sister died.

With her death, the faculty of Nicholson Catholic College lost a valued member, the students lost an astute teacher of science, a true friend and an experienced, understanding counsellor. Three generations of students have passed through her classes. Her absence is missed in the corridors of N.C.C. since classes resumed on September 7.

All Students Treated Same Says Minister

TORONTO (CP) — Education Minister William Davis said Friday the number of students who passed Grade 12 English this year should be in the normal range by the time the department has finished allowing appeals for students who asked for a re-examination of papers.

Mr. Davis, meeting with reporters to give the department's side in the fuss over the Grade 13 English exam, said about 4,400 students originally awarded failing marks have demanded a re-marking of their English examinations. He said he did not know exactly how many had failed the exam.

The number of students who scored first class honors on their Grade 13 papers was in the usual range, the minister said. However, he had no break down of the number of first class honors out of the 30,308 English papers written.

SAYS SITUATION NORMAL

Mr. Davis said that despite complaints that summaries on English marks had been withheld above the 80 per cent needed to qualify for a $500 government scholarship, 1,375 scholarships have been awarded this year and the figure should eventually reach about 1,400. This compared with 1,226 awarded in 1964. The increase was about as it should be, Mr. Davis said.

He said all students who had written English were treated exactly the same by the 210 English markers and many school boards had reported that the English marks were in the range they had anticipated.

No changes were made in the marking scheme midway through the checking of the papers and no markers quit because of dissatisfaction with the marking apparatus, Mr. Davis said.

Donald C. MacDonald, the New Democratic Party leader, said earlier in the week that three exams had been set on a basis.

The Grade 13 English paper came in for criticism from other sources as favoring the learned style and penalizing the brilliant students.

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Soviet Premier Kosygin told a Japanese economic delegation Monday he would like Japan to offer firm proposals for help in developing Siberia, Japanese sources reported.

Fraud Charge Laid After Accused Fined

Immediately after being fined $100 for driving under suspension, a 30-year-old Bancroft man was jailed before Magistrate T. Y. Wills today for fraud.

An interpreter was used by the court on both counts.

Speaking through an interpreter, Anton Sabeal, a one-time German immigrant, elected trial by judge and jury on the fraud count.

The hearing was adjourned to October 4 to allow Sabeal to call witnesses in his defence.

On the illegal driving count the magistrate was told Sabeal lost his license for 18 months after being convicted at Coboburg last year of dangerous driving in a fatal accident. However, the man's license had not been taken from him an formal notices informing him of the suspension had not been served since the man's residence could not be ascertained.

Magistrate Wills commented it was "scandalous almost" that Sabeal's license had not been taken from him after an assize court judge had suspended him.

"It's somebody's duty to go and get it — you don't wait for the judge to get it for you."

He ordered Sabeal to pay the $100 immediately or serve a month in jail.

The fraud charge concerned a $300 cheque allegedly given to Albert Zinke, of Shady Creek, in a scrap-metal transaction.

Through the interpreter Sabeal denied owing the debt to Zinke. He claimed the man had made a false statement during a division court action over the money and said he in turn would like a charge laid against Zinke.

Pakistan Expects Arms From Allies

By RALPH SHAW

KARACHI (Reuters) — Pakistan, facing heavy odds in its war with India, is hoping for even the balance with backdoor supplies from Iran and Turkey, its allies in the Central Treaty Organization.

Military experts in Karachi believe they are working supplies soon will start moving across the border between Pakistan and Iran.

Iranian Premier Amir Abbas Hoveida will fly to Karachi today for talks with Pakistani President Mohammad Ayub Khan. It was announced in Tehran Monday he would be accompanied by the Turkish foreign minister, Ihsan Sabri.

Pakistani officials believe India's present superiority in military equipment will diminish because India now is being refused arms by its main suppliers, the U.S. and Britain.

'CAN REPLACE LOSSES'

Although losses have been heavy on both sides in the air battle around Sialkot in West Pakistan, the Pakistanis consider that the Indian losses are irreplaceable while their own are not.

There were unconfirmed reports in diplomatic quarters that Iran and Turkey were already have begun sending supplies along the highway linking Pakistan with Iran.

NDP Ready Financially to Run Election

By MICHAEL GILLAN

OTTAWA (CP) — The New Democratic Party is in a better financial and organizational position to fight this general election than it was when it last went into the campaign, Leader T. C. Douglas said the fact one month of the electorate now is undecided about how to vote Nov. 8 "offers us the most golden opportunity we've ever had."

At dissolution, the party held 18 of the 265 House of Commons seats. Mr. Douglas declined to predict how many more ridings he will win, but said the NDP will be "within a stone's throw" of having candidates in every riding.

Mr. Douglas denied that he said in Vancouver last week that his target of a $1,000,000 campaign fund had already been met. He said that he actually been received so far, but he was optimistic that the NDP will collect the total well before election day.

CAMPAIGN LEADERSHIP

In speeches across the country—he plans to cross Canada by plane during the next three-and-a-half month—Mr. Douglas said he will stress the need for dynamic leadership in the next generation through the scientific revolution.

There is an urgent need for a sense of national purpose which seems to be slipping away under the two others," (Liberals and Progressive Conservatives) he said. "The public has a right to be led, not led itself with this."

The public had been disillusioned by the two older parties because their programs were out of date. Policies were needed to help the economy adjust to automation, to curb inflation and to lessen the existence of international payments.

A more effective manpower retraining program is needed, Mr. Douglas said.

The NDP leader said he will not make a big issue about recent political scandal. The public has read enough about these to form a judgment about the government.

He will, however, stress that the present method of soliciting campaign funds is at the root of scandals. Campaign expenses should be limited and the sources of money disclosed.

William Harvey Brant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brant, of Shannonville, Ontario, enlisted in the R.C.M. Police on January 14, 1965 after completing his education at the Moira Secondary School, Belleville, Ontario, and was posted to "Depot" Division, Regina, Sask., for recruit training. He graduated from training on September 8, 1965, and has been posted for duty in the Province of British Columbia.

Reed the instructor. In Trenton at the police station starting September 24th a similar First Aid course will be started by Mrs. A. Fridman. At Wellington Town Hall a course will be started October 4th for persons in that area. A fourth course will begin in Stirling on September 22nd for volunteer firemen, scouters and interested persons with Mr. Frank Insley as instructor. There is an increasing number of persons taking First Aid training across Canada. Factories are now organizing plant courses with the Workmen's Compensation Act, making our industry safer.

NEW COURSE INTRODUCED

This will also true of police forces, municipal public utilities and civic employees who are daily training in their own fields and also apply to serve the public by their knowledge of First Aid emergencies. A new course since last year's course has been introduced by the Boy Scouts. In all of this training, the Saint John Ambulance First Aid to the injured is the recognized authority on the subject. Saint John hopes that people of the Quinte district will avail themselves of one of the many courses being given.

The Home Nursing Courses is most valuable training for mothers, campers and those caring for the sick and aged, and these courses are planned to be held in Belleville and Trenton immediately. Through the United Appeal, which almost entirely provides financial aid, the Belleville citizens make possible the volunteer first aid service such has been seen rendered at the Belleville Fair, horse racing, sports events, particularly the Minor Hockey, and in fact anywhere at public gatherings where First Aid may be necessary, and this service is given voluntarily to the community. Last year this amounted for 6,500 hours of public service.

Kosygin Offers Little Hope For Negotiation

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Premier Kosygin offered little hope for early negotiations on Viet Nam during an 80-minute talk with newspaper publisher Lord Thomson in the Kremlin.

The London Sunday Times issued a paraphrased version of the overnight interview which appeared in Sunday's editions of the paper.

It says that during the interview, Kosygin criticized Prime Minister Wilson for giving all-out support to the Americans on Viet Nam.

"Analyzing the situation there he (Kosygin) offered no hope for early negotiations except on the terms already proposed by the Soviet Vietnamese," the Sunday Times says.

NO ULTIMATUM

It is clear, however, that these terms did not represent an "ultimatum" — a hint that Kosygin has used in discussions in these terms. He made a bitter attack on the American presence in Vietnamese, "the danger of a deterioration in Soviet-American relations."

The talk between Canadian-born Thomson and Kosygin last week was also attended by Harold Evans, the Times diplomatic correspondent of The Sunday Times.

The Sunday Times says that during the talk "Kosygin delivered a warning to Britain that one of (Britain's) foreign policy was going against the improvement of relations with Russia."

"The joint nuclear force, he said, was a policy of enmity against Russia, and England was the main country striving for it.

"... Mr. Kosygin also denied that there was a new flexibility in Russian communism. 'That,' he added, 'is your mistaken notion'."

Expansion Will Cost Steel Co. $175 Million

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—The Algoma Steel Corp. announced today it plans a four-year expansion program which will cost $175,000,000.

David D. Holbrook, chairman and president of Algoma Steel, said the program will increase the company's annual steel capacity by about 40 per cent and mean a substantial increase in employment.

The expansion, due for completion by mid-1969 or 1970, will include a large new battery of coke ovens, a new blast furnace, a new basic oxygen steelmaking shop with two 200-ton furnaces, a 160-inch plate mill and expanded rolling capacity for sheet strip and structurals.

The program, believed to be the biggest ever announced by the corporation at one time, would raise Algoma's raw steel capacity to 3,750,000 tons a year, Mr. Holbrook said in a letter to shareholders. This compares with a total steel making capacity of 2,450,000 tons reported in the company's annual report for 1964.

STATION LOAD CHARTS at city's newest hydro sub-station are explained by Utility Manager Ernest Burnham. Looking on from the left are Mayor Jack Ellis, Utility chairman Gerald B. Hyde, assistant Utility manager Mell Britton, and commissioner Harry Rollins.

Ultra Modern Sub Station For Utilities Is Opened

A Belleville Public Utilities hydro sub station on Reid Street which has served local electric customers since back in 1910 is to go under the wreckers hammer and its equipment offered for scrap.

The reason – an ultra modern sub station of double the capacity and fully automatic operation – has gone into service.

The new station was officially open into use today with members of the commission and utility officials on hand for the ceremony.

And according to utilities manager Ernest Burnham the change – over did not come before it was warranted.

"We have been a little uneasy about the old station for some time – particularly during severe electrical storms," stated Mr. Burnham.

ONLY TWO TRANSFORMERS

The old maxim that good things are done up in small parcels is particularly true for the new sub station.

The old station had five transformers with a total capacity of 6,000 KVA, while the new one has a total capacity of 11,200 KVA with only two air transformers.

The station serves east of the Moira River from Bridge to College street out as far as Macdonald Ave. The old station was built for the Trenton Electric and Water Company which apparently did business in this city back in 1910. It was purchased by Ontario Hydro in 1916 with the city finally taking it over in 1937.

BIGGEST IN CITY

But in recent years frequent repairs had been necessary to keep the station in service.

The new station is the latest and biggest of five sub stations built by the city since the end of the war, its 11,200 KVA capacity being about one third of the total utility station capacity of 33,284 KVA.

Cost of the new station and equipment was about $125,000.

Harry Carr-Brairt of this city was the builder with Joyce Sweanor of Cobourg doing the equipment installation.

Death Said Due to Heart Attack

A 58-year-old Belleville man was found dead behind a Front Street store Saturday night after he suffered a heart attack

The body of Daniel Bouder, 99 Byron Street, was discovered by a police constable at 11:30 p.m. behind Wray's Furniture store.

Police said the man had a history of heart trouble.

Born at Maynooth, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Bouder and had lived in the city for the past four years and had worked as a laborer for Crawford Meadows. He was a member of the United Church.

He is survived by his wife, the former Luella Hart, by three sons, Dale of Belleville, Daniel of Montreal and Kenneth of Point Anne; two daughters, Mrs. Walter (Luella) Painard of Belleville and Mrs. Bud (Shirley) Chesterton of Cobourg; and two brothers, Joseph of Belleville and Jacob of Bloomfield. There are nine grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Tuesday morning with service at the John R. Bush Funeral Home chapel. Interment will be in Belleville Cemetery.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

MOIRA RIVER DISTRICT COUNCIL

MADOC — The first fall meeting of the Moira Valley District Council was held in the Stirling High School Wednesday night. Uniform and council members attending came from Tweed, Thomasburg, Plainfield, Frankford, Bonarlaw, Madoc and Stirling.

President J. H. Thompson welcomed every one and opened with prayers. In his opening remarks he commented on the success of the first district church parade that was held in June and which some 645 persons attended. It is hoped, he said, that this would become an annual event, with the meeting and service in other communities each year. The Scout Movement must always be before the public eye.

GIVES SUMMER REPORT

District Commissioner Joe Irish gave his summer report on activities. He presented a detailed description of Cub and Scout camping during the holidays. The standard, he found, was good. He requested that the yearly reports of each group's activities be prepared now and submitted to the district secretary, Dr. Mullin, for himself in preparation for the annual meeting.

The announcement of a program workshop to be held at Camp Samac, Oshawa, on Sept. 24-26 was given. A.D.C. Gordon Russel was nominated to represent the district.

A.D.C. Ernest Harvey in his report spoke of his visit of inspection to a camp during the summer when he found everything in good shape.

REQUESTS HELP AT FAIR

A.D.C. Gordon Russel reported on his visits to a camp site at Bon Echo and of a request for help at the next Belleville fall fair. Scouts in uniform were needed for various duties during the fair days. It was suggested that boys from the Moira district help in future years.

Mr. Keith Cotton, Tweed, told of a visit from a New Jersey Scout Troop who camped in the area, and suggested that Moira River District get out a district pennant to present to visiting scout campers as a token of friendship.

The president reminded all groups that it was time for re-registrating and for membership fees. The deadline is the end of October. The fees are as follows: $2.50 for Cubs, Scouts and Rovers and $1.50 for leaders. This fee included the subscription to the Canadian Boy magazine.

Discussion of the arrangements for the annual meeting to be held in either Bonarlaw or Thomasburg on October 20th at 6.30 was held. The program will consist of a supper, receiving of the annual report, sing song and entertainment from various leaders and groups.

An executive meeting will be held early next month to make final arrangements for catering and programming.

GET READY TO CURL

The Trenton Country Club is planning to start putting ice in the curling rink by the middle of October and the curling activity should be well under way by the first of November.

Curling has become Trenton's best patronized adult sport in the past few years. More than 400 took part in club and industrial curling last year.

WEEDCUTTER OPERATING

The underwater weedcutter, sent to the Trenton-Belleville area by the federal department of public works, started cutting weeds in Trenton harbor today. The cutter will stay in the Trenton area for one week and will then proceed to Belleville.

Clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry said today farmers who wished the weeds for fertilizer could make arrangements with E. A. Horton who is in charge of the operation, to haul them away.

BUDGET READY

Trenton's five year capital budget estimates are now prepared and will be sent to the Ontario Municipal Board today.

Belleville Man Named Clerk At Frankford

TRENTON — Laurin Edward Turner, 37, of 18 King George Square, Belleville, assumed his new duties as clerk - treasurer of the village of Frankford, today. Mr. Turner was chosen from five other applicants for the position at a special meeting of Frankford council last week.

Mr. Turner has 14 years' experience in the accounting field. He is married, with four children and his family will be moving to Frankford as soon as accommodation can be found.

Mrs. Carol Smith, who was appointed deputy clerk-treasurer last year, will continue in this position. She has served as acting clerk since the resignation of Glenn Mills this July.

NO DAMAGE

Trenton firemen were called out Saturday night to the home of Henry Beckett on Dominion Street where an oil burner had flared up and started a fire in the stove pipe. There was no damage.

RIDE TO CHURCH

The congregation of Bethel Temple in Trenton recently purchased a "Sunday School bus," and driver Walter Conley started picking up children last Sunday. Adult church members may also ride along in the bus.

Rev. Ronald Reid, the pastor, issued an invitation this week to members of other churches in east Trenton to ride on the bus as far as their own places of worship. The bus services east Trenton only.

Bomb Viet Cong Regiment Around Clock

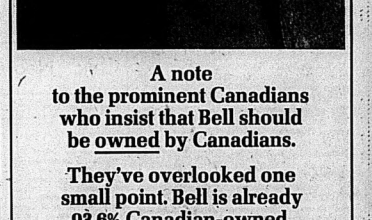
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. planes kept up round-the-clock bombings today of a Mekong delta area in South Viet Nam where a Viet Cong regiment is believed encamped, a U.S. military spokesman said.

The planes were trying to hit camps which can be used as escape routes by the guerrillas in the region 50 miles west of Soc Trang.

U.S. officials said they believed the guerrillas were trapped by the bombings. But ground troops were not committed to the action because of heavy rains and the hazy size of the Viet Cong force. A communist regiment usually numbers 2,000 men.

The main part of the U.S. Army 1st Cavalry (air mobile) Division began landing from troop ships at Qui Nhon today. Advance troops already were ashore. Qui Nhon is 260 miles northeast of Saigon.

The arrival of the 20,000 men pushed U.S. troop strength in South Viet Nam somewhat beyond 125,000. The exact figure was not disclosed.



The division, trained especially for guerrilla warfare, was expected to be deployed to South Viet Nam's central highlands.

'LUNGE FISHERMEN — Alf. Baker, Bill Elliott Sr. and his son Bill, all of Belleville, caught this 36-lb. 4-oz. beauty Sunday in the Moira River at Plainfield. The 'lunge, a 51-inch monster with 23-inch girth put up a half hour battle and ruined the fishermen's landing net. It is the fourth muskie landed by the trio this year — two 20 pounds, an 11-pounder and now this.

A note to the prominent Canadians who insist that Bell should be owned by Canadians.
They've overlooked one small point. Bell is already 93.6% Canadian-owned.
People who are uneasy about foreign control of Canadian companies needn't worry about Bell. For the fact is, the ownership of Bell is overwhelmingly Canadian. Of 208,000 shareholders, over 203,000 are Canadian residents, and they hold 93.6% of the total shares. The little tag line you see at the bottom of Bell advertisements means just what it says. And since it's important that people know the facts about one of Canada's most important public service companies, we'll go on putting it in. Here it is again.

Beating the Bombs

The risk of nuclear war is always present in this day and age, although it is safe to assume that neither the United States nor the Soviet Union is anxious to unleash such a conflict.

A necessary defense in such a war — if indeed any defence is possible — is an anti-missile missile. So far as we are aware neither the Americans nor the Soviets have developed such a missile. If they have, they are keeping it a secret.

Certainly there are few problems in this technical age that are beyond man's ingenuity to solve. Manned space flights and photographic surveys of the Moon and Mars from unmanned space vehicles are now commonplace.

In another sphere, there is now a device capable of detecting bombs or other explosive substances in passengers' baggage. This may help to put a stop to the occasional destruction of aircraft in flight by explosives placed by some mentally-unbalanced passenger, and to delays occasioned by cranks who phone airports and say there is a bomb aboard such and such a plane.

And from Montreal comes word of a mechanical robot — a caterpillar-tread vehicle equipped with adjustable telescoping arms, a microphone and a camera — which can handle bombs by remote control. Det.-Lt. Leo Plouffe, the Montreal police department's bomb expert, gave details of the device at the International Criminological Congress in Montreal recently.

In what must have been one of the understatements of the year he said the number of bomb incidents has increased throughout the world. Which means that the robot may be in heavy demand — anywhere from Southeast Asia to Latin America.

Road Works

One false step in Belleville these days could be the last for some unsuspecting person, what with all the road-moving equipment that is in evidence. It is no exaggerament; the other day we found ourselves stepping smartly onto the sidewalk on the corner of Front and Bridge Street East to avoid being hit by a huge caterpillar vehicle that started backing up as we were crossing on the green light.

Children and elderly people in particular should watch out, and parents should warn their youngsters to take particular care during this period.

As Larry Langlois, the retiring Hasting county roads engineer, noted recently there have been "tremendous changes in road construction and maintenance over the last three decades."

Mr. Langlois, who is retiring after 27 years on the job, said even more spectacular changes can be expected in the future. One possibility was the development of some kind of atomic energy which would melt snow and eliminate snowplowing as a means of keeping the roads open.

If the use of atomic energy in this way is contemplated the public will have to be safeguarded not only from icy roads, but from the hazards of radiation. But no doubt scientists will have no difficulty in providing such safeguards.

Still Young at 35

Girls who are over 25 and worrying about their advancing years should take heart. A congressional sub-committee in Washington has been lending a sympathetic ear to the plight of airline stewardesses facing dismissal at the age of 35 at the latest.

One after another the members of the House Labor Committee expressed their amazement at the age limit being imposed.

"Stand up," Representative James Scheur said to the dozen or so stewardesses in the hearing room, "so we can see the dimensions of the problem."

The chairman, Representative James O'Hara observed: "If this isn't discrimination on account of age, what is?"

Representative W. D. Hathaway chimed in: "The airlines need to be educated to the fact that they are operating flying Bunny Clubs, but just another means of transportation."

Mr. Scheur made a telling point. He suggested the airlines look up Benjamin Franklin's letter to his aunt, advising him to pay court to middle-aged women.

"Franklin noted that their feminine allure and sensitivity were enhanced, as in vintage wine," he said. "Perhaps his letter should be distributed to the airlines."

"I would oppose with my dying breath," Mr. Scheur said, "the notion that a women is less beautiful, less appealing, less sensitive after 30, and I'm sure my colleagues would agree."

Chairman O'Hara took the last word. "We had better," he said, "if we want to be re-elected."

After such a strong condemnation of the age limit for stewardesses, the airlines will not have a leg to stand on, or rather a wing to fly on. It looks like a victory for the girls over 30 — and more power to them.

Mingle a little folly with your wisdom; a little nonsense now and then is pleasant.— Horace.

Main Causes of Asthma Are Allergy and Emotions

By RICHARD JACKSON
From The Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau

(THIS IS THE FIRST OF A SERIES OF TWO ARTICLES.)

Dear Dr. Molner: Please write about asthma. My son has it. We have consulted several doctors, have gone to Pleasantville Hospital for the clinic, but there has been virtually no relief. — A.S.C.

Asthma, difficulty in breathing, results from a number of causes.

What we might call true asthma is a constriction of the bronchial tubes. Air gets into the lungs, but has considerable difficulty in getting out.

Since a sufferer can't get a full complement of air into the lungs until the old air has been expelled, he or she wheezes and struggles for breath.

This closing off (in part) of the bronchial tubes may be by muscular spasm, or a swelling of the tissues of the bronchial tubes, or both.

A change of climate is often tried for asthma. There's the natural temptation to say, "Perhaps the air somewhere else will be easier to breathe."

As a matter of fact, such a change many times does help; other times it is a dismal disappointment. Why? Because the two main causes of true asthma are allergy and emotional disturbances.

If the allergy is related to something commonly in the atmosphere of one locality, moving to another climate can give astonishing relief. Conversely, if the allergy involves house dust, food, molds, feathers or any of a multitude of other possibilities, another climate won't be the answer.

Also it is close to being axiomatic that the emotions, while not necessarily or even usually the basic cause, will be a very strong effect on asthmatic attacks, especially in children. Comfortably at rest, a patient may breathe easily, yet if a strong emotional surge strikes — anger, fear anxiety, annoyance, frustration, etc. — the asthma comes on again.

To some extent it is a vicious circle. Severe asthma is such a burden that a patient constantly fears another attack. If even a rather mild contact with an allergen brings on a touch of asthma, the patient's fears of it can be powerful enough emotionally to intensify the attack.

Tomorrow: I'll discuss some of the various treatments, but before doing so let's remember that many times, especially in older people, other conditions may simulate asthma. This happens so often that there's a medical adage: "All that wheezes is not asthma."

There may be scarring of the lung tissue from some old infection. Sometimes it isn't possible to find out what caused the scarring. There may be emphysema, or loss of the "bellows effect" of the lungs.

Chronic heart failure is another which can make the patient struggle for breath. This is cardiac asthma, as contrasted with true asthma.

Finally, obesity, usually extreme obesity, can intensify asthma.

What to do about asthma? Tomorrow's column will be devoted to that.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any operation or treatment for sway-back? My husband (he is 25) has difficulty finding fitted clothes because of this. — Mrs. H. T.

Sway-back, or an exaggerated forward-and-back curve of the spine, can be annoying but is rarely a dangerous health hazard in most cases.

At the age of 25, the bones are fixed in shape and there is no exercise, treatment or surgery that will correct the condition.

Dear Dr. Molner: I've been told that eating fried fish and a big glass of milk will cause a spontaneous poisoning. Is there any truth to this? — Mrs. M. B.

There's no truth to it. Any foods that can be eaten alone can be eaten together.

Furthermore, ptomaine poisoning doesn't mean anything more than a mild gastrointestinal upset, which covers any kind of poisoning resulting from tainted food.

Home in the South Pacific

St. Catharines Standard

Twentieth century civilization is not something which all people on the earth enjoy. There are many who prefer to shun and utter indulge in the comforts of a civilization where the pace is not so fast.

Take, for instance, the Nauru islanders in the South Pacific. They know that the Australian government, which administers Nauru, offered to take the entire community and provide free homes, furniture, clothes and jobs. But the islanders, proud of their culture, language and traditions, are living one of the highest standards of living in the Pacific, said no. They feared they would lose their identity in the vast Australian continent.

It was not long ago that scores of dwellers on an isolated volcanic island were forced to flee their homes when the volcano erupted. They were transported to Britain, given comfortable quarters and jobs. But after only two years they chose to return to their native haven, poverty-stricken island where television, radios, movies, motor cars, plumbing and modern heating do not exist. They were recalled by general acceptance replies to an advertisement for a trip to the moon published in a New York newspaper.

The advertisement was taken at face value by persons who read the description of the moon as a place without one single mechanical invention set up for making fortunes. Applications to go from Hong Kong to England as maids and housekeepers. But the emahs refused, explaining that to go to England would be a step backward in their fellow man and God.

Their living standards could be enlarged, indicating that perhaps it is time for us to take stock of what we have and which we have created in this twentieth century.

Child Neglect Is Blot on Society

Christian Science Monitor

Many nations have yet to solve the problem of child neglect and abuse. Every week brings a shocking element of barbarism in a civilized world.

It is cause for concern that in the United States alone an estimated 10,000 children a year are maimed or murdered by their parents or guardians. These deeds are usually done in a fit of passion, not as an act of desperation. A parent often later explains that he just couldn't stand the sight of any longer and was upset by the racket of the other children.

Broken homes, overcrage families, poverty, hardship, ill health, and excessive use of alcohol and drugs are frequently involved. Programs which get at the root causes of these individual and social problems will also work to lighten the problem of the maltreated child.

An apparent numerical increase in child beatings is partly a matter of population growth and improved reporting, but it also seems to be due to an increase in the pressures we live under. Some say that today there is a greater number of unwisely disturbed parents who harm their children emotionally.

Calling the parents is not enough. The need is to develop adequate preventive and rehabilitative services. And legals are reached early enough, they may be given treatment, and the children may be given protective custody.

Working for preventive measures are more effective state legislation are the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and the Children's Bureau of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. To aid in understanding the problem, Brandeis University has engaged in a detailed study of child abuse—why it happens and what people think should be done about it.

Many offending parents are said to have been deprived of love as children and to have grown up regarding the world as hostile and evil. In view of the failure of many homes to teach the fundamentals of child care and family life, we believe the churches and the schools should broaden and intensify their efforts in this' direction. No one should arrive at manhood or womanhood without having learned to cherish the God-given individuality of each child and to love all children.

Poor TV Fare

Christian Science Monitor

So long as American television remains so insensibly profit-oriented, changes for the better in overseas markets will result only if authorities in foreign countries follow the British example of downgrading unworthy American fare — or rejecting it altogether. Better they decide to show nothing at all from the United States than to show the trivial or offensive.

Sept. 13, 1965 . . .

Lord Burleigh, Queen Elizabeth I's chief minister, was born 445 years ago today—in 1520—the son of a junior court official, Richard Cecil. A spiritless and crafty enough to keep his head on his shoulders in the violent Tudor times, he was also an honest and wise adviser to the Queen. His second wife, Mildred Cooke, was reckoned equal with Lady Jane Grey as the most learned woman of her time.

1896—The Galety Girl had its premiere at Daly's Theatre, New York.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—In 1940 — Buckingham Palace was hit by five German bombs as London underwent the seventh consecutive night air raid; the RAF attacked Invasion landing barges along the Continental e-ast Italian and British forces were engaged on a 200-mile front in East Africa.

Suspense In Space

Buffalo Evening News

The off-again, on-again suspense surrounding America's third two-man Gemini space craft illustrates two points: (1) the many possibilities for hitches that can develop in the enormously complex instrumentation of a space capsule, and (2) the meticulous lengths to which the space engineers have gone in minimizing human risks by building in alternative "back-ups" for reducing the troubles arise to such components as fuel cells or computers.

What! Swans Are Disloyal

St. Thomas Times - Journal

Another one of those "old wives" tales foundered the other day when a team of ornithologists working in central England discovered that swans do not remain loyal to one mate for life. Our collection of "old wives" has always stoutly maintained that they do, and that they even pine away following the death of a spouse.

The researchers reached the disheartening conclusion that swans are really a promiscuous lot. Instead of loyalty to their mates, sometimes have different mates each season, and even switch to a new love in the middle of the breeding season.

It's all very sad. Those darn "old wives" are always leading us astray. We had a childlike faith in the story of the swans and their undying loyalty; something to cling to; a last bastion against the erosions of a crumbling society. Now, a beautiful illusion has been shattered.

It hurts to think that those "old wives" have been misleading us all along. Why, they are no better than humans!

Santayana Defines Barbarians

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Sometimes, not very often, you come upon a statement that so perfectly sums up your feeling about a subject that it seems as if the author had been reading your mind.

This happened to me the other evening, while I was searching for a reference in George Santayana's Interpretations of Poetry and Religion. I had been, for some days previous, thinking of doing a column on what I privately called "the new barbarians" of the modern world.

These are the people, ever growing in number, whose entire lives are focused on the present and the palpable, who value only the immediately impressive, who exist by sensation and not by reason, and who are preoccupied with things they can touch, taste, weigh or count.

Life, to them, is a sponge to be wrung dry, every pore available, every moment pleasure; and its only meaning to be found in the elongated car, the ringside table, the hand-painted tie and the widest screen.

These people wrench as many of the material benefits from society as they can, while feeling responding sense of obligation, except for their public philanthropies, which ease any vestigial conscience they may still retain. The spiritual poverty of their existence is not so much rotten as it is stunted; their humanity is not so much corrupted as it is embryotic.

"The barbarian," wrote Santayana, in this admirable passage, "is the man who regards his passions as their own excuse for being; who does not deliberate them either by understanding their cause or by conceiving their final goal.

"He is the man who does not know his derivations nor perceive his tendencies, but who merely feels and acts, valuing in his life its force and its filling, but being careless of its purpose and its form.

"His delight is in abundance and vehemence, and his life shows an exclusive respect for material and exterior standards. His scorn for what is poorer or weaker than himself is unlimited and by his ignorance of what is higher.

The old barbarian of the past was limited in his influence by the ruling class that at least made some effort to maintain standards of taste and tradition. The new barbarian is his own master, and the master of most of us, which seems a high and perilous price to pay for the benefits of democracy.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

September 13th, 1945

Army engineers are making redecoration and cosmetic repairs on the Church Street Armory, former home of the original 34th Field Battery, R.C.A.

The building was occupied during the European war years by the Ontario School for the Deaf, was returned to the Department of National Defence after the C.N.I.B. staff and students returned to their former quarters on the Trent Road, which has been taken over by the R.C.A.F. as an Initial Training School.

The Church Street building will be remodelled throughout and will be occupied by the 56th Battery when the new drill hall is completed. During the war years the unit has occupied more or less cramped quarters in the Bridge Street Industries. The new arrangement will not only alleviate its training facilities but will also be of benefit to the Argyll Light Infantry Regiment who will then have the use of the former armory now occupied by the gunners.

30 YEARS AGO

Thirty new fire extinguishers, purchased by the Board of Education, were delivered to the city's four public schools today by Fire Chief William Lynch and assistants.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A very interesting visit was spent at the studios of Elbert Hubbard's Roycrofters in East Aurora, N.Y., where many beautiful and artistic work is done in printing, brass work, leather work and other handicraft articles which are a work of art. It is here also where the popular little Philistine magazine is published. Mr. Hubbard was the author of the immortal "A Message to Garcia" and a small book of infinitive. Mr. Henry's visit to the Roycrofters was a most delightful one.

most 18 months afte their arrest in Montreal.

WIFE AT HIS SIDE

By the side of the alleged drug kingpin as he emerged from one of the closest detention periods in the history of the southwest will be his auburn - haired wife Doris, who flew here Friday and visited him during the weekend—the only visitor he has had apart from his lawyer.

She is on $5,000 bail as a material witness in the Ottawa prosecution of Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to then postmaster-general Tremblay, on charges of attempted bribery and conspiracy to obstruct justice in the 1964 attempts to free Rivard when he was being held at Montreal's Bordeaux jail for U.S. authorities.

Rivard's March 2 escape from jail—he was recaptured in July —accounts partly for the slight guard here and the $500,000 bail figure, highest in the long story of big-time smuggling since the U.S. Depression.

Apart from Washington's evident concern over Rivard and his fellow Canadians, the sheer size of the 1963 seizure has touched off all the domestic and international ramifications of the Rivard case. The discovery of uncut heroin — has stirred sharp interest even in this region where border-unning is rampant.

GETTING BIG PLAY

Newspapers here have been playing the pending court scrap on the front pages regularly, and Sunday's Express-News gave it two eight-column headlines across page one on separate stories, including the hurricane Betsy's death toll.

Rivard and his group were being held in the Bexar County jail in circumstances considerably less comfortable than the $5-a-day Bordeaux suite with top privileges and $2,000 on deposit in the jail office that Mafia withdrew the day of his escape.

Those appearing in court with Rivard here are Charles Emile Groleau, Joseph Raymond Jones and Julien Gagnon, alias Jerry Massey, all of Montreal. First count in the indictment is that they conspired with each other men—to smuggle heroin into the U.S.

The second count accuses Rivard of conspiring with two Mexicans—Rafael Caro and Manuel Chemelin—to receive and conceal.

Hydro-Quebec Strike Off Due to Offer

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiators for the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CLC) called off a province-wide strike of 2,200 Hydro-Quebec workers Sunday night on the basis of what they called a "serious" offer by the company.

Neither union nor company spokesman gave any indication of the content of the offer, but it is known that wages were not at issue. The dispute involved seniority rights and job security. The strike was scheduled to begin this morning at 8 a.m.

Union Director Andre Thibaudeau said a special convention of the power union's advisory board will draw up an agreement to be submitted to all union members involved.

The membership — power house operators, linesmen and repairmen—could then hold a secret ballot "to decide whether we sign an agreement or go on strike."

To him, the building was a great eye "expressing the spirit of the people of this great city."

The opening ceremony will kick off a week-long celebration, starting with a tri-service military parade Monday night. Through the week, there will be outdoor symphony concerts, opera and ballet, square dancing, an education night featuring 2,000 students, and a Nation Builders Show with 22 ethnic groups.

On Saturday, the big hall ends its housewarming party with a nod to the modern craze by putting on a Toronto A - Go - Go, a festival of the new teen-age dance.

Mr. Phillips was mayor for eight years. He was defeated in the mayoralty contest of 1962, one month after laying the cornerstone of the hall.

CHANGES MIND

One of his chief opponents, who will attend the ceremony, was Fred Gardiner, former chairman of the Metro council.

It was Mr. Gardiner who dubbed the building a Taj Mahal, an "extravagant attempt to build a stairway to the stars." Later, he changed his mind, and called it "a unique and outstanding building."

Caron was taken here with the big shipment en route in from Mexico, and he and Jacques Chemin talked before the grand jury that delivered the indictments. Caron's case is now set for smuggling, while Beauchemin apparently has not been charged but is still at liberty with his whereabouts guarded for fear of underworld reprisals.

The grand jury evidence apparently forms the core of the case against the Canadian quartet, but U.S. authorities refused to say how it will be presented to the jury.

Rivard's lawyer has filed a barrage of motions challenging among other things, the jurisdiction of the court to hear the case because Rivard didn't commit any offences personally in the U.S. and alleging he was illegally extradited for Canadian political reasons.

ecne Minister Kierans has said honest people were fleeced of millions because Ottawa failed to take any action.

Mr. Pearson had not wanted Parliament to hear the details of a pledge by six former Social Credit MPs after the 1963 election to support the Liberals.

He said Moise Darabsenet, "a Liberal organizer" who faces fraud charges in Quebec arising from a bankruptcy, was present when the six Social Credit members made their pledge.

PRODUCES DOCUMENT

Mr. Diefenbaker read extracts from a document prepared, he said, for Liberal campaign workers before the election was called advising them to avoid the issue of honesty in government.

"Calumny and scandal-mongering will end up where they belong—in the gutter," Mr. Diefenbaker read.

"I didn't know Chief Justice (Frederick) Gordon had been guilty of calumny," Mr. Diefenbaker said referring to the Dorion inquiry testimony of bribery and coercion charges in the Lucien Rivard affair.

He said Rivard, now on trial in Laredo, Texas, on narcotics smuggling charges, "wanted to live like a guest of the Liberals." Two or three executive assistants had tried to help get him out of a Canadian jail.

ATTACKS 'WEAKNESS'

He said that in pre-election campaign a ring of Liberal party workers were told that a major area of weakness of the Tories was disenchantment of youth, especially at universities, with the Liberals.

A first responsibility of a Conservative administration would be to call a conference of federal and provincial governments and educational institutions to implement a program of aid to university capital construction and equipment.

A new federal department portfolio of minister of youth affairs would be set up so that the viewpoint of youth would always be before the cabinet.

Wants Women Ordained Into The Ministry

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A Toronto official of the United Church of Canada said during the weekend he would never consent to union with the Anglican Church unless women could be ordained into the ministry of the new church.

J. Gordon Colburn, chairman of the United Church's information and stewardship committee, also said ordained women should not be denied the right to the bishopric.

Mr. Colburn told a joint conference of Anglican and United Church laymen meeting at the University of Western Ontario Saturday that all discrimination today is sha d o w e d by the long history of discrimination against women.

In England, women may be ordained ministers of the Anglican Church, but there is no such provision in Canada. There are about 90 women ordained in the United Church.

Dr. Emlyn Davies, a Baptist theologian at Upper Canada College in Toronto, told the 300 lay delegates there are factors other than theological ones hindering unity of the churches. One of these is personality in a middle-class movement, and the churches have almost lost touch with the working class and the labor movement.

In Canada, he said, there is a strange, alien flavor about associations like the Canadian Club and industrial masses.

Ann Landers

Kookie Pair Combine On Weird Partnership

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Ned and I have agreed on what we want to do, but our friends and relatives say our marriage will surely break up if we go ahead with our plans.

Ned and I have been married five years. We both work for a large insurance company. I've been with the company for 12 years and I make twice as much money as Ned. He has been with the company only 11 months. (I got him the job.)

I've been offered a promotion which would mean a whopping big increase in salary but it would also mean some traveling and longer hours. I love the challenge and I'm eager to accept it.

ANN LANDERS

Ned actually dislikes his job and would prefer to stay home and keep house. This would be ideal, since I won't be able to do any housework, cooking or laundry if I accept the promotion. Ned says he knows he'll never amount to anything in the business world and he'd be a lot happier staying home and doing what he enjoys.

He has agreed that if I become the sole wage earner my word would be law and that I'd be "the head of the house."

Our relatives and friends say it can't work and that eventually he will grow to hate me for robbing him of his manhood. I'm sure we can make a go of it and so is Ned. We want your opinion. — JUDITH.

DEAR JUDITH: Any husband who would rather keep house than go to work is a pretty queer duck to begin with. And you, Madame (I mean, Sir) sound this weirdo is because you are a little kooked up yourself.

Since you want someone to keep your pants pressed, and he prefers housedresses to trousers, the plan sounds ideal. Your relatives and friends have already sized up the relationship and obviously you aren't sensitive about it so go ahead and lots of luck. You'll need it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old girl who just started to date.

A boy I will call Clark has taken me out three times. Clark is a top student and his manners are just about perfect. He has a lot of ambition and is more interesting than any boy I know, but my dad doesn't like him because he's not good-looking.

At first I thought my father was kidding but last night at dinner he said, "If you marry Clark you'll regret it because your children will be ugly. It's not fair to give kids a handicap like that."

Honesty, Ann, I think my dad's reasoning is stupid. Clark is a wonderful person and his looks don't bother me at all. Of course I'd like to have good-looking children but it would never occur to me to marry a handsome fellow for that reason. Please tell me what you think about this. I'm confused. — IN THE MIDDLE.

DEAR IN: I hope your father is handsome because if your mother married him for his brains she certainly got stuck.

I can't imagine a poorer basis for marriage than good looks. I've heard from thousands of unhappy people who, to their everlasting sorrow, made that mistake. I hate to tell a girl not to listen to a parent but in this case I must.

Confidential to FAKED OUT. What more must happen before you wake up and smell the coffee? Nothing is so futile (and unattractive) as an ex-wife who insists on creeping around the edges of her former husband's life. Give up, already.

No teen-ager is so confident as he appears. Get clued in. Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Dont's," enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CARS CARE TOO

Dear Susanna: For anyone in my category who owns one of those wonderful little cars that goes on and on forever because the style stays pretty much the same, don't let those inevitable rust spots get ahead of you. Nothing will make a car look more beat up than if you neglect these marks, and actually you can eliminate them in a few minutes.

Drop into the dealer where you purchased your car and take along a small bottle. He will be glad to fill it with the proper matching paint for your car (if he doesn't carry it he will send you to the service centre that does) — but don't forget the container, as it's never have anything to put the paint in.

You will also need a few cents worth of fine sandpaper to smooth down the spots first (tell your hardware man what the paper is for); and your car should be spotlessly clean before you start.

Using an artist's tiny paint brush, go to work on a warm day and - if you leave the car sheltered in a garage overnight until the paint dries so that it won't pick up a lot of dust. You will almost think your little car has feelings the way it will respond to this type of spruce-up. Even a devoted leader that you can't afford to have repaired, won't be nearly as noticeable if you cover the surface damage with fresh paint. — Lois Brown.

Sort of an optimobile illusion! SUSANNA

OOPS!

Dear Susanna: Your column has been very helpful to me Susanna, and I'm happy to submit a suggestion for other mothers of small babies which I think they will appreciate.

To remove the stains of spit-up formula, wet the baby's nightie or dress with rubbing alcohol and rub the material together. Wash the garment as you ordinarily would and all traces of the formula will disappear. I have done this with fresh and dried stains and it works equally well on both. — Mrs. K. E.

Wife of Head Coach Likes a Big Kitchen

MONTREAL (CP)—Kitchens should be big enough to lounge in, says Mrs. Jim Trimble, wife of the head coach of the Montreal Alouettes and mother of six young children.

"After all, the cook spends so many hours in the kitchen. Why not make it spacious and attractive for her?"

The Trimbles' house in Hudson Heights near Montreal was built to their own specifications. Mrs. Trimble said she was really making sure, "I'd have someone in the kitchen with me most of the time" when she insisted on a large one.

"We never live in the city, and we usually build our own house wherever we go," Mrs. Trimble said. "Since Jim has been coaching, we've had only four moves. Not bad at all for a football coach!"

The family has been living here since 1963. Previous coaching jobs took them to Wichita, Kansas, Philadelphia and Hamilton. Pat and Jim Trimble both come from "a small place near Pittsburgh," but they met at Indiana University in Bloomington, Indiana.

Pat says family life from June to December revolves around the football season. "Jim is rarely home during those months. From December on he's home more, but he does go to the football office every day."

How does Pat feel about sports?

"I'm not athletic," she said. "I'm strictly a spectator where sports are concerned."

But she attends all home games with two of her older children (they take turns) and watches out-of-town games on television.

"I'm tense during the games and never believe our team has won till the gun sounds," she said. "I've seen too many games lost by three touchdowns within the last four or five minutes."

WATCH HERRING RISE

HALIFAX (CP)—The herring catch in Nova Scotia will be equal to the catch of all other fish, now about 500,000,000 pounds annually, predicted Fisheries Minister E. D. Halliburton. He said there are already unlimited markets for new Icelandic fishing methods are being tried. The present catch is about 100,000,000 pounds a year.

Kansas Girl Miss America For Next Year

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) Deborah Bryant, the Kansas beauty who would like to become a pediatrician and do volunteer work in South Viet Nam, began her reign Sunday as Miss America 1966.

She said at a press conference she would like to work with Project Concern, the volunteer organization in Southeast Asia sponsored by the U.S. Junior Chambers of Commerce.

"I would like to teach the natives to treat themselves," said Debbie, a 5-feet-7-inch brown-haired beauty with a 36-23-36 figure.

Miss Bryant, 19, who represented the sunflower state in the U.S.'s oldest beauty contest, was selected Saturday night over 49 other girls. They had competed three days in evening gowns, swim suits and talent.

(The Canadian Press erroneously reported earlier that Miss Canada, Linda Doums, 20, of Sidney, B.C., was among the contestants. But in fact there weren't no entries from Canada.)

Miss Bryant was crowned by Vonda Kay Van Dyke, Miss of Phoenix, Ariz., last year's queen.

Runners-up, in order, were: Miss Mississippi, Patricia Puckett, 20; Miss Indiana, Eileen Smith, 18; Miss Florida, Carol Blum, 21; and Miss Wisconsin, Sharon Siegstock, 20.

First prize, in addition to the title, was a $10,000 scholarship, an opportunity to travel 250,000 miles and an estimated $80,000 in personal appearance contracts.

U.C.W. Meetings

CENTENARY U.C.W.

CENTENARY — The September meeting of Centenary U.C.W. was held at the home of Mrs. A. Christopher with 22 members and two visitors present.

The president, Mrs. Christopher opened the meeting in the usual manner, after which devotions were conducted by Mrs. H. Hancock, who also conducted an impressive memorial service in memory of the late Mrs. Robert Hart.

Mrs. P. Aikins was the speaker and dealt with the two controversial books "The Comfortable Pew" and "Why the Sea is Boiling Hot".

The meeting concluded with a short reading and prayer by the president.

APPOINTS EDITOR

MONTREAL (CP) — Charles-Hemi Dube has been appointed editor-in-chief of the Montreal daily Metro-Express, succeeding Yvon Turcot, publisher. Jacques Brillant of the French-language morning tabloid, said.

The publisher said Mr. Turcot was replaced because of "fundamental differences at the administrative level." He did not elaborate.

FAVORITE HAMBURG PANCAKES

Whether you call these Crupes de Boeuf and serve them imaginatively from a boiler-hide to gussy, or call them Beef Pancakes and serve them generously to your hungry family — either way you are saving money, for you can use cheaper cuts of chuck beef or lean hamburger.

Do either of those ideas fit your budget program?

Beef Pancakes are a favorite dish of Kate Smith of "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" fame and I have adapted her recipe to my requirements. Mine is a large recipe and will serve 8 grownups from 2 pounds of ground beef. But, if you have only 3 or 4 to serve, it is a cinch to cut this recipe in half.

BEEF PANCAKES (2 lbs. Ground beef — serves 8 generously):

¼ cup butter or margarine, 2 medium onions chopped finely, 2 lbs. ground round or chuck beef (or lean hamburger), 1½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon pepper, 2 cups sifted flour (I prefer instant), 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 2¾ cups milk, ¼ cup ½ cup chopped parsley (opt.)

In a very large frying-pan melt the butter or margarine and sauté the onions until limp but not brown. Now add all of the meat and ½ teaspoon of the salt and the pepper and saute, stirring constantly, until all meat is broken up and thoroughly cooked and no redness disappeared. Remove from heat. Into a very large bowl sift the flour, baking powder and salt. Add the eggs and 1 cup of the milk and beat until smooth, then stir in the remaining milk and the parsley, if used. Now stir in the meat mixture. If it is necessary to thin it, add a little more milk. I used a large berry spoon as a measure (because I was in Muskoka and had to make it with equipment at hand) and the resultant pancakes were about 4½" in diameter. Drop batter onto preheated griddle and bake until it is golden brown, then turn over and brown other side. Keep hot on hot platter in warming oven while you bake remainder.

Steamed Wieners on Sauerkraut; Mustard Relish; Creamed Quartered Potatoes; Garden Greens; Pears Poached in Mint Syrup; Chocolate Cookies; Tea.

We served ours with chili sauce but some of my crowd thought this was gilding the lilly and used only butter. A good accompaniment is a vegetable in a cream or cheese sauce.

NOTE:

If desired chopped parsley may be held out of batter and when pancakes are baked they may be spread with butter, sprinkled with parsley, and rolled tightly and kept hot.

These are surprisingly good and popular with everybody.

Sloppy Joe Needs Some Prodding to Clean Up

DEAR DORIS: My boy friend and I are both 18. He has been working all summer and saving money for a car.

How can I get him to spend some money on clothes, without hurting his feelings? I have to admit I am ashamed of his appearance, but not of him. He gets no help about this from home. — TEES AND THE MAN.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR CLOTHES: The magic which transforms a Sloppy Joe into a Beau Brummel and pre-empts the bathroom, Dad's razor and shaving lotion is often linked up with that first all-important date. But even then he needs an example to follow and Mom's encouragement to egg him on.

Without help at home, your approach has to be more subtle. Make him a present on his birthday of a fine new tie; admire any single effort he makes at dressing and pressing before caressing; and remark some time about how you like to look nice for him.

DEAR DORIS: My daughter and her husband are moving to their new home and there is to be a house-warming party for them. Who is the proper one to give such a party? My daughter-in-law says my daughter is the one to give the party and her mother-in-law says she herself is the one. — JUST WONDERING.

* * *

DEAR JUST: Mostly the home-owners are the house-warmers! But it's nothing to fight over. Could daughter, daughter-in-law, mother-in-law and mother get together on this? Then about it.

The old-fashioned charivari (or shivaree) is a happy alternative which features a surprising mock serenade with tin horns and kettles. Usually the visitors bring along food and gifts.

DEAR DORIS — What is the right music to be played when the bride enters the church and as the wedding party leaves? — WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING —Many still prefer the traditional and well loved "Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin" by Wagner. This is the processional, of course. The familiar "Mendelssohn's Wedding March" is the most popular recessional.

The beautiful hymn tune "Praise, My Soul, the King of Heaven" was used when our present Queen Elizabeth marched up the aisle. Princes Margaret used the Processional on Westminster Abbey" by Purcell, arranged for organ by Robert Wetzler. Her recessional was "The Trumpet Tune and Air" by Purcell. Some of the large city weddings are now using these newer ones.

Consult with your organist about this. He will help you decide on the music which would be most appropriate and most enjoyed where you are.

DEAR DORIS: Mary is 13. She is an only child. They are very well off.

Her mother won't let her out of her sight. All the kids have asked her to go swimming or out to the show but she always says that her grandmother or mother will worry about her. She has a bicycle but whenever we ask her to go bike riding her mother says it's too windy or dusty.

She has never gone skating in her life because her mother doesn't want her to fall and hurt herself. She has to wash her hands before she even eats a piece of candy, and whenever she wants a glass of water she has to ask for it!

We feel sorry for her because she can never go out with us kids, and every day she stays in the yard and plays with her big dog. Doris, what can we do? — TROUBLED.

DEAR TROUBLED: Sounds like the original Poor Little Rich Girl. Perhaps her mother thinks she is doing her a favor, but what she is doing is producing an imbecile.

Such overdone overprotection given this young teenager no opportunity at all to spread her wings. The terrible thing is, she may give in trying.

An enlightened adult with some authority might be the best approach. Perhaps her teacher would find a reason to talk with her mother. Could you go to her?

DEAR DORIS: I had been engaged to a man for two years. During our engagement he gave me some small gifts, among them a little radio and a set of dishes. I gave him an expensive tool kit and cuff links.

After our break-up he went to another city. I've received several letters, but I have no love left for him, so I'm wondering what the proper thing would be to do with the things he gave me.

Should I give them back and try and get the tool kit, or should I keep them? — BROKEN UP.

DEAR BROKEN UP: Forget about the smaller gifts; but you can hardly call a set of dishes or a radio small.

Your feelings are out of it now; but he may still be hurting. So the note that goes with them when you send them back should be tactful and kind. Explain that you wouldn't feel right about keeping these things, because you know he purchased them with your mutual future home in mind.

What he does about the tool kit is his business.

Large Number At Chapter Opening Meet

The start of a new season for the Argyll Chapter I.O.D.E. was begun with an invitation to the home of the Regent Mrs. K. D. H. Willcocks for the regular monthly meeting. A large number of members were present.

A report from the educational secretary, Mrs. H. Vaughan Gold of the presentation of a gift of $10 to David Bush in the adopted school, Lakeside in Consecon area. This took place at a closing party for all the students as guests of the Argyll Chapter in June. This school will be closed and will be integrated in an area school in September.

Mrs. A. Duffy reminded the members she will be shipping a parcel to H.Q.'s in November and would like all sewing and other items be finished by then. Mrs. Refouse read a timely and informative article on the life of the late Albert Schweitzer.

Plans were finalized for the dessert bridge to be held in the armories later in the month. Hats and stoles will be modelled by several of the members. Anyone who would care to make up a table and join in an afternoon of bridge is welcomed.

The St. Julien Chapter I.O.D.E. are celebrating their 50th anivesary and all members are invited to the dinner to be held in Holloway U.C. Educational Building on Wednesday, September 15th. The National president, Mrs. Neil Gordon will be guest speaker.

The semi-annual meeting of the Provincial Chapter will be held in Niagara Falls October 20-21st. The annual meeting will be held in Montreal in 1966 and in Ottawa in 1967.

Following adjournment the hostess, Mrs. Willcocks served desserts.

Business School Graduates Must Be More Adaptable

EDMONTON (CP)—Business school graduates today must be more adaptable to meet changing conditions in their jobs, say two Edmonton business educationists.

Automation will change office work and reduce the number of repetitive, mechanical tasks, says Mrs. E. W. Hicks, retired dean of Alberta College's commercial department.

"The general office girl or clerk-typist should be prepared to assume more responsibility and make some of the minor, daily business decisions," says Mrs. Arthur Quervegneur, the new dean.

She may have to decide on the reply to a customer's query or assume some functions of a private secretary, adds Mrs. Quervegneur.

"This will mean a business graduate should have more education. We're trying to increase the girls' training in English and spelling.

"They also should have an understanding of the fundamentals of data processing and a good knowledge of filing, as well as typing and shorthand."

Most billing and statements now are done by data processing and fed through a computer, she adds.

The women attended the fifth biennial world institute on typewriting and office technology at the University of North Dakota, this summer. Both agreed business administration in Canada and the United States face similar problems.

"Our problem is getting the students to realize how important their training is," says Mrs. Hicks. "They should get as much as possible."

The women recommended a four-year education for prospective office workers and university training for business school teachers, including a knowledge of commercial law and accounting.

A REMINDER

Wedding forms for write-ups are available at The Intelligencer and should be completed and returned BEFORE the ceremony, so a report can be published immediately after the wedding.

Pictures may be submitted by your photographer up to three days after the wedding. Accounts of social wedding write-ups submitted later than six days after the date of the ceremony.

Accounts of showers and entertainments in honor of the bride do not belong with the wedding write-up, but should be sent in immediately after they are held, for publication separately.

Church Groups

WESLEYAN W.M.S.

On Thursday evening, Mrs. Lyla Volcary, 586 Bridge Street East, entertained 21 women of the Belleville Wesleyan Methodist Women's Missionary Society at her home.

Mrs. Volcary, as the newly elected president, requested that each member of the group be an active participant during the coming season. Using Dr. Albert Schweitzer as an example, Mrs. Volcary told the women that it was because of a "sense of sorrow for the world", that this man turned from worldly success to a life of service in medicine. Others have gone to foreign lands to serve, because it is the logical place to serve, the need is the greatest and the workers are the fewest.

Mrs. Vera Frankish and Mrs. Nora Elliott also participated in the devotional.

The report of the annual conference was given by the delegate. She quoted from Rev. John Putney of Columbia, South America, telling of new plans for expansion there and of the work the Wesleyan Methodist Press is doing in Columbia. She also gave an account of the destruction of the denominational headquarters at Marion, Indiana.

Several work projects for the coming year were mentioned. The major objective is to raise funds to bring a missionary and her four children home to Canada from Australia.

Mrs. Jean Locklin, past president, brought a brief review of the Area Missionary Convention which she attended last week at Chambers, New York.

Following the service a surprise shower, convened by Mrs. Ruth Babcock and Mrs. Winnie Glover was given for Mrs. Joyce Lefroy for her new daughter, Jeanine.

Various Contests, Exhibits Feature Shannonville Fair

INDIAN HANDICRAFTS attracted spectators and buyers to this Shannonville Fair booth supervised by Linda Green and Ross Maracle.

Another World's Fair has come and gone to the greater glory of Shannonville and — should they ever read about it in the chagrin of its New York counterpart.

For the Shannonville world-fair style, while a cut or so below international sophistication levels, at least pays its way.

The record remains constant after Saturday when the 1963 edition drew another steady stream of customers to Shannonville fairgrounds.

What do they mean by a world fair?

Well now, where else with all the complex troubles in the world would you find people with sophisticated thinking to organize a fair like that one?

There were women shying logs for prizes, driving nails for prizes, putting babies up for prizes.

There were even women who baked bread and cakes for prizes except — one fair organizer complained — kids had a heyday stealing 'em.

There were youngsters of all ages fiddling and chasing a greasy pig for an encore.

And for good measure there was even a farmer who brought along a six-legged calf and charged two bits for a gawk. The tent drew as much attention as the Junior Farmers' Calf Club show.

It may not be strictly jet set, but all in all, everyone had a flying time at the 1963 World Fair — Shannonville style.

EVERYONE ENJOYED the Shannonville Fair baby show . . . except some of the entrants like this young miss who loudly objected to being handled by strangers.

Birth Control Questions Left To Commission

By BENNET M. BOLTON

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican ecumenical council's topic on modern world problems, in its latest format, was described Saturday as leaving all contraception questions to a special papal commission on birth control.

Informants said mention of contraceptive methods would be put into the council document only if the commission named by Pope Paul concludes its work before the council ends.

The council resumes, in its fourth and final session, next Tuesday. The topic on modern world problems is the major document remaining for debate and voting.

The version segued on the council floor last fall noted that Roman Catholic married couples have problems resulting from the need to limit births while also needing the physical union that belongs to marriage. It asked couples to be patient while the church, which allows only the rhythm method or periodic abstinence, sorts out the answers.

STRESSES PARENTS RIGHT

Informed sources said the revised version now going before the council bishops stresses "the parents' harmonic responsibility procreation."

This positive phrasing conforms with modern Roman Catholic teaching that birth control, even through the rhythm system, should be practised only under certain conditions.

The new draft says couples should use "prudent judgment" in deciding how many children to have, but it also praises those who, "with courage, raise a great number of children."

No Truth In Report Says PC

COBOURG, Ont. (CP)—The president of the Northumberland County Progressive Conservative Association said Sunday there is no truth to a report that Joel Aldred, a Toronto radio and television personality, will contest the federal Conservative nomination in the riding.

Bill Swayne was commenting on a published report that Mr. Aldred would seek the nomination for the Nov. 8 federal election.

Mr. Swayne said he doesn't think it is necessary to go out of the country to find a suitable candidate in time for the Sept. 21 nominating convention.

The seat is held by Liberal Pauline Jewett.

PRIZE CALF entered by Susan Lazier, 13, Corbyville (right) receives showmanship ribbon from Douglas Tipper, Hastings County provincial agricultural representative.

CHAMPION FIDDLER at fair contest was 10-year-old Louis Cassibo, of Roslin, who gained crowd's vote over adult contestants.

Non-political Trip Being Made by P.M.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson today makes his first trip outside Ottawa since calling the Nov. 8 general election last Tuesday, but the journey will be strictly non-political.

He flies to Toronto with his wife Maryon to attend two functions laid on months ago.

He will be at the opening of the $31,000,000 Toronto city hall at 2 p.m. EDT and at an evening dinner sponsored by the Canadian Association for Retarded Children. He will deliver an address at each.

Mr. Pearson is expected to return to Ottawa Tuesday morning by plane.

He is to remain in Ottawa until Friday when he flies to Espanola in his home riding of Algoma East. He will address a high school commencement Friday night.

Saturday is nomination day in the Northern Ontario riding. He returns to Ottawa Sunday.

Snow Soaks Calgary Area

CALGARY (CP)—Wet snow and rain over central and southern Alberta slackened off most areas Saturday night and Sunday but continued to soak the Calgary district.

About half an inch of precipitation fell on Calgary during the weekend and the overnight low early today fell below the freezing mark.

Wet snow and rain also hit the Pincher Creek area in southwestern Alberta and a half-inch of snow and rain fell at Rocky Mountain House, 60 miles west of Red Deer.

Says Fowler Plan Would Bankrupt CTV

HALIFAX (CP) — A director of the CTV national network says the independent network could go broke if it followed programming recommendations of the Fowler report on broadcasting.

Finley Macdonald, president of radio and television stations CJCH in Halifax, said Saturday night the CTV network has yet to recoup its early losses. He said the network is only barely managing to continue programming.

He said "the addition of the programs Mr. Fowler suggests would be a move calculated to spell the death of the CTV network within months."

The report of the Fowler committee, released Thursday, criticized what it called the mediocrity and triviality broadcast by Canadian television. It said more money should be spent on developing Canadian talent and broadcasting quality programs.

Commonwealth Arts Festival Under Patronage of Queen

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's biggest fireworks display since the Second World War Wednesday will open the first Commonwealth Arts Festival, a major event in contemporary cultural history.

Under the patronage of the Queen and designed by leading British artist John Piper to emulate 18th century precedents, the fireworks will illuminate the night sky for 30 minutes over London's Serpentine Lake in Hyde Park.

Thursday morning Prince Philip, chairman of the festival's advisory council, will perform the opening ceremony at a banqueting house.

He will also attend a dance at the Royal Albert Hall in which dancers and musicians from nine Commonwealth countries will take part.

This will be one of the premieres which will launch the festival's crowded artistic program in London, Cardiff, Glasgow and Liverpool from Sept. 16 to Oct. 2.

Other London premieres the same night will be given by the Sydney Symphony Orchestra, the Christchurch Harmonic Choir and the Royal Choral Society, the Royal Winnipeg Ballet, the Indian National Theatre, and the Eastern Nigerian Theatre Company.

The festival, to cost an estimated £370,000 ($1,100,000) is the first attempt ever to bring together the diverse cultures and talents of Commonwealth countries to forge a link in the field of the arts.

Ian Hunter, director-general and moving spirit of the ventures, said he hoped that this first festival, which is backed by British and Commonwealth governments, and local authorities, may become the first of a series to be held in different Commonwealth countries.

Some 1,400 artists and musicians taking part come from Canada, Australia, Ceylon, India, Ghana, Jamaica, Kenya, Malaysia, Malta, New Zealand Nigeria, Pakistan, Rhodesia, Sierra Leone, Tanzania, Trinidad and Tobago, Uganda, Antigua, Barbados, British Guiana, Dominica and Hong Kong.

Drama companies include the Theatre du Nouveau Monde from Canada which will perform at the Old Vic Theatre, home of Britain's National Theatre.

Canada's large cultural delegation also includes the Toronto Symphony Orchestra.

Australia's contribution will be highlighted by the Australian Ballet at the Royal Opera House and New Zealand voices will be heard in Westminster Abbey when the Christchurch Harmonic Choir gives a concert.

A film festival in London will present eight consecutive premieres of films from Australia, Canada, Ceylon, Ghana, Hong Kong, India, New Zealand and Pakistan.

Two special stamps will be issued by post office to commemorate the festival.

SPORT SLICES

By Geo. H. Carver
Sports Editor

Have Campbellford's Mr. Dick and Crown River's Moby Dell, those Gargantuas of the musky tribe, finally got together and done something about it?

Did they spend their munkymoon in the dark waters of Lake Muskaw and produce a monster... one that is claimed to have natives and tourists alike agog with speculation?

Or is it a King Kong cousin that has been basking in the shadows of Bon Echo Rock for the past two hundred years?

According to Russ. Whitfield of the Tweed headquarters of the Lands and Forests Department, residents living at the north tip of the lake claim that something of a lizardous nature has been seen cavorting in the waters up thataway.

The first sighting of Muskaw Mike was made two years ago when a resident nose-dived into his bowl of soggies after seeing a wake coming toward shore. Then an object the "size of a canoe" was noticed surfacing and diving. This, just below the narrows near the small highway park.

This year, according to Mr. Whitfield, something between eight and twelve feet long indulged in "heavy splashing." "It was not a log," an excited native stated," it is alive and moves about."

Monkmouth, our man in Zwick's Island, spluts the strange object is a dragon-like creature of huge snapping turtles that used to inhabit his domain.

I checked with Benny's Bar-O bunkhouse and all hands were accounted for. Tequil O'McGee, Snakebite O'Mahony, Wild Bill O'Dwyer, Two-Tomahawk O'Hill, Bat O'Cook, Six-Gun O'Meara and Handsome O'Herrington were registered as inmates.

At least Muskaw Mike shows some signs of having common sense. It refuses to have anything to do with human beings. When hardy heroes approach him he flips a fin to his snout and snoodives to the bottom of the lake which is 475 feet deep in the mid-northern part.

If the "monster" is not a figment of the imagination of some of those addicted to the grape, just what is it, if it really exists.

If it is a fish, Mr. Whitfield points out, practically all of the salt water species have to be excluded since most cannot survive in fresh water.

Among the fresh water native fish species, he says, anything comparable to the size reported by the Muskaw residents is the sturgeon. Lake sturgeon up to eight feet in length and weighing more than 300 pounds have been recorded.

But although the sturgeon is the most likely species seen by Muskawites the question remains — how could this species have made its way into Muskaw Lake?

This agent holidayed at Muskaw Inn for not a few seasons and fished the lake with experts at all times of the day. But nary a sign did we see of Muskaw Mike and the most of the time we saw no sign of fish fry life.

One resident suggested to Mr. Whitfield that if it was a sturgeon that he had seen, it may have found its way up the Mississippi River system years ago before dams were built in the rivers and lakes of the system.

Muskaw Lake, incidentally, is the largest of the headwater lakes in the Mississippi River system.

Some sturgeon reach the age of 150 years without bothering to collect the old age pension. Therefore it is not impossible that in one way or another a sturgeon may have found its way into Muskaw before the dams were constructed.

If this is the case there must be a Muskaw Lake Atlantis somewhere in its cavernous depths. If Muskaw Mike is 150 years of age where-in-will has he been keeping himself for the past 148 years.

As was noted, he first made his appearance two years ago. He has survived the sub-ice surface for over a century. He has paid no rent, taxes or grocery bills.

Perhaps it is an emigrant offspring of the Loch Lomond monster or a discard from the family of the Okanagan lizard. Or a mis-mix with a hi-h-powered ultraviolet gland used as bait by the Indian tribes that used to frequent the Muskaw region.

In any event, to use an old cliche, "I'm from Missouri. You've gotta show me."

REMINDER TO TROUT ANGLERS

Mr. Whitfield points out that this year the speckled (brook) trout, rainbow and brown trout season closes October 4th in all of the Tweed district except south Renfrew county where the season closes October 10th.

Riders Claw Cats; Saskys Nip Larks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Rough Riders or Roughriders—one word or two, which ever you prefer — spelt first place.

Ottawa Rough Riders moved into the lead in the Eastern Football Conference Saturday and Saskatchewan Roughriders did the same in the Western Conference Sunday.

Ottawa climbed to top by defeating Hamilton Tiger - Cats 32-13 in Ottawa. The result left both clubs with 10 points on five victories, but Ottawa has lost only once so far this season while the Ticats now have been defeated twice.

Saskatchewan, 29-8 winner over the Argonauts in Toronto Friday night, made a clean sweep of their two-game interlocking weekend series by edging Montreal Alouettes 11-9 on a field goal in the last 10 seconds Sunday. The Als are two points out of the EFC relay occupied by the winless Argos. Both of the victories vaulted Saskatchewan into the lead in the West, one point ahead of Calgary Stampeders. The Roughies have 11 points.

Saskatchewan, trailing 9-8 through the contact before a Montreal crowd of 19,228, had three touchdown efforts fizzle in the face of alert defensive play by the Als. Montreal intercepted three passes thrown by Saskatchewan quarterback Ron Lancaster in the end zone.

Jack Abendschan kicked the winning field goal from 14 yards out after Saskatchewan tied the game and Montreal regained the lead, all in the final five minutes.

PUTS ALS AHEAD

The Als went ahead 7-0 in the first quarter on a one-yard plunge by fullback J. W. Lockett after quarterback Bernie Faloney master - minded his squad 83 yards downfield in 16 plays. Bill Bewley converted.

Martin Pahl's single made it 7-1 in the second quarter, but Faloney replied with a third quarter single to give the Als an 8-1 lead and set the stage for the game-ending heroics.

With fewer than five minutes to play, Lancaster uncorked a touchdown pass to halfback Bill Bother in the end zone and Abendschan converted to make it 8-8.

Faloney, replacing rookie Jim Walters as Montreal's punter in the second half, got off a 50-yard kick deep into the Roughrider end zone for another single and a 9-8 margin, but Abendschan's field goal wiped it out.

Abendschan's four points gave him a total of 46 for the season and the lead in the WFC scoring race, four ahead of Lowell Coleman of Calgary.

Saskatchewan amassed 332 yards, 123 of them on the ground, while the Als picked up 297 yards, 192 of them through the air. Saskatchewan had 19 first downs and Montreal 16.

Lancaster threw 13 passes, completed nine and had three picked off. Faloney completed 16 of 39 and had two interceptions.

Ottawa threw away several good scoring chances against the Tiger - Cats. The Riders bobbled four touchdown chances and place kicker Moe Racine was wide on two field goal attempts. But the winners were never in serious trouble.

OFFENCE WAS WEAK

Hamilton, working on Frank Cosentino and Joe Zuger in hopes of developing one or both into first - rate quarterbacks, couldn't get untracked and picked up only 90 yards in total offence. Cosentino threw as many passes to opponents as he did to his own players, completing only three of 17 for 43 yards.

Racine got two field goals, the first set up by Bob O'Billovich's interception of a Cosentino pass which the Ottawa player returned 40 yards. Ron Stewart scored Ottawa's first touchdown after Hall on a five-yard pass from Russ Jackson. Racine converted and the Riders were ahead 10-0.

The defence set up Hamilton's only touchdown when Dick Cobee recovered Jim Dillard's fumble on the Ottawa eight and Cosentino carried over from the seven. Don Sutherin converted to make it 10-7.

Dillard redeemed himself in the second quarter by staging a 45-yard touchdown pass from Jackson, which Racine converted, and from then on the Riders were in command. Racine added a single, then traded field goals with Sutherin to make it 21-10 at half time. Sutherin got another field goal in the third quarter and Bill Cline kicked an Ottawa single in the final quarter.

Jackson completed eight of 17 passes for 160 yds. Interceptor Ezzi Ted Watkins dropped two Jackson passes in the end zone and another when he was alone on the Hamilton 15. The Riders missed another opportunity in the fourth quarter when they failed to score in three attempts from the Ticat three-yard line.

First Homer Sets Record

Twins Climb Closer To Pennant

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Minnesota Twins have taken another step toward their first American League pennant.

But for first shot about Washington's Brant Alyea, who hit a pinch-hit homer on the first pitch to him in his first at-bat in the majors, the script was the first American Leaguer ever to achieve that distinction.

The rare feat was accomplished by Alyea, 24, a right-handed swinger up from Hawaii of the Pacific Coast league, when he tagged a pitch by Rudy May for a three-run homer in Washington Senators 7-4 victory over California Angels Sunday.

Frank Kreutzer got the Washington victory with Dave Chance taking the loss after five straight victories. Chance now is 12-10.

The Twins, meanwhile, rode Jim Grant's four-hit pitching and 19th victory in a 2-0 victory over Boston Red Sox that gifted their pennant and clinching number to nine. Any combination of Minnesota victories and Baltimore Orioles losses totalling nine will bring the Twins their first pennant.

Grant, 19-8, got the only run he needed when Tony Oliva tripled in the first inning and scored on Bob Allison's single off Earl Wilson, who allowed only three hits in eight innings.

The Twins scored again in the ninth off Dick Radatz when Zollo Versalles singled, stole second, worked a double steal with Oliva and scored on Don Mincher's sacrifice fly.

SOX NOW SECOND

The Orioles were rained out against Kansas City Athletics and Chicago White Sox took over second place, nine games behind the Twins, by defeating New York Yankees 4-1. Detroit Tigers and Cleveland Indians also were rained out.

In Saturday's games, the Yankees beat Chicago 3-1, Detroit downed Cleveland 5-3, California edged Washington 4-3 and Kansas City defeated Baltimore 3-2 and Minnesota thumped Boston 8-4.

The White Sox scored in the first off Al Downing when Bill Skowron drew a bases-loaded walk. The Yankees tied it in the seventh on Tom Tresh's homer —the first hit off Tommy John —but the White Sox came back and won it in the eighth when Skowron drove in three runs with a bases-loaded double.

John, lifting his record to 12-7, allowed only two hits before leaving for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Downing, who was touched for five hits, is 12-14.

Hold 3-1 Lead

Bloomfield Nips Juniors

By ROBERT SNEFJELLA

PICTON — Bloomfield choked off two late-inning threats and hung on to their slim lead to the wire to edge the Belleville Elks Juniors 5-4 in the fourth game of the B. and D. finals here on Saturday night. The winners now hold a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series, the next game of which will be contested at the Belleville Fairgrounds on Tuesday.

The Juniors came close with men on third base in both of the final two innings, but were unable to advance them any further. Carl Stacey's clutch pitching was a big factor.

The loss was a real heartbreaker as far as the Juniors were concerned, for they had hit Bloomfield by a 10-5 margin, including two homers and two triples. Unfortunately for the four of the shots were delivered with the bases empty.

Bloomfield's lead-off hitter, Keith MacDonald lined a first inning single, and the next hitter, Leo St. Denis, did the same. Carl Stacey drove both men in after two men were out.

Ellis' fame within one in the second when Don Gardner slammed a single, went to second on a fielder's choice, third on a wild pitch and came home when Mike Chatland rapped a single.

Keith Stacey safelied and rounded the bases in the second to give Bloomfield a two-run cushion.

The losers came within one run again in the fifth on Bob Boyle's line-drive homer, but Bloomfield responded by tallying two in the bottom of the same inning. MacDonald homered and Leo St. Denis rounded the bases after safelying.

With two out in the seventh inning Wayne Woods, tripled and went home when a Bloomfield player, bobbled the ball. The next batter, Bob Moon, lofted a fly over the right-fielder's head for a round-tripper. But there the rally ended.

In the eighth, Jim Rutherford singled and reached third on two passed balls, while Bloomfield's Carl Stacey stopped the rally.

In the next frame Bob Boyle tripled with only one out, but Stacey whipped third strikes for the final two batters to end the game.

Stacey gave up 10 hits while fanning eight and walking one in his nine inning effort.

Bob Ethier, on the opposing mound, allowed five hits, while fed eight and walked two.

Keith MacDonald slammed a homer and a pair of singles for the winners while Leo St. Denis and Keith Stacey singled.

Bob Boyle smashed a triple and homer for Ellis'. Bob Moon hit a homer and single and Wayne Woods had a triple and base-hit. Stu Muirhead, Jim Rutherford, Don Gardner and Mike Chatland all had safeties

The teams:

Bloomfield — Moon, McMillan, Rutherford, Muirhead, Ethier, Gardner, Chatland, Boyle, Woods.

Bloomfield — MacDonald, St. Denis, Weese, Ostrander, C. Stacey, Lockwood, K. Stacey, Forster, Guernsey.

Quinte Riders Enjoy Weekend Get-together

Riders of the Quinte Western Horse Association from Picton, Brighton, Tweed, Napanee and a number of local riders gathered at West Lake on the week-end, to camp overnight and enjoy riding in the ideally suited area.

Following the afternoon riding, a number of the riders continued on in the evening, some even till the early hours in the morning.

Appreciation of the group was extended to the three riders who attached their lariats to the tongue of a trailer and drew it up the hill when a truck could not get through the sand.

About four o'clock Sunday afternoon everyone left for home and even though tired and sunburned left with a happy feeling of an unforgettable week-end.

Giants Win Pair; Grab 2-Game Lead

Dodgers Lose

By-RURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writ

San Francisco Giants are twice as well off as they have been in nearly two seasons while Los Angeles Dodgers are in twice as much trouble as they've been this season.

The Giants' advantage and the Dodgers' adversity developed Sunday as San Francisco swept Chicago Cubs 6-3 and 9-2 while Los Angeles dropped a 3-2 decision to Houston Astros.

The double victory, extending their winning streak to 10, shot the Giants into a two-game lead in the National League and loosened up the unprecedented five team pennant race.

Not since May 12, 1964, have the Giants enjoyed such a big margin. On days when they led the league both last season and this, they had no more than a one-game bulge.

The Dodgers, on the other hand, had not trailed the leader by more than one game on the handful of days they were not in first place this season.

The Giants' lead also is the greatest any team has had since Aug. 14. And it was just 12 days ago that the first five teams in the race were within 2½ games of each other.

Now, Cincinnati is third, 2½ behind; Milwaukee is fourth, four games back, and Pittsburgh is fifth, 4½ out.

The Giants have a chance to add another bulge to their lead tonight when they open a four-game series at Houston. The Dodgers are idle, before starting a three-game set at Chicago Tuesday.

In other NL action Sunday, New York Mets edged Milwaukee Braves 1-0 in 10 innings while Cincinnati swept Cincinnati Reds at Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals at Philadelphia Phillies.

Saturday, Milwaukee blanked New York 9-0, Philadelphia defeated Cincinnati 5-1, Cincinnati edged Pittsburgh 3-2, Los Angeles trounced Houston 8-3 and San Francisco defeated Chicago 6-4.

Three Interceptions
Lions Whip Stamps; Esks Nip Bombers

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three pass interceptions put Calgary Stampeders at the top of the Western Football Conference a week ago. Saturday night two dozen of them own medicine knocked them out of it again.

The spoon was handed by British Columbia Lions at Vancouver, who scored two second-quarter touchdowns from interceptions in a 36-10 win before a record Canadian Football League crowd of 36,704.

Saskatchewan finished 1 i n 0 first place in the West with an 18-6 victory over the Alouettes in an interlocking game at Montreal Sunday. Calgary has 10 points, one behind the Roughriders, and the Lions hold down third spot with nine points.

At Edmonton, Eskimos came closer to leaving the WFC cellar with a 30-25 decision over Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who slumped to fourth spot from second.

A holding penalty which nullified a Winnipeg interception put the stage for hard-rushing Edmonton's third straight win after five consecutive losses. Edmonton moved to the Winnipeg 4½ and a touchdown followed.

GRABS A PASS

In Vancouver, Norm Fieldsend wrote the victory prescription by grabbing a Calgary pass and taking it for a touchdown. Mack Bowley added it a few minutes later by latching onto Dave Cutler interception and fired back Bill Munsey changed over-eight plays later.

Quarterback Joe Kapp added a fourth-quarter touchdown. Peter Kempf kicked a field goal, two converts and flipped a pass for a convert after a fumbled snap.

Gerry Keeling, called in when Calgary quarterback Eagle Day was injured, scored Stampeders' only touchdown. Larry Robinson made the convert and booted a 20-yard field goal.

Edmonton 11 11 1 a c k Butch Pressley gave Esks the lead when he charged over after Bob Ptacek quarterback Dick Thornton's interception was washed out. Thornton was replacing injured Ken Ploen.

Eskimo quarterback Bill Redell and halfback Jim Furlong and Jim Thomas scored touchdowns before a record 21,926 fans. Tommy McCosh clicked on three converters and a field goal.

Cementmen Win Over Lightfoots

Point Anne Cementmen nearly blew a 3-0 lead then rallied to snatch a 5-3 victory over Lightfoots in a Commercial Softball League semi-finals game Sunday afternoon. The game is slated for Tuesday at Prince Charles.

The Pointers grabbed a 3-0 lead in the third innings but Lightfoots cut the margin to 3-2 with a pair in the fifth.

Dennis Hull's fifth inning home-run clout proved the winner with Rosebush's triple in the sixth frame assisting the insurance marker across the plate.

Lightfoots came back to end the scoring with a single run in the sixth inning.

Whalen fanned two-hit softball for four innings when Marsele came in to shut out the Lightfoots over the rest of the route. Each walked three and struck out a pair.

Harvey went the route for losers giving up eight hits, walking four and whiffing three.

Dennis Hull sparked the Pointers with his homer and another hit. Ellis came up with a pair and Rosebush and his clinching three-hitter. Cook, G. Maner and Whalen each had singles.

Smith and Wood were the clouters for the construction crew.

—Lightfoots kicked the ball around three times with the seven runner scene. The winners left five runners stranded, the losers eight.

The teams:

Lightfoots: Garvin, Cook, Gilbey, Smith, Clapp, Wood, Brooks, Whiting, Harvey.

Point Anne: Rosebush, Cook, Ellis, D. Hull, G. Maner, Whalen, McDonald, Norwood, E. Maner, Marsele.

The score:

Lancaster Denies Report

TORONTO (CP) — Quarterback Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan Roughriders of the Western Football Conference, Saturday denied a published report quoting him as criticizing Bob Shaw, former coach of Roughriders and now coach of Toronto Argonauts of the Eastern Conference.

Shaw coached Roughriders in 1962 and 1964.

A Toronto newspaper quoted Lancaster as saying:

"If Shaw had been back at Regina this year, I wasn't going to be there because he's the kind of guy who punches when your beat."

"There's not a guy in the Toronto locker room that likes him and we had to beat him because he's got to go."

Lancaster was quoted following Saskatchewan's 29-6 triumph over Argos Friday night.

Lancaster said Saturday: "This is a one-shot lie. I've never said that to a newspaper man or anyone else last night. As a matter-of fact, I am thinking of suing whoever wrote it."

He said he had "nothing but respect for Bob Shaw's coaching ability, and although at times disagreed with some of his strategy last year I went along with what he said without question."

Leafs Take Cup Final 3-0 Lead

In Saturday's game, right-hander Gerry Hevron shut out the league pennant winners 4-0.

The series resumes today in Columbus. Scheduled to pitch are Gary Wasilewski for the Leafs and John Gelnaw for the Jets. Wasilewski was 4-6 in the regular season while Gelnaw was 9-7.

On Sunday, Norfolk Neptunes overcame a 23-0 half-time deficit to eke out a 33-30 victory over Providence Indians on a field goal in the sixth minute of a sudden-death over-time period. It was the league's first extra time game.

In Sunday's other action, Newark Bears scored in every quarter in humbling Hartford Charter Oaks 43-0 as quarterback Don Jonas riddled the Hartford pass defence for four touchdowns.

Trapshoot Title To Youth, 16

HAMILTON (CP)—Rick McGarry became the youngest shooter to win the Canadian International trapshooting championship Sunday and took home the title at an early 16th birthday gift.

The Niagara Falls youth, who is to celebrate his birthday today, received the Justice Primrose Trophy for his 280 score in three days of shooting.

His score also qualified him for a place on Canadian teams competing in Chile in October and in Germany in 1966.

His 19-year-old brother, Carl, placed second with 274. John Primrose, a college student from Hamilton, scored 273 and tied with 272, followed by Gil Henderson of Long Branch, Ont., with 271.

Clarence Wladchuk of Doncaster, Ont., came fifth with 270.

Spaniard Wins Singles

FOREST HILL, N.Y. (AP)—Manuel Santana's wizardry and delicate touch subdued Clint Drysdale of South Africa Sunday 6-2, 7-9, 7-5, 6-3, making the colorful Spaniard the first continental European in 37 years to win the men's singles title of the U.S. tennis championships.

Margaret Smith of Australia remained the women's queen and completed a sweep of the major grass court championships.

Santana, 27-year-old veteran of eight Davis Cup campaigns, personally wrecked U.S. hopes in the intercons finals at Barcelona last month.

He gained the final by eliminating U.S. Negro player Arthur Ashe Saturday in four sets.

Against Drysdale, a stylist from Fort Elizabeth with a two-fisted backhand, Santana of Madrid showed the same court cunning that has made him the terror of Europe for nearly a decade.

Miss Smith and Fred Stolle of Australia won the mixed doubles crown, defeating Frank Froehling III of the U.S., and Judy Tegart of Australia 6-2, 6-2.

Old Pillars Of Knowledge Under Transformation

By MEL SUFRIN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The more than 5,000,000 pupils trooping back to schools across Canada after summer vacation may still be able to identify the three Rs but in the 1965-66 school year the old pillars of knowledge have been disguised then ever.

True, writing is more or less survived the revolution in education, but a 44-symbol alphabet will after early September confuse pupils, some youngsters, and arithmetic is clearly going to the so-called "new math."

Educational television is an element that would hardly have occurred to the grandparents of the current generation.

Team teaching is beginning to creep into the classroom language in parts of the country, and gradeless schools are innovations in others.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that the revolution is fairly general but that some regions are still preoccupied with getting enough trained teachers.

And the pattern of change is far from uniform even from one province to another.

The 44-symbol alphabet, in which each sound in the English language gets its own symbol, is being tried experimentally in Grade 1 in Calgary and in the Toronto suburb of North York.

REVERT TO ABC

Proponents say it helps children over the early difficulties of learning to read and better equips them to handle the traditional 26-letter alphbet when they get to it.

New math, in which elementary algebra and geometry are introduced into early grades and which tries to substitute logic and reason for the memorizing of facts and methods, is gradually spreading through the land.

Generally it is being introduced to one or two grades at a time. In Nova Scotia, for example, Grade 9 students are getting a new type of instruction and a new textbook this fall.

Gradeless schools, introduced in Saskatchewan in 1964, are entering their second phase in the province this fall.

Division I, covering Grades 1 to 3, sets up a program geared to the individual pupil's ability to progress, the result being that some might complete the three years in two.

Division II, covering grades previously numbered 4, 5 and 6, now is in operation with the program for Division III may be ready by the fall of 1966 although the full implementation hasn't been set yet.

The teaching of Division II is confined exclusively to secondary schools outside Quebec, is working its way back through primary schools.

LOCAL OPTION

In New Brunswick, local school officials have an option of starting French at any grade lower than 5. Most have been starting grade for the language. And in Manitoba, conversational French is being introduced to the Grades 1-to-4 level. Prince Edward Island generally starts the new French some schools begin at Grade 2.

Montreal's bilingual-sector schools, where French has been taught from Grade 2 on, now are in the process of moving it at the kindergarten level as trained teachers become available.

Team teaching, in which groups of experts instruct combined classes in their specialties, is often related to the structure of classrooms.

In Edmonton's Jasper Place junior high school, one of four new schools opened this September, four classrooms have folding doors instead of ordinary walls so that the teams can teach larger classes.

This type of school design is becoming fairly common, especially in British Columbia where the emphasis is on flexibility of rooms.

The B.C. education department has also come up with a new multi-purpose school laboratory which features "islands" with the equipment needed for chemistry, physics, biology and general science classes.

Free textbooks are the trend in Ontario where $20 a pupil grants were provided for the first time last year to supply the texts to students in the first two years of high school. This year the program has been extended to Grades 11 and 12.

Educational television, with emphasis on mathematics and science, is also being introduced in Ontario. Using CBC facilities, the department of education will broadcast two half-hour programs a week starting in January.

The government plans to apply to the Board of Broadcast Governors during the next few months for its own TV channel with the aim eventually of operating its own educational network in the province.

Edmonton, too, students to stay in school and complete their education are the prime consideration in a curriculum change in Quebec.

Three new courses are being provided for that purpose. One will enable students in French-speaking Roman Catholic schools to take basic English as a part course of studies to return for a translation year in order to prepare themselves for advanced education.

The second will also be open to persons who have terminated their formal studies and now wish to return. They will have to pass special entrance examinations.

The third concentrate on the sciences, mathematics, French and Geography, students taking those subjects not previously studied.

The other two programs offer trade and technical studies as alternatives to existing courses at the high school and post-high school levels and will be open to both French- and English-speaking students.

In Ontario's Protestant schools, the major change this fall is initiation of a general course in basic French and thorough education for the students who will not go on to college.

The increasing leisure time resulting from automation and shorter work weeks has been recognized by education authorities in Alberta.

One or two large schools are trying an experimental physical education course designed to provide hobbies and interests that students will be able to continue after school.

It will include instruction in such sports as golf and curling as well as swimming but will be taught only in schools with the necessary equipment and facilities.

With the school population rising by nearly 20,000 a year, Alberta is building a teacher shortage but it is not serious in most provinces.

At least 20 classrooms in Roman Catholic schools in New-Brunswick are empty because of a shortage of teachers and with the students being absorbed into either classes there is a certain amount of congestion.

New Brunswick has a few areas where student-teacher ratios are being used under a local permit. Alberta has a shortage of secondary grades and has agreed to accept teachers with one year's training from outside. The only problem, however, they will be kept on after this year only if they improve their qualifications.

Nova Scotia tried an emergency training program this summer to give teachers with university degrees the qualification for teaching jobs. But although it needed 250 teachers, only 35 turned up to take the course. The result is some extra classroom congestion and a few schools with staggered classes.

British Columbia had some staggered classes a year ago but with the opening of 800 new classrooms it was figuring on completely eliminating the shifts for the first time in years.

The Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Jockeys Hugo Dittfach and Avelino Gomez engaged in two separate fights during Saturday's thoroughbred races at Woodbine Race Track.

The first fight erupted after the first race. Dittfach, riding Lord Bonnie Prince, had claimed an interference foul against Probador, ridden by Gomez, in the stretch.

The stewards upheld the protest and disqualified Probador, placing Dougs Chop third. Latef, Gomez accused Dittfach of bumping him in the stretch. The two were separated after they tangled. They fought again in the jockey's quarters.

In the featured Kingsville Stakes, Langcrest repeated as the winner. The colt, ridden by Sam McComb and trained by Ted Mann, defeated such candidates as Nearctic Hal and Native Victor in the race for Canadian-foaled three-year-olds and up over 1¼ miles. Langcrest, owned by S. James Langill of Montreal, was timed in 1:52 2-5.

Stage for Pakistan-India War Set One Thousand Years Ago

By WATSON SIMS
Associated Press Staff Writer

Kashmir raised the curtain on war between India and Pakistan, but the stage for the conflict had been set for nearly 1,000 years.

The first actors in the drama were Arab conquerors who brought the Moslem religion to an area that had been Hindu.

These invaders brought two faiths with explosive differences into the same sworn. Thus began a conflict that has never been stilled.

The Moslem conquerors who swept into India beginning with the 11th century smashed the idols Hindus worshipped then and still adore.

Pork, eaten by some Hindus, was banned by the Moslems as unclean. But the Moslems found nothing wrong with eating cattle, which the Hindus considered sacred.

BATTLE FLARE

Reversals of a fundamental way of life were enforced at the curved blade of scimitars. The Hindus resisted with the sword. Major and minor wars flared. Most were won by the Moslems, but the Hindus never ceased their resistance. When Britain took control, nearly 200 years ago, the Hindus of India still outnumbered the Moslems three to one.

Blended into the centuries of violent conflict were periods of relatively calm and cooperation. Firm friendships were formed across religious lines, and memories of the two races have frequently side by side against British aggression.

Sometimes the British exploited religious differences to maintain control. A religious zealot joined Hindu and Moslem against the British in the great uprising of 1857, which began when Moslems and Hindu soldiers were using bacon grease to lubricate bullets. Outraged Moslems helped lead what Indians still call the first war for independence.

On both sides, extremists never forgot the ancient enmity between Hindu and Moslem.

The leader of the movement to create a separate state for Moslems was Mohammad Ali Jinnah. He was an early collaborator of Gandhi in the 20th-century campaign for independence. But Jinnah became afraid that Hindus would overwhelm the minority Moslems if Britain pulled out, and he demanded guarantees of more Moslem authority than even Gandhi could give.

ACCEPTS DIVISION

Jawaharlal Nehru, Gandhi's top lieutenant, eventually accepted division of the sub-continent as the only solution for independence. The British reluctantly brought that this would make defence more difficult against aggression from the Soviet Union or China, but extremists fanned the conflict. When new riots broke out after the Second World War, British gave the order that produced not one new nation but two.

The creation of borders led to one of the great massacres of history. Britain tried to draw the line so that most Moslems were in Pakistan, most Hindus in India, but millions were displaced and forced to scamper for safety. Violence broke out on an unbelievable scale, and before the mass migrations were completed more than a half-million persons had been slain.

Gandhi was heartbroken, and went to his grave still deploring the separation of religious lines.

Millions of Moslems agreed with Gandhi and remained in India. There still nearly 50,000,000 Moslems among the 480,000,000 people of India. Some hold high posts in the government. Approximately 10,000,000 Hindus remained in Pakistan. Sheik Abdullah, the Moslem Mohammed Ayub Khan insisted that their rights be protected. Yet there could be no doubt Mohammed Ayub Khan could completely control religious passions. International meeting resulted in a threat in both nations, and each side included extremists who called for holy war against the other.

This underlay the conflict over Kashmir, which brought the two nations to war in 1947 and again last year.

Kashmir, a beautiful land of snow - covered mountains and fertile valleys, was a princely state between the two nations. About three - quarters of its 4,000,000 people were Moslem, but the ruler, Maharajah Sir Hari Singh, was a Hindu.

CHOICE

Under terms of the partition, Hari Singh could join his state with either India or Pakistan. Many of his people demonstrated for Pakistan, but Hari Singh chose India. Riots broke out. Pakistan moved into the state from the west, India from the east, and the two young nations fought until Jan. 1, 1949, when a ceasefire was arranged by United Nations. The truce line left India holding about two-thirds of the disputed state.

Don't Wait To Check Those Plugs

By EUGENE B. MILMOE

Hot summer driving is especially tough on spark plugs whether your car is used for short weekend drives or long vacation trips. Comes into summer or early fall and they may begin to penalize cooling, economy, and general performance.

That's why a check up should not be delayed until the winter change-over time. Have spark plugs removed, cleaned and gap setting properly adjusted now, or put in replacements, if necessary.

If you do the job yourself and notice that firing ends appear to have a metallic, yellow, tan or reddish powdery coating, do not puzzle or panic. Additives found included in today's gasolines will normally promote various color effects.

Keep in mind, however, that dark, wet, oily deposits indicate oil fouling, which could be due to worn rings, pistons, valves, etc. Black, hard and dry carbon accumulations suggest an overrich fuel mixture or a need for hotter plugs.

Scorched plugs could mean ignition timing or cooling troubles; or perhaps cooler plugs are in order if the car is usually subjected to long, hard driving.

S. S. writes: "My '61 engine misses at high speeds. We've had points, plugs, timing, carburetor, fuel pump, oil wiring and distributor cap checked without success."

Sticking valves could be the trouble here.

L.C. says: "On vacation, my car, a '63 hardtop, was polka-dotted with gummy stains because it was always yanked under trees. Cold water and a little rubbing readily removed them from the windshield and rear window, but the body requires more elbow grease than I can spare. Is there an easier solution, without hurting the finish?"

Add a little mild detergent to the cold water and you should be able to wipe these spots off without much trouble.

From M.T.: "My service station told me it was 'nothing when I complained that there is a definite bum from the automatic transmission as I drive over 50 or 60 mph. What do you think?"

He brushed you off too quickly, probably because he doesn't have an answer. Under these conditions, a qualified mechanic would suspect that the transmission's front (or possibly the rear) oil pump is malfunctioning.

M. L. writes: "In five weeks, I've tried four different mechanics, none of whom can pinpoint the thump-thump noise coming from my engine when it idles."

In guessing at what all four mechanics may have overlooked, we would suspect they skipped the possibility of a worn or out-of-round distributor shaft.

Socred Leader Says Election P.M. Blunder

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—The Nov. 8 federal election will go down in history as Prime Minister Pearson's "greatest blunder," says Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson.

Mr. Thompson said more than 50 per cent of Canadians didn't want the election and "I am convinced Mr. Pearson didn't want it either."

The Social Credit leader told a party gathering here Saturday night that one of the most important reasons an election should not be held now is the effect it will have on national unity.

He said Quebec is going "through a state of turmoil," the reasons for which are best known the English-speaking population to understand.

There is a rapid rise and fall of political parties in Quebec partly because old line parties in the past manipulated the French-Canadian vote to suit their own requirements, he said.

Mr. Thompson said he had respect for the five Social Credit members from Quebec who announced this week they would not run under the Social Credit banner.

"Their situation demanded no other alternative," said Mr. Thompson. "I hope they come back to Social Credit."

The Social Credit leader also criticized an election at this time with redistribution only "months away."

He said 122 constituencies face major changes, another dozen will be abolished and the boundaries of four parties will find themselves without constituencies, after redistribution.

Mr. Thompson predicted there will be another minority government, but didn't say who would form it.

"Perhaps the minority situation is the better situation because it keeps people on their toes."

TO VISIT CANADA?

WARSAW (AP)—Stefan Cardinal Wyszynski, the Roman Catholic Primate of Poland, plans to visit the United States and Canada next summer, a source close to the cardinal said Saturday. He has accepted an invitation to join celebrations in Chicago on the 1,000th anniversary of Christianity in Poland, the source said.

SADEC, South Viet Nam (AP) — In the Mekong delta, peace comes creeping slowly.

A firm believer that peace is inevitable is Lt.-Col. John Morgan, an American officer with the 9th South Vietnamese Division.

Patches of serene light blue indicate areas taken from the Viet Cong and brought under control of Vietnamese government forces. Blue checks are Pro areas undergoing pacification, green for sections cleared of significant Communist troop concentrations.

Less than a year ago, Morgan could look at his map and see a mass of blood red, relieved only here and there by a touch of blue or green.

It may be years before the color of the map will indicate peace throughout the delta.

SUPPLY LINES HIT

The war in the delta is a constant struggle to keep the main roads and canals open for the long lines of trucks and barges moving south from Saigon with goods and materials and northward with vital foodstuffs deeded to feed South Viet Nam.

Hardly a day goes by without a bridge being blown, a ferry crossing knocked out, a line of trucks held up by roving Viet Cong tax collectors. At night, nothing moves except troop convoys under heavy guard.

Lately, longer sections of road and canal have been kept open for longer periods, particularly by the Ninth Division.

Ninth - Division country stretches across the heart of the delta in a long narrow band from the South China Sea to the Cambodian border. It counts 2,500,000 people, most of them farmers and fishermen, living in seven provinces and 1,300 hamlets, roughly one-fifth of the entire population of South Viet Nam.

Here in the middle of South Viet Nam's rice bowl, a land lush enough to feed much of Southeast Asia, the Viet Cong controls 50 per cent of the land but only 14 per cent of the people.

Pacification is a slow, plodding progress. After an area has been cleared of significant Communist troops concentrations, it takes anywhere from three to six months to teach the people to defend themselves and set up a viable local government.

FEAR REMAINS

"Even then," Morgan said, "the VC can come in the night and take it all back with shattering effect on morale because an area shows blue on the map doesn't mean the hamlet chief can walk around without fear of ambush. In guerilla war, there's almost nothing you can do to stop a drug crazed terrorist from walking up to the province chief with a hand grenade to shake hands."

In the last few years, and more so in the last year, the South Vietnamese government has tried to get the message across that governments can care, that officials are supposed to serve and not to steal.

South Vietnamese medics sometimes even doctors and surgical teams, are treating patients in hamlets and villages that previously have known only Chinese with doctors.

Highly trained South Vietnamese mobile assault units moving into the districts and villages to show the people how to hold elections, start a community library or organize a defence platoon.

South Vietnamese agriculture experts are trying to teach new tricks in an area that doggedly clings to ancient ways, and similar work is being done in fishing, silk worm raising and light industry.

CREDITS VIETNAMESE

"The important thing is that it is the Vietnamese who are going to get doing this, not the Americans," insisted Capt. Orr. "We provide the materials and in some cases the background advice, but this is a Vietnamese war and in the long run it is the Vietnamese who are going to have to win it."

Pearson Sees Liberal Win In Election

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Sunday night there was "encouraging indications" that the Liberal party will get a "clear majority" in the Commons in the Nov. 8 general election.

"The major reason for an election at this time is for a party to get a clear majority," he added.

Mr. Pearson, who was interviewed by Pierre Berton in a half - hour CTV network program, said he wished, "on a partisan view", that the election could have been delayed until after redistribution, but the experts had said redistribution would have made an election impossible until the autumn of 1966, or even early 1967.

He wished he could have waited because redistribution would help us.

When asked by Mr. Berton if he quite showed the Liberals might win as many as 160 of the 265 seats in the Commons, Mr. Pearson said only: "The results are encouraging."

Mr. Pearson, who appeared relaxed during the interview, said the government had accomplished a great deal while in a minority position, but felt it could accomplish more, and at a faster pace, with a majority.

FACES CHALLENGE

Also, there was the uncertainty about the Conservative party's future. All summer, the opposition parties had said they wanted to throw the government out.

"We feel the time has come to [illegible] because they have challenged us."

Mr. Pearson also defended former Justice minister Guy Favreau for his actions during the investigations into alleged influence peddling by ministerial aides.

"I'm glad Mr. Favreau is still with the government," he said.

On the topic of the bilingualism and biculturalism commission, he said he did not agree with the commission that this was the most important issue in Canada's history. It was a time of critical adjustment between French and English, "but we are going to face this problem and we are going to solve it."

Madoc

MADOC — Following a lapse of seven years, a new executive was formed for the branch of the Canadian Bible Society in Madoc and district.

A meeting was held Sunday night at St. Peter's Presbyterian Church with the Rector, Rev. Vernon Tozer in charge of the meeting. Forty interested members were told a little of the society's work in various parts of the world by the field secretary of the Quinte area, the Rev. Colin Budd of Peterborough.

The support of this work and the distribution of Bibles in certain countries was stressed.

In Ghana, religious education is being conducted in day schools and a request was made for 240,000 Bibles, yet only 146,000 could be sent.

A film entitled, "Freedom in their souls" was shown. It outlined the importance of reaching the African people with the word of God.

Rev. J. H. Thompson was appointed as the new president, with Mrs. E. J. Armstrong as secretary. An exhibit of the work of the Bible Society will be on display at the coming Madoc fall fair.

Following the training of volunteer helpers, a canvas will be held in the village and district.

NEED HELICOPTERS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The army is pleased over the performance of helicopters in the Vietnamese war. As a result, it plans to double the number of its helicopter companies. AP military writer Fred S. Hoffman reports that 32 new armed helicopter companies will be created. They will include about 600 helicopters. At present, the army has about 4,500 helicopters

TRAMPLED TO DEATH

RICHLAND CENTER, Wis. (AP)—Two racing horses threw their riders and charged into the crowd at the Richland County Fair Sunday, trampling to death a spectator. It was the final race on program. Authorities identified the victim as Ren E. Cleveland, 45, a harness racing stable owner.

Mounties Name Three Men as 'Most Wanted'

OTTAWA (CP)—Two murder suspects and a jail escapee are named in a completely-revised list of the most wanted men in Canada, issued today by the RCMP.

Two of the fugitives are described as extremely dangerous and all three disappeared this summer. The most wanted men are:

Robert Desjarlais, 23, a native of Lac la Biche, Alta., wanted by Edmonton police on a charge of murder. He was released from penitentiary June 1 after serving three years for rape and is termed "a dangerous sex offender" by the RCMP. Description: Five feet, three inches tall, weight 125 pounds, dark hair, brown eyes.

Clovis Dufresne, 26, of Quebec City, sought by provincial police after escaping from Quebec prison while serving a nine-year sentence for armed robbery. He is considered extremely dangerous," the RCMP said in a statement. Description: Five feet, nine inches tall, weight 167 pounds, dark hair, brown eyes, brick layer by trade.

Edwin Yule, alias Dufresne, 37, of Montreal, wanted by provincial police on a murder charge. He escaped from Verdun Protestant Hospital while undergoing a long psychiatric examination after his arrest. Description: Five feet, seven inches tall, weight 151 pounds, brown hair, blue eyes.

LIST UNDATED

The RCMP's original "most wanted" list, issued in 1822, comprised 10 names but it dwindled to four or five in the years that followed. At least 10 fugitives have been captured as a result of publicity given to the listed men.

The most notorious were narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard, nabbed at a cottage near Montreal in July after being in the RCMP's net for years, and bank robbery suspect Georges Lemay, captured in Florida after the FBI had broadcast his picture to the world via a communications satellite.

The RCMP apparently has given up hope of catching William Adams, 37, formerly of St. Catharines, and John Frederick Meagher, 32, formerly of Toronto, both listed since 1957.

Meagher is wanted for murder in the slaying of his father in 1949 and Meagher is wanted for armed robbery.

Mounties Name Three Men as 'Most Wanted'

OTTAWA (CP)—Two murder suspects and a jail escapee are among the 3 completely-revised list of the most wanted men in Canada, issued today by the RCMP.

Two of the fugitives are described as extremely dangerous and all three disappeared this summer. The most wanted men are:

Robert Desjarlais, 23, a native of Lac la Biche, Alta., wanted by Edmonton police on a charge of murder. He was released from penitentiary June 1 after serving three years for rape and is termed "a dangerous sex offender" by the RCMP. Description: Five feet, three inches tall, weight 125 pounds, dark hair, brown eyes.

Clovis Dufresne, 26, of Quebec City, sought by provincial police after escaping from Quebec prison while serving a nine-year sentence for armed robbery. "He is considered extremely dangerous," the RCMP said in a statement. Description: Five feet, nine inches tall, weight 167 pounds, dark hair, brown eyes, bricklayer by trade.

Edwin Yule, alias Dufresne, 27, of Montreal, wanted by provincial police on a murder charge. He escaped from Verdun Protestant Hospital while undergoing a mental examination after his arrest. Description: Five feet, seven inches tall, weight 150 pounds, brown hair, blue eyes.

LEST DWINDLES

The RCMP's original "most wanted" list, issued in 1952, comprised 10 names but it dwindled to three over the years that followed. At least 10 fugitives have been captured as a result of publicity given to the listed men.

The most notorious were narcotics suspect Lucien Rivard, nabbed at a cottage near Montreal in July after being in the news for a year, and bank robbery suspect Georges Lemay, captured in Florida after the RCMP broadcast his picture to the world via a communications satellite.

The RCMP apparently has given up hope of catching William Adams, 37, formerly of St. Catharines, and John Frederick Meagher, 32, formerly of Toronto, both listed since 1957.

Adams is believed to be under the slaying of his father in 1949 and Meagher is wanted for armed robbery.

For Better or Worse, Another Broadway Season Is Near

NEW YORK (AP)—Producers are dashing, actors are hustling and ticket clerks are cleaning crisp cardboard stacks that they hope will soon disappear.

In order words, for better or worse, another Broadway season is about to begin.

To judge by current omens, the summer lull in production is going to be followed by a burst of imposing endeavor. Some serious drama even is listed, along with musicals, haha fare and items of eccentric appeal.

The star parade includes Anne Bancroft, Rita Gam, Julie Harris and Gwen Verdon, and from a more elderly rank, Lillian Gish, Molly Picon, Estelle Winwood and Ruth Gordon.

Among the male leads are Henry Fonda, Tom Ewell, Christopher Plummer, Jason Robards, Lee Tracy, Lotte Lenya, Jourdan and Jean-Pierre Aumont. Alan King is coming over from the night-club circuit and the Metropolitan Opera's bassbaritone, George London, has appears in his first Musical comedy.

The alphabetical gamut runs from A for Anya to Z as in The Zulu and the Zayda. Most of the musicals are based on former hit plays or best-selling novels. The London theatres, as usual, Al Hirschfeld is busy a number of hospital entries.

TAX LIFTED

Shoegoers get a little sure price relief come Jan. 1 when the 10-per-cent federal amusement tax is lifted.

In order of arrival, these are the productions definitely scheduled for the opening half of the season:

BATAWA — Mr. and Mrs. Carl Adams and family of Frankford and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Adams and family were Tuesday guests with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart and family.

Miss Linda and Brenda Fisher spend the holiday weekend at the Young Peoples Youth Retreat at Spring Valley Ranch, near Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Erion and family attended Quin-Mohr Reunion last Sunday. They also visited Niagara Falls and have returned home from their holidays.

MANY SEEK SCHOOLING

There are about 9,000 applications each year for the 700 places at Russia's Lumumba International university.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Peter O'Toole in Lord Jim, co-starring James Mason, Curt Jurgens, Eli Wallach, Jack Hawkins, Paul Lukas, Akim Tamiroff and lovely Dalila Lavi as "The Girl."

"Lord Jim" was six years in preparation and almost a full year in filming, and Richard Brooks' production is a compliment to Conrad's memorable story, in dramatic and pictorial style on a very large scale.

Set against the colorful and exciting tapestry of the Malay Archipelago in the 19th century, "Lord Jim" is indeed a tale of colorful romance. For Jim finds love—a love whose chance takes him from the sea deep into the unmapped jungles of the East Indies, where his search for redemption comes full circle as the white man who becomes a native is rescued and his courage is tried once again.

Peter O'Toole is the compliment to all those who had anything to do with its making. Like Byridges as the River Kwai and "Lawrence of Arabia," the one made in the jungles of Ceylon, the other shot on the remote sands of the Jordanian desert, "Lord Jim" will not disappoint its fans.

PREDICTS U.S. DEFEAT
SINGAPORE (AP) — Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew predicted Saturday Communist China will defeat the United States in the cold war in Asia. # Final Ecumenical Council Session Will Be Difficult

By JOHN ORGAN

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The Vatican Ecumenical Council's fourth and final session, opening late next Tuesday, is expected to be its most difficult and momentous.

When the world's more than 2,000 Roman Catholic bishops return to their familiar green seats in the nave of St. Peter's Basilica, they face an exhaustling session during which they must clear 11 remaining decrees, tackle much controversial matter, for final publication.

Involved parliamentary voting procedures and detailed committee work on last-minute revisions to texts will take up much of their time.

Clashes between the progressive wing of bishops and small but powerful hard core of conservative prelates are again inevitable. But this time they may have more off-stage at committee and lobby level, rather than at discussion in the basilica's debating hall.

The world is waiting for the supreme legislative assembly of the world's 500,000,000 Roman Catholics to say its last word on problems which involve both the Christian and non - Christian worlds.

CALL FOR REFORM

They range from reforming the structure of the Roman Catholic Church to the moral implications of nuclear warfare, from anti-Semitism to modern interpretation of the Bible, from marriage and the family to the position of the missionary in a post-colonial era.

Pope John Xxiii's home confidently expect the council to finish its work by Christmas. Pope Paul, who according to Catholic doctrine is both above the council and yet part of it, has said this session will be the last.

"But if the conservatives use blocking tactics to hold up decrees which they do not like, the assembly may not finish by Christmas and an adjournment until the new year, perhaps Easter, would be necessary.

For example, although they were in a minority, a small group of conservatives blocked voting last autumn on a controversial decree dealing with religious liberty, arguing successfully that the text had been so revised that it was a fundamentally new document and there fore a new debate was needed.

DEBATING DECREE

Another factor which could delay the council is its mammoth draft decree on the church and the modern world, due for a new debate.

A section on politicel life has been added to the text. The chapter on matrimony was, according to council sources, has been toned down so that it does not give the impression of making a blanket condemnation of the use or possession of all nuclear weapons.

The section on marriage skirts the question of revising Roman Catholic church policies against birth control as this problem has been handed over by Pope Paul to a special extraconcilliar commission. But it does cautiously suggest a concept of "responsible parenthood."

The bishops were told last fall that the decree on religious liberty would be the first item on the agenda this session. It is considered highly important by other Christians.

The aim of the authors is to smash the theory of the Roman Catholic Church only worries about freedom when it is in a minority. The decree has given headaches to conservative bishops in Spain and Italy.

VOTE ON JEWS

Voting is scheduled on what should be the final text of a draft declaration on non-Christian religions.

In addition to statements on Hinduism, Buddhism and Islam, this contains a section on the Jews which has caused more ink to flow than any other single item on the council agenda.

This section acquits the Jewish people as such from any accusations of "deicide" (God killing) because of Christ's crucifixion, deplores anti-Semitism and stresses the link between the Old and New Testaments.

The Vatican has gone out of its way to counter Arab opposition to this document by underlining repeatedly that it has nothing to do with the question of recognizing the state of Israel but is a purely religious issue.

Some conservative prelates have also opposed the document on the grounds that it might cause trouble for Christian communities in the Middle East.

The other draft decrees before the council are concerned more with internal problems. The most important is a decree on bishops, dealing with reform and decentralization of church government.

Soho Strip Tease Clubs in London Are World's Least Exclusive Clubs

By WILLIAM GLOVER

LONDON (AP)—The gloss prints thumbtacked in the window are all dusty and hoppy, with names like Lillian, Marlene, Texas or maybe Shirley printed beneath.

The flashing signs, with one neon tube somehow always forlornly burned out, wink invitations to the passing throng:

"Say as long as you like."

"Never has so much been shown by so many for so little."

And there you are, with promised paradise for 10 shillings, ($1.20) plonking among the 18 or so least exclusive clubs in London town, the strip joints of Soho.

That familiar landmark, the Windmill Theatre, used to thrive around the corner. Statuesque nudes posed motionless there throughout Hitler's blitz, but were unable to survive the competition of the upstart Freemotion picturehouse.

The new thrills are for sale now in such cellars as Metro Revue Club, the Carnival, Carousel, Naked City and La Scala, surveying tease, sometimes to stray tourists, but mainly to upcountry Britons and office boys out for a lark.

No one knows just how many such places there are. A gypsy fortune basses, addresses may shift overnight.

One club operates beside a faded building on which appears the blue circle marking an historic shrine. "Thomas' Chapel," a raised platform at one side, enough chairs for 50 to 100 "members," a notary license hanging away in the corner.

Sheraton, furniture deal gone, lived here," doesn't get much attention from strollers, though. An oily gent keeps eyeing the wares next door in a slag-song voice.

ALWAYS STARTING

"Show just starting, show just starting," he chants from the doorway of a modest-budget Englishman, the 10-shilling fee compares to $5 to an American. Down a narrow stairway is the "clubroom," a ratsed platform at one side, enough chairs for 50 to 100 "members," a notary license hanging away in the corner.

After a while, one of the pronined young strippers on stage. The rhythmic clatter picks up on the noise box as the Ernies, pose for the "dance" discarding her clothes. Mostly it's more seedy than sinful.

Then the flash blackout, and lights go on for a half hour until the next act. While waiting you can just listen to those non-stop records, read a paper, or (office boys, mostly) take a sandwich out of a bag and munch lunch.

At some of the places you can leave to return later in the day.

The pictures in upstairs shopwindows bear an unaccidental resemblance from place to place since the girls on exhibit go round and round the Soho circuit, day in and night out.

GOOD PAY

It's a grind in more ways than one," says one observer of the stripperies. "There are girls who make good money, most of the joints, working on a timetable.

"There's never any problem about getting fresh recruits for the work when one drops out, because the jobs pay about £30 ($90) a week, which is pretty nice compared with £14 or £15 ($40-$45) for a good secretary."

It is the device of private membership which enables the places to put on uninhibited, lewd entertainment. A man's home is still his castle in England, and that goes for his club, too.

If the spots called the 10 shillings fee a simple ticket of admission to the chamber's club's rather puritanical rules about public performances would apply. By making the fee a membership, the enterprise eludes censorship.

Alcoholic beverages are not sold, which eliminates another kind of governmental supervision.

When a guest has had enough of the basement entertainment and heads for the exit, he's apt to run into someone solicitously enquiring:

"Would you like to talk with a pretty girl, or have a drink?"

A nod, and the dubious wonders of the upstairs clubroom are made available. For 10 shillings per glass, there's soda pop and idle conversation.

And that's all.

Occasionally this kind of pastime wears thin. A visitor who complains too loudly about value received finds a beefy club aide escorting him politely to the street where membership is cancelled.

Pope Careful To Stay Aloof From Debates

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul today opened the Vatican ecumenical council's final session, telling the Roman Catholic bishops that he is going to the United Nations in New York to plead for peace "which in these days is being wounded and is bleeding."

The pontiff spoke at a ceremony in St. Peter's Basilica before nearly 2,500 of his bishops, gathered from around the world for the fourth and concluding council session.

He said he is going before the UN General Assembly Oct. 4 "to bring with respectful homage to the representatives of the nations assembled there a message of peace."

As for the council itself, where conservative and progressive prelates are expected to clash over major topics like religious liberty and modern world problems, the Pope said:

"We have not touched (in the speech) on any of the themes which will be submitted to the examination of this assembly.

"Our silence has been deliberate. It is to be interpreted as a sign of our unwillingness to compromise, by any words of ours, your free action of opinion with regard to the matters to be presented to you."

Synod Called

The Pope also announced the establishment of an episcopal synod composed largely of bishops from the various episcopal conferences around the world.

The pontiff said the special synod, or senate of worldwide bishops, would "be of use in the day-to-day work of the Roman curia."

During the three years of the council many bishops and theologians have proposed a variety of bishops to work with the Pope. At the same time they have urged that the powers of central government of the church—the Roman curia and its Vatican - based careerclergy—become more international and give more responsibility for local decisions to bishops in their own countries, dioceses and rites.

Wednesday the council fathers go into working session.

The Pope also is to finish by Christmas the task of drawing up the blueprints for church reform and Christ's mystical body, as visioned by Pope John when he called the council's first session together in October, 1962.

The first topic on the work program is the religious liberty, followed by modern world problems, the priestly life, and limitations of the order.

At a press conference Monday, Julius Cardinal Doepfner of Munich said the confusion caused by the decree on religious liberty at the last council session, when the conservative minority forced a postponement of a scheduled vote on the document, now has disappeared.

The West German cardinal said the text of the decree had been "clarified and perfected."

He said any decisions on birth control would be published by the Pope and his commission and not by the council.

New Style City Hall Opened

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto formally unveiled its new space age-styled city hall Monday.

"It's a symbol of audacity," Mayor Philip Givens told a crowd of 15,000, gathered to watch Governor - General Georges Vanier officially open the $21,000,000 building. "For it took audacity to build so untraditional a building in a city so steeped in tradition," the mayor said.

The new structure with its two office towers — one 27 storeys high, the other rising to 30 storeys—is a masterpiece of unorthodox styling. The two towers cradle the domed and saucer-shaped three-storey city council chamber building. It fronts, on the 12-acre Nathan Phillips Square and the spell-binding reflecting pool which, in the winter, is converted into an artificial ice rink.

"This magnificent work has won world-wide acclaim," said Governor-General Vanier. "It takes its place as one of the triumphs of the Canadian scene."

Among the 2,500 invited guests was Prime Minister Pearson, who called it a building of tomorrow. Also present was Ontario Premier John Robarts, and Nathan Phillips, the former mayor who guided the project through its turbulent years when almost everyone, including the voters, had rejected it.

WINS MEDAL

Mr. Phillips was presented with a gold medallion, highest award Toronto can bestow on a citizen, in recognition of his role in the project.

Mrs. Viljo Revell, widow of the Finnish architect who designed the city hall, presented with a gold neck chain and a gold charm replica of her husband's design. Both presentations were made by Mayor Givens, who also awarded a special medal, struck for the occasion, to the Governor-General.

Mayor Victor Copps of Hamilton, president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, presented a city council with a ceremonial gavel bearing the coat of arms of all 19 provinces.

The opening lacked nothing in color and pageantry despite a dull grey sky and a fairly brisk breeze sweeping over the square. There were bands, fireworks, and flyovers by the RCAF CF-101 jets.

When Gen. Vanier declared the building opened, rocket guns shot tiny flags into the air. Most of them were carried away from the thronged square by the wind.

Louisiana Damage Great, But Death Toll Only 52

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—President Johnson pumped men, money and materials into hurricane-torn Louisiana today as the New Orleans coroner slashed his estimate of the probable death toll.

The White House dispatched $2,000,000 as a token start toward helping rejuvenate the ravaged-stricken state, where 52 are known dead.

Plans are afoot to convert Louisiana's anti - poverty program into "a war on hurricane Betsy." Some $1,000,000 was earmarked to put the youth corps to work cleaning up the debris.

Sixty freight carloads of surplus foods were sent by the department of agriculture.

The flood tides and fierce winds of hurricane Betsy inflicted the greatest destruction on Louisiana in the state's storm-scarred history.

But Coroner Nicholas Chetta, confessing "an embarrassing situation," told reporters late Monday night that he had been misled by poor communications into preparing for several hundred dead from downriver Plaquemines parish.

Chetta said he finally reached the isolated parish by telephone and only then could Plaquemines authorities tell him the true story: Only 20—not 200 to 250—bodies would be sent to New Orleans today for the coroner's care.

Chetta said he does not know how rumors started about 200 to 250 deaths. The coroner said the information was relayed to him by amateur radio operators.

The cash damage toll from the destructive storm remains a matter of guesswork. Estimates range upward to $1,000,000,000.

S. B. Turman, head of Lykes Bros. Steamship Company, said shipping damage alone may give Betsy the dubious distinction of being classified as the worst maritime disaster in U.S. peacetime history.

The Red Cross raised its damage total to 1,029 homes destroyed, 26,202 with major damage, 133,115 with minor damage. 630 trailer homes destroyed, 1,147 heavily damaged, 2,050 small screened areas destroyed or heavily damaged, 1,147 pleasure and commercial boats destroyed or damaged.

No Breath of Election In Two Talks by P.M.

TORONTO (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson returns to Ottawa today after giving a boost to a campaign to combat mental retardation and helping to open Toronto's new city hall.

Although he did a lot of handshaking at the city hall ceremony, it was strictly a non-political affair. There was no breath of the Nov. 8 election in the two brief speeches he made.

He told a crowd of 15,000 at the afternoon city hall ceremony Monday that those responsible for the $31,000,000 building "have planned well as the structure itself.

"Toronto now has a city hall as modern as tomorrow, indeed, the day after tomorrow."

In the evening, he told a crowd of 1,000 at a black-tie dinner given by the Canadian Association for Retarded Children, that he commended the objectives of its national crusade to all Canadians.

The crusade is a $15,000,000 campaign to set up 15 projects in nine provinces to combat

Due UN Pressure, India Considering Halting Hostilities

By CONRAD PINK

NEW DELHI (AP) — Under strong international pressure, India is "seriously considering" calling a halt to its undeclared war with Pakistan, authoritative sources said today.

Prime Minister Shastri's government is feeling the pressure of UN Secretary-General U Thant and world powers who want both sides to stop the fighting now then discuss ceasefire terms later, the sources said.

(Reuters news agency said that Thant was reported to have proposed that both sides cease fire at 6:30 p.m. (9 a.m. EST) today, but a government spokesman would not specifically confirm or deny the report in Parliament.)

Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan was reported to have told members of Shastri's ruling Congress party that in any cessation of hostilities the armies would stay where they now are until details could be worked out.

These reports said Thant had been unsuccessful in earlier efforts to persuade each side to drop the conditions they were demanding for a ceasefire.

CLAIM VICTORY

Both India and Pakistan were claiming victory in the fighting termed by New Delhi as the "heaviest in the war" so far. It said it followed in the about 250 miles northwest of New Delhi, the Indian capital, and 150 miles southwest of Rawalpindi, the Pakistani capital. A major tank battle has been under way there.

Each side has rejected the other's conditions; it was reported, for Thant switched tactics and strove for a "cessation of hostilities." He was said to have told both nations the important thing was to stop the fighting before working out a formal ceasefire.

It was not known if Pakistan would agree to this formula, but observers said Thant had opened a way for both sides to end the deadlocked weekend long face.

There's hand was apparently strengthened by support from the United States and Russia. The Soviet Union sent a warning to Pakistan against the conflict on the Asian sub - continent and appealed to both countries on both sides to stop fighting before they touched off a world explosion.

In Washington, State Secretary Dean Rusk said the Soviet attitude has been "helpful so far." Indian officials have admitted privately that it would be hard to resist economic pressure from the United States and Russia for a ceasefire. Both India and Pakistan are highly dependent on U.S. aid, and many Indian industrial projects are financed by the Soviet Union.

Both Russia and the U.S. ex-

Rivard Kingpin Is Claim

LAREDO, Tex. (CP) — A sharp tussle of wits and courtroom strategy was unfolding today in this sun-baked town on the Rio Grande as a battery of eight lawyers wrestled over the fate of Lucien Rivard and three fellow Canadians accused in a multi - million - dollar narcotics operation.

Legal manoeuvrings started early and continued late as the trial of the four went through its first day Monday with a key prosecution witness coming out of secret custody and literally fingering the group as having been associates with him in the gang known as "la familia."

Joseph Michel Caron, 36, an undersized Montrealer who said he was known as "a thief—a good guy," pointed successively to alleged kingpin Rivard and his other three and began his story of getting roped into a courier career that foundered here in 1962 with the seizure of $33,000,000 worth of heroin in the car he was driving from Mexico to Canada.

Caron's story continues today before a jury of federal district court. Prosecution officials said after the first day's hearing that Caron will be followed to the stand by Roger Beauchemin, 33, another Montrealer who joined the gang, as evidence implicating the accused group before the U.S. grand jury that indicted them on charges carrying 20-year maximum sentences.

Caron is serving a 10-year stretch after pleading guilty to smuggling. Beauchemin, who told the grand jury he got away with one Mexico-Canada trip in 1963 for Rivard, has been held in protective custody in advance of his appearance as the heavily-guarded court. He has been there since.

Ask CBC To Delay Building

MONTREAL (CP) — State Secretary Lamontagne said Monday the CBC has been asked to "reconsider" plans for a $70,000,000 building in Montreal because the Fowler committee report on broadcasting "seems of the opinion that the CBC could adequately meet its requirements with a minimum of about 2,000,000 square feet."

Because the CBC should "reconsider and re-examine its plans," he said, construction will not start Oct. 1, the date agreed upon when the site was acquired from the City of Montreal in 1963. *

Speaking at a press conference, Mr. Lamontagne said the government and Parliament are responsible for making sure the CBC has buildings and installations which insure the quality and effectiveness of broadcasting.

But "we have also the responsibility to make sure the taxpayers' money is not wasted."

Mr. Lamontagne said the Fowler committee and the CBC differed in opinion as to concept and design of the proposed building.

HAS NO CHOICE

Under such circumstances "we have no other choice than to ask the CBC to reconsider its plans in the light of the Fowler report and to submit to us concrete proposals so that consideration can begin with the minimum delay."

He said he would be surprised if the bill exceeded a year.

The government was not in a position at the moment to reach a decision on whether the CBC head office should be transferred to Montreal from its present site at Ottawa. This move was one of the recommendations of the Fowler report.

Mr. Lamontagne said he did not know when the government could make a decision on this subject until after the Nov. 8 federal elections.

Military Divers Seeking Deadly Chlorine Cargo

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Military divers, feeling their way in the Mississippi's muddy water, searched today for a cargo of deadly poison gunk in the form of chlorine. Chlorine is a valuable industrial chemical—used in making plastics, dyes and other things—but it forms a gas if released from pressure and the gas can kill everything in its path.

The search has forced closure of part of the heavily-travelled Mississippi. While evacuation plans have not yet been considered, the 360,000 residents of Baton Rouge have been cautioned to keep in close touch with authorities.

The hunt is concentrated on an eight-mile stretch of the muddy-red river just south of the new Mississippi River bridge near downtown Baton Rouge.

The divers, battling eight - knot currents and incredibly dirty water, located eight barges and a sand bar Monday.

The potentially lethal chlorine is stored in tanks that are welded to the steel barge. President Johnson and Defence Secretary Robert McNamara ordered all resources of the federal government thrown into the search.

White House sources said the 600 tons of chlorine in four separate tanks aboard the missing barge could kill up to 60,000 persons.

The army sent 116,000 gas masks to the Louisiana capital city.

"We have no intention of immediately distributing them," said Mayor W. W. Dumas. He said that they were sent to Baton Rouge only as a precautionary measure.

A Louisiana State University chemistry professor, Dr. Hiden B. Williams, said in an interview that the chlorine leaks slowly, the effect would be little more than a bleaching action, possibly killing a few fish.

The U.S. public health service said water samples taken from the river downstream from here showed no traces of chlorine.

Education Will Be Major Issue Says Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said Monday education will be a major issue in the Nov. 8 federal election campaign.

The Conservative leader outlined to a delegation from the Canadian Union of Students what his party would do to solve university financial problems.

Then he launched into an attack on Prime Minister Pearson's timing in calling an election that caught students between home and university recess.

Mr. Diefenbaker was told by the delegation that perhaps 20,000 to 30,000 students living in residence would be affected.

They would lose their vote unless they returned to their home town.

Mr. Diefenbaker charged Mr. Pearson with "gross disregard" in calling the election "without looking into the Election Act."

The act didn't allow any party agreement now that would permit the students to vote at university.

"It isn't a legal technicality, it's the law," Mr. Diefenbaker

Five Missing After Blast Rips Vessel at Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — A predawn explosion ripped through the freighter Fort William today and set off a fire that turned the ship into a cauldron of flame five crew members were missing.

The ship, which shortly before the 4:30 a.m. blast had passed through the St. Lambert locks of the St. Lawrence Seaway, was then on its side in 30-odd feet of water at dockside.

Cause of the blast was unknown. It was heard in a wide area and the movement flames were seen for miles.

The vessel, 458 feet long and with a deadweight tonnage of 7,000, was new. It was put into service only last May by Canada Steamship Lines. It was carrying general cargo from Great Lakes ports.

Part of the cargo was said to be carbide and oil which contributed to the difficulties of firemen on docks and firefighting tugs.

The ship's captain, Samuel Wilkinson of Orrills, and 11 crew members escaped. Captain Wil-

Captain Calls It Sabotage

ORRILLIA (CP) — The Orrilia captain of a freighter which exploded and burned in Montreal harbor today told how he was in a telephone conversation when his ship had been sabotaged.

Capt. Samuel Wilkinson called his wife shortly after the explosion aboard the burning vessel, Fort William, by Montreal firemen.

"Mary, my ship had been sabotaged," he told her. "There was nothing in the general cargo that would cause an explosion. It was all general cargo."

Mrs. Wilkinson credited the men with saving him. They had to break through the side of his cabin, which was filling with water.

He said the explosion originated "in the hold somewhere."

CSL President T. R. McLagan said in a statement "something extraordinary has happened." He added the explosion occurred away from the engine-room.

Two or three of the crew members were taken to hospital. Their condition was not known.

Firemen, police and ambulances converged on the scene and a third alarm was sounded. Tugs helped fight the fire, and fire-fighting fires moved in on the flaming vessel from the harbor, pouring tons of water onto its hull.

After the high flames subsided, dense black smoke began pouring from the ship.

Crew members who escaped were able to save only little gear. They are Canadian Seamen's Union members.

Captain Wilkinson is a graduate of the Provincial Sailor's Institute with little clothing.

Seventy Overseas Students To Be Guests of Rotarians; District Governor Is Heard

Belleville Rotary Club is to extend hospitality to some 70 overseas students from Queen's University on September 25.

The students will be in this area in the course of a bus tour being arranged by Kingston Rotary Club.

President Ernest Burnham told the Belleville members at their luncheon in the Hotel Quinte Monday that the club had decided to support the International Students' Centre at Queen's. This would entail extending hospitality to overseas students as the opportunity arose.

He said the students would arrive in two bus loads about 4 p.m. September 25 and the club had been asked to entertain them to supper.

DISTRICT GOVERNOR

A challenge to "positive thinking" through the medium of consolidation, rather than inaction in the sphere of club activities was issued by District Governor John W. Hughes, of Weston, the speaker at yesterday's meeting.

Mr. Hughes said International Rotary had achieved only a two per cent net gain in membership during 1964-65. In some areas -- as in West Germany -- it was forging ahead, in others it was standing still and even where it was losing ground.

He said District 707 was in the middle category, standing still. The 375 new members and three new clubs established during the year represented just over one new member per club in the district.

"Industrialization, urbanization and automation are changing our towns and cities," said Mr. Hughes. "It is up to every club, every Rotarian to change with this trend. Too many top leaders of society remain outside Rotary. We are not strengthening our position as a world organization."

TELLS OF PROJECTS

Mr. Hughes told members of the successful partnership established with a Chilean district which resulted in a Chilean doctor receiving advanced training in this country. This year District 707 was teaming up with one in West Germany.

Next May a party of six Australians aged 22 to 30, accompanied by a Rotarian, would visit Canada. In 1967 a similar group from Canada will return the visit.

Mr. Hughes was introduced by Belleville Rotary President Ernest Burnham and thanked by past - president Ernest Gurnett.

Up to 30,000 Students May Lose Their Franchise

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

About 20,000 to 30,000 students, eligible to vote in the Nov. 8 federal election are caught in a dilemma about their legally constituted residences, if those unable to resolve the problem, it could mean loss of their franchise for the voting.

They are affected by a section of the Canada Elections Act which says students who go from home must be in residence at their universities when the election writs are issued. The writs for this fall's election were issued last Wednesday when most students had not yet taken up residence at their universities. Students could vote by returning home on election day, but this will be impossible for many.

The problem has never arisen before because elections since 1930 have always been called at a time when students were already in residence.

Prime Minister Pearson says he regrets the technicality that may deprive many students of their vote. Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay was emphatic about the procedure. "This section was passed by a statute of Parliament," he said. "Only Parliament can change it, and Parliament has not resolved."

Peter Braun, vice-president of the University of British Columbia student body, suggested a possible loophole in the law. All students in residence must place a deposit with the university during the summer to reserve accommodation and this may legally constitute residence. Mr. Castonguay declined comment on the findings of Braun, who said the Elections Act would prevent 2,200 UBC students from voting.

DOESN'T BELIEVE IT

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker told a delegation from the Canadian Union of Students Monday that he couldn't believe Mr. Pearson was unaware of that section of the Elections Act.

He produced a copy of what he described as a Liberal campaign document which, he said, outlines a Liberal party weakness in attracting the support of youth, especially in universities.

A spokesman for the Quebec Union of Students said Monday it appears nothing can be done to change the section.

The 130,000-strong Canadian Union of Students sent a telegram to Mr. Castonguay saying that strict application of the act would "contravene its spirit and interest" in asked the electoral officer to reconsider this interpretation.

Meanwhile, the Progressive Conservative Student Federation announced it will operate a shuttle service for students who can't vote in their university towns.

Extent of the service would depend on the province and the individual drivers. In the West, carloads of students will be able to travel more than 200 miles, but the distances likely would be less in eastern provinces.

District Labor Council Endorses United Appeal

The Belleville and District Trades and Labor Council last night formally endorsed the United Appeal at their first regular meeting after the summer recess.

The endorsement came after an appeal by John O'Flynn, General Chairman of the United Appeal. Mr. O'Flynn said at the meeting, "It is fine for management to tell you about the Appeal, but the real pulse cannot be effective until it has the labor movement supports it.

"I can not stress enough how important labor is to the campaign."
